A delegation representing the Ontario Motor Truck Owners' Association waited on the Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, the other day in regard to a reduction of the tax on gasoline, says the Brantford Expositor. They certainly did not get much encouragement from the Minister on the subject of their interview. They contended that the tax bore heavily upon them, and quoted figures to show that truck owners present were paying all the way from $5.00 to $5,000 in the form of a gasoline tax during the year. In reply to this, the Hon. Mr. Henry made some very significant observations:

"That is interesting, but you have not given me information on a point which would be of still greater interest, and that is the gross receipts of those companies. If you gave me figures along that line, and demonstrated that the Government's gasoline tax is imposing as stiff a penalty as is imposed upon the railways for the upkeep of their roadbeds, then I might say we had gone far enough. The railways, you must remember, pay from 15 to 20 per cent. of their receipts for the upkeep of their roadbeds. The motor trucks, on the other hand, do not pay anything towards the upkeep of the roads which they use, other than the license fee and the gas tax. In other words, the Ontario Government provides the roadways by which the trucks may come into competition with the railways in the haulage of freight."

There is a feeling that the trucking companies are getting off with a fairly light tax in view of the fact that the highways are provided and maintained by public expenditure ready for their use. There is a feeling also that the owners of trucks should pay a higher tax rate on the gasoline they use than the owners of passenger cars because it is the weight of the heavy trucks that wears the surface of the roads and otherwise injures them, thus necessitating expensive repairs. There is no doubt that the trucking companies have a great advantage over the railways, which have to maintain expensive roadbeds and equipment, and, in addition, also pay very heavy taxes. The Minister will find strong public support for adequate taxation of motor trucks.

OH, FOR A MAN TO DEVELOP CANADA!

A bright politician could become a national figure by using Dr. W. L. Goodwin's profound knowledge of our neglected resources and leading a campaign to wake up the country.

In Ontario we have unlimited millions of tons of potash in our rocks, which we neglect and send our money to Germany, the potash arbiter. The trouble in the past has been to find a method for the extraction of this valuable fertilizer from the rocks in which it is held. A professor has actually demonstrated a method, but until his method squares with the arbitrary rules laid down by the Government in regard to the fertilizer the marketing of his product is impossible.

It appears that the scientific man's method releases the potash to the soil in an indirect but satisfactory manner, but it is a departure from the accepted standard.

There are numerous deposits of copper in Ontario and Quebec. Perhaps they are no immense bodies; nobody knows, because only the merest dabbling has yet been done about them. The start made at Noranda will show what is possible. The mine will send to its smelter ore carrying $6 a ton in gold, and thus pay the expense of treatment, leaving the fabulously rich copper content as a free gift to the company. Did Aladdin ever conceive of such treasure?

Ontario's great treasure is in its vast iron resources of which we do not mine a pound at present. One little hill in Michipicoten holds one hundred million tons—one little hill. But across New Ontario we have enough iron to last the world till Doomsday. Why don't we mine it? There is a little problem, easily solvable by us, which concerns slight excess of sulphur. In fact, the problem has been solved. A process has been perfected in the United States, and as everybody knows our own Magpie mine worked it out. However, from an economic standpoint, it is yet a little inconvenient to treat our own ore as long as we can get supplies from the Mesaba range and other U. S. sources. But when the U. S. can't supply us—and the signs are not wanting that the day is near—what are we going to do? We must then solve the siderite problem and we will. But why put this off till it is forced on us, and perhaps dislocate our iron and steel industry during the possible period of experimentation.

We will yet extract the wealth of our pegmatite dikes and our serpentine rocks and future generations will wonder why we put it off so long.

It is not alone New Ontario that could shower wealth on us. At Wembley, in competition with the world, Ontario tobacco growers won the first prize, and now British firms are competing for Ontario tobacco leaf. Essex and Kent could grow all the tobacco used in Canada—even the finest cigarettes are being made from the Ontario leaf. The development of this industry would employ thousands of Canadians and create millions of new wealth. Even now tobacco land along Lake Erie is sold at $1,000 an acre, and there is a lot of it just as suitable a great deal cheaper to the east of Essex.

We should have a Minister of Undeveloped Resources, and he would pay our national debt in his lifetime. A man like Dr. Goodwin, if we would listen to him about our mineral resources and heed his advice, would make us individually the richest people in the world.

The greatest question before us is the use of our neglected resources. What greater mission is there for the newspapers of Canada than to arouse our own people about it?—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Examiner's best wishes are extended for a very merry Christmas to all its readers.

Many are nominated—but some time only a few qualify.

The surest thing about the mayoralty contest so far is that there will be one.

Yesterday proved that nomination proceedings are not necessarily always drab and colourless.

Has Peterboro seen so many candidates for the mayoralty—half a dozen names in all—lose to being a record.

A THOUGHT.

HUXLEY ON THE TRAINED MAN.

I want today to quote a series of sentences from Thomas Huxley, for two reasons: First, because they give a remarkably useful analysis of the factors that make for effective living; second because the whole analysis admirably illustrates the art of putting a case convincingly—an art that is essential in any undertaking.

"That man, I think, has had a liberal education who has been so trained in youth that his body is the ready servant of his will, and does with ease and pleasure all the work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of; whose intellect is a clear, cold, logic engine with all its parts of equal strength, and in smooth working order; ready, like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work, and spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind; whose mind is stored with a knowledge of the great and fundamental truths of nature and of the laws of her operation; one who no stunted ascetic, is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; who has learned to love all beauty, whether of nature or of art; to hate all vileness, and to respect others as himself."

This paragraph will repay careful study for the sake of its material. It would be impertinence on my part to attempt to clarify Huxley by comment. Despite the strong meat of his ideas, Huxley's style is so clear that he may read on the run.

I leave Huxley, then, to tell his own story, but I want to call attention to his method of putting his case convincingly. And I mention but one aspect of his method—his concreteness.

If you are a statesman on the stump to win an election or a salesman on the road to market an article, Huxley has something to say to you about the best method of putting your case. And this is what he has to say:

Huxley is here trying to define a liberal education, but he does it by talking about an educated man. He might have written an essay on the relation of education to physiological fitness, the laws of logic, intellectual adaptability the understanding of natural laws, the control of passion, the appreciation of beauty, a sensitiveness to vulgarity, and the cultivation of tolerance. These are exactly the things he touches in the paragraph I have quoted, but instead of dealing with them in the abstract he brings them to life in a flesh-and-blood man. The result is that, whereas you would not remember a long discussion of abstract ideas you begin at once to test yourself by the several vivid points in Huxley's picture of an educated man.

While you are doing this you are thinking about the broad issues of a liberal education. But the thinking has been made easy and the ideas have been made rememberable, because Huxley gave you a picture of an educated man instead of a definition of education.

—Glenn Frank.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND

MONTREAL, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—The tone of the market was steady. Car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white were offering at 52 cents, No. 3 white at 50 1-2 cents, and No. 4 white at 49 1-2 cents per bushel, ex-store. Canadian Western grades were steady.

Owing to the renewed strength in the Canadian cash wheat situation there was a much better feeling in the local flour market for spring wheat grades, but no actual change in prices was announced. There was an improved demand from foreign buyers overnight for supplies and a moderate amount of business was done in this direction, but the demand from local and country buyers continues to be of a very limited character.

There was no change in the condition of the market for winter wheat flour, prices being steady with only a very small trade passing as is usual at this period of the year. The market for white corn flour was steady with sales of odd lots at $6.80 to $7 per barrel in jute bags, delivered to the trade.

The market for standard grades of rolled oats remains steady under a moderate demand for supplies, and sales were mae at $3.40 to $3.50 per bag of 90 lbs., delivered to the trade.

The trade in baled hay was reported of a very limited character and in consequence the market was quiet, but there was no change in prices to note.

There was no change in the condition of the market for potatoes, prices being about steady with only a small trade passing, and car lots of Quebec varieties were quoted at $2.40 to $2.50 per bag, and New Brunswick Green Mountains at $2.65 per bag of 90 lbs.

EGSS AND TURKEYS

OTTAWA, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—With the Christmas markets practically closed poultry receipts are decreasing throughout the West. Egg markets continue to show a uneasiness under increased production.

Toronto—Fresh eggs easier, specials 70, extras 68, firsts 55, storage, extras 46, firsts 42, seconds 35. Poultry firm, wholesale prices unchanged. Turkeys retailing on farmers' market from 50 to 60; geese, 30.

Montreal—Turkeys sold on the Montreal market f.o.b., Edmonton at 36 for birds over 15 pounds, 34 for birds over 11 pounds, and 32 for birds under 11 pounds, and 25 for second grades. No. 1 chickens are offered f.o.b. Winnipeg, over 4 pounds 30, over 5 pounds 32. Turkeys are cleaned up in the West and Winnipeg reports that there are no stocks left for shipment. The egg market is dull and unchanged.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.85 1-8.

Sterling cables 4.85 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—In a buying stampede, the wheat market today jumped as much as 9 1-2 cents a bushel higher. Rushes to buy came about chiefly from a United States Government crop report indicating that this country's 1925 yield of wheat is nearly 200,000,000 bushels short of last year's total.

After an exciting day, the wheat market closed nervous, 5 3-4 to 8 1-8 cents up, new style, December $1.73 to $1.73 1-4 and May $1.71 1-8 to $1.71 1-4, with corn showing 2 3-4 to 3 1-4 cents gain; oats at 7-8 to 1 to 1 1-8 cents advance, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 47 cents.

Peaks reached on the day's first wild fluctuations were outdone later and especially so during the last hour of trading. New official estimates of wheat production in Argentina, 40,0[illegible],000 bushels below the latest forecast from the Argentine Government, had much to do with to-day's latest bulges in price, bulges, however, that were without the sustained force which went hand-in-hand with the figures relating to the wheat supply in the United States.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

To Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Re facts about the Collegiate question as per information supplied by authority of the Chairman of the Board of Education as published in the Examiner on Saturday last, I beg to submit a plan that might easily enable the citizens of this city to pay the cost of just 82c on $1,000 assessment.

Namely, the proper enforcement of our laws in weights and measures. If any one doubts the veracity of this statement let them weigh and measure their purchases for one month, and if their experience is like my own they will be forced to the conclusion that the citizens of Peterboro are paying an unbelievable amount of money for the necessary things of life they never get.

As an illustration, I ordered from an advertisement in your paper a cord of [illegible] at $7 [illegible] cord, and I stipulated I should expect 128 feet. This [illegible] wood was sent to my [illegible] and the driver had on his car five [illegible] of slabs cut one foot long, 5 1-2 feet wide and 3 1-2 feet high, maximum measurements. I said you have not a cord of wood, and he said if it does not suit you I will drive on, and I glad[illegible] drive away with it. I tried to [illegible] him the maximum amount of wood he had on the car was 100 feet, and while he did not dispute my figuring, he said lots of people were anxiously waiting for him to deliver just such cords of wood.

On this one purchase had I have taken it and paid him the $7 he demanded I would have been paying him $8.[illegible] per cord, or giving him $1.[illegible] for nothing—enough to pay cost of Collegiate assessment on $2,[illegible]25.00. I can guarantee these same [illegible]hands apply on other things in my own purchases.

CITIZEN.

FROM THE G[illegible]V.A

Peterborough, Dec. 22, 1925.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir: I would crave your indulgence to use the medium of your paper to convey on behalf of the Great War Veterans' Association of Peterborough, the Compliments of the Season to all those citizens who have so graciously assisted us during the past year. It has been very gratifying to me personally to feel that the citizens of Peterborough have been so generous when we have appealed to them on behalf of the returned men for assistance.

I also wish at this time to thank the members of the City Council and all City Officials with whom we have come in contact, for their assistance.

To the returned men of this city and county I not only extend to them the Season's Greetings, I also offer them the open hand of comradeship, and beg their active and loyal support of the cause, reminding them that our aim is to help the widow and orphans of those who gave their life in the service of our Empire, and the returned men who have been unable to fend for himself since returning to civilian life, and that we need the support of every returned man in this city and county if we are to maintain the ideals for which this Association was founded. I would also like to remind them that we cannot have unity as long as they remain unattached, and that the measure of success which the union will attain will depend solely upon the number of men who will join up, and give their whole hearted support to the cause.

Trusting that this Association or the new Canadian Legion, which ever may be the returned men's organization of the future, will have the support of all citizens for the ensuing year, and thanking you, Mr. Editor, for allowing me so much space in your valuable paper, also for the courteous treatment which we have received from you and your staff, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
G. G. WINTERBOTTOM,
Commander Peterboro Branch G.W.V.A.

On Earth Peace.

PROSPECTS for permanent peace in Europe and throughout the world are brighter this Christmas than at any time since the year 1913—the year before the war.

The signing of the Locarno Treaties marked the dawn of a new day, so that this year the people of the Western World will celebrate Christmas with intensified joy and gratitude.

Peace and the prosperity that usually accompanies it, is likely to prevail for many years, if not for all time, and under these happy conditions we can with assurance wish our policyholders and their friends a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

TAX BILL FOR SEVERAL BILLION MORE FRANCS MAY BE CHRISTMAS 'GIFT' TO FILL FRENCH STOCKING

New Finance Minister Preparing Policy For Friday's Session.

RADICALS ACTIVE.

Will Make Another Stand For Capital Levy—Vicious Circle.

PARIS, Dec. 24. — (Canadian Press).—Government bills demanding of the taxpayers several billion more francs annually will be one of the Christmas presents of the French people, if M. Doumer, the Finance Minister, succeeds in his present plans. He is exerting himself to get his financial restoration scheme ready to present to the cabinet Friday morning, instead of waiting until after the holidays. His object is to have his bills introduced in the Chamber before measures which are being prepared by the Radical-Socialist coalition see the light of day.

The total amount of additional revenue the Government will ask for remains a secret, as well as the principal details of the scheme. It is affirmed in circles close to M. Doumer that the Minister still sticks to the idea of doubling the tax on the business turnover, but it is declared in the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies of the Left that he has made concessions on that point to the Radical members of the cabinet.

Race With Radicals.

The race between the Finance Minister and the groups of the Left to get their projects out first promises a close finish. Some of the counter measures are already in shape. Others will be finished within a day or two, it was said by the Radical leaders yesterday. Whoever wins the first lap, the final issue, which will come after the convening of the regular session of Parliament in 1926 is most uncertain.

The groups of the majority in the Chamber will again make a stand on the capital levy and other features of their programme that caused the downfall of H. Painleve; the situation therefore promises to go back on the opening of the new session to exactly the point where it was at the end of November.

Tobacco Monopoly.

The Socialisits, seeking to get ahead of any prospective American offer for the tobacco monopoly, have introduced a bill for the exploitation of the sale of tobacco through a stock company with a capital of 30,000,000,000 francs (about $1,150,000,000).

The bill provides that the shares shall be called "bond shares," and participate in dividends, as well as bear interest at five per cent. The company would be managed by a mixed board comprising representatives of the Minister of Finance, tobacco planter and bondholders, and part of the profits would be set aside for amortization of the bond shares in thirty years; a fifth of the stock to be subscribed in cash, the remainder in government bonds.

Complete Amputation Of Son's Arm To Save His Life

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—In order to save his boy's life a father was compelled to complete the amputation of his young son's arm after it had been partly severed by a rotary saw.

Eugene Cote, a lad of 11, had accompanied his father to a shed where he was making firewood by means of a small rotary saw operated by a gasoline engine. The boy's arm got caught by the saw and ws nearly completely cut off before the father managed to stop the engine. In order to remove the boy, Mr. Cote was oblige to completed the work of the saw by cutting through the remaining flesh of the child's arm with his pocket knife. The boy is expected to recover.

NINE FOLLOWED PATH TO DEATH IN MINE BLAZE

Suffocated By Smoke and Gas in an Air Shaft.

61 ESCAPED.

Fire Still Raging in Ohio Mine—Caused By Short Circuit.

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Dec. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Eighty men, working in three shifts are fighting a fire in the Webb Mine at Shadyside, near here, in which nine miners died. Officials expressed the belief last night the fire would be extinguished within 48 hours.

The flames have eaten 200 feet back in the mine, but are confined to the main entry. If they spread the mine will be sealed up.

Mine officials, led by six Ohio mine inspectors, plunged into the fight against the conflagration as soon as the last body aws removed early yesterday. The nine miners who died had rushed to the main air shaft hoping to escape, but were suffocated in trying to climb to the ground level, 240 feet above.

Sixty-one other men, who were working at various places in the mine, made their way to safety through the main entry. It was asserted the nine who died would have been saved had they followed the advice of Foreman Jacob Schramm, who told all these workers that their only way of escape was through the main tunnel.

The nine, heedless of these suggestions, rushed to the air shaft and perished in the thick fumes of the gas and smoke.

Officials determined definitely Wednesday that the fire was caused by a rock slide in the main entry short circuiting electric wiring which fired timber supports.

MAN NAMED FOR MAYOR DECLINES TO SEEK OFFICE

A. J. Jenkins Will Be Nominated But Will Not Accept.

NO WOMEN OFFICIALS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 24.—A. J. Jenkins will be nominated for the position of Mayor of Campbellford at the town meeting, to be held in the Regent Theatre Monday night. His mover and seconder have already been selected.

Mr. Jenkins informed The Examiner yesterday when this fact was calle to his attention, that while he had heard rumors on the street of his proposed nomination, he would, under no circumstances be a candidate, although he had no power to prevent the presentation of his name.

Loss to the Municipality.

It will be regarded as a misfortune if Mr. Jenkins adheres to his decision, as it is felt that his services as mayor would be invaluable to Campbellford. He has lived here for nearly a quarter of a century, and in that time has filled one of the most important business positions in town. His training has been thorough and he has proved himself an all-round public spirited citizen. He has given good public service as chairman of the library board, and was also treasurer of the patriotic fund during the war.

No Women Officials.

One thing noticed this year is that the women voters have not been given representation on the election boards as they have for the past two years. No councillor, when the appointments were made, seemed to be anxious to cultivate the feminine vote; Councillor Stone was the only member to suggest the appointment of women officials, but when someone remarked that he guessed there were men enough to fill the positions the matter was dropped.

C.N.R. Locomotive Shops At Leaside Will Be Converted Into Steel Car Repair Shop

MONTREAL, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press). — The following statement was issued last evening from the head offices of the Canadian National Railways:

"The Canadian National Railways have decided to convert the locomotive shops at Leaside ...to a steel car repair shop. This change will be brought about gradually and will extend over a period of some months. It will not reduce the total number of men now employed at Leaside, though it will necessitate a certain number of transfers, men being brought to Leaside to work in the new steel car repair shop and replacing such men, now employed in the locomotive shops, who will be transferred to other locomotive shops of the system The imputation that these men are being moved to further the interests of any of the political parties is as ridiculous as it is false.

"The conversion of the locomotive shop is due to the fact that the company has more locomotive shops than it requires, while the Toronto district is at present without the proper facilities for doing steel car repair work."

Basket Social.

On Thursday, December 17, the members of L.O.L. 279, Lotus, held a basket social, concert and dance in their hall. Owing to climatic conditions, the crowd was rather small, but the baskets brought good prices. The young people of Dennitt's Hall put on a good play, assisted by other local talent, consisting of songs by Jas. Kerr, comedian, and readings, instrumentals, etc., which made a very enjoyable programme. The young people ended up the evening with a social dance which lasted till 2.30 a.m.

School Concert.

On Friday, December 18, the pupils of Carscaddin's School, S. S. No. 14, Manvers, put on an enjoyable concert in the school. Mr. Jack Payne acted as chairman in his usual capable manner. Rev. H. Wilkinson was present and explained the real meaning of Christmas to the kiddies. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Lorne Wannan, the teacher, for his interest in the kiddies and the capa manner the concert and Christmas tree had been given. He responded thanking the people for their kindness and wished them all the compliments of the season. The chairman acted as Father Christmas, giving all the kiddies something off the tree.

Church Concert.

The Methodist Sunday School held its annual Christmas tree and concert on Friday, December 18, in the Orange Hall, Pontypool. A good program, consisting of songs, drills, recitations, dialogues, tableaux and pageant, was given by the pupils of the school. Rev. H. Wilkinson, the pastor, acted as chairman. The success of the concert was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Steamon, Mrs. Wilde and Mrs. McMahon, who gave considerable time towards the getting up of the concert. The proceeds amounted to about $23.00.

Guessing Contest.

The guessing contest in Richardson's bake shop came to a close on Saturday night. One had to guess the number of gum-drops in a large glass jar. The amount in the jar was 2,551 and the closest guess was 2,550, by Percy McMahon. The prize given was a $10 gold piece, and the judges were Alec Webb, Pontypool, and Hughie McGill, Gilberton.

News Briefs.

He intends staying here till spring, when he will return to the West.

Miss Lillian Banwell, teacher of Dunn School, was presented by the pupils of her school with a nice token on Monday at their Christmas tree and concert.

BETHANY, Dec. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. McCartney and daughter of 324 Rubidge street, Peterboro, were very much surprised on the evening of the 16th when a delegation of their friends from Bethany, consisting of Mrs. (Dr.) Hamilton, Mrs. H. H. Ryley, Mrs. Waram, Dr. Hamilton and Mr. Robert McMullen, called upon them. After the usual greetings had been extended, Mrs. Waram arose, stating that there was a little business to do, and read the following address, Mrs. (Dr.) Hamilton and Mrs. H. H. Ryley making the presentation:

"Dear Friends,—

"Your many friends in and around Bethany wish to express to you their appreciation of your many kind acts while living amongst them. You have lived in Bethany many years, and in all that time you were ever ready to help in all things to promote the welfare of the community. Every one realized when you were leaving that the town was losing good citizens. Therefore, we beg of you to accept this electric parlor lamp and toaster as a slight token of our appreciation and esteem. We trust you may enjoy a long life of prosperity in your new home and that you will remember you have many warm friends in Bethany.

"Signed on behalf of the community—Dr. J. J. Hamilton, Robt. McMullen."

Mr. McCartney in reply said:

"On behalf of my wife and daughter, I find it difficult indeed to call to my aid such words as will adequately express our feelings. The beauty of the gifts are of a nature to call forth our greatest appreciation. I can assure you that we will always cherish those as a remembrance of the many activities in which we were co-workers for the uplift of our little village. Again allow me to thank you on behalf of myself and family for those beautiful gifts, and also for the kindly words accompanying them. Might we ask of you to convey to the friends in Bethany and community our appreciation of this kindly act. May the best things in life accompany you on your journey, and that God's best gifts be yours."

Greetings Kind Friends

This is no place to advertise,
No space to tell you here
Of tents and flags and buffalo robes;
There's time for that next year.

But what we want to say to you,
Right in this paper "ad,"
Is that we do appreciate
The times you've made us glad.

By boosting for the "Turner" name
And products "Turner" made,
And telling people whom you meet
To join the big parade.

Of homefolks who are satisfied
With signs they've bought from us,
And awnings bags and lots of things,
Too numerous to discuss.

And so right now we'll shout "Thank you,"
So strong, loud and free
That everyone who reads this "ad"
Will say "They're meaning me."

THE HALL STORE

SANTA CLAUS' CORRESPONDENCE IS BULKY AND VARIES GREATLY

Letters Are Written on All Kinds of Stationery—Some Odd Requests.

MUCH AFFECTION

Kisses and Thanks Are Embodied in Many—Offers of Refreshments.

Santa Claus, in the Toyland of the J. C. Turnbull Company's store, has been getting his annual grist of Christmas letters from little folk asking for Yuletide remembrances. The letters come on all sorts of stationery, in hand-writing that is palpably that of a senior (and most of these communications contain polite references of thanks for previous years' gifts, in the usual parently habit of trying to inculcate politeness in small children), or they are in the scrawly hieroglyphics of small childhood. Many of them conclude with lines of kisses, one asks for the health of the old saint, "and of Mrs. Claus and all the little Clauses," and several promise light refreshments on the occasion of his visit, in the way of cake, bread and butter and milk, cups of coffee, etc. One small boy offers their stable for the use of Santa's reindeer, and another says he heard that Santa was "frozen up", apparently another parental subterfuge in a vain effort to stem the tide of many wants.

One little boy who has evidently been fooled in yast years asks politely but firmly, in a postscrip: "Please bring me what I ask for." Probably one of the children who has longed for an electric train and found a jumping Jack in his stocking on Christmas morning. The wants of this small man would lead any parent to resort to artifice, for they include such things as a Fordson tractor, a train and track, a figure 8, a steam engine and set of tools, a pile driver, a watch and a pop gun.

Echoes from future years are heard in some of the wee epistles. Domestic tastes are pre-figured in the letter of the little girl who asks for a doll and dolls' carriage, the doll to have curly hair, by the way, a washing set and some clothes pins. Another small lady wants a dust pan and brush, a nursing set, a stove, a doll and a set of dishes, and a girlie with a very precise mind gives some careful directions. She has a doll twenty four inches long and she wants a white silk dress for her, seventeen inches long and a pair of stockings that measures three and a half inches at the foot, four inches at the ankle and are ten inches long in the leg!

There are echoes of the sportive black-faced pair, Ham and Sam, in the request of one little boy for "man playing the piano and a man dancing", and there is a musical touch to the request in one letter for a toy piano, a violin and a cornet.

"Don't forget the little boys and girls who have no father and mother," says one little chap, and another thanks Santa Claus for the gifts that were brought last year and says he doesn't need anything this Christmas, merely wishing the old saint a happy Yuletide for himself and his family. A little lady whose letter asks for a barrette, a scribbler and a pair of rubbers, says, and "please don't forget Ivan", and some of the little epistles contains requests for all the family, extending even to aunts and cousins, and including Grandma in three instances. One of these is the conventional old lady, evidently, because her grandchild, after requesting remembrances for all of the family. "Grandma just wants a happy Christmas", but the other old ladies are not so general in their wishes. One Grandmother wants a fur coat and another desires a "new pair of boots and a nice new hat."

One girlie asks for a "pair of patient leather slippers", one asks for "a kitcken cavenett" and some "hankiechieves" and another requests "a horses wip, a lick tarm and a hand slant". "A doll's caret, a litile canndy Chrichans, a little purce and tree pair stonings" is the peculiar demand of still another small child.

A wee girlie with evidently frivolous tastes asks for a pair of dancing shoes for herself and a tie for her father, while an apron for her mother and a pair of braces for her dad form the epistolary demands of a second. Another little girl wants "three sleighs" and still another would be perfectly contented, apparently, with a pair of rubbers. A rain cape, a pair of rubbers, and over stockings are wished for by a little thing who is getting ready for a wet season, and another small woman wants only "a pair of good stockings."

A little boy who says he has been good all year wants a piano, a 'phone and a pair of skates for himself, an apron for mother and a tie for father and a pair of socks for his uncle.

"I sat on your knee in Toyland", announces one little lady who wants a doll's carriage "for the dolly you gave me last year", and a small boy wants to know what Santa would like to eat when he comes visiting.

"A red street car and Mutt sitting in it" is the demand of one wee boy, and a little lady with dramatic ideas pictures her wishes in "a woman and a little boy with a wheelbarrow, the woman behind upsetting the wheelbarrow." "A pig dancing" and "Two hens fighting" are wanted by another child, who finishes philosophically, with memories possibly of other-year disappointments, "but fech me what you want to and I will be pleased with it."

They tell Santa what class they are in at school and all about the family, including the cute way of baby brothers, who require divers things to make them happy. A small lady wants "a baby brother", and another a "semafore for the train you brought last Christmas", while a third mixes phonetic spelling and the regular variety together in a sentence that calls for "a new pear of knew shoes."

"A cowboy suit" demands one boy, "two little roosters", asks another, "a rattle for the baby" requests the third, and a girl wants a "girls' wrist watch for 25 cents". A formal small things says she has been "looking over you stock of toys in Toyland and I have seen some toys that would be useful to me. They are as follows: a doll, a table and a set of dishes."

"Ten boxes of chocolates" is the demand of a little lady with a large sweet tooth, and a little boy with modest tastes wants only a "big thick story book, a school bag and lots of nuts." A little girl who has evidently been smitten at some time with the charms of a banking clerk wants "a bank, a teller, a little stove and a pair of goloshes", and a child with religious leanings asks for a "Bible with pictures." A dynamobile, a loop the loop and an ocean liner will satisfy another small boy.

SCHOOL QUESTION LOOMS LARGE

Alderman R. N. Jones.

Alderman Jones told of the administration of the Fire Water and Light Committee this year. He explained expenditures and told his confidence in the economical efficient way the Fire Department is administered. Water service and street lighting were explained, and Mr. Jones pointed out that there is a surplus in every department. New lighting services are being installed in East City—a light on every other pole. The present 60 watt lamps cost $9 a lamp a year. In East City a 100 watt lamp will be placed on every other pole. Magnetite lamps cost $50.50 a year, and these will be done away with and replaced by high candle power lights at $24 a year. The brackets and small lights on the main streets are only temporary.

Having had six years' experience Alderman Jones solicited the support of the voters.

Robert S. Cotton.

Robert S. Cotton believed that he could be some assistance in the Council and promised if elected to do the best he could for ratepayers and citizens.

Alderman N. E. Phelan

Alderman Nagle E. Phelan remarked on his being nominated for two offices. He had not made up his mind which to contest. He had been member of the council for six years and Chairman of the Finance committee for five years.

"No one can come along seeking election on the platform that they will lower the tax rate," he said. "It can't be done. Out of every dollar the City Council has control of only 28 cents. Out of this 28 per cent we must keep up up the Board of Works, parks, fire department and one hundred and one different things for the upkeep of which the city is responsible. Peterborough is in as good condition as any city its size. We sold some debentures recently and got the best price of any city in Canada this year. That indicates the city is in good shape financially.

In my six years I have never missed a Council meeting, averaging a meeting a week anyhow.

I took a firm stand on the Sunday bathing question. I believed we should have kept a caretaker at the beaches every Sunday. (hear! hear!) However, I drew up a by-law and it will be submitted to the people on election day."

Alderman W. J. Hancock.

Alderman W. J. Hancock said he thought capital expenditure is too high, raising taxes. "The debentures hanging over our heads ($4,000,000) mean an immense amount of interest. I believe every money by-law should be put before the people in by-laws."

On the school question Mr. Hancock said the majority of the council is opposed to the new school. "I think that question should be put to the people." (hear! hear!) "It is up to the Board of Education to ask the Council to submit the question to the people. They hope to get it through without a vote of the people. It is up to you to see that men are elected who stand firmly for giving you a vote. I am not saying I am opposed to the school, but I say you should have a vote on it.

I stand for cutting down overhead. Your home is mortgaged through the city to the extent of one third. The city can borrow money—I think sometimes it's too easy. There's always someone ready to buy our debentures and that is the load that is bearing down on your shoulders. It's not grants but debentures."

William H. Lytle.

William H. Lytle said he was born and brought up in Peterboro, and if he saw his way clear to stand for election he would be glad of support. Practical men are needed. He had come often to sit alone on the spectators' benches to watch what was going on.

James B. Brown.

James B. Brown said he had no intentions of running for election.

Frederick E. Tuggey.

Frederick E. Tuggey said his appearances as a nominee is getting to be an annual event. If elected this time he will consider the peoples interest. Taxation is becoming appalling and if it continues United States will be over here picking our people. Sunday bathing and other similar questions could be easily settled in Council, but I stand opposed to any ten men and the mayor saying they will spend $500,000 or $600,000 of your money for building a school to educate boys and girls—and what do they do after they are educated? Go across to United States because we can't give them work"

Mr. Tuggey said he went to school from he was 5 years of age until he was 13 and got his education in that time. Keeping children at school until they are 18 is foolishness, he said. "I stand opposed to spending money for a new technical school. The time may come when we will need it, but now the boys and girls are, walking the streets looking for work. I think it is time to apply to the United States Government for help in our school question to educate young men and women for them.

We want to keep people in Peterborough to pay the taxes and build up the city. I'll stand by the city of Peterborough and see that there's nothing given away without a kick if I don't think it's in the interests of the city.

Sidney Whatley.

Sidney Whatley said he intended to make no promises. In offering himself he did it in the interests of the whole of the community with no favors to any section.

"I'm going to take a pronounced stand in regard to the school question. It is too large a matter to be settled by ten men, even if they are the elected representatives of the people. I think it ought to be submitted to the electorate."

Ex-Alderman J. Crowe.

Ex-Alderman Joseph Crowe explained the situation in regard to his appointment at the sewage disposal plant, answering a question from a member of the audience. He had no idea of using the plant as a tool for his own advancement. He did not come into the Council for his own selfish purposes. But when the situation at the plant offered, he came to the conclusion that he would be fully qualified to get the machinery in starting position, not saying he would retain the position for any length of time. The Aldermen gave the appointment careful consideration. He had taken a live interest in the plant. "It was not to benefit him, but he was seeking a change and was interested in the work. "Do you think I have taken advantage of my position?" he asked. "If you think so I am willing to relinquish the job tomorrow. But I know the citizens have more confidence in me than that. Let the man who is doing the kicking come forward and serve the city"

Mr. Rightmeyer: "I have the greatest objections to the way you were railroaded into the position. It should have been put up for tender. I will never vote for any of the Councillors who railroaded you in. It was done in an underhand way."

Dr. John J. Craig.

John J. Craig, speaking as a member of the Board of Education challenged Mr. Tuggey's figures on the school question. The Council has been asked for $386,000, of which 35 per cent is taken care of by the Government. The amount of the cost will be about $260,000 to the city, not $500,000 or $600,000 as declared by Mr. Tuggey.

J. Hamilton: "What authority have you that the government will continue that grant?"

Dr. Craig: "They will give you a contract for the life of the debenture."

Mr. Lytle: "What is the cost of the equipment?"

Dr. Craig: "The initial equipment is included in the $386,000."

Mr. Hancock said the Board of Education should ask to have the by-law put to the people.

Dr. Craig: "Only 38 per cent of the people have a vote on the money by-law. Are you going to let the 38 per cent decide?"

Mr. Hancock: "Would you have a vote on it yourself?"

Dr. Craig: "No. Yet I pay maybe as much taxes as you do."

Alderman Hancock: "That's hard luck. Every dollar I pay is in the city. You must pay yours outside."

Dr. Craig: "Any taxes I pay are in the city of Peterborough too."

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, and emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other fords of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchical asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to direction. Ask your druggist Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

EARLY PAROLE NOT EXPECTED

Opposition of Ontario Government May Keep Smith in Pen.

DEPARTMENT SILENT.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.—(Canadian Press).—There is some doubt whether Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer of Ontario will be paroled soon in view of the opposition of Attorney General Nickle and the Ontario Government. The case has been before the Minister of Justice for some days now since a delegation presented a petition for the parole of the former treasurer on a number of grounds. The desire of the delegation was that Peter Smith be released for Christmas. The department of justice is silent in regard to a letter which, according to Toronto despatches, Mr. Nickle has sent and in which he sets forth the attitude of the Ontario Government.

CHANG WINS BATTLE.

Defeats General Kuo and Occupies Several Towns.

TOKIO, Dec. 24.— (Canadian Press).—The vernacular newspaper and war office advices from Mukden yesterday state that Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, "War Lord of Manchuria", has defeated General Kuo Sung-Lin and occupied Paihipu and other positions near Singminfu. The advices are somewhat conflicting, but indicate that Marshal Chang obtained a decisive victory.

DUNSFORD HORSES TRY FOR FREEDOM

Three Teams Try to Escape From Masters—Nobody Hurt.

DUNSFORD, Dec. 24. — Three teams have run away in the village lately. First the team of Mr. Oliver Arnott ran from the blacksmith shop one evening just as darkness was falling, colliding with a horse and buggy owned and driven by Mr. Archie Shehee. Luckily, none of the occupants were badly hurt, but the buggy was smashed to pieces. Then the team of Mr. Ronald Devitt ran a race with the train and they went from the station to the first crossing, where the train just headed them off. From there they ran in the opposite direction towards the lake. Then on Saturday afternoon a team owned by Mr. Geo. Burgess became frightened at the train and ran from the storehouse. They jumped the wire fence over into the creek, breaking clear of the sleigh and then went up into J. C. Thurston's field, where the owner succeeded in catching them. No serious damage resulted.

"An' you fool enough to still try to run for it," he said in frank disgust. "You ain't never been much loaded up with brains, Swede, an' that's certain. O' course," he added placatingly, "if you'd bumped off the Scotchman, that'd been different again. But with him loose, an' all this crew on board, we ain't going outside on no run tonight. Not us! You call Doc in on this. He's got a bean on him. He'll back me up."

"Well-li," he muttered, doubtfully. "You want to head back to the usual place, then, an' lay low till tomorrer night. That it?"

CHAPTER XIII.

By Wallace Irwin.

Connemara could swim; she'd learned when she was four years old and practiced every summer. While she had never reached the cup winning, near professional class, she handled herself in the water with such ease that "amphibious" was employed in her praising almost as often as "delicious" when in a very simple one-piece bathing suit she played in the Sound like a goldfish; a goldfish in a costly aquarium with castles and bridges and orchids, or even, to some observers, like an angel fish in the coral caverns of the southern seas.

But swimming in the dark in a tightish dress and high-heeled slippers are two different things. Instead of serving her as propellers, her legs seemed to be excess baggage.

"I don't know where we're going, but I'm on my way too," she said recklessly to McTish, when, after making a long, deep dive following his, she sped through the water and came up near him.

"Don't talk," he returned curtly, "and swim as quietly as you can."

It was very dark, and it was getting rough. McTish was on her right, and when she turned to look for him in the darkness, nasty little waves slapped her in the face. Still, she knew he was there, for talk as he might about swimming quietly, he was breathing like a grampus. And she could see a blob, less black—a little—than the night—when she turned his way.

It was hard work to swim, impeded as she was. She stopped swimming, and, treading water, balancing herself in the waves as a real swimmer can, tried to kick off the silver slippers which so hampered her feet. But they were dancing slippers with complicated interlacing straps which, like the complications they had helped to weave, had first to be unfastened. McTish she perceived indistinctly, was going past her. She gave up ridding herself of the slippers. They were a nuisance but she could manage. The dress, however, was another matter and too great a burden.

"McTish!" she called. "Wait!"

Treading water, she pushed up the belt which Sweetie had knotted so securely round her hips and managed to wriggle the whole thing off over her head, and let it go on the water.

"My new dress too," she sighed.

It had been hard to do, and taken longer than she'd realized. She was getting cold. That McTish would leave her she had not dreamed, but, as in her new freedom she took long, powerful strokes, driving herself somewhere, she realized that he was not there. She was alone, alone in Long Island Sound, in the dark, in the middle of the night. She knew she should have been terrified, but after the preceding hours any peace, even a black and solitary peace, seemed grateful.

She did not feel the cold now, and swam easily for an hour, wondering with each stroke where it was taking her. The shore, she thought vaguely, could not be far ahead. Well, she was in no hurry; the shore when she reached it—if she did— would be just another problem. No place to go, no food, no clothes, no friends. And after this, anyone with whom she talked would be a friend or a policeman. No more chance acquaintances, please!

What a goose she had been! Marrying either of them, or both of them for that matter, would have been preferable to this adventure, since it had got wet and dirty and rough and lonesome. It was probably the lonesomeness which Connemara minded most, and next the fruitlessness. She'd lost a home and a sapphire bracelet, probably her reputation, maybe, even yet, her life. And what had she gained? Only experience, and that of dubious quality.

If she'd had her nerve, she told herself, she'd have kept that fifty thousand and let Aunt Celimena's money go hang. Then she might have married or not as she pleased, or started a shop or a movement, or gone on the stage or made candles or batiks. She's made a mess of it any way you took it. Even McTish had deserted her. Or had they just lost each other in the night?

She felt tired and turned over on her back to rest. Not a start, not a ray of light, and only the sound of water rushing past her ears, and the lap of little waves on her face. Was it very different from this when you died? Didn't you just see nothing and hear nothing, and feel nothing? She was feeling very little, oh, very little.

But she heard something. A small boat, probably a canoe by the muffled drip and swich, was coming near her. She heard low voices, on a basso, grumble which carried distinctly. "Come home, Bugle! That's a good S——!" And a heavy body splashed into the water. It began to swim. A curious stroke, thought Connemara, who knew all strokes by name. But this one she could not classify.

Connemara was as nearly frightened as she had ever been. The strange swimmer was coming nearer and nearer. What new terror was this night to hold? Whoever it was, was close beside her. She would float, and avoid any new encounter by attracting no attention. She was very tired, and unless she was sure it was a friend, she preferred to spend the rest of this night alone. Surely there was not much more of it.

Closer and closer the sound came. She took a long stroke, and the gurgling, puffing swimmer was upon her. That collision was a blessed thing, though not with man or woman. Wet fur brushed her shoulder, and the friend-seeking nose of a dog was thrust into her face.

"Nice boy!" she said quickly in a low voice, and awkwardly caressed him meanwhile maintaining a precarious balance. The answer was a rumbling pleasant growl.

"Dear thing!" she whispered. "Home Bugie, let's go home!"

For the first time since she had left the hampering peace of her aunt's house, where living had become so suddenly and completely complicated with hair and suitors and wills and working girls Connemara felt she had a friend.

CHRISTMAS CONCERTS

MADOC, Dec. 24.—School closed on Friday last for Public and High school pupils. In the Public schools an open afternoon was held when the parents visited the different rooms. Very pleasing programmes consisting of songs, recitations and little plays had been prepared and were much enjoyed by the visitors. The rooms looked very attractive with thier decorations of evergreens, red bells and stately Christmas trese.

The churches are holding their annual Sunday school concerts and Christmas tree entertainments. Excellent programmes were put on by the children of the United church on Friday evening last, by the Presbyterian church on Monday evening and by the Anglican church on Tuesday. Large crowds attended these functions and enjoyed the songs, drills and dialogues so ably given by the little ones. Some of the wee tots were particularly sweet and cunning with their baby ways. Great joy was felt when Santa appeared and at St. Peter's he was able to come in the real old-fashioned way, down the chimney and out of the fire place.

S.S. No. 12 Otonabee was crowded to capacity on Tuesday evening, December 22, when their annual Christmas programme was given by the pupils and the young people of the neighborhood. Mr. Edwin Sargent made a very splendid chairman for the occasion. Mr. Harvey of the Alladin Mantle Lamp Co., very kindly loaned lamps to light the school. Then Santa Claus arrived and distributed the gifts from a well-laden tree to the pleasure of all.

The entertainment closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

AT S. S. 2, SMITH.

A goodly number of parents and relatives of the scholars attended the concert that marked the closing of the school year at S. S. No. 2, Smith, yesterday afternoon.

The programme was opened by a chorus composed of the whole school, in the singing of O Canada. Recitations were rendered by Keith Mahood, Arthur Darling, Kathleen Tully, Marjorie Mahood, Newton Bell, Mable McManus, Edith Bell, Phyllis Moore and Gordon Darling, Jean Irwin sang "Away in the Manger," Lillian McGregor rendered "The Prisoner's Song," and Jean Tully sang "Old Folks at Home." The girls of the school sang three choruses.

Rev. W. S. Edgar briefly addressed the children, emphasizing Christ as the Joy-bringer, the Peace-bringer, and the bringer of Salvation, with many illustrations.

Miss Sarah Black, the teacher of the school although little in evidence from the rear end of the school was very active in direction of the concert from behind the scenes.

After the singing Mr. Victor Fife impersonated Santa Claus and distributed presentes from the Christmas tree among the children. God Save the King brought a very pleasant afternoon to a close.

AT GILMOUR CHURCH.

A splendid Christmas pageant, two short plays and recitations and exercises by the younger children, featured the programme of the annual Christmas concert of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Sunday school, presented last night to a capacity audience.

The Rev. W. S. Edgar in his opening remarks spoke briefly on the momentous changes that have occurred in the world as a result of the coming of Christ. The Primary class, under the direction of Mrs. Joe Mann and Mrs. J. Young, were responsible for two items, consisting of exercises in which the tiny tots gave short recitations, individually and in chorus, and a dialogue, "The Song They Sang," representing the union of all nations through a common fellowship in Christ. Both these efforts were highly appreciated.

The two short plays were well received. The show actress deals with the fortunes of a travelling burlesque troupe supposed to have come to grief at Bridgenorth. The star of the troupe becomes a hired girl in a farmer's household, wins the affections of the village constable and, along with another member of the company, unmasks their manager as a notorious safe breaker using the troupe as a blind to cover his depredations. As in all good plays, right triumphs and the evil doer is foiled. The rascally manager is caught red handed in the act of safe breaking, and the good farmer who gave shelter to the stranded actress is rewarded by the restoration of a runaway daughter who was a member of the same unfortunate company. Beatrice McGregor was Ma Martin, the farmer's wife; Jean Scott was Mandy Freeman, "the sneaking, snooping, meddling old maid"; Betty Edgar was Goldie Bingham, the show actress whose attempts at milking a cow invariably failed disastrously; Margaret Mann was Hope Martin, the runaway daughter, who became an actress; Dawson Paul was Pa Martin, the benevolent farmer; Claire Grant, Danny, the chore-boy on the Martin farm, and Clarence Mann, the village constable, who never said a word unless you asked him something.'

"Red Pepper" related the ruse of a love-lorn prince, who accepted employment as a scullion to be near a princess of whom he was enamored. He was placed on night duty to guard the Christmas pie from the attacks of the brownies. A malicious attendant of the Princess deprived him of the pot of red pepper, which was the only efficrcious weapon agains tthe brownies. Sure enough the uncanny visitors appeared on the scene and the prince, finding himself bereft of the pepper, suddenly remembered that he himself was nicknamed Red Pepper" on account of his fery red hair and red tunic. By announcing this fact to the brownies, he frightened them into submission, saves the cake and secures the hand of the princess as a reward for his valour.

Jean Scott took the part of the Princess; Frances Moore and Gladys Blewett were ladies in waiting; Cora Grant acted the role of kitchen maid; Lillian McGregor that of cooklet; Stanley Grant appeared as 'Red Pepper'; Harry Blewett as the French cook; Keith Scott was Frip the chief of the brownies; Kenneth Sanderson, Donald Telford and Arthur Metcalfe were his followers.

Recitations were given by Phyllis Moore, Braden Mann, Donald and Jimmy Moore and a solo by Eunice Hammond.

The programme concluded with a pageant depicting the story of the Nativity. About 40 people took part in this number. The Oriental costumes of the various nationalities represented, the dresses of the shepherds of the wise men, of Joseph and Mary, of the sacred writers and the two white robed angels, lent a pleasing touch of color to the scene, and at the end of the pageant when all those taking part were assembled on the platform an illuminated tableau, the effect produced was extremely picturesque and the audience instantly reciprocated by enthusiastic applause.

The pageant was under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Mann, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Young and Mr. Harry Young. Miss Mabel Paul was the accompanist for the evening.

NORWOOD, Dec. 24.—St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School held the annual Christmas entertainment on Monday evening, Dec. 21, in the Sunday School room. The room was very tastefully decorated with evergreens. A large scroll and wreath decorated the wall back of the platform, and "A Merry Xmas" motto was done in silver within the wreath. The programme presented wasg as follows:

Recitation—Trevor Robb.
Recitation—Rhoda Innes.
Piano solo—Miss Rhoda Frost.
Recitation—Doris Beckett.
Chorus—The Infant Class.
Recitation—Bunny Lumsden.
Chorus—Mr. Lumsden's Class.
Recitation—Echo Rogers.
Vocal duet—Evelyn Goden and Lottie Rogers.
Recitation—Nelson Townsend.
Chorus—"Days of Long Ago," Miss Tedford's Class.
Instrumental solo — Wanda McMillan.
Recitation—Alex. Lumsden.
Recitation—Harry Goden.
Doll's song — Annie Ferguson, Echo Rogers, Evelyn Goden, and Mary Borland
Recitation—Ernest Goden.
Recitation—Ollie Ferguson.
Instrumental duet—Miss Della Rogers and Faye Rusaw.
Selection—Mr. Lumsden's Class.
Dairymaids' drill — Mrs. Frost's and Miss Calder's classes.
Dialogue—Mrs. Roxburg's class.
Good-night Chorus.
Christmas Eve pantomime.

At the close of the programme Santa appeared and distributed stockings filled with candy, nuts and fruit. The proceeds amounted to about $53.00.

TWEED, Dec. 24.—The Christmas entertainment of the Tweed United church on Monday evening, December 21 was well attended. A beautiful cantata, "Santa and the Givers" was enjoyed by all. There were also carols, drills and recitations.

The children of the Salvation Army Sunday School gave a very interesting entertainment on Tuesday evening, December 22.

DUNSFORD, Dec. 24—A number of the young people of the community attended the Christmas tree held at the Scotch Line school on Thursday night and also the one at the Red School on Friday evening. All report a very enjoyable time.

Miss Richardson and scholars of Dunsford school held their annual Christmas tree an Saturday night with a good turn ut of many of the people in the surorunding country and a good programme of dialogues, drills, solos, recitations and choruses was enjoyed by all, after which Old Santa appeared on the scene and took the present from the well loaded tree, distributing them among the girls and boys. They were all overjoyed to see aSnta again as this was about his first appearance in this section this year.

The Union Sunday School is holding a Christmas tree on Tuesday eevning and the Anglican Sunday school one on Wednesday evening, so the children can look forward to seeing St. Nick again very soon.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 24.—Parents and friends filled to capacity the large class room which was used as a concert hall on Monday evening for the entertainment given by the pupils of the public school, all three rooms uniting in providing the excellent programme for the event.

Festoons of red and green, big Christmas bells, cut-outs of Santa Claus, and an abundance of evergreens were used in decoration suitable for the Yuletide season, and gave to the rooms a most attractive appearance.

The three teachers, Miss I. Handley, principal; Mr. B. B. Dawson, and Miss B. Montgomery, had evidently worked hard in training their pupils and the creditable manner in which the various numbers were carried out, even by the tiny tots, reflected favorably on the time, labor, and patience involved.

Mr. J. A. Vance, who has been for five years a member of the school board, capably filled the office of chairman, expressing his personal pleasure in having been asked to occupy the position, and his appreciation of the honor conferred. The items on the programme were:

Opening chorus by all the Pupils, "Shout, Boy, Shout, a Hearty Welcome."
Recitation — "A Christmas Welcome,' by Ethel Rowland.
Motion Song—"If I Were a Mamma," by 20 Boys and Girls of the Primary Room.

Chorus—"We'll Now Have to Say Good-Bye," by the School.

The arrival of Santa Claus (Rev. F. H. Howard) was the signal for a demonstration by the children, the teachers assisting the "jolly old gentleman in red' to distribute the gifts from the gaily-decorated tree, which occupied one corner of the library. Every pupil was remembered—bags of candies and nuts being the teachers personal gift to each one.

Councillor P. Stinson, on behalf of the parents, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the three teachers who had so painstakingly trained the pupils; L. W. Smith, chairman of the school board, seconding the motion. Miss Handley and Mr. B. B. Dawson made suitable reply, and the gathering closed with the National Anthem. Miss Montgomery was the accompanist of the evening.

Outside these issues trading was extremely light and the trend was mixed.

The exchange adjourns this evening until Monday next.

Argentina Reports Maintain High Level Of Wheat Market

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—With reports at hand telling of disappointing yields in Argentina, especially Pampas Province, the wheat market here took an early swing upward today. Prices at first were irregular and unsettled owing largely to profit taking sales, but good commission house buying developed and offerings grew scarce. Besides, talk of rust damage in Southern Argentina became current. The opening, 1-8c lower to 1 1-2c higher, new style, December 172 1-2, and May 171 to 171 1-2, was followed by a moderate general setback and then by a rise to 177 for December and 172 7-8 for May. Corn and oats were easy, influenced a good deal by an official announcement that the big crop for 1925 in the corn belt is the smallest since 1920. After opening 1-8 to 1 3-8 cent lower, May 83 3-4 to 84c, corn prices rallied to about yesterday's finish and then sagged again.

Oats started at 1-4c off to 1-8 to 1-4c up, May 45 to 45 1-8, and held near to initial figures. In line with hog values, the provision market advanced.

FACTS ABOUT THE COLLEGIATE QUESTION

Information Supplied By Authority of the Chairman, Board of Education.

Why is an extension to the Collegiate Institute necessary?

First:—230 pupils, one-third of the Collegiate enrollment, are housed in the South Central School, a building discarded years ago when the Prince of Wales school was built, as unfit for use.

These pupils are separated from the remaining two thirds in all social, literary and athletic activities of the Collegiate. The girls receive no training in domestic science and the boys no manual training.

There are five furnaces in this school using 90 tons of anthracite each season, yet there is no heat in the corridors; electric heaters are necessary in the lavatories to keep running water from freezing and the accommodation for the girls is particularly disgraceful.

The entire lack of ventilation in the building and the imperfect lighting and the overcrowding of the rooms are three very serious defects.

No other school building in this City is in such a deplorable condition. Every public school is bright, sanitary, properly ventilated and heated and no overcrowding.

Have we the right to subject the Collegiate pupils in the South Central School to the conditions that exist there, when we are treating the public school pupils fairly?

The Board of Education has selected a tender, one of a large number, submitted by the most reputable firms in Canada, agreeing to build the new extension and repair and alter the present Collegiate for $386,000. This covers electric fixtures, window shades, screens, etc., etc. The Government grant on the new building (figures supplied by Mr. Gasier, of the Department of Education, Toronto) is $131,000, making the cost of the new school net to the city $229,000, alterations to old building $26,000—a total cost to the city of $255,000. A contract is signed by the Department of Education, guaranteeing the grant till debentures run off. The cheque for the Department's share (about one-third) goes with the city cheque each year.

Only $255,000 will be raised on the city assessment, giving a rate of 4-5 mills.

The Board of Education do not think it fair to put a by-law which concerns the education and health of all the children in the city to a vote of 38 per cent. of the taxpayers. It is perfectly clear that the 62 per cent. who could not vote on this by-law are yet paying taxes in their rates, and are vitally concerned in this matter for the sake of their children.

TROTZKY WAS ONCE AN EXTRA IN MOVIES

Promised to Get Anarchists That Were Anarchists—Bewhiskered Troupe.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 24 (Associated Press).—If things go bad for Leon Trotzky in Russia, he always can come back to the movies.

His work as an extra in "My Official Wife" and "The Battle Cry of Peace" has not been forgotten by the director who hired him, even though most film fans are unaware that he ever was an actor.

It was in placid pre-war days, of course, that the man who later became lord of the soviets made his motion picture debut.

In "My Official Wife," a Vitagraph feature filmed in New York, the script called for a scene showing a group of anarchists plotting fearful deeds in a cellar. The director asked a Russian employe of the studio to round up a few of his fellow countrymen who could be made to "look like anarchists."

He came back with a bewiskered and earnest group, of whom one of the mildest and least bewiskered called himself Leber Bronstein. This mild man was a real estate operator in a small way in the Bronx. He also wrote for certain foreign language newspapers, but his earnings, all told, were modest, and he was glad to get the $5 a day as a movie extra.

The "anarchists" plotted realistically, and so when the director needed some more Russian atmosphere for "The Battle Cry of Peace," a film released in 1915, the payroll of extras again included the name of Bronstein from the Bronx.

This was the last Bronstein's director saw of him, but he read plenty later. He has not yet recovered from his surprise at the sudden rise of Leber Bronstein to the Leon Trotzky of world fame.

"He was a good extra, as extras go," the film man commented, "and if he came back we could use him."

The death of Queen Alexandra recalls the fact that royal wills are never made public in Great Britain. They are kept in a special room at Somerset House, and not even the officials see them.

TRENTON MAY GET PAPER INDUSTRY

Reports Indicate Construction Will Commence Soon After New Year.

COBOURG, Dec. 24. — Industrial conditions in the lakefront district appear to be looking up considerably. The necessary arrangements are stated to have been executed, whereby a large paper manufacturing company of Sandusky, Ohio, will erect a $150,000 plant in the town of Trenton. The new industry is to be located on a portion of the old British chemical plant, and construction is expected to begin as soon after January 1 as weather permits. The town of Trenton is asked to give a fixed assessment of $32,500 for a period of ten years. A by-law as to this assessment is to be voted upon at the coming municipal election in January. The plant is expected to employ about one hundred men at the start, it is stated.

There will be skating to-night, Christmas afternoon and evening, with band in attendance, giving special programmes.

ARMISTICE WITH DRUSES SIGNED

Report From Cairo Says Peaceful Settlement Has Been Made.

NO CONFIRMATION.

LONDON, Dec. 24. — (United Press.)—The Cairo correspondent of the exchange telegraph cabled to-day, without confirmation from other sources, that the French Syrian commissioner, Henry De Jouvenall, had signed an armistice with the Druse tribesmen following which all political prisoners were liberated.

The French foreign office claimed to be unable to confirm or deny the report.

De Jouvenall has been seeking in the last few days to arrange a peaceful settlement with the Druse tribesmen.

Cabling from Damascus on Wednesday, Reuter's special correspondent in Syria said the French were endeavoring to speed up their peace negotiations with the Druses.

They were moved by disquieting rumors regarding the situation on the northern frontier where Turkish bands are reported to be massing.

The Turks, it is said, have even occupied some of the French posts.

The French peace delegation which conferred with the leaders of the Druse tribesmen, had returned to Damascus, the correspondent said.

They regarded the prospects of peace as hopeful but declined to make any statement before interviewing the High Commission De Jouvenal.

HOME ENTERTAINMENT.

Protestant Home Annual Treat Was Most Successful.

The annual Christmas entertainment was held at the Protestant Home yesterday for the old people of the house, and was attended by members of the Board and representatives of the different churches. The affair was one of the most successful of the many annual treats at the Home and was much enjoyed by the residents of the house, all of whom received gifts from a prettily decorated tree, supplemented by remembrances from friends outside. Rev. J. D. Paterson, who is very popular at the Home, conducted the devotional exercises, and also gave an address; Mrs. J. Foster sang, with accompaniment by Mrs. W. A. Logan, and Mrs. P. Hooper gave several violin numbers.

The Misses Ruth Thorndyke, Alice and Margaret Armstrong were highly commended for the kindly spirit which prompted them to arrange a sale on Saturday in aid of the Santa Claus fund, sending the proceeds to Toronto to help in providing good cheer for needy children at Christmas. The sale was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Armstrong and was well attended, considering the short time of advertising. Home-made baking, candy, a table of fancy work, a fishpond, with afternoon tea, were the attractions offered, while a substantial hot supper at 6 p.m. was well patronized. The total proceeds were nearly $30.00.

Spouses and Sweethearts Of Chicago Crime Artists May Cry When They Spy Santa's Scanty Sack of Spoils

CHICAGO, Ills., Dec. 24 (United Press)—The members of Chicago's crime colony did their Christmas shopping with guns last night, but a check up today by the police indicated that the wives and sweethearts of the bandits were not going to find their stockings overloaded.

More than fifty robberies and holdups were reported from dusk today to daylight but the total loot did not exceed $5,000. Several stores yielded as much as $200 in cash, but most of the victims were pedestrians, who were able to provide the holdup men with little more than pocket money.

Police headquarters announced that the number of robberies broke all Christmas records, but the amount of the loot was "under normal."

CITY'S UNFORTUNATE CITIZENS REMEMBERED AT CHRISTMAS

Better Supplied People Provide Gifts For Needy Brothers.

CHURCHES TAKE LEAD.

Many Fraternal and Charitable Organizations Help in the Work.

This year appears to be one of those fortunate seasons when the needy families of the city are being well looked after at Christmas time. Charity always has a wide scope in Peterboro, but in years past, there seemed to be a great many people who were in actual want. Although the city has its quota of such need this year, there are apparently enough kind-heated folk to look after every case that is brought to their attention. Some of the clergymen report that they have more individuals seeking to dispense charity than there are people needing it, which speaks well for the spirit of Yuletide abroad at this season.

The majority of the churches have a year-round, general charitable organization or organizations that look after needy folk without any let-up, and Christmas time finds their work not extraordinarily heavy. In fact, all the churches may be said to follow this system. Several of them this year, including Knox Church, the Park Street Baptist Church and St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, had a special service called "White Gifts for the King," to which those attending brought Christmas gifts for needy families, to be packed in baskets and distributed where required. Knox Church had a total of about 30 baskets for distribution this year, and St. Paul's between 40 and 50, while Park Street Church had a large number that contained fowl and meat, vegetables and all the staples for a real good Christmas dinner.

Murray Street Baptist Church distributed food and gifts to about seventy-five families, with fifty or sixty Christmas cheer gifts to invalids and shut-ins, and messages to the bereaved, and St. Andrew's Church, through its various church societies, looked after all the needy families it could reach.

Through their Ladies' Aid Societies and other church organizations, the congregations of Trinity, George street and Mark street churches confer Christmas gifts on those of its members who are not rich in the world's goods and St. James' Church has a special Communion Relief Fund for this purpose.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew takes charge of distribution of Christmas baskets and gifts at St. John's Church, the Women's Guild of St. Luke's functions in this way in Ashburnham, and at All Saints' Church, the regular giving for relief is supplemented at Christmas time by a collection of toys made by the Young People's League, who distributed one hundred and twenty-five toys to poor families this year, the idea being to provide the family with good food for the holiday, and clothing, if necessary, and also to allow the parents to play Santa Claus by giving them the toys and gifts for the occasion.

The three Roman Catholic churches of the city have various ways of discovering need in their midst and societies function all the time for their relief. The St. Vincent de Paul is a modest organization that works unceasingly in charitable ways, supplemented by the Catholic Women's League and Christian Mothers' Confraternity at the Cathedral, St. Anthony's Sewing Circle at the Church of the Sacred Heart, and the Immaculate Conception Sewing Circle in East City.

Bethany Tabernacle, through the charitable-minded folk of its congregation, distributes Christmas cheer wherever needed; and the Girls' Mission Circle of Gospel Hall also dispenses food and clothing. The Salvation Army stands always for charitable work of a very broad order, reaching out to every section of the city with a helping hand to the down-and-outers.

Outside of these strictly church affiliations, there are the many societies who function to a charitable end, the G.W.V.A., with its countless calls at Christmas time from families of members, the Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A., visiting the sick and shut ins and taking comfort and gifts to those who come within the scope of their care, the King's Daughters, looking after many in need, and the Big Sisterhood, a society that does a great deal of excellent work in this direction and has a regular round of endeavor from year's end to year's end. The four chapters of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire include charitable donations in their annual list of Christmas giving, and the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs also dispense a great deal of charity in a quiet, effective way.

All of this work, with much that space forbids allusion to, goes on all the time in Peterboro, with an extra impetus at Christmas time, and is outside entirely the official charity of the city, as organized in the work of Relief Officer Miller.

As for individuals who engage in charitable endeavors at this season, their name is legion, and there are the societies like the Oddfellows and the Caledonian Club and the Knights of Columbus who stage big entertainments for children at Christmas time and entertain those who might otherwise not have a very merry holiday. To these and other societies the little things at the Shelter and the Orphanage owe much of their Yuletide cheer.

Even the sportsmen of the city enter into the Christmas spirit. At least two needy homes in Peterboro will have a merry Christmas as the result of the winning team of the lawn bowlers' five-pin league donating their prize money for this worthy purpose.

McKenzie, whose home in his boyhood days was about two miles south-east of here, and who was a successful public school teacher, but who has been living in Portage La Prairie for the past 40 years was brought to Warkworth on Monday and interred in the cemetery there. A short service was conducted at the home of his niece, Mrs. Thomas A. Allan by Rev. W. W. Jones, pastor of the United Church, after which the members of Percy Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 161 held a short service at the home and concluded their services at the grave side.

Studying the dance scenes in motion-pictures is frequently the only teacher available in London's poorer sections, yet the standard of dancing in these neighborhoods is said to be remarkably high.

Baptist Church Board Effects Purchase of Eddystone Christian Edifice.

COBOURG, Dec 23—The Baptist Church Edifice Board of Ontario has purchased the Eddystone Christian Church. For some time past now, Rev. L. H. TELEGRAPHIC VOTE ON DEFENCE AREA

Now Reads 40 Feet From Goal Line, Not End of Rink.

TORONTO, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, by a telegraphic vote of the Rules Commission, has decided to make the defence area rules read "40 feet from the goal line" instead of "40 feet from the end of the rink." This will give the defence players plenty of room to move about without transgressing the body checking rule.

Some of the Western provinces suggested allowing kicking the puck by the attacking team up to the 40-foot line, but there will be no change in the rule.

M. E. K.—What success you have obtained has come through hard work you have not had many "soft" places on the road. You have great personal ability and considerable charm that have helped you through. You are highly developed, with abundant power to meet the varying circumstances of daily life. Your sympathy and appreciation of others has won you many friends. You love strongly, and find it hard to see any fault in those on whom you lavish your affection. You have integrity, virtue, and permanency, and will sacrifice much for your family. Give rein to the pleasure you find in music and art—take time to be happy—think more of yourself and your health. Grasp every opportunity to make life easier for yourself and take your proper place in society. You have excellent talent for planning, and with developed sense of configuration would excel in dressmaking. You were born on a Friday. Your colors are red and brown.

K. E. M.—You are too young yet to have developed permanent traits or outstanding characteristics in any line. At 14 you are still in the formative period, with mentality plastic and easily molded to whatever you wish. Your mental powers are keen and well organized, and you will excel in financial affairs. If possible you should concentrate on mathematics and make the science your own. Read good books—biographies are best—and from them endeavour to form an idea of your particular calling. Avoid loose companions and decide, whatever comes in life, to play the game. Consult others before embarking on important enterprises. You are not intended to play lone wolf. You were born on a Thursday. Your colors are steel and brick.

Andy.—You are youthful for your age, full of the joy of living, and inclined to look on the bright side of things. You have social and personal attraction, but lack personal ambition. Are content to work along day by day hoping for something to turn up, when you should be knocking at opportunity's door. You have excellent perception of numbers; can multiply, divide, and reckon figures quickly, and could excel in mental arithmetic, but are not advanced in the science of mathematics. You appreciate detail, like to see things tidy, yet do not always keep things in order. With your superior mentality you should go high in business, but must assert yourself and cultivate initiative and set an aim. You are amiable and friendly, and soon forget an injury done you. At your age you should begin to take life more seriously. You have ability and mentality, and only require incentive. The day you name is a good one on which to enter new social relationships or for a holiday, but not for business change. Your color is pink. You were born on a Monday.

G. H. E.—You possess excellent perception of colors, and taste and talent for arranging and blending colors, and reproducing tints that you see, but have not developed the ability to its full extent. You have a high degree of artistic ability, and could, with application, achieve success in painting. You like soft tones and harmonies, and admire the tranquil in nature rather than the storm. You are affectionate and kindly disposed but must not endeavour to control the affairs of others. Broaden your vocabulary, be interesting. You have much charm, but need to cultivate depth. Your artistic temperament may lead you to be fickle and changeable, and against this you must guard. You will succeed better as an artist than in business, and should order your preparations accordingly. The day you name is one for real personal freedom. Do not be hampered by people or surroundings. Be individual in thought and action. Your colors, if THIS date is correct, are blue and cream. Cultivate accuracy in detail. You were born on a Monday

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young fellow of twenty-one and am coming to you for some advice. I am in love with a girl of eighteen but I don't believe she cares for me or rather I don't know. I have been out with her quite a bit and as she is a good piano player and isn't one of the kind that's always "slamming" a fellow, she's very popular. Since she came to this town I have known her, but, as she had other boy friends I had to take my place in line and she had no particular favourite. But now comes the sad part. This summer at a gardeh party here in town she met a young fellow. She stepped out with him for about two month's, then broke up. I don't know why but she never alludes to him now, but while she went with him she wouldn't go out with me or any of her other boy friends. Since they broke up, she has gone out with me but none of the rest of the boys, but I think that all the time she is thinking of him for, sometimes when she is sitting quiet or maybe laughing, I see a far-away look in her eyes and I know she is thinking of him. Do you think she will ever forget him? She treats me like a brother, nothing more. Yet, Annie Laurie, I love her and can't leave her go. Perhaps she will meet him sometime and they will make up again—if they have quarrelled, and then "what'll I do." I can't offer her my love now because I'm sure she loves him. My sister chums around with her quite a lot and told me how my friend had stuck up for this other guy when the other girls said something about him. It makes my blood boil, but what can I do.

So, Annie Laurie, please tell a distracted member of the eternal triangle what to do.

"ACE HIGH."

ACE HIGH.—As you are twenty-one and she is only eighteen years of age, do you think really that either of you can judge much about real love? Of course, yours may be a case of the grande passion, but then again, it may only be one of many cases of youthful love that fritter out to a rather pleasant memory. And if she is thinking of someone else all the time, you will have to take second place, won't you? You can do either one of two things; give her up altogether or simply keep on loving her and paying attention to her and hoping that you will make her love you some day. Someone has said that everyone has to choose at some time between loving or being loved. Personally, I think you are wasting your time. This feeling that a certain one is the only person in the world for you might be perfectly reasonable if it came ten years later in your life. At twenty-one, you can't possibly know just what you want. Of course, I know you will resent this assertion and assure your own ego that you can never change, etc., etc. But you may come to the knowledge some day that love, the real, true sort of love, is worthy of something more than a half-hearted reception from one who is yearning for someone else. You would do better to look for a girl who can value what you give her at its real worth, even if you yourself do not feel exactly the same toward her as you do to this girl, than to continue wearing your heart out over one who is mooning about another man, and that man probably one who estimated her affections at their real value, and knew that the way to make her care for him was to leave her. This is a rather roundabout argument, perhaps, but it really means that a person who doesn't value real affection is not worthy of real affection and shouldn't have it forced upon them. The clay feet of many a human idol are often hidden from the eyes of the idolizer.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 25.

According to the sidereal operations of this day the customary cheer and good-will of Yuletide will bless the earth, with little interference from celestial activities. There is but a single weak lunar aspect, an augury of routine celebrations and festivities. This solitary angle urges care in travel and deliberation in the matter of change.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a rather routine year, with affairs progressing in customary grooves. It is suggested that care be taken in traveling and that change be made only after proper deliberation. A child born on this day may be expected to have a fairly even career, with little change or excitement, unless born late in the evening.

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

The season of Winter social activities is one in which smart women must pay the minutest care to their grooming.

In the first place, the duties of the woman who does a great deal of going and of entertaining are quite strenuous and unless she regards every small beauty point, she may find that this demanding life is telling upon her good looks.

Therefore, it behooves her to let no small opportunity for beauty go by. She must watch her complexion, and she must see that her neck and shoulders and arms are in their best beauty trim, for the decollete gowns of the present beauty defects of these parts.

If the shoulders are smooth and white and are held easily erect, their owner should not need to worry about their beauty appearance.

If she is well versed in the art of dressing to her type she will know that broad shoulders are slenderized by the wearing of a V-necked gown, and that she should not wear a gown with boat neck unless she wants to risk calling attention to the width of her boulsder. There are any number of small tricks of this kind which can improve the beauty appearance of the shoulders.

Now, the beauty appearance of the arms offers more of a problem. When a sleeveless gown is worn for evening there is no possible way to gloss over defects of shape by clever sleeves. However, the owner can make her arms as pleasing as she knows how, and there are several small beauty aids which may help her.

There's the question of [illegible] Do you take care that your [illegible] are soft and white and [illegible] clean?

RIP VAN WINKLE—IX

(WASHINGTON IRVING)

by W. J. ENRIGHT

THE STORY UP TO NOW

IN A VILLAGE AT THE FOOT OF THE KATSKILL MOUNTAINS THERE LIVED RIP VAN WINKLE. HE WAS A GREAT FAVORITE WITH EVERYONE BUT HIS WIFE, WHO SCOLDED HIM BECAUSE HE WOULD DO NO WORK. ONE DAY AFTER HUNTING IN THE MOUNTAINS HE STARTED HOME AT DUSK. HE MET A STRANGE LITTLE MAN CARRYING A KEG, AND HELPED HIM. FINALLY THEY CAME TO A HOLLOW IN THE WOODS, WHERE THEY FOUND MANY LITTLE MEN PLAYING AT NINE PINS. THEY SILENTLY MOTIONED RIP TO SERVE THEM WITH THE LIQUOR IN THE KEG, AND HE TASTED IT HIMSELF.

RIP WAS NATURALLY A THIRSTY SOUL AND WAS SOON TEMPTED AGAIN TO TRY THE CONTENTS OF THE KEG.

ONE TASTE PROMPTED ANOTHER AND HE REPEATED HIS VISITS TO THE KEG SO OFTEN THAT AT LENGTH A GREAT DROWSINESS OVERPOWERED HIM AND HE FELL INTO A DEEP SLEEP.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

ON WAKING HE FOUND HIMSELF ON THE GREEN KNOLL FROM WHICH HE HAD FIRST SEEN THE OLD MAN OF THE GLEN. HE RUBBED HIS EYES. IT WAS A BRIGHT, SUNNY MORNING. "SURELY," THOUGHT RIP, "I HAVE NOT SLEPT HERE ALL NIGHT."

HE LOOKED ROUND FOR HIS GUN BUT FOUND IN ITS PLACE AN OLD FIRELOCK LYING BY HIM. THE BARREL RUSTED, THE LOCK FALLEN OFF AND THE STOCK WORM-EATEN. HE SUSPECTED THAT THE LITTLE MEN HAD PLAYED A TRICK ON HIM AND ROBBED HIM OF HIS GUN.

THE [illegible]QUIRY.

Wage Scale Disad[illegible]ge.

[illegible], Dec. 24 (Cana[illegible]position of Cus[illegible]racite screenings, [illegible]awback on foreign [illegible]teel manufacture and [illegible]n coal used for bunk[illegible]long a list of suggested [illegible] the fiscal system pro[illegible]Roy M. Wolvin, president British Empire Steel Cor[illegible]n, [illegible]hen making his final ap[illegible]ce Wednesday before the [illegible]mission investigating the [illegible] in Nova Scotia. Mr. [illegible]d a national effort to [illegible] independent of the [illegible]s in the matter of fuel [illegible]d that if that object was [illegible]anada would be indepen[illegible]e United States in practi[illegible]y other respect. A coke [illegible]e for anthracite, he believ[illegible]d achieve this end, and al[illegible]it would take years, the [illegible]would bear fruit in constantly [illegible]sing progress. It would need [illegible]ament assistance.

Wolvin declared a return to [illegible]917 rate of wages to the coal [illegible]s was necessary if the industry [illegible]to proceed, and believed the [illegible]would find themselves just [illegible]well off at those rates as they [illegible]ere in 1917, or better. The witness [illegible]was subjected to a lengthy cross-examination by John W. McLeod, president of the United Mine Work[illegible]ers of America, an organization which Mr. Wolvin declared caused a great deal of the trouble in the Nova Scotia coal industry.

Hearing Nears End.

It was announced by the chairman of the Commission, Sir Andrew Rae [illegible]rgan, that Mr. McLeod would be [illegible]ed to give additional direct evi[illegible]rebuttal and that follow[illegible]d evidence, the public [illegible]uld be ended with the [illegible]ossible calling of wit[illegible]ect to the application [illegible] by citizens of Hali[illegible] the prices of Nova [illegible]ocal consumers. The [illegible]he British Empire [illegible]n and the United [illegible]f America were ad[illegible]would not be called [illegible]night.

[illegible] said that the success [illegible]coal industry demanded a [illegible]se of royalties on coal shipped [illegible]tside of Canada and Newfound[illegible]d during the winter months, be[illegible]se of the cost of marketing coal [illegible]ring that period in foreign coun[illegible]es, the only large market offer[illegible]g. Referring to the Dominion [illegible]vestigation on rates, he believed it [illegible]uld be extended to a period of [illegible]ars and widened to include [illegible]transportation. The success [illegible]industry relied upon produc[illegible]lume, and some means must [illegible]d whereby coal could be [illegible]n quantity with profit dur[illegible]winter months. With a pro[illegible]ge scale and a little help from [illegible]ovince this could be done, he [illegible]aid.

Says Besco Sound.

Regarding the stock of the com[illegible]y, as compared with the value [illegible]its holdings, Mr. Wolvin read a [illegible]r from the Canadian Appraisal [illegible]any, stating that an appraisal [illegible]had placed a value of some [illegible]00 on the holdings. This [illegible]the witness declared, justi[illegible]d issue of three times that [illegible]ock. He considered the Corporation sound, with a good organization, able officials and a fine lot of men as employees.

Cross-examining the witness, Mr. McLeod asked if the proposed reduction in wages was 40 per cent.

"No," replied Mr. Wolvin, "22 per cent."

"How can you change 40 per cent. to 22 per cent.?"

"I'm not changing it. You are. You always base your figures on the minimum rate, not the average."

"How would you expect the men to get along now on the 1917 rates?" asked Mr. McLeod.

Mr. McLeod said this statement was not borne out by the estimate of the Labor Gazette of the average cost of living per family per week. Mr. Wolvin said the cost of living figures had been placed in evidence before the Commission and he would not accept the Labor Gazette's figures unless they agreed with those in the evidence.

Mr. McLeod elicited the fact that the Corporation was a member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and that it did business with the banks, borrowing money on good collateral. Referring to Mr. Wolvin's previous mention of agitators, Mr. McLeod asked him to name some of them. The witness named several who had entered Nova Scotia or tried to, and added that there were several domestic agitators.

"How did you know of their activities?" asked Mr. McLeod.

"It's my business to know and, besides, I read the Labor Herald," replied Mr. Wolvin.

Bonuses to Officials.

Referring to the recent activities in Cape Breton, Mr. McLeod asked if any of the officials were paid large bonuses.

"Some of them may have—those who helped to save the company's property," he replied.

"Did Morris Murphy receive a bonus?"

"He may have. I hope he did."

"Did he receive $600?" pursued Mr. McLeod.

"If we were able to pay it he should have received twice as much."

"Do you know we offered to maintain the mines during the last strike?" asked Mr. McLeod.

"Do you think, after we had built up and organized a maintenance crew, we would have let you go back in the mines so you could call the men out again?" Mr. Wolvin countered.

"You haven't answered my question."

"I have no knowledge of any offer of maintenance men. Did you make the offer to any person?"

Mr. McLeod went on to another subject. "Do you not consider your self responsible for the so-called 'Communism' in Nova Scotia?" he asked.

"I've only heard that from you—nobody else," replied Mr. Wolvin. Regarding United States coal mines in which rates of wages have not been cut for several years, Mr. Wolvin said that they were rapidly going out of business, the same as we will do in a few years."

Questioned by Mr. McLeod, the witness admitted that the miners had offered to negotiate a contract in May, 1922, but that after it had been negotiated at Montreal, McLachlan, then leader of the miners, had gone out against it, and it was voted down.

Federal Charter.

Incorporation of the merger was discussed by cross-examination and Mr. Wolvin said that application was first made to the Federal Government because of additional prestige a Dominion charter would give, but that it was later considered that the whole future of the Corporation was bound up in Nova Scotia and accordingly the charter was obtained here. There was no other reasons, he said.

Asked regarding the disposal of war-time surpluses in the companies, Mr. Wolvin said they had gone mostly to pay wages that the sale of the product had not covered.

Coming to the subject of the steel plant in Sydney, Mr. McLeod asked the witness if he was aware Mr. McLurg, vice-president, had told him that he had been instructed three times within a year to reduce wages in the steel plant.

"He disobeyed instructions if he received such," Mr. Wolvin replied.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

To get the exact idea of the correct pivot, which means turning the body to the right above the waist, the golfer should repeat this action several times: Start the clubhead back from the ball, then, diregarding the clubhead from there on, shove the left shoulder directly around until it points to the ball. Observe, as you do this, the exact unison of club, arms and body—and shoulders. Observe how free the shoulders are, and how the club left to itself, has gone to its natural place. Now, when you hit forward you naturally unwind these shoulders, and as you do so the club will travel with them. The power of your swing is in your shoulders. The thing you add to this is wrist—or hand—power just as the clubhead nears the ball. The trick is to keep everything together. What good does it do to throw the clubhead with the wrists, at the ball if the swinging power of the shoulders has passed along ahead of the hands? They must work together.

EXONERATE BOXERS.

Tinney and Madden Cleared of Stalling.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday denied permission to Louis ('Kid') Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., world's feather-weight champion, to engage in bouts with boxers of heavier divisions, and exonerated Gene Tunney and Bartley Madden in connection with a complaint which attached suspicion to their heavyweight fight several months ago in St. Paul.

In refusing Kaplan's request, the board adhered strictly to its policy of requiring champions to confine their activities to their own classes, except where they engage in bouts with other title-holders. Kaplan contended, through his New York representative, Scotty Monteith, that a dearth of 126-pound challengers would compel him to remain inactive in this state during the indoor season.

Tunney and Madden were cleared, the Commission announced, because the charge that Madden had not given his best efforts in the bout was unsupported by sufficient evidence.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

ADMIRES STAND.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: I am glad to see that the Ministerial Association has taken the people's morals in hand. The public needs a nurse, and the Protestant Ministerial Association fills the bill.

ADMIRER.

THE 'BUS LINES.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I understand that one of the new motor 'buses to be operated by the Street Railway has arrived in the city, and from that fact the Hydro-Electric Commission's projected change of public vehicles has evidently passed beyond the doubtful stage. Whatever action the Commission takes will not discommode me, but it may ultimately affect the merchants more than their present silence seems to anticipate.

If my memory serves me correctly, the seven cent fare was put into effect on the understanding, if not promise, that extensions would be made in the south end of the city. In other words, we had visions of more accommodation, more reaching out for business, in that section which was manifestly growing most rapidly. And now it is planned to curtail, instead of extend, the transportation service in that section of the city. The C.G.E. cars now running to the corner of Romaine Street and Monaghan Road are to be replaced by a 'bus line to the corner of Monaghan Road and Chamberlain Street, a service which I believe will not do the business of the red line street cars. I hope my doubts will not be realized. Instead of going further south to the Edison Avenue and Orpington Road districts, the Street Railway management are offering a diminished service over a shorter route. Perhaps there may be compensations from other parts of the city to satisfy the Street Railway executive, but the south-west end of the city has always provided many and good customers for the uptown stores.

The merchants, by their silence, appear to be content no matter what happens, but they should remember that there are general stores in the south end that will welcome any decline in the transportation facilities past their doors; and these stores handle groceries, hardware, flour and feed, dry goods, fruit and other staples.

I believe the merchants (uptown) should be anxious to retain every dollar of business they now have coming to them. Not only is there keen and capable competition in the suburbs, but the Post Office tells another story, and a most regrettable one. The piles of goods that have come into Peterboro during the last two weeks, which should have been bought here, is really saddening. I have no connection with the Post Office, but I have seen too much of its recent distributions. On one trip there were 330 parcels, and at least 300 of them should have been bought in Peterboro. And that was just one distribution. Seemingly these conditions worry me more than they do the merchants, for they are eloquently dumb and inactive on problems that should be of more concern to them than to a loyal customer.

HAROLD MONAHAN.

IN HIS FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Mr. Gordon Matthews is reported by The Examiner as saying in his nomination address as a candidate for the Utilities Commission, that he desires "to follow" in his father's footsteps. Naturally I am anxious he stand for a while longer in "his father's shadow," or at least until such time as he has qualified by some municipal service for the office which he seeks.

Mr. Gordon Mattthews' father held for 18 years the dual position of Chairman of the Water Commission or Utilities Commission and Manager for a packing industry. It is stated that when the privately-owned water system of the city was taken over in 1902 and handed to the Water Commission to operate, and his father was made chairman, the packing company carried into the Commission, through his father, a contract for a water service at $400.00 per year, or $33.33 per month.

After 18 years' service, Mr. Matthews, Sr., retired from the Commission, and about the middle of the following year I was honored by the appointment of Chairman of the Utilities Commission. Faced with the building of the filtration plant the Commission of the next year, 1921, made a careful survey of the system, and we decided in view of the daily pumping, there was a water waste, and as a result meters were ordered and one was installed at the Packing Company's plant.

During my six years on the Commission with Mr. Matthews, Sr., this old contract never was brought before the Commission for adjustment or for any other purpose. The late Mr. Moore and myself fully trusted the chairman to do justice between the Commission and the Packing Company, he being chairman of one and Manager of the other.

The revenue from the service after being metered in 1921 at the Packing Company's plant for the first three months averaged $766.00 per month, or at the rate of over $9,000.00 per year, when it had previously been less than $35.00 per month or $400.00 per year.

Sites for a filtration plant and a sub-station were purchased in the year 1916, while Mr. Matthews, Sr., was chairman, yet no work or improvements was done until after his withdrawal at the end of 1919.

I had the honor to be chairman of the Commission during the years of construction in 1921 of the filtration plant, and in 1923 of the sub-station. These buildings and the cost stand as records of the untiring service of the Commission of these years. Now the strenuous years of labor have passed, Mr. Matthews, Sr., in effect, says:

"Here is MY son, make him a PRINCE in your land."

HALF OF STAFF IS LEAVING LEASIDE

C.N.R. Locomotive Shops Are Being Transferred—To Make Cars.

TORONTO, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—A local report says: "As the result of a conference that was held on Saturday last, the locomotive shop at Leadside of the Canadian National Railways is to be discontinued after January and the workmen, numbering about 270, will be transferred to either Stratford or Montreal, where there are locomotive shops.

"The present staff at Leaside repair shops includes about 550 men of all trades and in the office staff. The great majority of the staff and workmen, many of whom are machinists, live in Toronto and go to their work daily on a train provided by the railway. The monthly payroll of the repair shop aggregates $55,000 to $60,000."

When the locomotive repair shop has been dismantled and removed, the intention is to begin the construction of gondola freight cars at Leaside.

At the CAPITOL—To-night and To-morrow.

AT THE CAPITOL

CALL NEW GRIFFTH FILM SCREEN CLASSIC

"Sally of the Sawdust" Ranked With Famous Director's Greatest Picture Productions.

A picture that will make a hundred million people laugh and sigh is the order D. W. Griffith gave himself when he produced "Sally of the Sawdust," his new classic of comedy which is being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

So perfectly did he fill the order that already this United Artists Corporation release is recognized by critics and competent experts as one of the great screen achievements ranking in entertainment power with his historic "Birth of a Nation" and "Way Down East."

Laughter rules it throughout, ranging from smiling drolleries to the heartiest outbursts of ringing mirth.

And running amid the higher peaks of gaiety is a sympathetic story of lovable humans very much beset at times with the minor problems such as lack of money, a free for all circus fight, flight to richer harvests on a blind-baggage of a railroad car and other rueful troubles.

A circus waif and her guardian, as lovable a scalawag as ever picked a necessary pocket, are the principal characters, with love abounding and adventures galore.

Carold Dempster and W. C. Fields have made the parts historic among screen portrayals. Fields is new to the screen, but with long stage training that has led him to stardom in the famous Ziegfeld "Follies." The work of Miss Dempster is beyond anything she has realized in the past, bringing her to the circle of the really great screen actress of the day.

The cast is rich in new faces and talent, including Alfred Lunt, headliner in Broadway successes; Glenn Anders, Effie Shannon, Erville Alderson and supporting company of many thousands. The resources of a circus with its menagerie and sideshows, a carnival, beautiful homes, have contributed a rich variety of scenes greater than Griffith has offered in any of his recent works.

The story is one of the most entertaining tales ever filmed, alive with joy and gaiety throughout, tinged with pathos but never for an instant heavy in its tread, and galloping to a close that is one of the happiest, most exciting and most satisfying scenes ever offered in pictures.

"Sally of the Sawdust" is one of Griffith's finest pictures, deserving to be ranked with his greatest.

AT THE REGENT

'DURAND OF THE BAD LANDS' MAKES BUCK JONES A BIT SUPERSTITIOUS.

Western Star Wishes to Know Why So Many Things Happen on Friday, the 13th.

Buck Jones, the William Fox cowboy star, whose new picture, "Durand of the Bad Lands," opens at the Regent Theatre, isn't very superstitious, but there is something on the subject he would like to know.

"When we were on location at Lone Pine makin' this Durand picture," drawled Buck, "Malcolm Waite, our heavy, did a 'Prince of Wales' from his horse and put him self out of commission for a week. That same day I got a touch of tonsilitis and had to lay off. Three men in the camera crew were put out of business by accidents and Lynn Reynolds, the director, broke a pet pipe. That was probably the worst calamity of all. But, what I'm drivin' at is, the whole business happened on Friday, the 13th. Now, I'm not superstitious — don't carry a rabbit's foot, nor throw salt over my shoulder or anything like that; but what I want to know is why the durned thing picked out Friday the 13th. That's what's eatin' me up!"

Marian Nixon, who plays the feminine lead, was the only one in the company to escape the unlucky curse. But the picture, despite all, is said to be a knockout. Others in the cast are Fred De Silva, Luke Cosgrove, George Lessley, Buck Black, Seesel Ann Johnson, James Corrigan and Carol Lombard. "Durand of the Bad Lands" is adapted from a story by Maibelle Heikes Justice. Lynn Reynolds prepared the scenario.

BURNS PROVE FATAL.

Mother and Son Brought From Burning Home Died This Morning.

PRESCOTT, December 24. — Canadian Press. — Mrs. Edward Boyle, 36, and her son, Francis, aged 2, who were carried from their burning home last night, died within half an hour of each other this morning. A second son, Hugh, aged 4, perished in the flames last night.

Both boys were asleep when Mrs. Boyle went to bed last night shortly after ten o'clock. Her husband was at Throopstown, three miles away. About ten thirty Mrs. Boyle was aroused by a sound, followed by a crash as the lamp exploded. She rushed out to call the neighbors and when she returned the house was already in flames. Rushing in to the burning house she made a supreme effort to rescue the children and when the neighbors arrived, in a few minutes, they found Mrs. Boyle lying on the floor unconscious, with little Francis clasped in her arms. The boy was also unconscious. After carrying out the two unconscious forms volunteer firemen returned and brought out the body of Hugh. He had appently suffocated as the flames had not reached the body. The mother and two children will probably be buried at Augusta. Mrs. Boyle, formerly Miss Lena O'Neill, was raised at Augusta.

U. S. War Mothers May Make Tour To Son's Graves

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(United Press.)—A pilgrimage of war mothers to the graves of their sons in France at the government's expense was proposed to-day by Representative Fish of New York.

Fish has presented to the House a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to arrange "as soon as practicable" for a visit to the cemeteries in France of mothers of more than 1,000 soldiers and sailors buried there. A similar bill was reported favorably to the House last Congress. Under the bill the President would have power to set aside government vessels to transport the mothers abroad and return."

Each mother making the tour would also receive $100.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Minnie Gettleman, who passed away December 24, 1924:

The wind is loud i. the south to-night,
But sister sleeps;
The wild wind blows with all its might,
But sister sleeps.
My sister sleeps and she does not hear
The noise of the storm in the pine-trees near,
The snow is drifting high to-night,
But sister sleeps.
The bitter world is cold and white,
But sister sleeps.
My sister sleeps, so fast, so fast,
That she does not heed the wintry blast.
The cold snows drift and the wild winds rave,
But sister sleeps;
And a little white cross stands by her grave,
While sister sleeps.
And the storm is loud in the rocking pine,
But its moan is not as deep as mine.

IN MEMORIAM.

LIPSETT.—In loving memory of a dear friend, Mary Lipsett, who died December 24, 1922.

"Mary was my only playmate,
One that I always knew,
Oft did we talk together at our gate,
For she was always loving, kind and true.
Flowers they place upon her grave
Shall wither and decay,
But my love for her who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away."

—Inserted by Helen Clancy.

IN MEMORIAM

LIPSETT—Mary Margaret Lipsett, who died December 24, 1922.
Dearest Mary, thou hast left us,
Left us for a summer clime,
Gone from earth to dwell with Jesus
In that land of rest sublime.
May the God of love and mercy help us
All to be prepared
That when death shall overtake us
We may meet dear Mary there —Remembered by a loving friend.

LONDON'S 'BIG BEN' TO RING IN THE NEW YEAR AROUND WHOLE WORLD IF RADIO EXPERIMENT SUCCEEDS

Sonoruos Chimes To Open Most Elaborate Broadcasting Programme.

CHAIN OF STATIONS.

Greeting in Many Languages. Listening Posts To Circle Globe.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (Canadian Press).—With the chimes in the Tower of Parliament in London helping to ring in America's New Year, the most extensive and elaborate international radio broadcasting program in history is being planned for the advent of the year 1926.

General James G. Harboard, president of the Radio Corporation of America, announced plans yesterday for world-wide broadcasting which in this country will have its focal point at the high - powered experimental station of the corporation at Bound Brook, N.J.

Operatic stars in New York, the Marine Band in Washington and the Symphony Orchestra in Rochester, N.Y., will be among the features of the programme which will be broadcast across the seas, re-broadcast for the British Isles and the Continent by the British Broadcasting Company and again re-broadcast in Germany, atmospheric conditions permitting. A chain of stations throughout the United States will be re broadcast the programme for Americans.

Greetings in Divers Tongues.

The programme is expected to begin with the pealing of the chimes of "Big Ben" in London, which will be picked up at Bound Brook and re-broadcast throughout this country. Preceding the United States musical programme, an official spokesman will send greetings to the listening world. His words will be repeated by linguists in French, German, Italian, Spanish, Polish, Swedish and Japanese.

The programme, according to General Harboard, is intended as a world-wide demonstration of radio communication and radio's possibilities in the international field. For the gathering of technical data as to reception conditions throughout the world, official "listening posts" will be established throughout the United States and in such points as London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Warsaw, Honolulu and Tokio.

Mother In Santa's Clothes Fatally Burned Before Son

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 26.—(Canadian Press).—While preparing to play Santa Claus for her seven year old son, Mrs. William P. Beck, 36, was fatally burned yesterday. Cotton trimmings on her home-made suit were ignited as she stood near a kitchen range heating glue with which to paste Santa Claus whiskers on her face.

Beck, hearing the commotion, thought it was the boy screaming with delight, and knew nothing of his wife's predicament until she ran into his bedroom, her clothing afire. He rushed Mrs. Beck to the hospital where she died several hours later.

Caillaux On Senate Return Offered Seat Of His Trial

PARIS, Dec. 26—'To the left' replied Joseph Caillaux, when upon his first visit to the Senate as a newly elected member, he was asked where he wanted to sit.

Upon reaching the seat to which the usher escorted him, Caillaux hesitated, looked about him as if perturbed and a rush of blood to the head reddened the Former Minister's extremely bald pate.

The Senatorial seat to which he had been shown was the identical one in which as an accused before the High Commission, he had sat for over a month during the famous trial in 1920.

It was explained that no offense had been meant but by coincidence it was the only seat that happened to be vacant "to the left."

Matrimonial squabbles should not be entered in a diary. The place to record them is a scrap-book.

ENGLISH DOCTOR FOUND FEWER MEDICAL AUTOCRATS IN AMERICA

Sir Arbuthuot Lane Says Medical Council Must Change Tactics.

RECENT VISITOR.

LONDON, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press Cable). — The well-known physician, Sir Arbuthnot Lane, writing in the Times of some of his impressions after his return from a brief visit to Canada and the United States, says that what struck him most was the very intimate relationship and close association which has sprung up between the medical profession and the "lay public" in those countries in the last few years. He contrasts this state of things, which he shows has been reached by successful opposition to the autocratic attitude taken by a section of the medical community, with what still obtains here and declares that the general medical council must change its tactics.

There are the times, Sir Arbuthnot Lane says, when the medical profession in England cannot afford to stand still and lag behind its more progressive brethren in Canada and the United States.

Cancelled "Union Cards."

It should be explained that the council recently has been the object of much criticism arising out of its striking of prominent doctors off the register for resorting to alleged advertising methods and also on account of its unsympathetic attitude in connection with the movement to restore to the register of Dr. Axham. The latter is 86 years old, and in feeble health. He was struck off the register some years ago for acting as anaesthetist to Herbert Barker, now famous manipulative surgeon.

In his letter, Sir Arbuthnot Lane outlines the policy of the new health society of which he is president and the aims of which are directed to educating the people in the knowledge and laws of health, especially regarding diet and habits.

In his address before the Academy of Medicine in Toronto recently, Sir Arbuthnot Lane told of the remarkable results he had obtained in the treatment of cancer.

Gas Takes Toll Of Family Preparing For Christams.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press). — Harvey Jordan, 50, and his wife, Catherine, 38, put their daughter Margaret, 4, to bed with a doll in her tiny arms early on Christmas Eve, and then set about trimming a Christmas tree in their basement apartment. It was to have been the "prettiest tree" Margaret ever had seen, and the happy couple labored until nearly midnight, retiring a few minutes later, they left the gas heater burning in the parlor. On Christmas morning friends called and found the apartment filled with gas. In a room not far from the Christmas tree, and little Margaret's toys, they found the three Jordan's dead.

Robert Hicks Again Denies Allegations by R. R. Hall

The Editor of the Examiner,—
Dear Sir:—

At the nomination on Wednesday last I attached my cheque for $100.00 to a letter which Mr. R. R. Hall was the author of, challenging him that the statement in this letter, regarding a claim against the Campbell Mills, is not based on facts and is misleading, (the onus of proof to be on me), Mr. Hall to put up a cheque for the same amount, the winner to donate the cheque to charity.

Mr. R. R. Hall was also invited to meet me at Victoria Hall on Tuesday Eve next to publicly debate this issue of the Campbell Milling Company and Mr. R. R. Hall has refused to accept either proposition, therefore it is not necessary to paint DUD in yellow letters on his person for identification purposes.

Mr. R. R. Hall has been working his dictophone overtime, broadcasting condemnation of the Utilities Commission and his interest in the efficient operation of City business, and I have this to say, that when Mr. R. R. Hall and the packing interests get working in unison—one broadcasting from the newspaper and the other with canvassers on the side street in the interest of the Common People, it is time for the multitiude to "Put up their umbrellas and start for home."

The twenty year old record of one is well known and I am checking up the record of the other during my Christmas holidays, and intend to publish it in instalments.

The statement of Claim as produced by Mr. R. R. Hall against the Campbell Milling Co., bears falsehood and Deception on its face, and he refuses to defend it, yet he says in effect to the Utilities Commission—discharge Mr. E. H. D. Hall and engage R. R. Hall whose Statements are untrue, but they are sufficient to enter a Law Suit that can be carried through the Courts, "Let me use your name," which interpreted means, Give me your signed cheque, and I will fill in the amount. My word? But I will work for $100.00 per day and expenses.

Since Mr. R. R. Hall has twice weakened and fallen in my arms, once begging for mercy, I can only toss in the scrap-heap of ineffectives his remains, where there is none with more unfairness and untruthfullness and where there will never be any with less courage and influence.

(signed) ROBERT HICKS.

Peterborough will have a contest in every department of civic administration. That was definitely decided at 9 oclock on Thursday night, when two qualified for Mayor; two for Utilities Commission; six for Board of Education, and ten for Aldermen. There will be, in all, twenty names on the ballot from which twelve can be elected.

And this in spite of the fact that at eight minutes before closing time there was not a candidate for the mayoralty; and up to four minutes to the hour, there was only one qualification.

Alderman J. O. Fife hovered in the background until a minute and a half before 9 o'clock struck, but finally decided not to run against Alderman Phelan and Dr. Holloway.

8.41—No mayoralty candidates. Looks as though Peterborough will get along without a mayor.
8.45—No mayoralty candidates. Eight qualified for the Aldermanic Board and six for Board of Education.
8.48—Mel. Turner, J. O. Fife, Nagle Phelan, Dr. Holloway, and W. J. Hancock talking things over.
8.52—Nagle Phelan: "Well, I'm going to do it anyway."
8.52½—Nagle Phelan signs on the dotted line.
8.53—J. O. Fife has his form in his hand. Looks at Dr. Holloway. Says: "I'll be a sport," and lays form on the table.
8.53½—Dr. Holloway: "Oh, come on. Jump in. The people will decide."
8.54½—J. O. Fife has picked up his form. Walks out with it.
8.55½—Much looking at watches. Only four and a half minutes to go. The City Clerk has his watch in his hand. Looks like acclamation for Nagle Phelan.
9.05—Dr. Holloway hands in his form. Gets it signed and sworn with three minutes to spare.
8.58—W. J. Hancock qualifies.
8.58½—Mel. Turner quaifies.
9.00—All over. Some who failed to qualify look as though they wished they had. Those who are in the contest figure their chances of winning.

Merry Christmas, everybody!

Sermon By Wilhelm Part Of Doorn Castle Celebration

DOORN, Holland, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—Gales which continued unabated yesterday did not interfere with the former German emperor's Christmas festivities. Invited guests included members of the Dutch nobility, the chief of the Dutch Gendarmes, and the staff of the former emperor's court from the highest official to the lowliest servant. One of the guests later said that William delivered his sermon with the gesture of a dramatic actor. The former war lord cut his Christmas tree with his own axe. For several days he was busy distributing gifts, each including a signed photograph, to the poor families of the village. Some of them also received consignments of wood chopped by William on his estate.

THE WEATHER.

Christmas day was bright, pleasant and moderately cold in the forenoon, turning decidedly cold toward evening. At nine o'clock it was five below zero. During the night it became much colder, and at 6.30 this morning it was down to eighteen below zero. There was no wind, however, and as they are accustomed to say in Winnipeg when it gets down to forty below, it was hardly felt. At the noon hour to-day it was five below.—W. P.

PORT HURON, Mich., Dec. 26 (Canadian Press). — Santa Claus is dead.

He died Wednesday night in the excitement attendant upon Christmas exercises at Harbor Beach in the Methodist Church. Santa Claus' real name was William Johnston.

They never knew, those hundred eager children with bright eyes and laughing lips, that they were to see Santa die before their eyes. They couldn't see behind his smiling face and flowing white beard and know that a heart, made weak by years of labor, was undergoing a great strain. And so when Johnston fell dead, they shrieked and cried.

In the crowd were Johnston's wife and three children. His body was taken to an undertaking establishment. The festivities continued.

BUSINESS STRIDES.

Trade Balance $100,000,000 More Than Year Ago Official Report.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—Business in Canada is well on the upgrade. Official statistics of trade and of revenue car loadings on Canadian railways alike indicate steady improvement. This year's wheat crop—Canada's second largest on record—has heavily swelled the total of exports, particularly within the last few months. But apart from wheat, there is evidence of increasing activity.

In exports of Canadian merchandise, the growth has been remarkable. In the twelve months ended November, exports totalled $1,220,000,000 against $1,058,000,000 in the twelve months ended November, 1924, and $860,000,000 in the twelve months ended November 1922. Imports were $874,000 000 in the twelve months ended November, 1925, against $813,000,000 in the twelve months ended November, 1924, and $753,000,000 in the corresponding period three years ago. In other words the excess of exports over imports, or favorable balance of trade, is now $346,000,000, a hundred millions more than it was a year ago, and over two hundred and thirty millions more than it was three years ago.

November Exports.

Details of these statistics are not yet available. But figures for the month of November alone show the highly important part which products of the farm and forest play in Canada's export trade. During November domestic exports totalled $119,000,000. This total included $62,000,000 worth of agricultural products; seventeen million dollars worth of animal products, and twenty-one million dollars worth of wood, wood products and paper.

Cars of revenue freight loaded on Canadian railways tell a similar story. During the week ended December 12, cars of revenue freight loaded numbered 69,449 or 14,545 more than in the corresponding week of last year. In every class of commodities there was an improvement in car loadings.

More Cars Loaded.

But loadings of grain and grain products alone, in the same periods, were 10,247 cars more. The week of December 12 was the sixth consecutive week in fact, and the ninth week in the year, in which grain loadings exceeded 20,000 cars. Cumulative totals of loadings of all commodities during the calendar year to December 12 were 2,878,720 cars against 2,814,649 cars in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Canada's field crops are this year valued at $1,112,691,000, which is the largest value assigned to such crops since 1920, when the total was year since 1920 and the war period that the field crops of Canada have exceeded a billion dollars. Wheat is king. Although the average price of wheat was eleven cents a bushel less than last year, the increase in volume of production was so great that the wheat crop is valued at $466,755,000 compared wih the value of $320,262,000 placed on the crop of last year.

GAYEST CHRISTMAS SINCE 1914 IN GREAT CAPITALS OF THE WORLD

National Burdens And Worries Forgotten In The Religious And Secular Celebration Of Christmas Festival. Ex-Kaiser Preached Peace Sermon.

PULPITS HAILED PEACE OF LOCARNO.

The Christian world laid aside its economic and political burdens yesterday and celebrated after the various fashions of its people, the gayest Christmas it has known since 1914.

From London, Washington, Paris, Berlin, Rome Moscow and the heart of Africa—from wherever Christians were gathered on the land or the sea—telegraph and wireless chanted litanies of merry-making and good cheer.

Church services in many cathedrals were broadcast to millions, and those who spent the day at sea were also united by radio in their celebration.

Gayety In European Capitals.

Paris, where the shadow of the fallen franc might have darkened the day, was by far gayer than it has been since the war. Berlin, likwise, faced with an economic crisis echoed the French capitals revelry to a less degree, and Moscow welcomed the return of prosperity after lean years of famine and civil strife with the gayest Christmas.

The United States celebrated more quietly. The North and Middle West had a white Christmas, and there were flurries of snow along parts of the Atlantic seaboard and through some of the south.

President and Mrs. Coolidge, in Washington set the fashion for the nation with morning church, Christmas dinner and a quiet day in the White House with their son, John home from Amherst. New York and Chicago, after Christmas Eves of unwonted gaiety deserted the streets for the day, except for church or charity.

In London, Washington and New York, and in practically every European capital, pulpit speakers in their Christmas sermons hailed the Locarno pact as a harbinger of peace and a cause for universal Christmas cheer.

Ex-Kaiser's Peace Sermon

A just peace was the subject of a Christmas sermon delivered by the former German emperor Wilhelm, in his chateau at Doorn, Holland, where the Christmas festivities were attended by his family, the staff of his former court and members of the Dutch nobility.

Although religious services were held throughout the Christian world, there was no lack of worldy scenes. In Moscow long lines of thirsty Russians waited their share of the new forty per cents vodka.

Paris cafes were crowded with revelers, while the liberal press reviled the costly celebration and denounced "the scandalous scenes in Montmarte while soldiers are dying in the Riff and Syria."

London Streets Deserted.

Berlin suffered a Christmas tree famine. Many of those who could afford it went to the country for winter sports. London streets were generally deserted during the day, but theatre crowds sallied forth in the evening and dances were held in many of the hotels.

In Rome, the Pope spent Christmas with members of his family visiting him. He received thousands of messages from all parts of the world.

MODIFICATION OF ADOLESCENTS ACT AN INJUSTICE TO CHILDREN

Child Welfare Council Will Oppose Amendment Sought By Toronto.

WOULD DESTROY ACT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—The section on the Child in Employment of the Canadian Council on Child Welfare has come out in open opposition to the representation which the Toronto Board of Education is making to the Ontario Legislature, says an official statement issued by the League last night. The representation requests that the Adolescents School Attendance Act be amended so that permits may be granted under power of the Act to pupils where there is hardship on account of their having to attend part time classes during the day, and that attendance for the prescribed number of hours at evening classes in high, technical, commercial and public schools be accepted.

In outlining its stand, the Council on Child Welfare contend that this motion is in direct contravention of the aims and objectives of the Council in the child labor field. Under the present Adolescents School Attendance Act, permits are granted only where the pressure of home conditions is so severe as to warrant an exemption. Presumably then, the general home conditions in the way of shelter, maintenance, nutrition, etc., are not on a par in the case of the child forced to seek a permit with those of the average child from the average home. It is with this consideration in mind that the Act requires that the part time classes which these children holding a permit attend, must be held during the day and the children released from employment to attend. This amendment would mean that children under-privileged to the extent of being forced to seek a work permit would be further penalized by compulsory night attendance following a full day's work and coming from the home where, as above mentioned, conditions are sufficiently strained or necessitous to have forced the child out of school below the age which the Council believes his health and rights to citizenship demand. It cannot, therefore, but regard this motion as directly involving the efficacy of the Act and as opposed to what a sound social policy demands as standards in this field.

Protest to Ferguson.

The chairman of the section, Judge MacGill, of Vancouver, has filed a strong protest with the Prime Minister, the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, protecting the cruel futility of forcing children who have worked all day to attend school all evening and work again all the succeeding day. The Council claims that an utter waste of both industrial and academic services of such child is involved. The Council further claims that this amendment would read the very heart out of the law. It claims further that this piece of Ontario legislation is in the very front rank in the field, and that it will fight to hold this position and to prevent a movement which would have a very injurious re-action throughout the Dominion.

Bagpipe Returns To Favor As Jazz Band Instrument

GLASGOW, Dec. 26.—The bag pipe, which was threatened for a while last spring when an American jazz operetta introduced the saxaphone to Scotland, has come back into its own.

The bag pipe was recently introduced in a jazz band here and in this new role has been going strong ever since. Only large men are engaged as jazz bag pipe players because of the necessity of having individuals with an enormous lung expansion who are capable of keeping pace with the saxaphone and double quick time.

MIAMI COLD TO WORKING GIRLS

Typists Too Many For Available Conditions. Costs Are High.

RECENT FIGURES.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26.—To speak bluntly, there is no room for the working girl in Miami now.

Last summer a good stenographer or typist could command any salary. Feminine youngsters just out of business school, to whom spelling and punctuation were deep mysteries, were being paid $75 a week.

But that time is gone and will never return.

The Employment Bureau of the Miami Y.W.C.A. keeps its fingers on the pulse of the job situation here as does no other organization. Not a girl comes into the city without a room or a job who does not come to the Y. sooner or later. And the Y. in consequence has abandoned all its "peace time" operations, and is doing nothing but emergency work day and night for these girls.

The Y. will show you figures like this:

In October, 1925, 1,393 girls asked for jobs. Only 425 got anything at all. Many went home after pawning everything but their return tickets.

In that month 669 stenographers sought work. Only 155 got it.

There were 89 typists applying for work. Eighteen were placed.

Ninety-five bookkeepers asked for jobs and 11 were chosen.

Thirteen of the 172 clerks who came here for jobs got them.

One hundred and forty girls asked for hotel, restaurant and institutional work; 23 were placed. Two out of 23 telephone operators who clamored for work were given it.

One hundred and ten girls said they could be seamstresses, nurse maids, cashiers, elevator girls — anything. Nine got jobs.

"Hundreds of girls come to the office who beam and say they can do just anything," said Miss Mamie Raeburn, employment manager of the Y. "But Florida has no place for the girls who can do 'just anything.' They are our biggest problem. Miami needs specialists only and very few of them.

"Most girls think that if they are willing to leave the office world and go into housework for a winter, they are all set. But badly as Florida needs experienced domestics, it can not use these 'I'll do anything' girls."

The Y. has prepared a form letter which it sends out to the thousands of girls who write in asking about employment conditions. It sets forth such facts as these:

Housework pays from $12 to $18 a week, with room and board.

Cooks gets from $12 to $20 a week, room and board.

Nursemaids get $10 to $15 a week, with room and board. And dozens of graduate nurses who were earning $75 a week are glad to get these nursemaid jobs.

Stenographers get $20 to $35 a week. Remember, a room alone costs $20 a week.

Typists get from $12 to $20 a week.

Clerical work without typing—no jobs at all.

Doctors Not Needed.

There is also no demand for tutors. Nor is there any demand for doctors and doctors' assistants, the Chamber of Commerce to the contrary notwithstanding.

"We advise those well located at home to remain there," says the form letter. "Living conditions in Miami are high in normal times, and this year accommodations are almost impossible to obtain at any price.

"Under no circumstances should anyone come down here unless she has sufficient money with which to meet expenses until she is located, which may take from one to two months.

"We urge that no woman come to Florida expecting to make her expenses for the winter.

"A few stenographers, waitresses and efficient domestic help can do it. Children's nurses, companions, managers of apartments and boarding houses, teamroom supervisors and tutors can not."

"I got an inkling of it the other night when I saw swarms of them going home from work with books under their arms. They looked more like college students than waitresses.

"The chef laughed at me today for ordering 'coffee and doughnuts,'" said one. "He asked me if I'd never heard of 'Java and sinkers.' I won't yell that if they fire me. The job is bad enough at best."

It means that practically every waitress in Miami is a former school teacher or private secretary or stenographer who can get no job but waiting on table.

To be sure, waitresses only get from $8 to $10 a week—but there are meals and tips. And the tips are tips!

The waitresses have seen to that. These erstwhile school teachers and stenographers and secretaries wrote to the newspapers about it, and their letters were published. They very politely called men who ate $1.50 breakfasts and then left 10 cent tips "table hops."

Tips increased.

Y.W.C.A. Registration.

Landladies have learned that men don't mind "doubling up" as much as women do. Four men on cots in one room will pay $15 each. There's $60 a week. Why bother with a girl with only $20?

The room registry of the Y. W. C. A. is desperate!

"Tell girls to stop coming here unless they know exactly where they are going to live and what they are going to pay," says Miss Vilona Cutler of the Y.

The Y. has 100 rooms of its own and will have 110 more by Jan. 1. These rooms rent for from $2 to $5 a week. Thousands of girls are after them, and the Y. simply takes in girls who would be on the streets otherwise.

I met one girl who is joyful because she has the privilege of sharing a bedroom with another woman for $12.50 a week. She walks eight miles a day to work, and was bothered with a bad cold when I met her.

"Take a hot bath, drink some hot lemonade and take a hot water bottle to bed with you," I suggested. She only chuckled.

"Hot water, did you say?" she asked. "We have no gas and no electric heater. I haven't had a hot bath since I came here, two months ago."

"Well, heat a dishpan of water on the stove," I went on.

Again she howled.

"What did you say? A dishpan? We can't buy one. We haven't even a tea kettle. The embargo shut them all out."

A professional woman who made $350 a month in Toronto, and who is working here for $35 a week, complained that her landlady had requested her to leave because she asked for hot water for a bath. And she was paying $20 a week for her room.

CHRISTMAS MASSES IN THREE CHURCHES

Pontifical High Mass Celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien.

The midnight masses celebrated in the Roman Catholic churches of the city on Christmas Eve were attended by large congregations in every instance, and were marked by special services and special music prepared for the occasion.

At St. Peter's Cathedral, Pontifical High Mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, with Rev. P. Costello, assistant priest; Rev. P. Butler and Rev. Leo Cleary as honorary deacons; Rev. V. Corkery and Rev. H. Black as deacon and subdeacon, and Rev. J. Finn as master of ceremonies. A particularly pleasing feature of the service at the Cathedral was the singing, the adult choir surpassing themselves with their splendid rendition of a difficult new mass, under the leadership of Mr. Joseph Minicolo and Miss Lillian Hurley at the organ. The melodious music of this beautiful mass was done full justice to by the singers.

Very effective also, and in keeping with the sacred festival, was the singing of the children's choir, composed of over 40 small girls and boys who are trained in this way by Rev. Father Finn. The little girls, wearing white frocks and veils and the small boys, in red soutaines and white net surplices, walked in procession in the aisles of the church prior to the beginning of high mass, singing Christmas carols, which were repeated later at the crib placed inside the sanctuary. These cargls, sung without accompaniment, were beautifully rendered, the small children keeping perfect time and tone.

Previous to commencement of mass, Miss L. Hurley played an organ voluntary that included some lively Christmas hymns. The adult choir sang at the beginning of the low masses that followed the celebration of high mass, and the children's choir sang during the later services.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien addressed the congregation briefly, exhorting upon them the necessity of celebrating Christmas in the proper manner by the exercise of charity and love to one's neighbors, regardless of creed or faith.

The high altar was decorated with quantities of red roses and festoons of green garlands, and the sanctuary was filled with light from the many lighted candles and the seven-globed standards placed inside the railing. Outside the Cathedral, above the main entrance, was placed a large cross, electrically lighted, and lines of lighted lamps crossed the street also in front of the church.

The special music at the Cathedral for the masses included the Mass, from a composition by Miss M. E. Downey, with the Kyrie; Gloria Credo and the Sanctus; Agnus Dei and the carol, "O Holy Night," while the children's choir sang at the crib, "Angels We Have Heard on High," and "See Amid the Winter's Snow," singing for the low masses several pretty Christmas carols.

At the Church of the Sacred Heart, midnight mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. J. J. OBrien, assisted by Rev. J. C. Moloney and Rev. C. McCarney. Special music for the occasion was directed by the organist, Mr. J. Armstrong, with the choir singing Rosewegs Festival Mass in G, and the children's choir rendering several pretty carols before the crib.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception, in East City, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl celebrated midnight mass, assisted by Rev. J. Guiry, and the adult choir, with Miss L. Hummel at the organ, gave Concone's Mass in F, with a prelude in "Silent Night," the "Alma Redemptoris" at the offertory, and the "Adeste Fidelis" at the communion service.

Midnight mass was also celebrated at St. Joseph's Hospital, by Rev. Peter McGuire, and at the House of Providence by Rev. J. Guiry. At the House of Providence, special music was given by the children of the Immaculate Conception Church, with Miss Sadie Flynn at the organ.

At Mount St. Joseph, midnight mass was celebrated by Rev. G. Maher.

HAMILTON MAN IS ASPHYXIATED

ON CHRISTMAS DAY.

HAMILTON, Dec 26. — (Canadian Press). —Absent-mindedness is thought to have cost William J. Conners his life through asphyxiatio by gas in an attic bedroom at his boarding house. He was found dead yesterday morning. Mr. Connors, who was 58 years of age, was fully dressed and wearing his over coat, evidently in readiness to go out. He had a small gas heater in his bedroom. It is thought that he either neglected to turn the gas fully off or else turned it on and forgot to light it.

BAKER FAMILY OF WARKWORTH CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING

Eight of Ten Children Unite With Parents On Happy Anniversary.

PRACTICAL GIFT

(By A Staff Reporter).

WARKWORTH, Dec. 26.—All but two of the 10 living children of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker of this village, were here Thursday to join in the celebration of the golden wedding of their parents and to wish them many happy returns of the day. Those absent were Mrs. (Rev.) Russell McGillivary of Burlington and W. A. Baker, the son who is engaged in the real estate business in Miami, Florida. Mrs. W. A. Baker, who was formerly Miss Theresa Moore of Warkworth, came from Florida to take part in the celebration. W. A. Baker and his son Douglas joined in the following telegram to the aged couple:

"Many happy returns of this, your fiftieth anniversary. May you live, to enjoy many more, years together. Sorry not able to be with you at this time. We are both well."

Telegram From Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson, friends in Ottawa, sent the following telegram: "Heartiest congratulations. May the peace that passeth all understanding be with you."

On of the guests from a distance was Miss Jane Taylor of Chatham.

Gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

The wedding gift of the children to the parents was valuable and practical, consisting of a complete electrical lighting system which they installed in the home and which shed its radiance over the happy gathering on Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Baker prize this gift highly, as it is something which will be used every day and so will be a constant reminder of the thoughtfulness of their children.

Gift of Gold.

A $10 gold piece was received from Angus Hamilton of Dalhousie Junction, N.B., the donor having been a friend during the war of Colin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baker, who lost his life overseas.

The children who gathered for the celebration were: T. S. of Campbellford, Mrs. Harold Wilson of Hastings, Malcolm of Hastings, Mrs. J. Musgrave of Corbeyville, Miss Blanche who resided at home, Wallace of Warkworth, Mrs. George of Picton and Miss Helen of Milford. The with the husbands and wives of the married daughters and sons, together with four grandchildren, made a large family gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker sat all afternoon and evening in the parlor of their home receiving the congratulations of friends who called to pay their respect from the village and all parts of the district.

SON OF PRINCESS IS LOANED OFTEN

George Henry Hubert, Elder Son of Mary, is Universal Favorite.

HARROGATE, Dec. 26—George Henry Hubert, elder son of Princess Mary, has become the most "borrowed" baby in England.

King George and Queen Mary, the grand parents, are particularly fond of the boy, and when he isn't romping about Buckingham Palace or Windsor Castle, George is "loaned" to Lord and Lady Harewood, parents of Viscount Lascelles, at Harewood House near here where a playground has been fixed up for his especial benefit.

Now and then George Henry goes to Curzon House in London, the residence of the Duke and Duchess of York. Ever so often he is taken to St. James Palace to pay his respect to his uncle, the Prince of Wales, and Prince Henry.

Goldsborough Hall, between York and Harrogate, is really the home of George Henry, but he has been so busy makin kin visiting tours this fall that his parents have seen but very little of him. Two nurses accompany Master George on his tours in a powerful limousine which the young man who will be three years old February 7, already claims as his alone.

INDIANS MEET IN CAWNPORE

National Congress To Discuss Home Rule And Boycott.

POETESS PRESIDES

CAWNPORE, United Provinces, India, Dec. 26 Canadian Press, via Reuter).—The Indian National Congress meets here today, under the presidency of the National poetess, Mrs. Sarojini Neidu, who received an ovation from the large crowds which greeted her on her arrival from Bombay. Apart from the leaders who are attired in hand-woven garments, it is remarkable that the majority of the crowd were dressed in mill-made cloth, testifying in a degree to the non-success of Gandhi's efforts to enforce the fashion of wearing clothes made of "khaddar," otherwise homespuns.

The agenda for the meeting of the congress includes proposals for "swaraj," or home rule outside the British Empire; boycott of British goods and dissolution of the Swarajist party, so that the National Congress itself may carry out the programme of the council on more approved lines. It is extremely doubtful whether the motions advocating complete independence and the boycott of British goods will find much support.

The Bombay Swarajist, Jakakar, and N. C. Kelkar, leader of the Maharashtra Swarajists arrived today, with a large number of followers to battle with Pundit Motilal Nehru for a change in the Swarajist programme from one of obstruction to "responsive co-operation."

A feature of the Christmas gatherings will be a conference of Indian Communists of Singaravelu of Madras, whose name was mentioned in a sedition trial during the summer of 1924.

INTENDED SUICIDE; DECIDED MARRIAGE

German Pair Met at Capri to End All, But Will Begin Instead.

ISLAND OF CAPRI, Italy, Dec. 26.—Like Scylla and Charybdis of Greek mythology, this beautiful island, whose rugged cliffs rise sheerly out of the azure waters of the Bay of Naples, has sirens. But its enchantresses, unlike those whom Homer described as tempting voyagers to their doom, recall men and women from shadows of despair.

At least, Karl Auberger and Anna Tschol, both Germans, aver that the sirens exist. Auberger and Fraulien Tschol came here separately to commit suicide because of a series of misfortunes.

They met on the cliffs and there confided in each other. Soon, under the spell of Capri's beauty, they forgot their original intention and decided to face life again—together.

When they told their story to Italian officials, financial assistance was given them.

Pianist May Be Recognized By Morning Scale Practise

Paderewski spends his Summer holiday in a lovely chalet overlooking the Lake of Geneva, with an unequalled view of the mountains of Savoy and Mont Blanc itself. A visitor recently remarked that he had just been spending some days with Murdoch, the pianist, and mentioned the fact to Paderewski, who said, whimsically: "And how do you know that he is a pianist?" "Because my bedroom is over his studio at his chalet at Vevey, and he begins to practice every morning at 7 oclock." "And does he start with scales?" "Yes! and they go for an hour." "Then you do know, and he is a pianist," answered Paderewski. Possibly the morning hour of scales is the secret of Paderewski's perennial youth.

MUSSOLINI BUSY AT RESTORING GLORY OF ROME

Architects and Archeologists Are Employed on Grandiose Plan.

TEMPLE RE-OPENED

After Many Varied Uses Republican Building Has Been Restored.

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ROME (By mail to the United Press).—Rome's archeologists and architects are hard at work on a grandiose plan for restoring and setting out in relief the Imperial city of the days of their ancestors.

Another step in the completion of the plan was taken recently when Mussolini "reconsecrated" to the Rome of 1925 the ancient temple of Virile Fortune.

From this starting-point, where now after the work of restoration and isolation of Professor Munoz, the most complete example of antique Greco-Roman architecture in the capital stands out in all its pristine beauty, is to run a Roman road, built on the straight uncomprising lines of the old roads. This thoroughfare, when finished, will go straight through the old commercial quarter of ancient Rome, and skirting the Circus Maximus, which is soon to be excavated will continue along the Via Appia to the village of Albano, the Alba Longa to the Romans.

From thence a fine automobile track right up to the summit of Monte Cavo is projected and will soon be begun. Here, amid the ruins of the temple of Jupiter on the top of the mountain, hotels, cafes, villas and restaurants will provide a cool summer resort for the descendants of Romulus and Remus.

The temple of the Virile Fortune recently reopened to the public is one of the monuments of Rome which all tourists visit, but those who saw it before the restoration and isolation will be amazed at the transformation wrought by Professor Munoz and his assistants.

The temple dates from the times of the Roman Republic, and was turned into a church, "Our Lady of Egypt" in the Middle Ages.

It became the property of the Armenian College in the XVI century, and in the succeeding centuries suffered such neglect that it was even used at times as a shelter for vagrants. Later, part of it was converted into a wine cellar.

Until the recent restoration the temple was surrounded by a cluster of dirty tumble-down houses which completely blocked the view and access on two sides.

The Armenians agreed to let the Italian Goevrnment take over their property which included the old houses surrounding the temple, and were given compensation.

Like all the antique buildings of Rome, the base of the temple stands some six yards or so below the city's present street level.

Silence is golden. This may explain why there are few rich men in politics.

From the Diary of a Churchgoer

LIKE the tender shoots of new grass thrusting bravely up through the charred stubble of a burned field, there is stirring beneath the surface of Canadian life a fresh and far-reaching spiritual interest.

This is not an irreligious age.

Yet we are periodically reminded that church going is a decaying custom among modern Canadians.

How shall we explain the seeming contradiction of a time in which a rise in spiritual interest and a decline in church attendance go hand in hand?

I suspect that thousands of essentially religious Canadians today refrain from churchgoing because they find neither spiritual stimulus nor ethical guidance in the theological disputes that are turning many churches into debating clubs.

It may be that here and there and yonder churches have empty pews because they are offering warfare to men who are hungry for worship.

On the other hand, it may be that thousands of Canadians refrain from churchgoing because they have a false notion of the function of a church service.

To many Canadians the sermon is the chief thing; the service only a traditional and tedious preliminary to the main business of preaching. They expect the minister to deliver each week two sermons as intellectually exciting as the latest book to which the author may have devoted ten years of preparation and one year of writing. When they find that it is not humanly possible for the minister to do this, they stop churchgoing.

Such men need to remember that the major meaning of churchgoing lies in the intangible inspirations of worship more than in the intellectual performances of the preacher.

The forum is no substitute for the altar.

"We go to church and we enter into an atmosphere of calm.

"The distilled wisdom of the ages is about us.

"The oldest narratives of human history are read in our hearing, and through all familiarity of phrase the sincerity of the narrator forces itself upon us.

"The sense that we are at one with the singers of countless generations is uplifting.

"All this may be possible in the closet.

"The sublimation of it may startle us as we walk along the streets.

"But the periodical withdrawal into these ancient houses of service, built with hands, helps us to dwell in houses not built with hands."

NO BLANK CHECK CANDIDATES.

The Collegiate Institute question, which has developed into the outstanding issue of the municipal election, promises to play a big part in the campaign, both for the Board of Education and for the Council.

The issue appears to be not whether or not a new Collegiate Institute is required, but rather whether or not its construction should be authorized without consulting the people.

Undoubtedly a large proportion of the electors believe that there should be no further progress in the building programme of the Board of Education until a bylaw is submitted to the ratepayers.

Thus the issue affects the aldermanic campaign as much as it does the contest for the Board of Education, inasmuch as the election of four or five men to the Council who favour the building of the new school without a mandate from the people might mean the commitment of the city to a heavy expenditure against which many citizens are opposed.

That is why it is essential that every candidate for the Council and for the Board of Education should leave no doubt as to where he stands on this question.

CANNOT AFFORD TO STAY HOME.

All the usual arguments in favour of the electors exercising their franchise at municipal elections apply to the present campaign in Peterboro.

It is, or should be, obvious that if the responsibility of electing a civic government has to be assumed by a fraction of the people there is not created in the candidates elected that sense of duty to their constituents that is essential to good government.

Electing the municipal representatives should be everybody's business, and when it becomes so the possibility of an efficient administration is considerably enhanced.

In addition to these general arguments, which are applicable each year, there is on this occasion several issues in the local campaign that are of especial interest.

The people of Peterboro have to decide whether or not they want daylight saving and Sunday bathing, matters not of great importance perhaps from a financial viewpoint, but affecting most citizens to a greater or less degree.

In addition, the electors are faced with an issue that does lead directly to their pocketbooks—the Collegiate Institute question, which looms large in the public eye as the election draws near.

Here is an issue involving the expenditure of a large sum of money.

Citizens who are complaining of high tax bills cannot afford on this occasion the doubtful luxury on New Year's Day of remaining at home and letting somebody else doing the voting.

THE LOGICAL FIGHTING GROUND.

The urban municipalities, as well as the various Councils, are beginning to put the onus of passing legislation compelling all vehicles to carry lights after dark where it belongs—on the shoulders of the Ontario Legislature.

Thus the City Council of Belleville at a meeting this week passed a resolution approving of the principle of this legislation and calling upon the Legislature at its next session to pass the bill.

The Examiner hopes that municipalities in general throughout the Province will follow this lead and transfer the battle for safer driving conditions from the Council Chambers to the floor of the Legislature, which is the logical fighting ground for this issue.

The Ontario Motor League and the newspapers of Ontario will back up the municipalities in urging the passing of legislation putting this regulation in force in all parts of the Province, and if those who are in favour of such legislation will unite in their efforts, they can make such a loud noise that the Provincial legislators would be no longer able to shelve the question.

It has never been a municipal problem, despite the effort of politicians to make it so. It is essentially a Provincial issue and must be dealt with by the Legislature.

The next session's programme should include a bill making it compulsory for all vehicles on the roads after nightfall to be illuminated.

THE MUNICIPAL RACE.

Although the final list of candidates for the various civic positions presents some surprises in the dropping out of men who were considered as almost sure starters, there are enough left to ensure a contest for Mayoralty, Board of Education, Utilities Commission and Council.

Four of the six nominees for the Mayoralty failed to qualify, thus leaving a straight two-candidate fight instead of the three-cornered contest that was anticipated. Peterboro's Chief Magistrate next year will be either Alderman Nagle Phelan, Chairman of the Finance Committee, who has been a member of the Council for the past six years or ex-Alderman Dr. Holloway, former member of the Council, who was a contestant for the Mayoralty two years ago. Alderman Fife, who was regarded as a likely starter, declined to qualify and will finish out his term as an alderman.

The Utilities Commission contest will be confined to Robert Hicks, retiring member of the Commission, and Gordon Matthews; George Ball, the third candidate nominated, electing to remain out of the race.

The aldermanic field offers some excellent new material, with ten nominated for five positions, with the chance that the sixth man will be appointed by the Council to complete the term of ex-Alderman Joseph Crowe. Members of the 1925 Council offering themselves for re-election are: Ald. W. J. Hancock, Ald. R. N. Jones, Ald. E. M. Turner, while the new candidates are Charles H. Ackerman, John R. Marshall, Geo. A. McDonald, Robert S. Cotton, Frank McPherson, Wm. H. Lytle, and Fred Tuggey.

Six condidates are in the field for the Board of Education; four of them old members of the Board seeking re-election, while the fifth, Dr. F. C. Neal, has decided to retire. He has done excellent service for a number of years and his departure will be regretted. The old members whose names will be found on the ballot are Mrs. Kate Morris, Dr. J. J. Craig, Dr. Max Yelland, and E. B. Fowler. The two new aspirants are John A. McNabb and E. Roland Wilson.

ALL HUDDLED TOGETHER.

Realtors and architects have combined in New York to build a monster apartment that will house 800,000 people. There will be one central heating plant, and one garage 15 stories high. Plans call for a market place, swimming-pools, gymnasiums, etc., all in the one space that will take in about ten acres.

A building to house 800,000 people could take in the population of Toronto and still be able to leave the sign "Rooms to Let" hanging in the front window. It could accommodate Montreal without crowding, or it could take all the people of Saskatchewan, or Manitoba, British Columbia or Alberta, and leave plenty of room for all their friends and relatives to come and visit. The residents of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island could move in together, and after they got settled word could be passed to the people of Brantford, Chatham, Galt, Guelph, Kingston, Kitchener and London to come on down and help fill the place up.

The business office of the new super-apartment has announced that it will be possible to rent apartments at the rate of $500 per room per year instead of the $1,000 rate now charged on Park avenue in New York. Thus a person with a very modest four-room apartment can have it for $2,000 a year rent, or if he cares to pay by the quarter, $500 every three months. If he prefers to pay rent by the month, he will fork over $166.66 2-3, or a trifle better than $5.50 a day.

There is no good reason to doubt that the project will be proceeded with, as five acres have been purchased and plans have been drawn for the structure. It is the last word in making people as comfortable as possible when they are huddled together as they are in the larger cities. Such may be well for those who have become used to it, or who through necessity bow to the method, but it's a long way from the idea of home and of living cherished by those who still hold that the six or seven-roomed house with lawn and garden space is a far enough departure from the great open spaces.

That New York apartment will be the greatest place of its kind in the world, but there will be no line fence to lean on and discuss current topics with the neighbors. There will be no places to putter around and plant Dutch sets and head lettuce in the spring, no spot to grow mignonette and forget-me-not borders, no place for sweet Williams and no back porch on which to train the honeysuckle. And no spot at all to fashion a piano-box into a chicken-house; no place to keep a dull axe, because there's nothing to chop, and no hoe or rake or spade with a cracked handle, because there's no ground into which to gouge holes. Let's have the old five-roomed cottage, where the milkman leaves bottles on the front step and where the grocer boy stops to chat a while when he brings over the brown sugar, the yeast cakes and the coal-oil can.—London Advertiser.

BUSINESS AND SENTIMENT.

As the French say, "Les affaires sont les affaires"—business is business—and there seems small room for sentiment, much less for sentimentality. The assumption is altogether too narrow, for every business man knows the value of sentiment rightly cultivated and used with a due sense of proportion. The enormous advertising business of this country would not be worth much if that kind of business did not take sentiment earnestly into its calculations. But sentimentality is another matter, and it is humiliating to reflect on its enormous cost to the world. The relations between capital and labour are poisoned with it. The London Times, in the recent past, has published a series of letters on the cultivation of better relations between employer and employed. All too many of them take the line that the worker should receive something for nothing, either in the matter of increased leisure; guaranteed employment, regardless of the value of his product; homes at less than their economic rental, and a large number of other things, desirable in themselves, but calculated ultimately to deteriorate the self-reliance of the worker.

If these are the employers, there are some of us who will believe that the worker is the better business man of the two. He wants the best possible price for his services, and he would be a sentimental fool if he did not. The other things he can get for himself co-operatively, and will value them all the more that he secured them in that manly and independent way. Sentimentalists do not subscribe to this. They are so afraid of him over-working himself that they give aid and comfort to the labour leader who has carried the debilitating doctrine of "ca' canny" to its logical conclusion.

The Jacksonville agreement with the coal miners tried to establish impossible conditions by merely putting them in writing. The non-union mines scrapped the sentimentalism and got down to a common-sense basis. The agreement was not even worth fighting for, but sentimentalists like Pinchot would perpetuate artificial conditions by propping them up with others still more artificial. We should not be far from sound sentiment if we approached our labour problems on the basis of "business is business," finding that we have underrated the intelligence of the worker and overrated his information, thereby playing into the hands of the labour agitator.—Barron's.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Today the youngsters get a chance to play with the toys that dad monopolized most of yesterday.

Ald. Phelan advocates Sunday bathing, which, it must be admitted, is about as clean a platform as could be offered.

The school question is the big issue of the campaign, overshadowing daylight saving, which might have been expected to be the spice of the contest.

Swimming is a shivery sort of topic round New Year's, but the voters have to remember that all Sundays throughout the year are not marked by ice or snow.

Plenty of new material for public service is offering itself. It is an encouraging sign that indicates citizens are beginning to develop a sense of responsibility.

Our idea of an optimist is the gentleman who is running again for the Toronto mayoralty after polling only 272 votes last year.

IS NOT PIONEER ENGINE—ONLY REPRODUCTION

When a representative of Henry Ford, of automotive fame, appeared at the C.P.R. offices in Toronto this week with an offer to purchase the famous engine, built in 1871 and a pioneer in the Northern Ontario service, he was much chagrined to learn that the present "Lucy Dalton" is but a recently built reproduction of the ancient engine which was not preserved. Ford was desirous of buying the old engine to give it a place of honor in his museum, where he is collecting scores of articles of historical interest. Above is shown the reproduction built by workmen in the North Bay yards from pictures of the original.

A THOUGHT.

A LENTEN SEASON FOR THE MIND.

By Glenn Frank.

We cleanse our bodies in the bathroom.

We cleanse our spirits at the altar.

What provision do we make for cleansing our minds?

Might we not have a Lenten season for our minds as we have a Lenten season for our morals?

Might we not have a spring-cleaning for our heads as well as a spring cleaning for our houses?

Heads become cluttered as houses become cluttered.

Points of view wear out as linens wear out.

Surely there is as much need of rearrangement, dusting and replacement in our heads as in our houses!

Edwin E. Slossin, in his pointed and provocative volume of Sermons of a Chemist, discussing the strange revival of superstition that has followed the war, makes this suggestion:

"It is almost impossible to combat a widespread wave of superstition. The best any one can do is to give his own brain a thorough housecleaning at least once a year, peering into every dark corner, wiping out the medieval dirt and burning every rag of superstition that may serve to shelter and to spread the pandemic.

A single false belief may infect all the sound facts you pile in on top of it.

"It may not take so much time for the annual inventory of your brain as you may think but in any case it is worth doing. Take down every principle from the shelves, valuate it and see that it is in sound condition—not worm-eaten or rusty or out of date. One can never know when he is going to need one of his ideas; but when he does it must be in serviceable condition."

There is no such a thing as laying in a permanent stock of ideas with which we may do business for a life time.

Life is fluid and truth is always in flux.

Huxley reminded us that "new truths begin as heresies and end as superstitions."

Lowell reminded us that "new occasions teach new duties, time makes ancient good uncouth."

Science is the art of changing one's mind when new facts appear or old facts are seen with a finer insight.

Over nineteen hundred years ago a Carpenter of Nazareth helped the race through a mental and moral housecleaning and humanity moved from the vengeance of the Old Testament to the love of the New Testament.

"Look out for two things," says Mr. Slosson elsewhere in his volume, "pick up an idea as the right time, and drop it at the right time." I do not know a better text for a Lenten season for our minds.

QUEBEC MASONS REPORT GROWTH

Substantial Gains This Year. Church Parade On Sunday.

ST. JOHN'S DAY.

MONTREAL, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—December 27 is St. John's Day. Members of the Masonic Order are particularly to the front in observance of the day, as John the Evangelist is one of the patron saints of the Craft. Banquets by each lodge are the usual form of celebration. This year, for the first time in several years, the day falls on Sunday. Montreal Masons will, therefore, hold a monster church parade with service in St. James United Church, in the afternoon. A number of banquets have been arranged for Monday night.

Substantial gains in membership throughout the Province of Quebec is reported by W. W. Williamson, Grand Secretary of Masonry in Quebec. All the lodges have made substantial gains in their membership during the year, said Mr. Williamson. Quebec now has about 15,000 Masons, of which 8,000 are in the three Montreal districts.

While the Festival of St. John is being observed this year with the new Masonic Memorial Temple not yet underway, it is learned from authorftative sources that negotiations regarding the site are on the eve of completion.

Actual construction work should be underway by the spring. Half a million dollars is to be spent on the building. Funds for the building, which is a memorial to Masonic service men of the Great War, were raised during an intensive campaign among members of the craft two years ago.

Among the outstanding events in the history of the craft in the province have been the dedication of two Masonic temples in Mansonville and Hudson during the month of October last.

Two New Lodges.

Two new lodges have been instituted during the year, both starting out under favorable auspices. They are named John T. Gladston, and Transportation, the former in the north end, and the latter in the central division of Montreal.

Two lodges were granted their warrants at the annual assembly in February last, and were duly consecrated later in the year. One is at Grenville; the other in Gaspe.

It is stated that great interest has been shown by the brethren in the various parts of the province, and large gatherings have been in evidence at all the official visitations of the Grand Master and the Grand Lodge officers. Special mention should be made, said Mr. Williamson, of the two district meetings, one at Cookshire, and the other at Stanbridge East, attended by the Grand Master, W. J. Ewing, of Richmond, which were notable, he said, for the large gathering of brethren from all parts of the province and from lodges in the United States.

Over 2,000 Masons are expected to participate in the church parade and service Sunday afternoon, headed by the Masonic Band, and attired in full regalia.

BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD AT DARTFORD

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex L. Merrill, Dartford, on Friday, December 11th, the occasion being a dinner in honor of Mr. John Isaacs 70th birthday.

At about 6.30 the guests took their place at the table which was beautifully arranged in the dining room and decorated with white chrysanthemums and each place card fastened with a sprig o'heather and the verse "Just a wee bit o' heather, Frae Bonnie Scotland", in remembrance of Mr. Isaacs' boyhood days in Scotland. The birthday cake was 3 storied and was lighted with 70 candles in all colors.

After dinner was served a baptismaler vice was held by Rev. W. W. Jones Warkworth, who baptized Lloyd Jack Merrill, the young son of the host and hostess, after which all enjoyed an hours sing song in the living room.

During the evening little Lloyd Merrill presented Mr. Isaac with a solid gold watch chain from the family. He also received a beautiful bouquet of bronze, yellow and pink "mums" among other remembrances. Those from a distance were Mr. and Mr. Jas. Honey, Toronto.

TEACHER'S ACCOUNT OF TRIP TO OLD COUNTRY THRILLED PUPILS

Address By Miss G. M. Meredith of Peterboro Feature of Concert.

AT OMEMEE SCHOOL.

OMEMEE, Dec. 26.—For the past week examinations have been the order of the day at the Omemee High School but on Tuesday afternoon the pupils enjoyed a concert. Instead of the ding-dong of the bell calling them to studies, it called them to an afternoon of pleasure.

The President of the Athletic Association of the school, Jessie Lamb, occupied the chair, and the following programme was given:

Instrumental, Helen Rutherford; vocal, duet, Amy Crafton and Christina Connell; recitation, Morgan Rowland; community singing; instrumental duet, Jane Earle and Lenore Jamieson; reading, Madeline Gray; address, Miss G. M. Meredith; reading, Carrie McQuade.

The entire programme was enjoyed by the scholars, but especially so was Miss Meredith's talk of her trip abroad last summer in which she related many adventures and wonderful sights, from the time she left Peterborough on July 1, until her return the last of August, touching on Wembley, Eton College, Warwick Castle, Holyrood Palace and many other famous churches, etc. The speech was indeed very interesting, as well as educative and the wish expressed by many of the scholars was that they might take a similar trip.

As a slight remembrance at this Christmas season, Misses Jane Earl and Lenore Jamieson, on behalf of the scholars, presented Miss Meredith and Miss Keough each with a box of chocolates.

The pupils then enjoyed the treat of the teachers' ice-cream, cake and sandwiches and chocolates. During the serving, community singing was enjoyed by all.

After a vote of thanks had been expressed by the pupils to the teachers for the enjoyable treat, an afternoon that will long be remembered was brought to a close and after the usual greetings of the season had been extended to one another, the pupils departed for their respective homes to enjoy the holidays.

Public School Closing.

The closing exercises of the Omemee Public School on Tuesday afternoon were marked by a splendid concert followed by a Christmas tree. Each room held their own concert, after which they united for the distribution of gifts. The rooms were tastefully decorated with evergreens and Christmas bells and a general Christmas spirit prevailed throughout the afternoon.

Harry McGinness, President of the Literary Society for this month, acted as chairman, in the senior room, and Mr. Edward Marsh performed the duties of old "Santa," who took from a large Christmas tree inexpensive gifts previously placed there by the children on the exchange plan.

This was followed by a treat from the teachers, Miss Young and Mr. Curtis in an abundance of home-made candy, all of which was speedily devoured.

Omemee Telephone Co.

FIVE WOMEN ARE INJURED BY CAR

Had Alighted From Sandwich Street Car. Driver Arrested.

WAS INTOXICATED.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—Five women were injured, two of them seriously, when an automobile driven by Geoffrey Burnbridge, 33 years old, of 1105½ Askin Boulevard, Sandwich, collided with a street car at Ouelette Avenue and Maple Street, Windsor, at 6.30 p.m. Thursday. QUIET CHRISTMAS IN CAMPBELLFORD

Children Return To "Old Nests" For Holiday.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26. — Christmas, as usual, was a quiet day in Campbellford, a large number of citizens leaving town to spend the holidays with friends at a distance. The day was marked by religious services in two of the churches. In Christ Church there was Holy Communion at 8 a.m., followed at 11 o'clock by Choral Communion and sermon by the rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke. Special Christmas music was furnished by the choir. These festal services will be continued on Sunday, when the choir will render the anthem, "Christians, Awake, Salue the Happy Morn."

Midnight Mass.

Midnight Mass was celebrated in St. Mary's Church on Christmas Eve, and on the following morning the usual special services were held, large congregations being present on each occasion.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—Americans having occasion to write to Russia are reminded by the Soviet government that communications addressed simply "Russia" are in danger of being returned. The proper designation of Russia and the other States comprising the Soviet Federation is "U.S.S.R." which means "Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics."

The government apparently wishes to eliminate the word "Russia" from the present-day vocabulary as being too limited in scope and as suggestive of an area formerly under the domination of the Czar.

LODGE DENIES THAT BRAIN FEELS OR SEES

Says Qualities Belong to Different Region Not Yet Formulated.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—New ideas about the functioning of the brain were set forth here by Sir Oliver Lodge, the noted scientist, who contended that the popular theory that the brain feels is entirely incorrect.

"The brain does not see or hear or feel, nor does it plan or hope or love," said Sir Oliver in a lecture.

"These things belong to a different region, some link between mind and matter, which perhaps we have not yet begun to formulate."

RUSSIA'S FIRST CHRISTMAS JOY UNDER SOVIETS

Trees and Toys To Delight The Hearts Of Children.

CHURCHES CROWDED.

Hordes of Poor And Unemployed Darken The Picture.

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—(Canadian Press). — Russia celebrated the brightest Christmas it has had for years. Real prosperity and good cheer have replaced famine and civil strife.

Moscow's stores filled with foreign and domestic gifts, have been crowded to their doors. Christmas trees are so cheap that almost every family has one. Toys to please every child's heart have been sold by the millions. Many of them came from Germany.

The spirit of Christmas extends even to the prisons and reformatories, where the usual rules have been relaxed. The prisoners are being given special holiday fare and motion picture entertainments. All the churches are crowded. In some of them candles are burning in front of every holy ikon. Although the Communists do not recognize Christmas or any other Christian holiday all the Government's offices factories and stores are closed for three days.

Long Vodka Queue.

Unlimited supplies of the new forty per cent vodka has enabled even the poor to join in the festive spirit. Long lines of thirsty Russians three deep and extending for blocks, waited in the cold from six o'clock Thursday morning until late in the afternoon for a fair share of the national drink.

Almost the whole of Russia is covered with a deep fall of snow, which gives an added Christmas touch to the scene. The only sad note to the pictures are lines of unemployed outside the labor exchanges and the great hordes of ragged, homeless and hungry children roaming the streets.

Although Russia has adopted the new calendar, the peasants and most of the religious people still observe the old church calendar, which is thirteen days behind the new one. A majority of the Russian celebrate two Christmases, one December 25 and the other January 7.

INTEREST AROUSED BY GIRL'S WEDDING

Miss Sankey's Marriage to Prince Was an Imposing Ceremony.

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—The marriage of Miss Beatrice Josephine Sankey, of Toronto, to Prince Constantine Nakashidzie, of Georgie, Russia, in London, on December 12, a brief account of which was carried in the cables, created a good deal of interest not only in Toronto, but in other parts of the Dominion.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Major Villiers Sankey and Mrs. Sankey, Toronto, and the groom's family was distantly related to the Russian Imperial family, the groom being a refugee in England since the revolution in Russia through which his estates in Georgia were lost. Prince Nakashidzie fought with the Russian army in the war.

The Prince is a student at Cambridge University, where his studies have been interrupted temporarily by his marriage and honeymoon. He has put in three years at the university and will shortly return to complete his course and obtain his degree of Bachelor of Arts. The Prince and his bride will take up their residence in Welwyn, Hartfordshire, and they will continue to reside in England after his graduation.

The bride who has lived in England about as much as in Toronto, will have the title of Princess, it is understood.

There were two marriage services, the first having been held in the Church of the Annunciation, London, at high noon, and the second in the Orthodox Russian church in the afternoon. The Very Rev. B. Timotheiff and the Rev. V. Theotoff officiated. There were four crown bearers (the Russian equivalent of bridesmaids), three of them being Russians and one a Hungarian, and there was also a page boy, a Russian, who carried the iken (in the Greek church, a holy picture).

The bride, who was given away by her mother's cousin, Charles Cambie, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in London wore a beautiful gown of silver tissue embroidered in pearls and crystals and a Honiton lace veil. Her going away attire was an ensemble suit of petunia and violet, with black velvet coat trimmed with Russian fur, and she wore a petunia hat. The honeymoon is being spent in Paris.

After the wedding ceremonies a reception was held at the home of Mr. Crawfshay in Upper Berkeley street, Portman Square. Among those at the wedding were: Mrs. N. Villiers Sankey, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Margaret Sankey; Lady Hart, a cousin of the bride; Baron and Baroness Meyerdorff of Welwyn Garden City, Lady Johnston and Mrs. Agar Adamson, of Toronto.

SWEDISH PRINCE IS VERY VERSATILE

Famous as Poet, He Shows Skill as Radio Reporter.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 26.—The versatility of Sweden's poet-Prince, Duke William of Soedermanland, second son of King Gustav V, was demonstrated by his debut as a radio-reporter.

Earlier in the year he treated the Swedish radio audience with a description of his big game hunting experiences in India and Africa. With all four of the Scandinavian countries tuned in on him he gave a radio account of his parents visit to Finland, when he also was a member of the royal party.

JEWS PROTEST RABBI'S REMARK

Reference To Jesus As Great Moral Teacher By Dr. Wise.

HAS RESIGNED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—Louis Lipsky, chairman of the Zionist organization of America, has in his hands the resignation of Rabbi Stephen M. Wise as chairman of the $5,000,000 United Palestine appeal. Mr. Lipsky denied a report that Zionists in Canada had cancelled an invitation to Dr. Wise to address them.

The resignation was offered because of the storm of protest which has arisen among certain Jews against Dr. Wise's utterances in Carnegie Hall last Sunday to the effect that Jews must recognize Jesus was a great moral teacher, and that the tenets "he taught were essentially the same as those taught by the Jewish elders."

Dr. Wise did not offer his resignation, however, without first attacking the condemnation of his statements levelled at him by the Agudath Haraborim (Union of Orthodox Rabbis) whom he charged with having issued an "incredible edict' against him based upon "hearsay evidence' 'obtained without "even the hearing of witnesses."

The noted Jewish leader said he did not wish the resignation construed as an assent on his part to the justice of attacks made against him. He maintained his loyalty to Judaism and to Zionism, and suggested it is not necessary for him "to offer a defense for any word before the bar of Jewish opinion in America."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

MARINER PLANS MODEL VILLAGE BRITISH FISHERS

Captain Vince Would Bring English and Scotch to Vancouver Island.

PLENTY OF FISH

Inside Waters Only Are Being Worked at Present.

PORT ALBERNI, B.C., Dec. 26 —(Canadian Press).—Establishment of model fishing villages on the west coast of Vancouver Island peopled by men and women of hardy English and Scottish stock is the ambition of Captain I. M. Vince, veteran mariner, fisheries operator and personal friend of Premier Stanley Baldwin.

Captain Vince has spent several months here making arrangements for the development of the fisheries industry along lines that hitherto have not been attempted. He declares that past efforts to induce the immigration of fisherfolk to this coast have been failures, but he believes that the lack of foresight and the practical element are responsible for this situation. He is confident that if the proper methods are used it will be easy to bring hundreds of experienced fishermen here to engage in the herring and other branches of fishing.

"In a few years the inside waters will be almost depleted of fish if the present rate of consumption continues," said Captain Vince. "There are schools of herring seven miles long off the Vancouver Island coast and at present they are not being molested because there is no demand. With other fisheries approaching exhaustion there will soon be a demand, however, and this deep water fishing is something that appeals to white men, not Orientals. For that reason I believe that efforts to interest Old Country fishermen in such a program as I am working on seems to me to be entirely practical."

Captain Vince made a visit to the British Isles, where he conferred with Premier Baldwin, whom he has known personally for forty years, and others concerning his project. The support of the Imperial Government was promised and the Overseas Settlement Board and Agent-General are now active in the matter.

DAVID BEATEN BY WESTERNER

Bible Hero Slung Stone to Kill Giant—Tomkins Kills Bear by Throwing.

BIG BLACK BEAST

TELKWA, B.C., Dec. 26.—(By Canadian Press)—Stewart Edward White and other members of the new big game hunting cult use the bow and arrow of the middle ages in bringing down their victims, but Scott Tomkins, Telkwa teamster, goes back to the days of David and Goliath for his weapon. Indeed, this modern counterpart of David does not even use a sling. His specialty is hurling stones and his only means of propulsion is in his trusty right arm.

Tomkins was driving home from the Telkwa coal mine recently when his horses reared up and almost overturned the wagon, a big black bear sitting in the middle of the road defying the team to approach.

Tomkins got out of the wagon and walked towards the bear. Usually a bear will run away from such a procedure, but this one was more daring. The animal seemed interested in the man's movements rather than being inclined to retreat. Tomkins picked up a stone and endeavored to frighten bruin, who immediately started to dance. The man then took careful aim and let go, the stone hitting the bear between the eye and the big fellow toppled over, unconscious.

The teamster finished the bear off with an iron crow bar and brought the carcass into town in order to be able to convince his friends of his amazing feat.

Mothers especially like it for children as it takes the place of internal medicines.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

HEART DISEASE IS VERY PREVALENT

More People Likely to Die of It Than From Tuberculosis.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Rheumatism was the subject discussed at the last meeting of the International Society of Hydrology. Dr. Monod (France) said there was little rehumatism in his country, probably because of climate. Doctors from Holland said it was prevalent there but they had no official data. In Sweden, with a total population of 6,000,000, pensions were paid to 1,500 persons yearly because of rheumatism.

It was calculated that in Great Britain there were between 45,000 and 50,000 children of school age with organic heart disease. In London routine inspections showed that of children aged 12, 3 per cent. of the boys and 4 per cent. of the girls had heart defects. In the children's hospital in London, during the year 1919-20, it was found that of 172 cases of rheumatic fever 66 per cent. developed heart disease, of which 22 children died and 38 were permanently invalided.

In the United States cardiac diseases were responsible for one in every six or seven deaths. The Statistical Bulletin stated that a child of 10 years of age was three times as likely to die eventually from heart disease as from tuberculosis. At 35 years of age the probability in favor of heart disease was nearly four times that of tuberculosis among women. About one in every five of the population living at the age of 18 would eventually succumb to organic heart disease. After 40 years of age the proportion was increased. On the other hand, the chance of dying from tuberculosis decreased with advancing age.

Old Dutch

Won't Scratch

Because

Old Dutch contains no hard, sharp grit which cuts and ruins surfaces. It erases the dirt, instead of grinding it off. This is so because of its distinctive quality and character. To the eye a fine powder—under the microscope flaky, flat shaped particles, which make complete contact with the surface. Being flat shaped, they naturally cover more surface. Therefore, Old Dutch goes further, lasts longer. It erases visible as well as invisible impurities and assures you of healthful cleanliness.

PETERBOROUGH CITY TRUST ONLY SURVIVOR OF SEVERAL LIKE BODIES FORMED IN 1860 HANDLES CITY'S DEBENTURES AND PROPERTY

Other Cities Have Discarded Their Trust Bodies, And Local Committee Is Only One Still Functioning. Sixty Years Old.

HOLD'S ALL CITY'S PROPERTY.

Money For Sinking Funds And Interest On Debentures Is Paid To Trust, Which Pays Interest And Invests Funds.

The Peterborough City Trust was established by an Act of the Parliament of Canada in the year 1861. Several other towns in Ontario had similar bodies created about the same time, but I understand that later they went out of existence, and the Peterborough body is the only one of the kind that continues to function. The Act of Parliament referred to consolidated the debt of the then town. The municipality had incurred liabilities in connection with the railway then known as the Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton Railway, to procure the construction of a railway from Peterborough to Millbrook, and also for the erection of and other improvements. It also desired to issue further debentures for the purchase of crown lands to the south of the town, for the erection of an engine house, a lockup and a town hall, and it was authorized to consolidate these various debts and for that purpose and the other purposes mentioned to issue debentures amounting to $120,000.00.

Real estate owned by the Town was vested in the Trust, including the market block (bounded by George and Water Streets and Charlotte and Simcoe Streets), land procured from the Crown south of the town, and the Town Hall. The debentures were secured on this real estate, as well as being a liability of the municipality in the ordinary way, and the revenue from it was to be used to pay interest on the debentures so far as such revenue would go and to establish a sinking fund for the principal debt.

The idea behind the organization of the Trust appeared to be that the Commissioners of the Trust would be trustees for the purchasers of debentures and the municipality. The Trust was required to furnish a statement to the Town Council each year, showing the amounts required for interest and sinking funds for the debentures, distinguishing the amounts required for debentures which had been issued for different purposes in so far as required to enable the Council to levy the rates properly, and the Council was required to raise the amounts so requisitioned upon the rateable property of the town liable therefor and to pay the amounts to the Trust on the fourteenth of December in each year. Any members of the Council or Town officials who did not carry out this provision, by levying the amounts shown by the statement from the Trust, to be required to provide for the interest and sinking funds and handing them over to the Trust, were made liable to penalties.

The creation of the Trust, and the provisions as to levying and paying over to the Trust the sums required by them under the Act, were intended to effectually prevent the Council from diverting the amounts levied for interest to other purposes, as has been known to be done by some Municipal Councils.

The first Commissioners of the Trust were:

EDMUND CHAMBERLEN, a builder, and a member of the first Council of the Town.

SAMUEL DICKSON, a lumberman, who had been a member of the Council, and the founder of the business now carried on by the Peterborough Lumber Co. and the Dickson Co. Members of his family still reside in the city and are well-known ladies of philanthropic habits.

CHARLES BRADFIELD, who was a general merchant and a member of the Council.

WILLIAM HALL, a member of the mercantile house of Nicholls & Hall. His partner left a very large estate, by which the city benefited through the donations and will of Mrs. Nicholls, and the Nicholls Park, Jackson Park, Nicholls Hospital and Y. M. C. A. building are monuments of her benefactions. Mr. Hall himself founded the Wm. Hall Poor Trust and left $30,000.00, the interest from which is used by Trustees for the benefit of needy widows.

JAMES STEVENSON, was the fifth Commissioner. He was a merchant. He was Mayor of the Municipality at different periods and for ten years altogether; was a member of the Board of Education for over 50 years and Chairman of the Board for 27 years; a member of the Town and City Trust from 1861 until his death in 1910, almost 50 years, and Chairman a large part of that time; a member of Parliament for two terms, elected in 1887 and 1891; a director of the Cemetery Co., of the Horticultural Society and other public bodies. The city has commemorated his public services by naming the park on the east side of the Otonabee River, in which the baseball grounds are situated, after him.

The Commissioners were appointed for life, and it was provided that any vacancies should be filled by the Council, and those so appointed by the Council also held office for life.

In 1908 considerable changes were made in the constitution of the Trust. By an Act of the Legislature passed in that year it was provided that the Commissioners of the Trust, instead of holding office for life, should be appointed by the Council for five years, one retiring each year. When the first appointments were made under this Act one member was appointed for five years, one for four years, one for three years, one for two years and one for one year, and since that one retires each year.

The Commissioners continue to handle the interest on debentures and the sinking funds as before. All real estate owned by the City was vested in the Trust, which included what was called the market block in the original Act, the former Ashburnham Village Hall with stores, a farm of 60 acres which the City purchased for beds of gravel that were in it and still owns, and other propetty. The Trust may lease any of this property not required for municipal purposes for five years or for a longer period with the consent of the Council, and it may sell any of such property with the consent of the Council expressed by a By-law passed by a vote of two-thirds of the members of the Council.

The rents received from the property, after paying the expenses of management and maintenance, are applied to payment of interest on debentures and, if there should be a surplus, the balance is applied towards sinking funds. The receipts from sales of property may at the request of the Council be used to purchase other real estate required for municipal purposes, or in reduction of the debt, or for sinking fund purposes, or as may be agreed upon by the Council and the Commissioners of the Trust.

Besides the real estate a mortgage which the City held was handed over to the Trust. This mortgage was given in 1857. The Port Hope, Lindsay and Beavterton Railway leased its powers, privileges, etc., to build a railway from Millbrook to Peterborough for 999 years to George Tate and John Fowler on condition that the lessee should build that branch of the railway. Peterborough, in order to assist in the construction of that part of the railway took stock for $120,00.00 and was to receive security for interest at 6 per cent. per annum. The company made default in the payment, and in 1863 an adjustment was made by which the Municipality was given a mortgage by the lessees for $78,800.00, bearing 6 per cent. intefest, and $1,200.00 of the principal to be paid each year. This railway later became part of the Midland Railway system, then of the Grand Trunk Railway and is now part of the Canadian National Railways. The interest and principal payments have been made and at the end of last year the mortgage had been reduced to $5,600.00. The interest on this mortgage and the payments on principal have been applied to the debenture debt of the City.

When the City subscribed for this $120,000.00 of stock in the railway the debentures issued to raise money to pay for the stock sold at a discount and further debentures for $50,000.00 were issued and this debt was incurred at a time when the assessment of the municipality amounted to $59,537.00. Evidently our fathers had courage and faith in the future of the town.

That the real estate owned by the City brings its revenue is shown by the fact that in 1924 rents amounting to $4,737.00 were received from stores in the market building, $4,495.00 from ground rents on George Street, $1,259.00 from buildings on Simcoe Street, $798.00 from the former village hall, and $1,129.00 from the farm, making a total of $12,418.00.

The City Trust is authorized to purchase, with the consent of the Council, buildings erected on the market square under ground leases, and under this authority purchased buildings on Simcoe Street, but none of those on George Street have been purchased.

That under this system in operation the finances of the municipality have been carefully managed appears from the financial statement at the end of last year. The debenture debt then amounted to $4,069,546.00. The City owns revenue producing assets valued at $3,007,780.00, made up of:

Real estate, revenue producing	$ 202,907.00
Utilities (electric system and waterworks)	1,504,660.00
Sinking funds	1,243,243.00
Surplus sinking funds	56,969.00
Total revenue producing assets	$3,007,779.00

It will be noticed that not only has the City Trust all the sinking funds required, but a surplus in this account of $56,969.00. The value of the revenue producing assets leave a balance of debenture debt of $1,061,767.00. But in addition to the revenue producing assets the City owns real estate which is convertible into cash but not revenue producing valued at $597,955.00, which leaves a debt balance of only $463,812.00, and against this amount the non-convertible assets (sewers, sidewalks, bridges, etc.) amount to $1,440,391.00, which gives a surplus of assets over liabilities of $976,579.00.

It would appear that this institution of the City Trust, which is now 64 years old, has worked to the advantage of the municipality, and, too, that the City Council has been fairly conservative in its financial transactions.

Pin Makers Disconcerted By New Fangled Pin Finder

LONDON, Dec. 26—(United Press).—Manufacturer of pins who, like the makers of mustard, have always counted upon the inevitable waste of their product for their profits, are disconsolate over a new invention which has invaded the great tailoring and dress-making trades.

It is a small but powerful magnet on a pole. When the day's work is done, all the pins were swept out as waste, are carefully picked up with this magnet and saved for the next days' work.

This unexpected thrift has proed very disconcerting to the pin manufacturers who declare that their profits are seriously affected

STRANGE STAR HAS MAGNETIC POWERS

Match Would Weigh Sixty Pounds and Gold Sovereign a Ton.

LONDON, Dec. 26. — (United Press)).—In the tiny star known as the Companion of Sirius—discovered by Alvan Clark of New York in 1862—the universe has a mysterious body of such tremendous mass or gravitation that a match there would weight sixty pounds and a gold sovereign would weigh a ton. Its force of gravity is 200,000 times that of the earth though its size is no bigger than a mere planet.

Sir Oliver Lodge, giving the "Huxley Lecture" before the Charing Cross Hospital Medical school, cited this all powerful little star, capable of distributing periodically that vast Colossus of the heavens, Sirius, as an example of one of the stages in the mysterious evolution of the Universe.

"The beginning of our own little world was the formation of nebulae 2,000 million years ago," said Sir Oliver, "and I may add that this date is no mere guess. Then end of the world will apparently be the disappearance of all the familiar matter around us and the existence once more of an ether filled with perpetual remnants of radiation travelling out towards infinity with the speed of light; this will take place at a date incomparably more remote than any I have mentioned."

Books That Have Interested Me

This is the fifth of a series by Peterborough people.

By K. S. WIGHTMAN.
Principal Central School.

I remember very clearly the first day the Public Library of my native town opened for business. I had been waiting impatiently for half an hour before the doors were unlocked, and when I was at last admitted and peered through the grille that shut off the stack-room from the public, I felt a thrill of anticipation very similar, I imagine, to that of a gourmand who settles himself in his chair for a seven course dinner. It is true that I soon encountered a most irritating rule that limited a small boy's rations to one book every four days; but there were ways of circumventing that, and I was able to indulge a voracious appetite to the full. As I have been doing so ever since so far as time and opportunity would permit, I find it rather difficult when I am asked to select a list of the ten books that have impressed me the most.

However, books are like people in that while we are quite content to have a bowing acquaintance with the many, a few become real friends whose company we seek again and again. So, for lack of a better guiding principle, I have tried to make a list, not necessarily of the best books, but of those I return to most often.

On the shelf before me, there is a battered volume which I purchased long ago in front of a book-store for the sum of twenty-five cents. It is entitled "The Essays of Michael, Seigneur de Montaigne." I imagine I bought it because it seemed a lot of book for the price which indeed I found it to be in another sense than paper and print. I have never read it through continuously. The best of talkers becomes a bore when he talks too long. But this French nobleman of the 16th century is never a bore. Though you may have only ten minutes to spend with him, he is ready to give you simply and entirely without reserve his views on anything under the sun from the ordinary problems of life to the deeper speculations of philosophy. It would be hard to make a more companionable and stimulating friend.

My copy of Plato's Republic shows, too, the effect of continued use. I confess that my early readings were done under compulsion. Whether the subject of study was Philosophy, or Political Science, or Education, back I was sent to Plato to lay the foundation; until, at last, I found that I was reading the book with keen pleasure in his insight into human affairs. Some day, when we are wiser, we may begin to apply his ideas as well as read them.

The first biographical work I ever read and enjoyed was entitled "Classical Biography." It was I found later, part of "Plutarch's Lives" and, in its more complete form, I still read and enjoy it. I know that most of my conceptions of classical times come from it rather than from the standard histories of Greece and Rome.

From the shelf of poetry, Browning comes down most frequently. Our modern poets, with their gloomy outlook on life, affect to sneer at what they call his 'sticky optimism' but my preference remains. I can be gloomy enough without the aid of poetry.

I cannot put one of Shakespeare's great tragedies on my list for, while I have studied them and learned to admire them, I have never read them for pleasure. The comedies are another story; and, if one must be selected, my choice is The Tempest.

Among historical books, Green's "History of the English People" with its vivid and readable style, still remains a favourite above others which can perhaps claim a more meticulous accuracy.

From a considerable number of volumes of Psychology which began as taskmasters and have remained as friends, my choice is a recent book, Thorpe's "Instinct, Character, and Intelligence." It seems a pity that the subject is not of more general interest. We could be so much more tolerant of those queer vagaries in which our friends sometimes indulge, if we had a little more knowledge of the working of the human mind.

David Copperfield will, I fancy, find place on most lists; but, while I shall not dispute its claims to first place among Dickens' works, I shall present instead my old friend, the Pickwick Papers. Broad farce, if you like, but a very jolly one. And then, there is that delightful exposition of the Christmas spirit, the Christmas Carol. One could not do better than reread it every Christmas season especially if coal and the high price of turkeys are weighing on one's mind.

Stevenson's St. Ives gets a place on the list not as a great piece of literature but simply as an enthralling story of romance and adventure.

There is, I see, only one vacant place. So books of travel, letters, and all the great flood of modern fiction will have to go unrepresented; for that last place is reserved for Quiller-Couch's On the Art of Reading. One is so apt to read without discrimination, to let the habit of reading degenerate into a time-wasting vice rather than a means of enriching the mind, that it is imperative to stop at times and reflect on the real function of literature; and, for such a time of reflection, I know no better companion than this Cambridge professor of English Literature.

A DOCTOR OF THE OLD SCHOOL

By J. F. H. W.

And here I was at the edge of the village and strange to say it was the second edge of that same village which I had been at within the space of but a few minutes. For I had stopped on the outskirts to enquire where my man lived, and in spite of a most earnest and most patient attention to the slowly given directions of one of the place's prominent citizens, I had made my way down the main and apparently only street, to find myself at the end of this little local bit of settlement, and still my quest in vain. And just then who should loom up in the narrow bit of horizon seen through the windshield but one of the oldest inhabitants of the male species? A sudden rush—and I was upon him. Yes, literally, for he was very deaf and the sounds from my gentle tongue had to be conveyed to his ear by a direct method—no air space between—a close connection—so close that I verily believe the old chap thought I was a long lost relation from France and was going to kiss him on both cheeks.

"What's it ye say?" "Can you tell me where Dr. L— lives?" "Yes, he's a fine man, and has saved many lives." "Yes! Yes! But where does he live?" "Well! Well! Ye surely must be a stranger in these here parts. Just turn down that next road and when ye come to a place where ye see a lot of bottles—why, that's where the doctor stays."

Funny, and still they were all the directions I could get, so I followed them and had no trouble for the bottles were there in such numbers and in such profusion that the place was easily identified. No wonder the doctor didn't have a sign. Much cheaper to pile the empties outside the front door. Weren't they labelled? Castor-oil, hypophosphates, iodine, blaud pills, not to say anything of a few Latin titles with Roman hieroglyphics. Where else would one find such a collection but outside a medico's office? There they were, some of them of the vintage of '99—hoary with the dust of age, or mud splashes from the road—I don't know which—but on top a few late additions just to freshen the sign up—just as a city sign would have its periodic rub. So much easier and cheaper than keeping a brass sign clean—"Walk in"—"Will be back in 10 minutes"—"Doctor is in"—"Leave the message next door"—"Won't be back until Friday morning." Oh, no! Nothing like that. The door was wide open—the invitation was yours. If you didn't walk in it was your own fault. So in I went, and then I knew. The secret was out. I had run my hare to the ground. I had found the reason for Dr. L—'s reputation and success.

It was the novelty of the place. Such a novel sight as this could only be associated with at least an out-of-the ordinary character, and all the world loves something different. I had never seen anything like it. Facing me was a dark niche only lighted by the rays of daylight which found their way down the long hall. There in front of me, shelf on shelf, were literally rows and rows of bottles, all sizes and heights, in about as irregular formation as an army of mushrooms. As to their contents, little left to the imagination, for each bottle displayed its wares down its sides—white, brown, black, pink—all the colors of pharmacy. Corks seemed at a premium in that part of the world and so most of the members of this great bottle family had decided to leave their necks open, for as some of them said—odour has a lot to do with our make-up.

Such a sight was but an invitation to proceed further on my journey inward—though truth to tell my poor organ of smell demanded that I should at least either retire into God's fresh air or proceed further—anything to get away from that smelly corner. So further I went—to the left; an anteroom apparently—the furniture told me it was—a rocking chair to rock in until the doctor came back. (No wonder the poor old thing had broken down under the strain of many hours of rocking.) A table which should have contained reading matter to wile away the weary hours of waiting, but it didn't, unless a 1919 issue of a medical journal would make the necessary exception to prove the rule. And then I almost forgot—a bench against the wall with springs on it (at intervals) and covered with an old piece of tapestry (not handwoven) tattered and torn just like "Old Glory." Some would call it a lounge but I wouldn't—it wouldn't be fair to other lounges. This poor old thing, really it couldn't help it. If you and I had as many springs sticking into us, well, we would look the same. On the wall a parchment. I know it for age had turned it the yellow which only parchment can turn. More Latin or something and I know for sure it said the dear old doctor had graduated in the year ——, (well, that would be telling), from a university which long since has passed to its forefathers.

Still another invitation, another door, but a step and this time into the holy of holies—a veritible maze in front of me, or perhaps I should say a roll-top desk, but who can tell a roll top desk when so well disguised. Its top hadn't been down for years. The doctor had bought it cheap from a hospital when they couldn't do anything for it. Poor thing, better if it had died, for it surely leads a miserable existence now. It looks for all the world like a hen suffering from forced feeding. So many papers in it (I hope they are not bills), that it takes a double row of stalwart bottles to hold them all in. The same bottle family as those we have left behind us—same open necks—only these have gone farther in displaying their contents and from the side of each bottle oozes a little stream, gently flowing to a central meeting place situated right on the edge of this long-suffering old desk. There Mrs. Bismuth meets Mr. Pepsin, the famous Cascara is able to try its strength against Magnesia, the wonderful Epsom Salts mingle with the Bicarbonate of Soda until one cannot distinguish them. Sulphur, Camphor and Ammonia have a grand argument daily as to which is the most useful. Little Johnny Skunk Oil, Flopsy Coon Oil, and Mopsy Goose Oil hate each other like poison, and if it were not for the Nitre, with her sweet spirit, goodness knows what would happen. Old Peroxide and Eucalyptus make Borax look like a poor acid.

A good idea this meeting place. One never knows just what "action" one will see there. A good situation too, for like in all good water systems the over-flow is taken care of—it goes on the floor. Handy having a bottle of syrup there—pleasant to take and a good receptacle for drafts. The bank junior has just been in and one sits perched there now—on top of the syrup bottle.

Dust to dust. Oh, boy! What advantage our old Med takes of that truth. With him it is a case of adding the dust of this year to that of last year. Dust to dust.

Yes, the secret is out. They like his medicines. They are mysterious. Who else could find them? And it's worth waiting hours to get them.

Oh! the doctor has come in, a short dapper man full of brusqueness—outside a fine six cylinder. What a paradox—a bachelor and he cooks his own meals, and all this in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and twenty-five, and in this our fair Province of Ontario. Well! Well! What next?

PORT WINE CALLED TEMPERANCE DRINK

Lady Astor Said "No! No!" When Member Called It Teetotal Drink.

LONDON, Dec. 26.— (United Press).—Among the serious drinkers of Lancashire, port wine is considered a tee-totaler's drink.

This at any rate was the assertion made in the House of Commons during the course of a debate regarding the use of government stamp books as a medium for carrying advertisements of a port wine. J. Hudson, Socialist member from Huddersfield, rose to demand the elimination of the advertisement from the stamp books. He referred to the advertisement as advocating the drinking of "a highly poisonous and expensive material."

"I gather" commented another member "that Mr. Hudson is not aware that port wine is universally considered the tee-total drink in Lancashire."

The remark was greeted with loud laughter by the House and cries of "No! No!" from Lady Astor.

VIENNESE CHANGE HABITS OF EATING

Small Incomes of Society People Responsible for Change.

VIENNA, Dec. 26.—A pinched pocketbook is responsible for a rearrangement of the habits of the best society people in Vienna, as far as meals are concerned. Families are trying to enjoy life as much as possible on a small income and in order to take in dances and music, have abolished the set evening dinner.

Instead, tea is now taken an hour later, generally at six o'clock, so that sons and daughters working in the city can participate. Circles of friends take this meal at each others flats in turn, and there is dancing to wireless or the gramaphone until nine. This is followed by a "hot sausage" meal with which horseradish is served together with any sandwiches left over from tea.

The new custom is considered not only economical, but tends to keep socity in better condition physically, ladies preserving the slimness so necessary for present-day fashions. new social allegiances.

No. 8, Chandos, on Tuesday evening followed by a distribution of gifts from the Christmas tree by Santa Claus, personated by Wilbert Tanner. Mr. Robert Tanner, the secretary-treasurer made a very able chairman. The scholars acquitted themselves very creditably, but special mention should be made of the Dance of the Candies by eight girls in candy costumes. CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

The dog swam along beside her. "Nice boy, good boy!" she murmured at intervals, and always in return there was the friendly little "Woof! Woof!"—if only the warp too were as well intentioned and kindly, thought Connemara, who, though never ostentatious in her display of wisdom or erudition, was acquainted with mottoes and classic quotations, however slightly.

On they swam. "Home, Bugle, home please!" pleaded Connemara. She slackened her stroke, and the dog stopped too. He began nosing about her shoulders, and she realized that he was seeking a tooth hold, whereby he might take her in his mouth and carry her home.

"Oh, Bugle, if you were a man, I'd marry you, dear, however you felt about it!" Bugle, unacquainted with the plot, seemed to appreciate the compliment. For, though the gossamer chemise du jour which clung lankly to her shoulder blades offered no hospitality to his gallant teeth, when her arm was about his neck he started to swim again, and was making fair headway with his lovely burden, of whose bodily beauty he was unaware, though her sweetness of heart must have spoken to his nobility through her gentle voice and touch.

"No, no, Bugle, dear," she addressed his woolly ear, "I cannot let you support me. I'm tired, but I can still paddle along." So she took her arm from his neck, and started once more to swim by his side. But not for long. Bugle, like most successful heroes, had not undertaken his rescue till safety was in sight. For soon, on a downward stroke, her arm was entangled in seaweed.

"Land," she exclaimed, like Columbus and Cortez, "is near."

And, like Columbus and Cortez, she was right. She felt for bottom and touched it. It was a rough bottom, and a rocky one. How fortunate that she had been unable to shed the slippers which now protected her delicate feet.

"We never know, or at least not always, do we, Bugle, when our misfortunes are blessings!" Bugle, still swimming beside her, did not answer, but she felt that somewhere under the dark water he had wagged his prankish tail.

The water was only to her hipbones. It seemed quieter here and calmer. Bugle must have led her to a cove—one he knew, probably, and therefore a safe haven, for no such dog as th is could have been developed in any but refined and respectable surroundings. Which shows how well Connemara knew the world.

There was a sputtering and shaking at her side. Bugle had stopped swimming and come to his feet. What a tall dog he was! His head was level with her waist. Even as she walked uncomfortably over the stones, Connemara speculated on the breed of this noble animal, for she was ever interested in the sciences, natural or applied, and in history, natural, personal, or private.

Shallower and shallower grew the water, nearer and nearer the shore and peace, at least until day broke all over anything. But until then she would sleep tranquilly on this strand of sandy beach, secure in the protection of a strong and chivalrous friend.

But it wasn't a sandy shore; it was one of those interesting arrangements of slime, reeds, seaweeds and small stones cleverly sharpened on three sides with which the north shore of Long Island is irrevocably bound.

Plowing through the slime of mud and clams, active and extinct, her knickers and chemise of apricot siffle bound with tourquoise, her silken silver stockings rolled just below her rosy dimpled knees, water dripping from her glorious cuprous tresses on her creamy marble back, Connemara must have presented a picture of appealing beauty had there been light and an eye to behold her. But, alas, there was neither. Only the soughing of summer winds, the lap of little black waves as the tide raced out to sea and the stout heart beating, beating beneath the shaggy coat which pressed her thigh, guiding her gently. Safely ashore, they shook themselves, as it were, by mutual consent. Then Bugle's sweet cold nose in her palm and his gentle "R-r-r" said as plainly as words of one syllable, "Come with me!"

Slowly he guided her a little way up the shore, slightly inland. Connemara walked carefully over the stones fearing a little to turn her ankle which, without costume or chaperone, might be awkward.

"Here, Bugle?" inquired Connemara affectionately.

Sand! Soft and warm sand. The intelligent and thoughtful beast had surmised that she was in need of rest, and led her to what was probably the most comfortable place for miles around.

Connemara lay down beside him and snuggled close to his hide. By this time he was almost dry and, though still a little damp, was warmer than the girl he had decided to befriend.

In a few minutes Bugle was asleep.

Propped gracefully against him, Connemara would have slept too, but for the questions which raced inanely through her mind, just as though there were answers for them. Why had McTish left her, or had he? Who was Lacy? What happened after she left the ship, and why should any of it have happened? And oh, why, why had Aunt Celimena made such ridiculous conditions? It was all her fault, really.

This thought was rather comforting, and, snuggling a little closer to Bugle, she fell asleep.

She was awakened by a gentle touch. Opening her eyes, she saw that it was nearly dawn. A grayish light, faintly suffused with pink, made visible the green bushes in whose shelter she had slept in a patch of sand. Then she saw Bugle and knew what had waked her.

Bugle was covering her up. He had realized that she was cold, this kindly and intelligent beast . . . Beast? No, never—hero was a better word. Connemara was too young and too cold to reflect how often they are interchangeable.

"Angel!" She thus addressed Bugle, and he wagged his tail appreciatively in acknowledgment of her praise. But in a moment he was off again, having covered her carefully with something big and heavy, which felt very good.

Connemara huddled beneath it for a moment, and then sat up to see what it was.

An oilskin coat, and a very nice one. Not an old flung-away one which Bugle might have found in the bushes, but a clean, quite new one, which he had either dragged from a closet or someone had lent him, at his request, to cover her up.

Connemara stood up to examine it. A good one indeed! Except, as she noticed a minute later, for a square patch which had been torn jaggedly out of one of the fronts.

Who was he? She wondered as she slipped the thing on. Tall, she knew that, for his coat flapped around her feet. Nice? She thrust her hand in his pocket. A clean handkerchief, large and of fine, pure linen. No monogram, no perfume, not even a laundry mark.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, DECEMBER 27, 28.

Sunday's horoscope is a very unimportant one, according to the entire absence of astral portents. Things should proceed as usual after the liveliness of holiday engagements.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an unusually quiet and routine year unless they happen to be born rather late at night, when they should be careful in signing papers or writings. A child born on this day may have a rather uneventful life, unless born late in the afternoon in which case it should be clever.

Monday's astrological forecast points to a rather unsettled year, with annoyances and anxieties in business affairs, brought on largely by the disposition to be restless and irritable. There may be change and travel but not to the liking, and there is possible danger of loss through speculation; fraud or writings. Personal affairs should be pleasanter.

Those whose birthday it is should be careful with their money and make all changes with precaution. Home affairs should be happy and thrive. A child born on this day may tend to be restless and unsettled.

WHERE THEY FEAST IN HONOR OF THE MOON.

Moon Cakes Are the Real Symbol.

To the Chinese, the moon is more than just a heavenly body. They retain traces of a worship of the moon in their customs and habits. They regard the moon as a special influence on their daily lives.

And so their Thanksgiving is held at the time of the full moon in the eighth month of their calendar. Great is their exultation if the moon shines forth clear and bright on that night, and equally great is their lamentation if she is dimmed by the passing clouds. For a clear view of the moon on this night is a good augury for the coming year.

The festival is ages old and always it has been celebrated in the same fashion. Its most prominent characteristic is the abundance of good things to eat. The dish of honor is a porker of eight pounds. It is roasted to a rich red brown, garnished and spiced.

But the moon cakes are the real symbols of the occasion. Moon cakes are quite as complicated and difficult to make as a most complicated plum cake of the good old-fashioned variety. They are stuffed with every variety of spice, with ginger, nuts, watermelon seeds and hashed pork and they are served with a sweet sauce.

The moon cake is round and according to popular belief, it resembles a full moon but the resemblance is not very distinct to the unknowing eye.

One of the special customs of the day is that of visiting all one's friends and relatives in order to present them with the moon cakes and to receive them in turn. These visits are the signal for protestations of regard and affection, for the proffering of good wishes. Each visit is the signal for the pouring of libations to the moon.

Thus is the Thanksgiving Day celebrated in old China, the home of beautiful memories of the past. Nowhere in the world do the remnants of past days keep so strong a hold on the imaginations and the actual doing of a nation. They cling with love to the habits of their ancestors, their ever-present ancestors who, from their graves, still dictate to them all through life.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A few weeks ago I took a drive with a successful doctor, a long-time friend of mine. It happened to be one of the first cold days at the beginning of Winter.

My doctor friend growled: "Well, we'll be hearing now about the healthfulness of cold, snappy weather! Most folks hold to the idea that such weather is good for us and that we thrive in consequence of it."

He went on with his tirade against the "idiotic popular ideas." "Show me a temperature chart with one day of zero weather immediately following another zero day, and I'll show you a marked fall in the health of the community." Such was the verdict of my friend.

"What can we do to prevent such results?" I asked.

"Have everybody dress according to the thermometer, guard against exposure—indoors and out—and never go to bed with cold feet. That is the remedy," he replied.

One reason I dread the coal famine is because the houses go cold. It is just as easy to get a terrible cold indoors as out in the weather. To get chilled, whether in your own parlor or on the street, is not good for you, and one place of exposure is just as bad as the other.

Lots of persons, women particularly, have naturally cold feet—that is, they feel cold to the touch. But I do not refer to coldness of this degree. When I speak of cold feet I mean the uncomfortable or painful chilliness which follows exposure to continued low temperature.

One of the foolish ideas of too many persons is to be ashamed of warm stockings or warm shoes. It is all right to wear sheer, silk stockings if your duties do not keep you out-of-doors, or in a cold house hours at a time. You cannot afford to have habitually cold feet and you cannot afford to submit to the dangers of cold feet when you are not used to the cold.

You must use your head in all such matters. Don't go to extremes. Guard against the very dangerous extreme of extremely cold weather. My friend's long experience has taught him a thing which everybody should know.

Indoor workers who spend but a little while each day in the cold out-of-doors should have heavy overcoats or wraps, and other means of protection against that terrible chilling which cuts to the bone. It may seem unnecessary to take precautions against a few minutes or an hour of cold air. On the contrary it is very foolish not to do it.

Please don't go to the other extreme and get no fresh air at all. That is even worse than the chilling. You need the oxygen just as much as in the Summer—more indeed. But in getting fresh air, day or night, keep the body, the feet and the hands warm. Then you will avoid illness.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. D. J. Q.—How long does whooping cough last?

2.—Is there anything that will shorten or relieve the disease?

A.—Usually from six to eight weeks, although the cough may last for some time afterward.

2.—The vaccine treatment is probably the best treatment. Burning a vapor lamp in the room at night often relieves the cough.

A READER. Q.—What causes the palms of the hands to perspire?

A.—This is usually due to nervous condition. Try bathing the hands with a weak solution of alum.

R. S. Q.—What causes the legs to feel weak from the hips down, and a pain in the back right at the waist line, also in the ankle?

A.—This condition is probably due to rheumatism. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars, and repeat your question.

MRS. R. T. Q.—What causes secondary anemia? Would the tonsils cause it?

2.—Would this cause an upset stomach, having no appetite?

2.—This condition may be due to indigestion.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DAVID HAS A CHAT WITH A HAPPY FAMILY.

"Opossum," David spelled every letter out slowly, then he looked all around the cage before he finally spied a little tan and white animal curled up asleep in one corner. "Well, of all things, I never knew folks would cage up an opossum before. We have them right here in America."

"Certainly I'm an American," chuckled a merry voice. Then the little fellow unrolled, stretched his legs and came ambling over to the side of the cage where David was. "But you see, it's very seldom that folks ever see any of my family. We sleep all day, you know, and roam around at night."

"But do you like to live here by yourself?" asked David. "I should think you'd get lonesome."

Mr. Opossum ran up the tree trunk and wrapped his long hairless tail around the limb to keep from falling. He looked so very funny that David laughed.

"That's all right. Laugh if you want to," chuckled Mr. Opossum. "I guess my long tail does look funny; but would you believe that we couldn't get along without these long tails? My wife has a fine use for hers. Have you seen my wife?" he asked. David shook his head and Mr. Opossum called his mate.

Out from behind the bushes came another opossum, with her long, funny-looking tail curled up over her back. When she came near enough for David to see her plainly, he had good cause to laugh, for there perched upon her back sat eight little opossums, each with its tail curled tightly around the mother's tail.

"Well, of all things!" laughed David. "If that isn't the funniest thing I have ever seen in all my life. I should think they'd all tumble off."

"Not with the grip they have on my tail," chuckled Mama Opossum. "I used to think I'd like to have a pouch like Mrs. Kangaroo has, but after I got used to the youngsters riding on my back, I think I like my way better than Mama Kangaroo's."

"Certainly is convenient," agreed David.

"Of course, here in the Zoo, one doesn't have to be so careful of the children," said Mama Opossum. "But out in our wild state, we do have to watch them closely. Would you believe me when I say, I take them every place I go? I don't have to worry about meal time. Our keeper takes care of that and sees that we get plenty to eat. There he comes now with our dinner."

"Just reminds me, I'd better be going home or I'll miss mine," said David, so bidding his new friends good-by, he hurried on home.

FRENCH CABINET STUDYING PLANS

Doumer Hopes to Have Approval So As To Submit To Deputies.

COUNTER PROPOSAL

PARIS, December 26. — Canadian Press.—The French cabinet has taken up the Finance Minister's proposal for the rehabilitation of French finances and M. Doumer hopes that the cabinet will have completed its examination by Tuesday, and made its decision. He will then go before the Chamber of Deputies and face the house which has already disposed of several other finance ministers and their financial proposals.

Both the Chamber and the Senate stand adjourned until Monday but the deputies of the Left cartel are busily engaged on proposals which they will submit as a counter to those of M. Doumer.

CHRISTMAS DAY IN ANGLICAN CHURCHES

Special Services at Local Churches Attended by Large Congregations.

At St. John's Church, there was celebration of Communion at seven, eight and half-past ten o'clock on Christmas morning, with an exceptionally large attendance at the two early services. At the late service there was a Choral Communion service, with special Christmas music by the full choir, led by Frederick G. Mann, organist and choir leader. The choir sang "Glory to God in the Highest," and Adlam's Communion service in F, together with a number of carols. A Christmas message was given by the rector, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D.

At St. Luke's Church, Communion was celebrated at seven, eight and half-past ten o'clock, with appropriate Christmas music, the last service having a seasonal prelude and postlude and an anthem, "Sing, O Heavens," by Gaul. Mr. W. C. Thompson presided at the organ. A Christmas address was given by the rector, Rev. G. J. Bousfield.

There were large attendances at all three services at All Saints' Church yesterday, with especially big congregations at 7.00 and 8.15 a.m. At 10.30 the rector, Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, preached from the text, "Let us go now even unto Bethlehem," and spoke of the peace and joy of Christmas time. He mentioned especially the efforts, more prevalent now than ever before, for peace among the nations of the earth. Special Christmas music was sung by the choir. The church was handsomely decorated with evergreens and flowers, with a fine arch across the front of the chancel.

At St. George's Church good congregations were present at the communion services held at 7.30 and 11 a.m. There was no special music other than the usual Christmas hymns. There will be a carol service to-morrow evening.

MOSLEMS OPPOSED TO LEAGUE DECISION

Conference Declared Itself Against British Intervention in Any Form.

CAWNPORE, British India, Dec. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The annual Caliphate conference here resolved today that the decision of the League of Nations Council in the Turco-British dispute over Mosul was in conflict with the treaty of Lausanne, and declared that if the Turks were "driven to war" Indian Moslems would help them. The resolution invoked Indians not to assist the government with men or money if hostilities broke out.

The conference also urged the removal of non-Moslem control from Irak (the Mesopotamian state which is under British mandate) and declared itself opposed to British intervention in the Arabian Kingdom of Hedjaz in any form.

RUSSIA MAY BE GIVEN STANDING

Soviet Government Must Decrease Armies To Insure Society's Success.

SUSPICIONS RIFE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—Out of the arms conference, if one is actually held in Geneva, is almost certain to come the readmission of Russia to full standing in the international society. In addition it must develop according to the views of home experts, as the Harding conference developed into an attempt to settle the Chinese question. European powers cannot cut down their armies until they are satisfied that the Soviet Government will do likewise. It is deduced that Russia, when she takes her seat among other nations must say she cannot disarm in the face of Japan's armistice in Manchuria and there about. Japan in turn will ask how she can disband her army with the Chinese armies struggling for mastery and her own responsibility to maintain the safety of foreigners in China. The Russian idea is that Japan is behind one of the Chinese factions; Japan contends the other faction is officered by Soviet commanders and accoutred with Soviet arms.

Rain in Southern Argentine Gives Upturn to Wheat

Chicago, December 26. — Canadian Press. — Brisk new upturn in wheat values took place to-day soon after trading began. The rise was associated with reports of rain in Southern Argentina and with it talk that the adjustment of wheat supply and demand in the United States has never before been so close. It was likewise asserted that the domestic movement of wheat from the country is dwindling again, and that marketings of wheat in the Canadian Northwest are also on the wane. Opening 1-8c off to ¼c up new style, Dec. $1.76 3-4 and May $1.74 to $1.74¾ was followed by an advance to 1.80½ for Dec. and $1.79¼ for May.

Corn and oats ascended with wheat. The corn market was also influenced by the fact that corn prices are approximately 50c a bushel lower than a year ago. After opening unchanged May 84 to 84 1-8 the corn market went up to 85 3-4 for May.

Oats started at ¼ off to 1-8c up, May 45c, and later scored a moderate general advance.

Provisions were responsive to the upward trend of grain.

HOLY DAY FEAST AT SACRED HEART

Church Crowded to Capacity at Midnight Mass. Peace Emphasized.

The holy day feast, commemorating the birth of Jesus, was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday with the traditional emphasis upon its significance in God's scheme of the redemption and elevation of mankind. At midnight mass, which crowded the church to standing room, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, parish priest, wished the people the great blessing of peace—peace with God, peace with their families and peace with all their neighbors. That was the angel's greeting at the Nativity. To promote peace enmities must be wiped out, and Father O'Brien advised that any slights or offences that might have occurred during the year between friends should be generously forgiven, especially under the inspiration of God's great love for men.

The midnight mass was marked by special music by the school girls' choir, and by the festal Mass music. Among the soloists were Misses Barnes, Allen, Willard and Mrs. H. LaPlante.

The offertory hymn was "Holy Night," sung by Master James Moloney, accompanied by Harold Armstrong at the organ and Jerry Collins, violinist.

HORSEMEAT NOW FRENCH LUXURY

"Poor Man's Beefsteak" Dearer Than Other Meats.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Horsemeat, formerly "the poor mans beefsteak" has becme a French luxury. Scarcity of butcherable animals is given as the cause of its enormous increase in price.

One pound of choice horsemeat at the local markets recently was quoted 9.50 francs—about forty cents. Pork chops could be had for 3.50, roast beef for 9.00 and mutton for 7.50.

Besides the gradual disappearance of horses "on the hoof" available for the markets, a tax of one franc twenty-five centimes per pound placed on the meat was said to have influenced higher prices.

Horsemeat is recommended by physicians for persons suffering from tuberculosis and ill diseases of anaemia of the blood. The sanatoriums of Southern France have been severely hit by the rise in price.

STE. AGATHE, Lobiniere County, Que., Dec. 26 (Canadian Press). —The parish church of Ste Agathe de Lotbiniere was completely destroyed by fire yesterday. The sacred host was saved and a few pieces of furniture were rescued from the vestry.

The fire is believed to have been caused by the fall of one of the lighted candles.

EIGHT COMETS YEAR'S NUMBER

New One Discovered By Polish Observatory Creates Interest.

FIRST SEEN NOV. 19.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 14. —(By Mail). — Great interest is being taken by British astronomers in the discovery of the new comet recently by observation at Cracow, Poland, and which was announced as being of the eighth magnitude. It was first seen on the night of November 19th at right ascension 17 hours 18 1-2 minutes and north declination 33 degrees 4 minutes. It was movin south-east about four degrees a day —namely, 14 1-2 minutes of time in right ascension, and 2 1-2 degrees southward in declination.

Its position at the week-end was stated to be about one degree east of miherculis.

The Royal Obzservatory at Greenwich have been informed of the Polish discovery but as there have been no clear nights since it was found there has been no opportunity to observe it. Each year a certin number of new comets is discovered, but this year the total has been unusually large and has now reached eight The majority are not very bright, and if this one should prove to be really bright it will be of interest, should it be a comet which has come within observation of the earth before, its importance will be considerably greater.

DECORATIONS CAUSE HEAVY FIRE LOSSES

Oullette Market Damaged by Flames of Unknown Origin.

WINDSOR, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press). — Christmas decorations strung in retail establishments located in the Oullette market caused heavy fire losses in this building late last night as the flames travelled from one shop to another and set alight stocks of merchandise when the decorations fell in flames to the floor. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Rough estimates made of losses this morning by Garnet A. Edward indicated that the damage would run between $25,000 and $30,000.

For the Board of Education

TO THE ELECTORS:

In yielding to the persuasion of citizens who have urged me to offer my services as a member of the Board of Education, I wish to make my position in regard to the proposed new Collegiate Institute absolutely clear.

I am utterly and flatly opposed to committing Peterborough to the expenditure of the large sum involved in the proposed building programme until the people have been consulted and have been given an opportunity to express their opinion by means of the ballot.

If I am honored by your confidence, my policy on the Board of Education will be to urge that the Council be asked to submit the question to the ratepayers, rather than to endeavor to have the building proposal ratified by the Council itself, with no mandate from the people.

Under the pressure of high taxation, it becomes necessary to surround the assumption of new and heavy expenditures with every possible safeguard, and in the case of the new Collegiate Institute, these must include the submission of the issue to the ratepayers.

With Best Wishes for a Very Happy New Year.

Mercury Made Rapid Descent During Christmas Night.

AWAY BELOW ZERO.

TORONTO, December 26. Canadian Press. — Christmas festivities throughout Ontario were brought to a close last night with householders paying late visits to coal bins and furnaces as winter's advances were indicated by frosted window panes and cooling breezes. Following yesterday's ideal holiday weather, which enabled the youth of the province to give much time to skating, snow shoeing and other outdoor sports, the mercury made a rapid descent during the night and this morning the first sub-zero temperature for the majority of Ontario points were registered.

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

Shall I tell you what I consider the keynote to beauty?

Perhaps you will say that you would not only like to know what the keynote is but you would like to know how this big initial step is effected.

Very well. I will tell you both things. For I consider correct posture to be the keynote to beauty. And indeed is this not true, when we all know that true beauty cannot exist unless our posture is correct?

By posture I mean more than your sitting position. I mean the way you hold yourself when seated, to be sure, but I also mean the way you walk and stand—the way you make every movement. For it is the unconscious grace of every movement which spells beauty.

Now, if we lived utterly natural lives, I feel very sure all of us would sit and move more gracefully than most of do now. Instead of everyone possessing these necessary graces, those who are in the minority.

But it is necessary to our civilization that many of us live in crowded cities and in places out of the sunlight. The natural result is that certain muscles grow weaker than they would be if we were free to roam out-of-doors. Then the next thing is humped sitting positions, and slouching movements.

Therefore, the first step to the correct positions which come from strength is to make our bodies as strong through exercise as we know how to do. Then if we remember to keep our chests out, chins in and our shoulders back the rest should be easy.

Stand erect, in the way I have just mentioned, and prepare to do what is known as "running in place."

Bend your right elbow as you bend your right knee, and vice versa, as in the accompanying drawing. That is, you simply move your arms in coordination with your legs, keeping your fingers shut, as do the experienced runners.

In this exercise, be sure to rise on the balls of your feet, so the muscles of your legs will also benefit by the movement to the fullest.

Keep this up vigorously for about a minute and repeat several times during the day. You will find yourself growing stronger as the result.

In the great pottery industry of Staffordshire, England, a "dozen" may be any number form 1 to 72. All plates are 12 to the dozen, but cups and saucers are 36, and other small ware 18, 24, 36 up to 72 for some purposes. This eccentric arithmetic originated in a desire to simplify the payment of the oven men.

ALLIED SPY STARTS LIFE ANEW

Above is Marie Coenegrachts, perhaps the most famous and beautiful of all allied spies during the Great War. Certainly none were more daring. Time after time she outwitted the Germans until she became internationally famous, and headed the Belgian espionage system behind the German lines. Finally, planning one of the biggest coups of the war, she was betrayed, arrested, and subjected to cruelty and indignities. She is starting life anew at Cooksville, Ont., with her husband, who was also taken prisoner and wounded during the war.

BOULEVARDS OF PARIS CROWDED TO EARLY HOUR

French Capital Treated Itself To Merriest Christmas Eve.

CAFES THRONGED.

Prices On Scale Of National Debt. Visitors. Revel.

PARIS, Dec. 26 — (Canadian Press).—Paris turned its back on the fallen franc and the country's financial despondency and celebrated the gayest and most unrestrained Christmas Eve the capital has seen since 1914.

In spite of the gloomy forecasts made by many newspapers even as late as Thursday afternoon, the traditional Gallic joyousness and spirit of Christmas took Paris by storm early in the evening and aided by the mildness of the weather and the absence of rain, kept the citizens crowding the streets and the cafes until the early morning hours.

Long after the rest of Paris had struggled sleepily to bed independent Monmartre continued to celebrate and the streets around the Place Pigalle were still filled with boisterous merry-makers at eight o'clock Friday morning.

The gaiety was everywhere, in rich and poor quarters alike. The crowds made walking on the boulevards almost impossible until long after two o'clock in the morning, everyone seeming surprised at the unexpected success of the reveillon, but all taking delight in it, nevertheless.

Cabarets Sold Out.

Montmartre, to which the Canadian visitors were especially diverted, was crammed to the bursting point, many cabarets hanging up the sold out sign by 1 o'clock. The starry sky was the limit for turkey and goose suppers, and champagne, commencing at $4, finished at prices which looked to most visitors like the figures of the French debt.

The cost of a supper averaged 500 francs (about $20) in the districts along the Champs Elysees and around the operas, but prices in the Latin Quarter and Montparnasse were more reasonable.

Midinettes filled the Bal Bullier, the Bal Tabarin and other great dance halls. Workmen kept their own little bal musettes going in full swing.

A Soberer Mood.

The Midnight Mass provided the only break in the universal revelry and packed Paris' most famous churches. Christmas morning the streets were deserted until 11 o'clock when the Parisians, in soberer mood sallied out to attend services.

Every newspaper agreed that this Christmas celebration was quite as gay as any pre-war reveillon on record, although La Liberte sneers at "a dollar and pound Christmas," and the Communist L'Humanite waxes indignant over "the scandalous scenes in Montmartre while soldiers are dying in the Riff and Syria."

The average Parisian, however, feels that he has treated himself to the merriest Christmas he has seen for a long time.

While the English railways do not build their passenger coaches wholly of steel, as has become the custom in America, it is their usual practice to fireproof all the timber used in the construction of the cars.

COUGARS CLAN CALGARY TEAM

Several Fights In Game at Calgary. Lester Patrick Played.

.. SCORE WAS 4-1. ..

CALGARY, Alta., Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—Lacking Fraser, Halderson, and Meeking, three regulars, and after suffering defeats at Saskatoon and Edmonton, an inspired Victoria Cougars hockey team, led by the veteran, Lester Patrick, won a 4 to 1 victory over Calgary Tigers yesterday afternoon, in a game that marked the debut of the locals here this winter.

Two unfortunate fights marred the proceedings, both occurring in the final period, when the Tigers were striving their hardest to get a goal and their opponents were battling desperately to hold them off. Sparrow and Anderson staged a fight on the ice, and after being sent to the penalty bench for majors, they went to it again. Shortly after, Dutton and Frederickson clashed, the former drawing a ten minute penalty and the latter 3 minutes.

The game was far from thrilling, because the players found it hard to carry the puck on the sticky ice and often over-skated it.

The big defence of the Tigers which for many years has been the back-bone of the team, did not live up to expectations and it was rather easy for Frederickson, Hart, Patrick and Walker to beat them. The four Cougar goals and a fifth that was not allowed because Anderson who scored it had no business on the ice, as he had been penalized for the balance of the game, were the result of pretty combination play that enabled the shooter to get in close to Winkler.

One notable feature of the game was the display of the veteran, Lester Patrick. Patrick was sound on the defence, and while a trifle slow and wobbly, his clever stick-handling enabled him to make many nifty rushes, two of which resulted in goals.

Line-Up.

Victoria.—Holmes, goal; Loughlin and Patrick, defence; Frederickson, centre; Hart and Walker, forwards; Anderson and Oatman, subs.

Calgary—Winkler, goal; Gardiner and Dutton, defence; Sparrow, centre; Oliver and Briden, forwards; Headley, Wilson, Duncan and MacFarlane, subs.

Referee, Mickey Ion.

MAROONS PLAN EUROPEAN TRIP

Would Play Exhibition Game With Another N. H. L. Team.

MISSIONARY TOUR.

MONTREAL, December 26. — Canadian Press.—Montreal Maroons and another National Hockey League team will tour Great Britain and France after the conclusion of the present season playing a number of exhibition games in artificial ice rinks in the principal cities of the two countries, if the present plans materialize. President Strachan of the Montreal Maroons has been conferring with a travel agency regarding bookings and it is quite likely that the end of the season will see the Maroons and possibly the Pittsburgh Pirates setting off on the jaunt overseas, it is stated.

The idea in the mind of President Strachan is to have two of the National Hockey League teams make the tour as a missionary effort on behalf of hockey that the game may be presented to French, English and Scottish people in their home lands in the best possible light. Such a tour, if made, would be the first ever attempted by a Canadian professional hockey teams, though Canadian amateurs have played in Europe in connection with the Olympic games, and Canadians resident on the other side of the Atlantic, particularly university men, have ferquently raised a representative team to compete with English and French sextettes.

Tours such as that proposed by Mr. Strachan, have been conducted in the past by Canadian lacrosse organizations, exhibition games being played which unquestionably had some effect in bringing lacrosse to the popular position it holds in England especially.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Things in the local sporting world this week has been quiet, owing to old J. Frost getting here a day or 2 late, and so putting the first home exhibition of our Petes on the hummer. A lotta nice hockey was missed by all, cause Mister Connie Smythe seems to have amassed a mess of likely looking players, and they would sure of had the local lads throwing her wide open all the way round the track.

Mister Bailey and his pals pack their telescopes for Kitchener next Wed., which is the opening of the O.h.A. season. The schedule manufacturers has given the Petes about the toughest game on the list first, seeing that the Dutchmen was never easy to put away at home, and the Kitchener fans is as hard-boiled as the guy who warbles "Down By the Vinegar Works" over the radio. If the Petes come back with this game tucked away in the atick bag they will of beat the starting gun by about two yards, and the resta the field should see nothing but their heels for the resta the journey. But we better not count our leghorns till they is hatched. Them Soo Greyhounds ain't been able even to look at a peach since Grimsby kicked the props from under them in the Allan cup serious last Mar.

The biggest sport of the week has been Christmas shopping, and I know now, Mister Sporting Editor, what Kip. meant when he said the female of the species was more deadlier than the male. Here is this Red Grange picking up a fortune because he can carry a football 20 yards or so with the help of three or four huskies. What of it? A little frail bit of a woman, "five foot two, eyes of blue," weighing about 110 pounds, can park a baby carriage, dive into a crowd around a bargain counter, gain 10 yards on the first down, and come out with a pair of 47c near-silk hose under her arm without losing a speck of powder and be all set for the next play. At the end of the afternoon she has gained 325 yards in mass plays, travelled a mile or 2 through a broken field, argued with 15 clerks, 3 floor-walkers, 2 elevator operators and 1 store manager, and still has pep enough left to bring home 1 dozen parcels, a couple of kids and a baby carriage in time to put on the steak for tea. It is a great game if you don't haffa play it.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND.

Politics and sport don't usually mix, but they is a couple of issues, as I suggested in my winning way last Sat., to be voted on this time that ought to bring out a herd of new voters New Year's. 1 is the daylight saving question, and the other is Sunday bathing. The sporting customers which glance through this weekly—for Petes' sake, Mister Printer, don't spell that with an "a"—epistle don't often celebrate New Year's by marking a ballot, but this time anyway they should trek up to the little red school-house in their ward and boost for daylight saving and Sunday swimming.

When the old thermometer starts to climb out of the case some Sunday next summer and all the families which own cars has loaded up the old boat with thermos bottles and lunch baskets and bathing suits and hit the trail for Cobourg or Bewdley or Chemong or South Beech, or some of them places, and Skinny and a couple of pals is about all which is left in the block to swelter—that's when a feller needs a friend. You wouldn't like to think that because you didn't take a walk and a few minutes' time New Year's to vote that Skinny and the bunch has to do without a plunge in the Otonabee.

And, anyhow, all you guys that is interested in sport wants daylight saving, so do your duty New Year's and plug for both them things and help put Peterboro up in the limousine and not dragging behind in the trailer.

THE O.H.A. RACE.

Seeing that the O.h.A. race, so far as Peterboro is involved, starts next week, I am going to try to size up the teams against which the Petes bump in the group. Varsity, of course, is out, and so is Aura Lees, while the two new Toronto teams which take their places is Toronto Canoe Club and Osgoode Hall. Parkdale is back again with the Hamilton Rowing Club and the Kitchener Dutchmen is an added starter. It is a six-club group, single schedule, first and second teams to play home-and-home games for group honours.

Parkdale does not look as strong as last year, and the greatest interest in the Paddlers is whether they get Harry Watson out or not. Just now it looks like not. The Canoe Club is composed of some speedy kids which may round out into a fast-stepping team. Osgoode Hall has Taylor, which was with Varsity last year, and Jack Bond of Aura Lees and some dark horses, and they will improve. The Hamilton Skullers has lost Browne and Garvie of last year's team, but developed some fast youngsters which may come through. The strongest opposition to the Petes looks like it will come from Kitchener. The wise old owls left on the Dutchmen's lineup is being helped out by some good young players, and the mixture is a pretty tough outfit, as the Petes found in the S.p.A. serious. Taking a snap-shot at the race now, it looks like the Petes and Kitchener will be hooking up at the end of Feb. to decide what team is going to battle the Big Six winners for the tinware. As to the latter you can make your own guess. My pick is either London or Galt or Preston or Niagara Falls or Stratford or Windsor—at least them teams look the best in the Western group right now.

They ain't much in a name, after all. Last year Niagara Falls had a defence man named Kitchen, a domestic sounding sort of a monicker, but anybody fooling round that particular kitchen thought he had got hit with a shower of rolling pins. This year Gene Fraser trots out a bird named Massacre to play defence along side of him, and you might imagine he'd be a swell guy to stay away from, but here Mister Lou Marsh says he is a sweet-tempered sort of chap, liked by children and dogs, and all that sort of thing. At that there has been many a massacre on the Falls' defence from year to year.

The Peterboro juniors is slated to make their debut in the first week of the new year. Mister Labarr has to build a new outfit from the ground up, but they is a likely looking crop of kids milling for places, and a good team should finally be landed. The youngsters is the seniors of the future, and the burgs which ain't trying to develop juniors is going to get exactly nowhere in the long run.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, I hope you and the customers was well treated by Sandy Claws, and that you ain't feeling the effects of the Christmas cigars and other doubtful stocking fillers that come your way. I notice a lot of folks is hoarse today, some from singing Christmas carols and others, alas, from too much close harmony in "Sweet Adeline," which seems to be the favourite musical number after the bootlegger's second visit of the evening. This last ain't referring to you, Mister Sporting Editor, because you ain't never been accused of singing any time.

They ain't much left to do but to wish 1 and all a happy New Year.

Next week this station hopes to broadcast about a Peterboro victory at Kitchener, and in the meantime will sign off now.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

PORTLAND BOUTS.

Montreal Negro Loses 12-Round Decision.

PORTLAND, Maine, Dec. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Leo Gates, the Indian heavyweight of Adams, Mass., scored a clean-cut win over Jack Ward, negro, of Montreal, at the Arena Friday afternoon in a bout that was replete with action. Although the newspapermen gave only one round of the twelve to Ward, the latter fought hard all the way, but was outguessed, outpunched and outpointed.

Elzear Rioux, of Montreal, knocked out Yussell Pearlstein, of New York, in the second round of the semi-final. This pair also are heavyweights.

Harry Goldstein, of Boston, claimant of the New England flyweight title, bested Tommy Lemieux, of Saco, the Main champion, in a fast bout, registering one knock down.

GRANGE WON GAME.

Scored Only Touch On Florida "Gird."

The galloping ghost's lone touchdown came in the second quarter when after a 33-yard sprint around end he was given the ball on the two-yard line and in two attempts went through centre for the score.

Pivoting should not begin immediately as the clubhead is withdrawn from the ball. Often we see the player who starts the clubhead back with a series of body twists that pull his body around to the right away ahead of the club. All wrong. Start the clubhead away, easy, naturally and gracefully, sweeping it low to the ground as it moves back from the ball. Then, when it is well started, pick it up with the left arm and let the movement flow into a push from the left shoulder that will cause the shoulders to revolve around to the right. Meantime, the club will follow a perfectly natural course if you largely leave it to itself. And at the top of the back swing you will find club, arms and shoulders welded into one, so to speak, so that as you unwind in the forward swing, everything will go together. Stiffen the left leg as the club travels forward and, near the ball, throw the clubhead with the wrists. The shoulder-turning, or pivoting, have been rightly done, the timing of the stroke will follow in natural order.

BIG LEAGUE STARS WITH FLORIDA CLUBS

Catcher Released by Yanks First Joined the Indians In 1911.

Three of the best known baseball players in the two major leagues are now managing teams in the new winter league being operated in various resorts in Florida this year for the first time. These three players are Frank Frisch, captain and star second baseman of the Giants; Stanley Harris, manager and star second baseman of the Washington Senators, and George Sisler, manager and first baseman of the St. Louis Browns. Frisch is managing the Cricantania team, Harris is guiding the destinies of the Coral Gables team and Sisler is leader of the Miami Shores club.

In addition to Frisch, Harris and Sisler, several other notable baseball figures are also managing teams in the new winter league. Ollie Cahill, former American League umpire, is in charge of the Miami team; Duffy Lewis, former star outfielder of the Red Sox and Yankees and later manager of the Salt Lake City team of the Pacific Coast League, is directing the Johnston & Moffat team and Ira Thomas, former star catcher of the Athletics, is boss ing the Boca Raton nine.

According to recent reports from Florida the league has met with much success thus far. The games have been well played and hard fought and most of them have been witnessed by large crowds. Among the players on the team being managed by Brisch and Nick Cullop, formerly of the Yankees; Smith of the Fort Worth club of the Texas League; Wilkinson of the Louisville team of the American Association, and Taylor, who formerly played with the Washington Senators.

Among the other players now performing for the various teams in the league are Joe Kelley of the Toronto club of the International League, Alec Gaston, formerly a catcher for the Giants; Ira Styles, Freddie Hofmann, who caught for the Yankees for a number of years; Eddie Sicking, who formerly played third base for the Giants and who was later released to the Indianapolis club of the American Association; Dinty Gearin, who formerly pitched for the Giants, and Skiff, a catcher formerly with the Pirates.

Sisler has now been manager of the St. Louis club for two full seasons, having been appointed to that post in October, 1923. Excluding the season of 1923, during which he was out of the game because of sinus trouble, he has now been a member of the St. Louis club for ten years. He formerly starred at the University of Michigan during the seasons of 1912, 1913, 1914 and 1915. After his graduation his services were claimed by both the Browns and the Pirates and the National Commission finally awarded him to the St. Louis team.

In 1915, his first season with the St. Louis club, Sisler was used as a pitcher, first baseman and outfielder. He took part in total of 81 games and batted .285. In 1916 he had a batting average of .305, but in the following season he played in 135 games and hit for a mark of .353. In 1918 he became the regular first baseman of the St. Louis club. He took part in 114 games that year and batted .341.

During the season of 1919 Sisler took part in 132 contests and his batting average for that year was .352. In 1920 he played in 154 games and won the batting championship of the league with an average of .407. In the following season he played first base in 138 games and hit for a mark of .371. In 1922 he finished the season with the phenomenal batting average of .420 and won the league championship for the second time. He was then out of the game for one season. In 1924 he batted .305.

Frisch, the other member of the star Florida trio, has been captain of the Giants for two seasons. He has now played with the New York club for seven years, having gone to that team direct from Fordham University.

O'NEILL IN MAJORS FOR 14 SEASONS

Frisch, Harris and Sisler Among Managers of Teams In New Winter Circuit.

When he recently received his unconditional release from the Yankees, Steve O'Neill was serving his fourteenth season as a major league catcher. It was his first season as a member of he New York club. He had also been with the Boston Red Sox for one season. Most of his major league career was spent with the Cleveland Indians. Earlier in his career he received a trial with the Athletics.

O'Neill started his professional career as a catcher with the Elmira club of the New York State League in 1910. He participated in twenty-eight games with that team during that season and he batted .200. He was with the Athletics for a short time at the start of the following season, but he did not participate in a single game as a member of the Philadelphia club. On May 3 of that year he was sold to the Worcester club of the New England League. He caught in 101 games for that team that year and his batting average was .282.

Late in the season of 1911 O'Neill was sold to the Indians. He did not get into any games with the Cleveland club that year, but in the following season he participated in 68 contests and batted .228. In 1913 he took part in a total of 78 games and batted .295 and in 1914 he participated in 86 contests, his batting average for that campaign being .253.

In 1915 O'Neill became the regular catcher of the Cleveland club. He took part in 121 games that year and batted .236. In the following year he played in 130 contests and his average was .235. In 1917 he caught in 129 games and his average fell off to .184. In the following season he boosted it to .242 while playing in a total of 114 games. His average for 1919 was .239.

While the Indians were winning their first pennant in 1919 under the leadership of Tris Speaker, O'Neill participated in 149 games and batted .321, the highest of his career up to that time. In the world series against the Robins that year he participated in all seven games and batted .333. In 1921 he played in 106 games and he raised his batting average to .322. In the following year he participated in 133 games and batted .311.

During the season of 1923, his last as a member of the Indians, O'Neill took part in 113 games and batted .248. At the end of that season he was traded to the Red Sox along with Second Baseman Bill Wambsganss for First Baseman George Burns and Catcher Al Walters. While with the Boston club during the season of 1924 he participated in 106 games and batted .238. Before the start of the present season he was obtained by the Yankees for the waiver price. He participated in thirty-five games with the Yankees this year and batted .286.

During his thirteen years as a major leaguer prior to the start of the present season O'Neill participated in a total of 1,458 games. His batting average for that period was .264.

Wallie Schang, the Yankees' veteran catcher, is now serving his thirteenth season in the major leagues. He started his professional career with the Pullman club of the Buffalo City League in 1910 and he was a member of that team for two seasons. In 1912 he signed with the Buffalo club of the International League and he caught in 48 games for that team that year, his batting average being .333. At the end of that season he was drafted by the Athletics.

During 1913, his first season as a major leaguer, Schang caught in 77 games for the Philadelphia club. His batting average for that season was .266. In the following season he became the Athletics' regular catcher. He participated in 107 games that year and batted .286. In the following season he played in 116 games, but he was used at third base and in the outfield as well as behind the bat. His batting average for that season was .248. In 1916 he played in 110 games, batting .266, and in the following campaign his average was .285 for a total of 118 contests.

VANCOUVER RUGBY.

San Francisco Team Lose 10 to 1.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—The Vancouver All Stars defeated the Olympics of San Francisco, 10 to 0, in the opening game of a three-game series of English rugby here yesterday. Better finishing powers gave the locals the victory after a strenuously-fought contest. The visitors showed their best form in the last period and were unfortunate in not scoring at least one try. Vancouver scored their first try in the last second of the first period. They got another in the second session as the result of a well-executed backfield play.

BASEBALL GETTING A HOLD ON BRITAIN

Cardiff, Newport and Liverpool Among Centres where Game is Becoming Popular.

Baseball at last appears to have taken a firm foothold in certain sections of Great Britain, and the past season saw more progress than ever before, according to comments by London sporting authorities and writers. Especially has great progress during the past year been noted in Liverpool and South Wales.

Most of the baseball clubs in South Wales are to be found in the thickly populated districts, and Cardiff has become the real stronghold of the game. The progress it has made in the Welsh metropolis is largely attributable to the fact that during the war the United States authorities had a large depot in the city. It is held that the game is more exciting than cricket and that a decision is arrived at in far less time than in the case of the older game.

Certain it is that the athletes of South Wales, and of Cardiff and Newport in particular, have seized on baseball as the best substitute for football during the off season of the great winter game. Cardiff supports four baseball leagues, one of which is a women's league. Exponents of the game invariably play their matches on pitches in the public parks. A number of the cricket clubs have enclosed grounds and are able to charge admission. It is no uncommon thing, according to one London critics, to see crowds of from 3,000 to 5,000 watching a baseball game in Cardiff.

Newport also has its thousands of enthusiasts and claims credit for being the pioneer of the American game in South Wales. There were strong teams in the Uskside town long before the war. In South Wales football players consider baseball a better game for keeping themselves in condition during the summer than cricket, and it is thought probable that their participation in baseball has materially increased its popularity.

In Liverpool the view also is taken that the game is far faster than cricket and workers are being lured in increasing numbers to baseball parks on Saturday afternoons. For years Liverpool has been almost alone among the centres of the North in its adherence to the game, but new clubs are springing up in the surrounding districts of St. Helena, Prescott and the Wirral.

ESKIMOS WIN.

Edmonton Scoded 6 To Portland's 3.

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—The Edmonton Eskimos yesterday afternoon sent the Portland Rosebuds down to a 6 to 3 defeat.

The victory sent the Eskimos into fourth place in the league standing, the early lead of 3 to 0 rolled up by Edmonton in the first period, proved too much for Portland to overcome.

Both teams went at a terrific pace for most of the game, and the prettiest combination efforts of the season were put on to the delight of a crowd of 5,000. The Edmonton sharp-shooters swept in on top of McCucker time and time again, and the bandaged Portland goalie spent a busy afternoon.

PLAYERS CRITICIZE TERM SUBSTITUTES

Translations of English Strokes are Unwieldly and Inaccurate.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—'Lob,' 'smash' and 'drive,' as applied to tennis are three words the translation of which into French has stumped the French sporting writers in a campaign to eliminate the English vocabulary from their articles on sport events.

The best they have been able to find is 'chandelle for lob, 'coup de Longueur' for drive and 'coup ecrase' for smash.

Jean Smazeuilh, former champion of France at tennis, takes exception to the accuracy and practicability of the translation and in an article in a sports weekly, asks the players to ignore the scribes, and especially to execute the shots well on the courts, let the writers call them what they wish.

HOCKEY SCORES

Hockey games played yesterday resulted as follows:

Western Canada.
Victoria, 4; Calgary, 1.
Edmonton, 6; Portland, 3.

Senior—Thunder Bay.
Fort William, 2; Porth Arthur, 1 (20 minutes overtime).

"I have been driving for seven years, and never hit anything," said Cyril Tolley, the noted English golfer, when arraigned in police court the other day. Tolley's statement, however, did not refer to his golf, but to the fact that he was charged with driving his automobile in excess of the speed limit.

Gordon Richards, the premier jockey of the British turf in the season just closed, has had a rapid rise to fame, for he only rode his first winner in 1921. At the end of that season he had five winners, then in 1923 he jumped to forty-nine. In 1924 he scored sixty-one wins, and this season he practically doubled that total.

HUNTER TICKLES CANNIBAL'S RIBS

Australian Was Searching For Oil and Found Adventure.

BLUFFED THE CHIEF.

SYDNEY, Dec. 26.—Oil-hungry Australians are daring much and searching wide in their quest for the fuel that makes the wheels of the world go round, and as they have pretty well proved that this country is the oil Cinderella of the five continents, their hunt is extending further abroad.

Great activity is now being displayed by these prospectors for oil in the various islands in close proximity to Australia's northern coastline, such as Timor, Papua, and the mandated territory of New Guiana. All of these are in that "oil-belt" which geologists have traced from Borneo, through the Malay Archipelago, to the United States and Mexico.

One of these Australian oil hunters has returned to Sydney from New Guiana, where in the course of five journeys through practically unknown country, he travelled 800 miles through swamps and jungle and wide tracts covered with stiff kunai grass.

This petroleum adventurer, Arthur Lindsay, returned from the Mandated Territory satisfied that the Germans, who previously owned it, knew of the existence of oil deposits. This, Lindsay reasons, is responsible for Germany's marked pertinacity in demanding the return, under mandate, of the territories of which she was deprived by the Versailles Treaty.

But it is with Lindsay's adventures among the natives of New Guiana that this story is principally concerned. New Guiana is a country of great rivers, including the Fly, Septic and Ramu, and it was along the valley of the last-named, navigable for 200 miles, that he travelled. He picked up eight natives as personal attendants and 20 more as carriers.

After travelling several weeks, Lindsay came upon a village called Korek, where in 1912 two exploring Germans were killed and eaten. A German punitive expedition put the fear of the white man's firesticks into the Korek natives, scores of them being killed and the rest fleeing to the mountains. Lindsay was the first white man to visit Korek since the event which the natives had not forgotten. His vivid description of his interview with the lului (chief) of Korek is worth reproducing.

"He stalked up to me," said the explorer, "carrying his spear. He stood close up to me and stared into my eyes, saying nothing. I stared into his. He stuck his spear into the ground and put his face within an inch of mine. Then, with both hands, he began to feel my chest and sides, pressing my flesh with his fingers. It flashed into my mind that he was feeling me to find out whether I was fit for the royal table. I remained quiet for a minute, staring back into his unwinking eyes. Then I began to feel his own royal ribs and chest, passing my hands down both his sides. He took a sudden panic and literally ran away. Probably he thought that I intended to eat him, instead of him eating me. Anyhow, I had no more trouble with him."

In this district, Lindsay encountered a "big sick," as the natives called a serious epidemic of influenza, followed by pneumonia, that was raging. In one village, Pela, 42 men, women and children died in a few days and their bodies were cremated.

The explorer witnessed one of these cremations. The deceased was placed on a sheet of bark on a pyre of dry wood in a kind of crate made of green uninflammable wood. Lindsay's camera snapped that scene, with the smoke and flames rising round the stiff body and the crowd of mourners, including the dead man's widow, moaning and beating themselves round about the pyre.

For months Lindsay and his little troupe travelled this country, braving its ills, battling against malaria and swamp fever, encountering all kinds of queer adventures and experiences.

SIX PRO TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT

Montreal Maroons in Toronto For Clash With St. Pats.

BRUINS GET REST.

MONTREAL, Quebec., December 25. — Canadian Press. — Unlike last season there were no Christmas games in the National Hockey League—all teams being out of action until Saturday night, and the majority of players who live within a reasonable distance broke from their respective camps to visit their homes for the holiday.

To-night the complete three games are carded, Boston drawing the bye, while the other six teams are engaged.

Old time rivals will meet at the arena here when the league-leading Ottawa Senators play their traditional rivals, the local Canadien sextette.

At Toronto the Montreal Maroons will play against St. Patrick's, while at New York two United States' teams meet, Pittsburgh playing the New York Americans at Madison Square garden in a game which should give a fair indication of the relative strength of these two sextettes.

Canadiens will go into the game against Ottawa well rested after a week's lay-off; the two teams have met once already this season, last week at the capital, when the French Canadiens fell before their traditional pro-hockey rivals.

The game will mark the first of three consecutive contests which Ottawa will be called upon to play away from home in the next six days, the team being scheduled to battle the Pittsburgh Pirates in the Smoky City Wednesday and St. Patrick's at Toronto next Friday.

The Senators have been aided so far in the schedule through having the greater number of their games at home and the next week should show what may be expected of Captain George Boucher and his company in road games.

In Ottawa the Senators beat Pittsburgh by a lone goal and are liable to find it a difficult task to beat the Pirates on their own ice, even if the Ottawa team has added reserve strength since their first meeting with the Pirates.

Montreal's game in Toronto looms as an interesting fixture. The Maroons need every game they can bag to fulfill their wish of keeping up or getting ahead of Ottawa. Earlier in the season the Maroons easily defeated St. Pats here, but the Irish are a temperamental clan and are liable at any time to cut loose with a brand of hockey sufficiently smart to upset the calculations of the leading clubs. They have done it before and the fans have been waiting this year to see them do it again—and their favorite ground for providing upsets is their home ice.

Boston is enjoying the bye, and it is due. The Bruins have had the heaviest end of the programme and it was unfortunate that accident to players had to come just then the Boston team was thick in the fray.

However, the Bruins expect to have Sprague Cleghorn back in harness within the next week, and the return of the former Canadien captain to the Boston defence is expected to furnish necessary steadying influence to change the team's fortune. Boston has shown ability to garner goals but their defence has been weak in recent games.

ST. MARY'S COMING ON THE HOLIDAY

Will Be Here New Years To Clash With The Petes.

The Peterboro Hockey Club has been successful in securing the fast St. Mary's team of Toronto as an attraction for New Year's night, and this exhibition fixture will be a good start for the local season. St. Mary's are about the strongest outfit in Toronto, with Foulis and Hughes, the two ex-Collingwood stars; Steve Rice, last year of Niagara Falls; Ken. Kane, Heyd, Jeffrey and other well-known players in line, and the Petes will have to be at their best to take care of Frank Selke's crew on the holiday night. The plan will be open early next week at Bert McLeod's drug store.

CANADA USES PLENTY OF COKE

Half Million Tons for Western Ontario Alone This Year.

LESS ANTHRACITE.

OTTAWA, December 26. — Canadian Press. — As an indication of the extent to which Central Canada (Ontario and Quebec) is freeing itself from dependence on U. S. anthracite coal, it is stated by an official of the Department of Mines that this winter western Ontario alone will use 500,000 tons of coke. It is true that much of this is being brought in from Detroit and Buffalo, but with the steady expansion of domestic facilities for producing coke, the dependence upon the United States for that product, too, will gradually lessen.

Following several years of correspondence between the American Checker Association and the English and Scottish Draughts Associations, it has been decided to hold an international team match next autumn, in which the foremost checker players of America and Britain will compete.

JUNIOR PETES OPEN AT HOME

Many New Players Are Being Groomed for O. H. A. Campaign.

MARKHAM HERE.

The Junior O.H.A. Petes have drawn the opening game in the schedule with Markham and Lindsay, and Markham will be here on Tuesday, January 5. As the slogan this winter is "get them when they're young," the Petes will present a new lineup, the majority of the players being eligible for the Junior O.H.A. series for from three to five years.

There is splendid material in the squad of twelve players and both Lew LeBarr and Walter Jackson are working hard grooming the team for the opening game.

Three of last season's players are now performing creditably with Toronto, Owen Sound and Woodstock. Jack LeBarr is in the nets for St. Mike's; "Shrimp" McDougall is at centre of Owen Sound, and Harry Cheu is with Woodstock Intermediates.

CUBS MILLION GOING BEGGING

McCarthy has Money but No One Wants To Sell Him Players.

Instead of "spending a million dollars" to buy a lot of big league stars, Joe McCarthy, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, will try to build up a winning organization out of players secured for much less from the minors. There has been a lot of talk that McCarthy really has a million with which to buy players. The truth of the situation, as explained to the writer by McCarthy himself, is that Joe has a perfectly sane idea of the kind of task that confronts him in endeavoring to develop a winning outfit. He promises nothing and hopes for anything that is favorable for a team that is somewhat run down at the heels.

"That talk of $1,000,000 with which to get players is perfectly good talk," said McCarthy, "but where are the players? I have not discovered anybody who is giving away players for the sake of the Chicago team and some of the owners who might have men who would help Chicago are very buoyant in their ideas as to what those players are worth.

Build From Minors.

"I am not committed to any policy of trying to buy a team for Chicago. On the contrary, I'm going to work on a different basis, reaching out here and there and getting the best that I can in the minor leagues and then I'll do the best I can with what I can get.

"I am confident in my estimate of minor league players, because I know much about them personally, and I'm not so sure that any big league stars purchased for Chicago would give me what I want."

Joe said he would not predict that the Cubs would win the pennant in 1926 nor even that they would finish in the first division. All he promises is to make the team a fighting outfit. He will go to Catalina early to get the crowd in trim as soon as possible.

In line with his policy, McCarthy took Beck from Los Angeles to play second base in 1926. Adams covers a lot of ground and in him the Cubs already had a good man, but Beck is better with the stick.

Makes A Trade.

Joe took Shannon, shortstop, from Louisville, because he knew, from experience, what Shannon could do. "A capable young man," McCarthy said of Shannon. He has traded Keen, a pitcher who couldn't get along very well at Chicago, for Cooney, shortstop, who couldn't get along very well at St. Louis.

McCarthy said that no team will get Hartnett away from Chicago next year as he signed through until 1927.

Mr. Sutton's artistic interpretation of music, coupled with a genial personality and willingness to serve, are winning deserved popularity both with the Murray Street congregation and outside musical circles. SASKATOON, Sask., December 26—Canadian Press. — Attacked while asleep at his home, with a wedge-shaped weapon, presumably an axe, sometime last evening, James E. Johnson, a railway mail clerk, was found unconscious, bathed in blood, by the city police, summoned by his wife, who, bound hand and foot, contrived to attract the attention of a long distance telephone operator, by manipulating the dial with a toothpick held between her teeth.

The woman, in a hysterical condition, was loosened from the towels and the strips of linen with which she was bound.

YULETIDE JOY FOR DESTITUTE MINERS

Call For Renewed Negotiations Greeted With Joy Workers.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Resumption of negotiations between anthracite miners representatives and operators in New York City on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, is looked upon in the hard coal region as an indication of an early end of the four months' strike.

The call for a meeting of the negotiators as announced by Alvan Markle of Hazelton, chairman of the anthracite sub committee, shortly before midnight on Christmas Eve, was received throughout the coal fields with jubilance. In the homes of many destitute mine workers on Christmas morning the announcement came as the only form of Yuletide cheer.

AT THE GRAND

Breaking the theatrical drought Brandon Brothers are bringing a revival of the ever joyous, beautiful, laughable, lovable favorite of the entire world, "The Mikado," to the Grand Opera House, on Monday, Jan 4th.

Coincident with the fortieth anniversary of this famous masterpiece, Brandon Brothers are giving it a trans-continental tour, and with a specially selected cast are giving a performance that in buoyancy of spirit matches the sparkle and smartness of the incomparable lyrics and music of the delightful old Gilbert & Sullivan classic.

"The Mikado" is a shining example of the light opera school when success depended more on the work of the librettist and composer than on spectacular mounting. In it delightful satire is wedded to ingratiating melody. The piquancy of Gilbert's satire and the melodic grace of Sullivan's music, are revealed in sprightly style—tedium is given no chance to invade the stage. And the audience reacts to the sheer mirth provoking quality of the opera with an enthusiasm such as even the best of the "girl shows" seldom evokes.

"The Mikado" is a masterpiece, which has lost none of its original savor and sparkle with the passing of the years. There is more to enjoy in the opening act than in half a dozen Broadway musical comedies of contemporary vintage. This was thoroughly demonstrated last season when "The Mikado" was revivtd in New York and run well into the summer when a great many of the "Follies" and "Revues" had to be withdrawn.

The production given "The Mikado," by Brandon Brothers revival does justice to the works intrinsic worth. The costumes are beautiful and true to the period of the opera, and the scenic effects are satisfying, without being pretentious for the beauty of "The Mikado" is the singing and that is where Brandon Bros. have placed the emphasis.

AT THE CAPITOL

"SALLY OF THE SAWDUST."

"Sally of the Sawdust," the feature picture for the week-end at the Capitol Theatre, seems eminently suited to the holiday season, because it has the atmosphere of Charles Dickens' tales about it. Whether it is the rather old-fashioned costuming, or the very human touch that permeates the story of Sally and Professor McGargle, the latter, too, a name that would have appealed to the great "Boz," who revelled in strange names for his characters, or the rather old type of production that makes the tale intensely interesting from start to finish, at any rate, "Sally of the Sawdust," is old English and Dickens-y, and out of the ordinary in its human interest.

The fun and frolic of the circus appeal to any audience and there are back-scene bits from the world of the sawdust rings, the portions that show the "Great Professor McGargle" initiating his patrons into the mysteries of the shell game and "three-card Monte" and the hectic fight scene in which an elephant comes to the rescue, also the dancing of the little heroine, Sally, at the side-show tent.

Carol Dempster makes a picturesque "Sally," with ways all her own which remind one at times of Lillian Gish and also of Mabel Normand. She is the pretty, rather hoydenish child of the circus, adopted daughter of the "Great Professor McGargle," whom she idolizes, and is in the scenes with him that she is at her best. The great Professor is eminently Dickens-y in his make-up and dress, W. C. Fields enacting this character splendidly. The young hero's part is taken by Alfred Lunt. Characterizations in the picture, which has a gay aspect throughout by reason of the majority of the scenes having a background of a circus and a carnival, are very fine and suit the type of story very effectively.

Miss Dempster does some very fine work in the dramatic portions of the tale, when the court-room scene gives her splendid opportunity for demonstrating her ability in this line.

There is a very funny comedy that rounds out an excellent programme. —Jeanette.

"I see by the papers . . ."

WE ALL do. It's a national habit. Newspapers open and close the day. They are a vital part of our daily existence. Take them from us and the wheels of progress stop. We must have the news!

And news about merchandise ranks with news about current events. As a matter of fact, it is even more personal. It concerns you and your daily needs. Food. Clothing. Shelter. Household necessities.

The newspapers bring you this vital news of merchandise. The advertising columns of this paper are a business guide-book to guide both footsteps and expenditures. They tell you what, tell you who, and show you where. Pilots of the family purse.

Read the advertisements. Every day. Buried in small type may be a bargain that was born for you especially. Know before you go to buy, just what you want and what you will have to pay for it.

"I buy by the papers" is the twin of "I see by the papers." You consult a time-table to see what train to take. Consult this newspaper to see what goods to buy.

Around The City.

Christmas Day at the Fire Station was one of peace, not one call being sent in. On Thursday at 12.34 p.m. smoke was seen issuing out of a house under construction on Homewood Avenue. The men responded but there was no fire. The suspicious vapor was steam with which the plaster was being treated.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

FROM MR. HICKS.

December 26th, 1925.
The Editof of The Examiner.
Dear Sir,—My letter of Thursday in your paper did not give any credit to the packing interests for the concessions that they made to the city taxpayers in the years that have passed, and searching my memory I find that they did, through their joint management with the Utilities Commission, grant a rebate to the City Council for water used for city purposes only. I am not sure at the time of writing whether they were short of hogs in those years or whether the management was up for re-election to the Commission.
What I am anxious to know just now is this—Is there to be one seat on the Utilities Board handed on to posterity, and was the seat turned over to the Canadian Packing Company with the other assets?
If the seat on the Commission is to be made a family possession I am interested to know if arrangements could be made for me to step in for a short time between the rising generations, to do the building and improvement on the Commission and lift the load for a short time from the domestic users of water who had been imposed on for the past twenty years.
I think, Mr. Editor, it will be safe to leave the matter in the hands of our masters on Friday, January 1st, 1926. The electors will have the information necessary through the columns of The Examiner in the meantime, to decide the issue, and will have time to inquire into my stewardship.
I will conclude this packing house subject in Monday's issue, giving you my estimate based on actual figures of the value in dollars of the water, which, in my opinion, should have been paid for in excess of the amount we actually received from the Packing Company.
At my meeting on Tuesday night I will give any information to any ratepayers who will leave their inquiry, with name and address, at the Utilities Office, not later than Tuesday afternoon. The names of persons asking questions will not be made public, and the address will be used in case it is considered advisable to mail the reply.
Ladies are invited.
A happy New Year to all.
In your service,
ROBERT HICKS.

CHRISTMAS MOVIES.

Knights Of Columbus Entertained Children at Capitol Theatre.

The Capitol Theatre was filled this morning with a happy crowd of youngsters who had a jolly two hours' fun in the big theatre at a Christmas party given under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. The theatre was kindly loaned for the occasion by the manager, Mr. A. G. Crowe, whose generosity was acknowledged in a brief speech by the Grand Knight, J. J. Duffus, at the conclusion of the programme, which consisted of three comedies, much enjoyed by the children. Each child, on leaving the theatre, was presented with candies provided jointly by Mr. Crowe and the Knights of Columbus. During the morning, several pretty dances in costume were given by little Moira Coutts and Sophia Yeates.

DR. SUTTON AT LUMBER CAMPS

District Medical Officer Of Health Inspects Sanitary Arrangements.

MANY WOLVES.

Dr. N. H. Sutton, District Medical Officer of Health, has just returned to the city after a tour of inspection in the lumber camps in the east half of Haliburton County. He travelled by sleigh to more than ten camps, finding many sanitary improvements over a few years ago. Others were suggested and were well received.
To one of the camps there is no road and Dr. Sutton was compelled to walk the 16 miles.
Wolves are plentiful, he says, and trails are evident where they have chased deer. Just now, with the snow not deep and the lakes frozen, the deer have no chance, and many are being killed. Partridge and rabbits are scarce.

H.P. KENNEDY'S PLAN FOR CATTLE BOATS

Former Peterborough Citizen Explains His New Steamship Line.

Cattleships, fitted up especially for that trade and used for nothing else, are planned by the firm of H. P. Kennedy, Limited, as an extension to its already wide operations in handling cattle from the Canadian producer to the butcher shops of Canada and Europe. While in the city for the holiday, Mr. Kennedy discussed the matter with The Examiner and exhibited the plans for his new ships, the first of which will go into service about the middle of January.
The new vessels will provide room for 1,150 cattle on four decks, with quarters for stablemen and crew. Fitted with four elevators, loading or unloading will take only 48 hours, and as return trips from Europe will be made in ballast, very fast service will be provided. The ships are to be most efficiently arranged, with wide alleys in front of, and behind the stalls. The ventilation arrangements are such that the air will be changed six times every hour. Food and water much in excess of that required for the voyage will be carried, and condensers will make it possible if the supply runs short.
The plans for the vessels have been approved by the British Board of Trade, the Board of Agriculture, and the Canadian Government officials. Mr. Kennedy has received a letter of congratulation from the Canadian High Commissioner in London, and from prominent men concerned with shipments of cattle to Europe.

You will find many things you thought you couldn't afford in the Classified Ads. of the Examiner.

YOUNG EYES ARE NOT ALWAYS GOOD EYES

By no means. A lot of people think they are. If you are a parent and have children going to school, and you imagine their eyes do not need attention because they are young, you may be making a serious mistake. Young eyes are in thousands of cases abnormal and no one knows anything about it. Think what a handicap that means to a child. Childrens' cases are given our closest attention.

UNTRAINED MEN GET JOBS—TRAINED MEN GET POSITIONS

The letter below shows the future possibilities of those with a modern Business Training. It was received without solicitation from a former student—a returned man.

MR. J. A. McKONE, Peterboro, Ontario.
Peterboro Business College,
WEST PALM BEACH, FLORIDA, November 10, 1925.

Dear Mr. McKone,—You were always interested in learning of any advancement of your ex-students and, no doubt, will be pleased to learn of my recent promotion as local manager of (name on request), auditors and certified public accountants of the State of Florida.

I have been connected with this firm approximately one year, engaging in audits of various kinds of businesses, also installation of systems and tax work. Although not a certified accountant, I was given this position over several who were of that rank, with a salary of $6,000 per year. In addition to this, I also participate in the profits to the extent of 25 per cent. This will probably be equal to the salary figure.

Such has been the reward after seven years of faithful work and study, the foundation of which I acquired while at the Peterboro Business College, under your supervision. I cannot say too much in regard to the training I received while a student in your school, as that experience formed the basis and made it possible for me to obtain my present position.

Sincerely yours,

PARENTS—Get particulars about our training NOW. Have your boy or girl start Monday, Jan. 4th, the opening of our Winter Term.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having again received the Nomination for Reeve of the Township, and as it will be impossible for me to see you all, I am taking this means of asking your support at the poll on January 1.

I am not a stranger to you, having had seven years' experience in the Township Council, the last four years as Reeve. I am in close touch with the requirements of the Township, both locally and in the county, and I believe my record for those years will have some weight on my behalf. At least, I respectfully ask you to use your franchise on polling day, and mark your ballot for the candidate you believe the most capable of handling the affairs of the Township, to the best interest of all concerned.

Wishing you all the Compliments of the Season,
Yours respectfully,
H. B. RYE

NINE DEATHS IN CHICAGO DUE TO ARCTIC WEATHER, POOR SUFFER AND FIREMEN FOUGHT 300 FIRES

Four Persons Found Frozen to Death in World's Fourth Largest City.

UNTOLD MISERY

Twelve - Storey Apartment Building Destroyed—Many Appeals for Charity.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Nine deaths, a million dollars fire loss and untold misery and suffering were the toll exacted from Chicago by the sub-zero temperatures of the week-end.

The cold will stay a while longer, weather reports indicated last night, with predictions of 10 below to-day. Saturday night and early Sunday the official thermometer at the weather bureau showed 8 below, but Western suburbs reported as much as 20 below. During the day the mercury crept slowly up to zero at 3 o'clock, and shortly after started a nose-dive.

During the two days there were upward of 300 fire alarms which taxed Chicago's fire fighting equipment to its capacity. Firemen fought four general alarm blazes, one of which destroyed the Marks building on West Madison Street, with an estimated loss of $200,000, while another destroyed a twelve-storey apartment building.

Families in Street.

Most of the fires were caused by overtaxed heating equipment, and in some cases families were driven to the streets in their night clothing to face the sub-zero blasts while the firemen themselves were coated with ice and the water froze almost as it touched the buildings.

Untold misery and suffering was reported by relief organizations who were swamped with requests for food, coal and clothing. One man was found frozen to death Sunday, bringing the total number of persons frozen to death for the two days of severe cold to four, while two there died of causes indirectly due to the cold. Five other deaths with heart disease given as the cause probably were superinduced by the cold, the coroner's office said.

TWO BURNED TO DEATH.

RENNSELAER FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press). — Two persons were burned to death and a third was injured when a stove exploded and destroyed their home here Sunday.

The dead are Mrs. Otis T. Crane, 54 years old, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Viola Crane, 81 years old.

Bertrand Crane, 16 years old, a son of Mrs. Otis T. Crane, sustained a fractured arm and minor injuries when he leaped from a window. He was not burned, however.

ITALIAN PAPERS DENOUNCE GERMANY

Articles Inspired By Preturbation of Germans Over Treatment.

ROME, Dec. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Anti German sentiment is flaring up in Italy. Denouncing Germany as "our instinctive racial enemy", the Fascist paper Impero has come out with a warning to Italians against trade and other activities of Germany. The immediate occasion of the paper's article in the news that the German press is perturbed over the treatment of Germans in the South Tyrol, a district which includes the famous Brenner press through the mountains. The pass is the shortest route between central Germany and Itay and marks the frontier between Italy and Austria.

Liquor Prices High Officers Too Active

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 26 (United News).—Tugging at their anchor chains on the long, gray green, wind-flecked swells off Montauk Point, beneath a lowering sky that held a threat of storm, fourteen vessels of rum row virtually abandoned Christmas Day.

Storm and recently increased vigil on the part of the dry navy have cut down the traffic between rum row and the thirsty shore of late, and Christmas liquor prices were unusually high in consequence.

Even at New London, which harbors the wet and the dry alike, as high as $125 a case was paid for Scotch.

REFUSES CALL TO CHELTENHAM

Rev. W. S. Edgar Will Remain at Gilmour Memorial Church.

UNANIMOUS CALL.

The Rev. W. S. Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial church, has declined an invitation to become pastor of Cheltenham Baptist church, of Peel County, Ontario. Snelgrove church, which forms a circuit in conjunction with Cheltenham, was also associated with the call, which was absolutely unanimous. The invitation followed a recent visit of the Gilmour minister to Peel county, during which he preached in both churches.

At the Chrismas concert last week, Mr. Edgar was made the recipient of a present of a handsome gold-mounted fountain pen and Eversharp epncil from the Senior Bible Class of the Gilmour Memorial church.

STORMS SWELL FRENCH RIVERS

Some Have Already Overflowed Banks and Flooded Villages.

HEAVY DAMAGE

PARIS, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press). —The storms which have brought destruction to many parts of France in the past week continue, adding to the heavy toll of damage. At La Rochelle a fishing boat foundered, and the crew of seven is missing.

Rivers in the southeastern departments are already swollen by the rapidly melting snows in the mountains and in many cases are over their banks, with serious flooding of villages.

The Seine, fed by the heavy rains, mounted rapidly Sunday, and fear is expressed that if there is no cessation of the downfall in the next 24 hours, very extensive damage would result. The Rhone River is mounting rapidly and some of the lower residential quarters of Lyons are inundated. At St. Rambert, near Bourg, the River Albarine has risen more than six feet in two days and is at its highest point in 40 years.

Conditions are bad at Chambery, Charolles, Aix-les-Bains, and Chalons-sur-Saone, with little hope of early amelioration. Train schedules generally are not badly interrupted, but telephone and telegraph services in some districts are completely broken down.

Ice contains an enormous amount of latent heat.

SOVIET TROOPS CAPTURE POST FROM AFGHANS

Kabul Newspapers Responsible For Stories About Unprovoked Attack.

HOLDING ISLAND.

Afghan Officer Killed in Fight and Much Territory Captured.

LONDON, December 28. — Canadian Press. — The leading newspapers of Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan, are given as authority for stories that Russian troops have made a sudden and unprovoked attack on the Afghan post of Darkbad, which was captured. The Afghan commander is said to have been killed and the surrounding territory, consisting of the whole or part of an island formed by two branches of the River Oxus, north east of Khanabad, is reported to have been occupied by the Russians.

DRUSE TRIBESMEN SIGN ARMISTICE

French Peace Terms Accepted, Bagdad Reports.

LONDON, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Bagdad gives a report brought by a convoy from Syria that the chiefs of the ruse tribesmen in Syria have accepted peace proposal, offered by the French authorities.

An armistice was reported to have been signed several days ago between the Druse tribesmen and the new French high commissioner in Syria, Henry De Jouvenel. This report came from Cairo, Egypt. The French Foreign Office admitted that negotiations looking to peace were going on in Syria, but that no final signature had yet been affixed. It was admitted, however, that the signing of an armistice at any moment would not surprise the Foreign Office.

"FRAMED BY A GANG OF RATS" DECLARES DISMISSED CHIEF OF PHILADELPHIA

General Smedley Butler Tells Bible Class Why He Was "Fired" By Mayor — Refused To Favour Rich.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press). — Brigadier - General Smedley D. Butler, speaking here Sunday under the auspices of the Adult Bible Class Federation of Pennsylvania, told an audience of 3,000 persons his version of how he was "fired" from his position as director of public safety of Philadelphia by Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick. He denounced "gang politics," declaring that the politicians composing the cliques were "a gang of rats," that they "arranged things" and that he was "framed." His address was filled with witticisms which kept the audience in laughter a large part of the time.

Speaking of his dismissal, he said: "The Mayor gave as his reason for dismissing me the statement that I did not treat him with proper respect. I didn't. I should have pulled his nose." He said that it "was arranged for me to go out of office in great dignity. They would have probably given me a lamp and then I was supposed to write the Mayor a letter telling him how well we worked together, but I was not willing to carry the stigma on my shoulders of not enforcing the law on rich and poor alike."

Campaign Against Short Skirts Brings Answers From Leaders Of Campaign That Started Them Up

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press).—A campaign has been started by Mrs. John B. Henderson, "Washington's Grand Old Woman" to lengthen woman's skirts and stop the modern flapper from smoking cigarettes.

The "Rainy Dasies," members of the Rainy Day Club, organized thirty years ago to shorten women's skirts, and its president, Mrs. Louis Ralston, doubted that Mrs. Henderson's appeal to club and society women of the world to war on short skirts and cigarettes, will eliminate those expresson of women's modernism "We certainly builded better than we knew," Mrs. Ralston said. "We started a war for the short skirt and now they are too short. Our constitution decreed that skirts should be 'at least six inches above ground but we never thought to place any limit in the other direction." Mrs. Henderson's plea is for a skirt to cover the ankles.

Miss Helen Varick Bowell, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, thinks that the length of the skirt is a matter of taste.

"All women do not have pretty legs," she says. "Those that have not should wear long skirts. Cigarette smoking must be looked upon in the same manner as the dress question. Too much smoking is bad for woman's health."

R. R. Hall Says Prices Of Utilies Rose Under R. Hicks' Administration

It is quite evident that if Mr. Robert Hicks is elected he will oppose tooth and nail any and every attempt to collect from the Campbell Flour Mills Company the $20,000.00 that is claimed to be owing by them on account of the sale of electric power, and that the taxpayers of Peterborough will suffer to that extent.

Certain taxpayers, that I represent, are willing to undertake to collect what is justly due and owing by this Company, and will assume the entire risk and expense of the litigation; and to safeguard the city they are willing to put up a Bond to the city to bear all expense and save the city harmless if they fail. These ratepayers are willing to risk over $2,000.00 in the attempt to prove this claim, and all they require is the right to sue in the name of the Commission, which is the only way they can have any standing before the Court to sue at all. Suits are constantly brought in the name of the Attorney General upon giving security. But Mr. Robert Hicks claims to be higher and more autocratic than the Attorney General, and in his Saturday letter, openly sneers at the ratepayers who desire to see this claim collected.

It would be wasting valuable time to even discuss the claim against the Campbell Milling Company with Mr. Hicks either publicly or privately. His letter plainly shows that any discussion on his part, would begin and end in babbling bluff and twaddle. The ratepayers have everything to gain and nothing to lose by leaving Mr. Robert Hicks at home. A vote for Hicks is a vote to throw $20,000.00 away.

I know nothing of the merits of the Canadian Packing Company case, but on his own showing, Mr. Hicks himself was guilty of gross neglect of duty for over five years. Moreover, on his own statement, he shows that a privately owned water company was able to supply this company at a cost of only $400.00 a year and hence it plainly appears that the Hicks' brand of public ownership, that sought to charge them $9,000.00 a year, will not attract new industries to Peterborough.

This city has been literally cursed during this last eleven years by the Hicks'-cult, which is to give all our natural advantages away to the towns on the Lake front and muddle the little that remains. A vote for Hicks is a vote for stagnation.

THE HICKS' RECORD

When Mr. Hicks got his toe-holt in the Commission, the reign of extravagance began and he does not want his reign to end. Just look at his record.

The consumers of water throughout the city were charged $54,350.37 more for water in 1924 than was charged in 1919—representing an increased cost to water consumers of 83 per cent in 6 years. A vote for Hicks is a vote to keep on increasing water rates.

The consumers of electric light for household purposes were forced to pay $44,134.90 more for light in 1924 than they paid in 1919—representing an increased cost to householders of 121 per cent in 6 years. Mr. Hicks is an expensive luxury to keep in office. A vote for Hicks is a vote to keep on increasing electric light bills to householders.

The commercial light users were forced to pay $13,978.02 more for electric light in 1924 than they paid in 1919—representing an increased cost to merchants, etc., of 50 per cent in 6 years. Let the merchants continue to vote for Mr. Hicks and then they will some day realize that the office building on Aylmer Street, cost 100 per cent more than it should.

The power users of Peterborough, who keep the wheels of industry going and give employment to thousands, were forced to pay $30,335.48 more for electric power in 1924 than they paid in 1919—representing an increased cost of electric power of 77 per cent in 6 years. A vote for Hicks is a vote to keep Peterborough at a standstill and for new industries to locate elsewhere.

These figures are taken from the City Auditor's report. If the water users and electric light and power users examine this report for themselves, they will not be misled by the Hicks' brand of waste and extravagance.

Mr. Gordon S. Matthews says he is willing to stand on his own merits. Such a modest declaration inspires confidence and gives promise of future useful and economic public service. The young men are the rising hope of Peterborough.

Mr. Lingard and his wife were driving along the highway and when on the outskirts of Port Hope the horse took fright at the rattling chains of a passing automobile.

Wettest Christmas Since Prohibition In Florida

TAMPA, Fla., December 28.—United Press. — One of the wettest Christmas days since prohibition was, observed here. Reports from other Florida cities indicated the entire state was well supplied with liquor.

The abundance of the supply was shown by the absence of the customary eleventh hour boost in prices. Rye and Scotch were being sold on Christmas day at $8 a quart, and a drink of almost any brand could be bought at any of a score or more places in the city for fifty cents, the usual price.

Henry Robinson, aged 77, sustained a fractured skull when struck by a street car Saturday evening. He died in an ambulance on the way to the hospital.

Michael B. O'Hara, aged 28, employed by the C.P.R. as a yard brakeman, while engaged in uncoupling some freight cars on the tracks Saturday evening, slipped on the icy ground and fell under the wheels of a train.

William Graham, a contractor, died in Grace Hospital Saturday from terrible head injuries sustained when a hot water boiler exploded in a new house he was erecting. His skull was badly fractured.

George Connell died in the General Hospital Saturday after being picked up in the back yard of his home in a frozen condition. He was at the bottom of the stairway which led to his apartment above, apparently having been overcome by cold before he could reach his abode.

Struck by a motor car driven by Gordon Brown as she was crossing a street Saturday night, Mrs. F. G. Waite, aged 35, sustained a concussion of the brain and several injured ribs. She was taken to Grace Hospital, where she is still unconscious and in a serious condition.

Gladys Gilroy, aged 3, had her right shoulder fractured when she fell downstairs in her home on Saturday. She was removed to the Western Hospital.

WOMAN KILLED AT KINGSTON

KINGSTON, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—On her way to Kingston to undergo treatment, Mrs. W. H. When about a quarter of a mile from Kingston the car skidded and went into the ditch, crashing into a telegraph pole.

JITNEY KILLS MAN.

THE WEATHER.

Sunday morning was decidedly cold, and during most of the day the temperature was below zero. The lowest the thermometer went was 26 degrees below zero, and it remained at that figure from 8 o'clock to 10. In the afternoon it moderated to some extent, and reached 4 above zero. The zero mark was not reached last night, but the temperature got within 2 degrees off it. This morning at 7 o'clock the mercury was at 9 above. A year ago this morning was very cold, and my record has it down to 12 below.—W. P.

PRESENCE OF MIND OF RESIDENT SAVED LIVES OF SEVEN OTHERS WHEN HOUSE WAS BURNED DOWN

Edward Dickson Led Four People Out of Burning House.

CALMED OTHERS.

Looked After Women on Top Floor Till Firemen Erected Ladder.

TORONTI, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Through the presence of mind of Edward Dickson and the quick work of the firemen, seven persons were saved from a burning house this morning. The fire started in the room of G. F. Pratt on the second floor of the house. Dickson, with Pratt, first attempted to extinguish the fire which started from a defective fireplace. Pratt was quite seriously burned and Dickson, seeing that he could not get the fire out, started the rescue of the other occupants of the house. He went to the assistance of J. Argo, Oliver Kohler, George Dickson and Baby Jack Dickson when they were cut off from the lower floor by fire getting to the front stairs. In his night attire he led them down the back stairs and then rushed through the smoke to the third floor, where his wife and Mrs. Kohler were. All were cut off by the flames, but Dickson, calming the two women, waited patiently until the firemen erected an aerial to the third storey window. The firemen took all to safety. Damage of $3,200 was done to the house and contents.

From Saturday night until this morning there were 47 fires in Toronto, with an estimated damage of $76,000. Extremely cold weather was the indirect cause of all the fires.

New York Doctors Expert At Curing Liquor Poisoning

NEW YORK, December 28. — United Press. — The New York hospitals received many cases of poisoning from bad liquor Friday, 27 persons being in Bellevue hospital alone suffering from various forms of such poisoning. In addition many were sent home after receiving first aid.

"Hospital methods of treating liquor poisoning have improved remarkably during the last year,"... said one physician. "That accounts for the fact that many who are brought to the hospitals are able to leave after a few hours. The physicians have had so much more experience recently that methods are being perfected."

NO ICE BRIDGE FORMING YET AT NIAGARA FALLS

It Is Possible That There May Not Be Any This Year.

CROSS CURRENT ZONE.

Abandonment of Old Power Tunnel Permits Ice to Float Away.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press)—While the winter scenery is beautiful there is no sign of an ice bridge. The bride may be late in forming, and there is a possibility that there will not be any.

Elimination of the cross current in the river near the upper arch bridge caused by the flow from the Niagara Power Company's old tunnel, which is not in use now, is the reason that the bridge may not form. This current held the ice below the cataracts, forming bridges in former years.

ITALY PROPOSES ARMS EQUALITY, NOT LIMITATION

INSPIRED ARTICLE.

Fascist Paper Says British Navy Should Be Same as Italy's.

ROME, Dec. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Italy's realistic policy in foreign affairs is again thrown into relief by a long and apparently inspired article published by the Messagero on the forthcoming arms conference. Casting grave doubts upon the practical value of such a meeting, the article declares it is impossible to accept a reduction or limitation of armaments which "definitely sanctions the superiority of one nation over the others."

"If it is desired seriously to guarantee world peace," the paper continued, "the basis of the problem must be changed, substituting for limitation an equality of armament. This does not mean that China or Uruguay should have navies equal to that of Great Britain but simply that the latter should not be superior to that of Italy or France."

Ship Ablaze at Sea.

STAMFORD, Conn., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—A schooner ablaze was sighted last night about eiyht o'clock three and a half miles south of Shippen Point in Long Island Sound. Harbor Master John Ryle, Jr., accompanied by John Durham, started for the scene. The water was reported as extremely rough.

Seven Put Into Haven.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Bad luck last night continued to dog the two-masted schooner Mary Langdon, 8-year-old ex-rum runner, and her crew of three. She was towed in here Saturday night after grounding on Stonehorse Shoal and anchored, only to drag ashore in the harbor, near East Chop Light, when a northwesterly gale sprang up last night. Her position was considered safe and her crew in no danger, but until the weather moderates efforts to refloat her cannot be made.

Seven schooners seeking shelter from the severe weather outside were huddled in the harbor here last night. The Langdon was bound for Florida with furniture and building materials when she struck the Horse.

SUNDAY BATHING ISSUE OUTLINED FOR MINISTERS

Rev. J. D. Richardson Warns Congregation of Need For Thought.

EFFECT ON CHURCH.

Would Interfere With Sunday School Work and Hinder Church.

Speaking on the words, "Art thou He that should come, or do we look for another," at the morning service at St. James' United Church, Rev. J. D. Richardson emphasized "The finality of Jesus."

"This," he said, "is seen in the completeness of the revelation which He has given of God. We can never go beyond the conception which Jesus has given. He has revealed God to the world in the ultimate conception. The revelation which He has given satisfies the religious aspiration of the human soul. Nowhere else can we find that fulness of revelation of the Divine Being which will satisfy the human heart. He sums up all that we need in the thought of God. We do not need to go to any other to supplement that revelation. And the keynote of His teaching concerning God could be expressed in one word —Fatherhood. Again, He has given the highest ideal of what life ought to be and what it may became. His finality is seen in the completeness of the revelation which He has given of man's life on earth in relation to his fellowmen. We can take the most difficult problems of modern life and find in Him a ready solution if His spirit is seriously and truly followed. And nowhere else can they find an adequate solution. The only hope for humanity's progress is in the truth which He taught and the message He gave to the world. Nothing else can save the world from another deluge of blood deeper than which which dyed the battle-scarred fields of France and Flanders.

"But the finality and divinity of Jesus is seen," said the speaker, "because He has revealed the character of God in His divine Fatherhood, and given us the noblest ideal of life possible, but He is also the inspirational power to achieve that ideal and make it a reality for us. Men find in Him a dynamic whose spiritual potency they never can exhaust."

Sunday Bathing.

At the evening service, Rev. Mr. Richardson spoke from the words, "To whom can we go but unto Thee, for Thou hast the words of Eternal Life." He pointed out that Christ alone can give a true and satisfying view of life and explain its meaning and purpose. "He alone," he said, "can bring relief and release from the burden of sin, and supply that spiritual impulse, or dynamic without which we cannot live a true life."

Before commencing his evening sermon, Rev. Mr. Richardson took a few minutes to briefly explain and interpret the attitude of the Ministerial Association in their opposition to the proposed by-law which has for its object the opening and maintaining of the bathing beaches to facilitate Sunday bathing. He said that the opposition was based on at least two considerations (1) The city ought by its action to commend the proper observance of the Lord's Day. In opening and maintaining the bathing houses on Sunday so as to facilitate Sunday bathing, they would not by this action be commending the proper observance of the Lord's Day. (2) The value of the churches in the community would not seriously be questioned by any sane person. If the churches are a valuable asset in promoting the better life of the community then nothing should be done which would interfere more or less with the work of the church, and especially of the Sunday School which has for its object the religious education of our youth. For these reasons the Ministerial Association felt justified in opposing the by-law and in commending the action of the City Council in regard to this question.

In a closing word Rev. Mr. Richardson asked his congregation to consider carefully the issue involved when marking their ballots.

Excellent music for the day was provided by the choir, under the inspiring leadership of Fred W. Chenhall, organist and choir leader.

Rev. Mr. Robertson announced that beginning next Sunday he would preach a series of special sermons on "Messages of the Prophets to Men of To-day," and that each Sunday evening, services would commence with a brief song service.

HISTORY OF ANGLICAN CHURCH AT CAMPBELLFORD IS STORY OF STRUGGLES OF PIONEERS

First Preacher Came in on Horseback at Long Intervals.

FROM COBOURG.

Christ Church Was the First Opened For Worship in 1853.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28. — Miss Hilda Bonnycastle has in the annual report of the Women's Canadian Society an interesting history of the founding of Christ Church, which is one of the most interesting landmarks in Campbellford. The story is the history of the struggles of the pioneers, many of them members of some of the best families in England, who were reared in the environments of civilization and who came to a wilderness where even the ordinary comforts of life were lacking.

In the early annals of Ontario, the school-house ante-dates the church building. The settlers first made provision for their children and then came the preacher on horseback, his saddle bags filled with tracts and sermons in manuscript. Worship was held in the log structures that served as schoolhouses and pioneers of all denominations made their way on foot over forest trails to join in the services.

During the forties, Rev. Mr. Bowers, an Anglican clergyman at Cobourg was visiting pastor for Seymour, and he held services in the schoolhouses on the English Line, at Meyersburg, and at other places in the district. Services were also held in a log building in Campbellford owned by Mr. Boland, who kept the post office, which was located on the grounds now used as a bowling green. Other places used by the Anglicans were a room over John Gibbs' store and the sitting room in Willman's Hotel. These irregular services, welcome as they were to the settlers, could not take the place of a resident clergyman or a church home.

Mr. Bowers finally moved to Seymour and became the first resident Anglican clergyman in the district. He lived in a log house provided by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bonnycastle across the road from their own residence in Seymour West. With this residence as his home, Mr. Bowers ministered to his various charges, usually travelling on horseback.

When the Rowed family came to Canada in 1834 and took up land in Seymour West, the move to establish an Anglican Church in Campbellford took definite shape. At the outset there was a difference of opinion regarding the site. Major Campbell, after whom the town was named, offered to donate a site, the ground upon which St. Mary's Church now stands. The Rowed family offered a house and twelve acres of land and this offer was accepted. In 1851 this land, all bush, was surveyed for a rectory and glebe. By the deed one and a half acres out of the twelve is reserved for all time as a site for the use of the church and for a burial ground in connection therewith. After 20 years this burial ground was condemned owing to the dampness of the soil, and the Rowed family made another donation, the land for a new cemetery on the hill, which was added to the church property and consecrated.

Christ Church was first opened for public worship in November, 1853. In 1861, being entirely free from debt, it was consecrated by the late Bishop Strachan. Improvements have been made from time to time; a pipe organ and an organ loft were added in 1904 and in that year the fiftieth anniversary was celebrated. In the late eighties a legacy was left the church by the late Robert Cockburn, and the money was used to buy a schoolhouse on Rear Street and later the Parish Hall was built on the same site.

Christ Church is regarded as one of the finest specimens of architecture in the diocese outside the City of Toronto. The Parish Hall is the centre of constant social activities held during the winter, and in the summertime athletic sports are encouraged, the rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke, being a skilled cricketer and football player.

The first rector of the parish was Rev. John Samuel Clarke, who remained until 1856. The parish remained without a resident clergyman until 1858, when Rev. F. G. S. Groves became rector. His successors and the term of service of each was as follows: Rev. J. S. Baker, 1875-1883; Rev. Ralph Hinds, 1875-1883; Rev. T. Walker, 1885-1891; Rev. W. E. Cooper, 1891-1901; Rev. A. J. Reid, 1908-1911. Rev. G. E. Clarke resigned in 1923 to go to Belleville, and was succeeded by the present incumbent, Rev. G. C. Clarke.

CHAMPION FIDDLER TO FIDDLE FOR FORD

... "Mellie" Durham, of Norway, Maine, and his wife spent a few minutes in Toronto recently on the way to visit Henry Ford. Dunham, aged 72, is the champion old-time fiddler of Maine and an expert snowshoe maker. Following his victory on the fiddle he was invited to play for the motor car king. The pictures show, top left, the champion in his usual about-town attire. Below at work on a snowshoe in his shop, where he has made shoes for Peary and many other famous explorers. In the centre he is shown with his precious fiddle. On the right is Grandma Dunham.

PARK ST. BAPTIST.

Sunday was recognized as Christmas Sunday and the choir rendered special Christmas music.

In the morning the pastor's subject was, "The Message of the Angel," in which he showed that Christ came, and was announced to a representative group of men, that is, the shepherds, indicating his mission and message for the world. He came, and was announced, as a Saviour. The need of the world was for a Saviour, and not for an adviser, reformer, speculator or politician.

In the evening, "Why Did Jesus Come" was the subject presented. After showing the different viewpoints of the four records the pastor showed that Christ came to reveal God, put away sin, destroy the works of satan and establish the kingdom of God. The first of these was presented at length, showing Christ to be the manifestation of God as Father, with all His fatherly tenderness, seeking the wandering in order that he might bring them home.

In the evening the choir rendered two anthems, "The Shepherd's Vision" by F. W. Faber and E. L. Ashford, and "The Heavens Are Telling by Caleb Simper. Mr. W. H. Moore rendered "Night of Nights" by Beardsley Van de Water as a fine solo number.

The pastor announced that a Watch Night service would be held on Thursday. Prayer meeting 9-10, vice 11-12.05, and extended a cordial invitation to all to attend.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL

A Christmas atmosphere was evident in the service at Gilmour Memorial Church yesterday, when Rev. W. S. Edgar preached from the text, "But when the fullness of time was come, God sent forth His Son, born of a woman, born under the law, that he might redeem them which were under the law ,that we might receive the adoption of sons.—Galatians 4, 4-5.

"One of the most remarkable facts in connection with the coming of Christ," said Mr. Edgar, "is that of His complete identification with us. He took our human nature on Himself, not the nature of angels. He entered fully into our life and experience and was familiar with our toils and hardships, pains and sorrows. But it was not only the darker side of our life that he knew. He experienced also its lighter side, its joy, friendship and love, so that it may well be said that He knew from actual experience the whole of human life. He plumed its depths and scaled its heights and knew it intimately."

"Let us consider the divine manifestation in a threefold sense: (1) Its Period; (2) Its Nature; (3) Its Purpose.

"First, He came in the fullness of time. It is often asked why He did not come sooner, and why mankind did not have the benefit of His incarnation and atonement immediately after the fall. Why were four thousand dark and gloomy years allowed to roll on while the human race sank deeper and deeper in ignorance and sin. To these questions no satisfactory answer can be given. God undoubtedly had reasons which are yet hidden from us. All that we can say is that in the Divine estimation, it was the right time, the time fast suitable for the Redeemer's advent. The tools of history are never inappropriate a Shakespeare is never produced when the world needs a Luther.

Secondly, is the nature of Christ's coming. God sent Him forth born of a woman, born under the law. There is a two-fold element manifested here—Divine and human. Christ was the revelation of God in the sphere of time and sense. The splendor of Jehovah was veiled by the robe of human flesh; hidden under the guise of a frail human frame throbbed the energy that made the world. That Christ was God; that he became man, possession a true human body and a true human soul is the distinct teaching of the sacred narrative.

"Thirdly, we have the purpose of the incarnation. That He might redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons. Two things, He came to accomplish on behalf of sinful men—Redemption and Adoption. In a word the purpose of the incarnation was to convert the slaves of sin into the sons of God.

"Our Lord died that He might open the way for our forgiveness and reconciliation with Heaven; that He might endue us with the spirit of purity and power, enabling us to attain to holiness of heart and life. In Him our emancipation from sin is complete. We die to the old life of actual sin and formal righteousness; we live in the power of faith, purity and love."

"Nomenclature" is a profession of which a woman, Miss Laura Lee Rogers, of Elizabeth, N.J., is believed to have a monopoly. For 20 years Miss Rogers has made a business of supplying "catchy" names for houses, boats, and commercial products. Some of the names suggested by her for prepared foods and similar products have become known throughout America.

MILLBROOK, December 23. — A very pleasant time was spent in "Fairview School," S. S. The surprise of the occasion made reply somewhat difficult for Miss Stutt, who, however, thanked the pupils very cordially for their kind remembrance, and expressed her deep appreciation of their thoughtfulness in presenting to her so lovely and useful a gift.

The remainder of the time was spent in opening parcels, thanking "Santa," and enjoyment of the various gifts including the teacher's personal gift of candy, etc., the gathering closing with the National Anthem.

ANNUAL CONVERSAT LAKEFIELD SCHOOL

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 28.—The annual "conversat" of the Lakefield High School was held in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening, and was attended by a large crowd which, however, was not as large as in former years, the number of expupils being smaller than usual. The hall was beautifully decorated, reflecting credit in the taste of the committee in charge.

Rev. S. A. Kemp was chairman and opened the programme with the usual chairman's address, congratulating the boys and girls in the fine appearance of the hall. The speaker said he felt at home in a student body as all are students. Some pupils regard their teachers as sort of plain-clothes policemen, and in former years the cat of nine tails was the teacher's badge of office. The Christmas season has one horrid feature from the pupil's standpoint—examinations, but these are inevitable, like death and taxes. The speaker urged the boys and girls not to depend on a reputation for ability but to work hard to earn it. It sometimes takes students years to learn that they know nothing. "We must learn," he said, "to realize that there are hundreds and thousands in the world just as good as we are, and so it is for us to abolish all snobbing and realize that we are just common ordinary people." In closing, Mr. Kemp urged the pupils to honor their teachers and prepare thoroughly for their life-work.

The next number was a piano solo by Mr. K. S. Madill, of Windsor, an ex-pupil of the school, who is always a welcome visitor at these affairs.

Dr. J. C. Smith sang "Yawning" in such a realistic manner that it was amusing to watch the audience struggling to stifle their own yawns. Being wildly encored, Dr. Smith obligingly sang "Whiter Than Snow." Mr. K. S. Madill was the accompanist.

Miss Edna Howard gave a recitation recounting the account of an anthem given by one who found it not altogether enjoyable to listen to.

Miss Nelson sang very sweetly, "Go Down to Kew in Lilac Time," with Mr. K. S. Madill as her accompanist.

Dr. J. C. Smith and Messrs. Gordon Porter and Solan Nixon sang "Riley's Cow Shed," making the hit of the evening, and responding to several encores.

Mrs. Wm. Millage sang "Dear Old Pal of Mine," in an acceptable manner, Miss Nelson accompanying her on the piano.

Mr. J. M. Simpson, principal of the High School, gave a brief address and presented several prizes which he annually donates to encourage prowess in athletics and in scholastic work. To Margaret Tanner, who this year was the winner of the county prize at the entrance examination, he gave a prize, and also to Gordon Porter, who took the highest standing in the normal entrance examinations, winning four first-class honors, three second-class and one pass. Last year the boys were behind the girl in winning the honors, but this year the order was reversed, and the boys were in the lead. Special mention was made of the excellent work done by Horace Reddick last year.

Clare Irwin received the medal for the half-mile race, and the medal for winning the greatest number of points at the annual field day was presented to Kenneth Kemp.

Mr. Simpson spoke of the recent contest for a member to represent the county at the Older Boys' Parliament in Toronto, and the fact that a boy of the school, Stanley Darling, was successful. It would be a good thing, he said, to have an oratorical contest for the boys to be held in the Town Hall, giving the public a chance to hear them. There is real talent displayed at the meetings of the Literary Society, and if it is possible to get the pupils' consent, a public debate could be held which would be an advantage. It would be a good thing, he continued, to offer more inducements to both boys and girls to compete in other than school subjects. There is not enough encouragement given in this regard.

The speaker felt also that it would be a high honor to present to a boy or girl a medal won for the best points of character and example in the school. These medals might be presented at the "conversat" in the presence of the local clergy and the members of the School Board.

Rev. P. L. Jull made a few remarks, stating that he is a veteran at conversats, and he is not at all sure that the speeches are the most popular items on the programme. He expressed himself as happy to be present, and felt that, like the measles, happiness is catching, as everyone appeared to be the same. A larger attendance would be gratifying, especially of the ex-pupils, as this event should be an annual re-union of the old pupils and the present pupils.

An oratorical contest would be a splendid thing, said Mr. Jull, as giving some recognition to the qualities of manhood. In listening to debate between two groups of boys on citizenship, recently, there were many splendid points brought out, and the definition of the good citizen was given as one with a sound body, a well-trained mind and a wholesome spiritual outlook in life. Mr. Jull closed by congratulating the young people on their decorations and wishing success to one and all.

Mrs. W. M. Graham spoke briefly, congratulating the prize-winners, both in the athletic and academic fields, and urged greater interest, and also put forth a strong plea for a High School hockey team. In wishing the good wishes of the season, she stressed the opportunity this Christmastide affords for sharing one's blessings with those less favored.

Messrs. C. S. Tanner and D. H. Charlton spoke very briefly, expressing pleasure at being present and congratulating the pupils on the success of their effort.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, music being provided by Sedgwick's orchestra of Peterboro. At about eleven o'clock refreshments were served, dancing being resumed afterwards. The evening's entertainment broke up shortly after midnight.

It is called "KOTEX." Eight in every 10 better-class women have adopted it.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, it banishes danger of mishaps.

BRITON URGES HOME TO ACRE

Put Workers in Country Proposed as Alternative to Nationalization.

EDUCATION FIRST.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—While former Premier Lloyd George presses his proposal of nationalization of all land as a solution of Great Britain's agricultural problems, another suggestion, less drastic but far-reaching, made by Prof. J. W. Scott, of University College, Cardiff, is being given wide consideration.

The only real salvation for the existing industrial difficulties and the corresponding stagnation in British agriculture is for the industrial workers to spread out and become "homecrofters" as well as workers, he maintains.

"Three words contain the key to the whole stupendous affair: houses, education and transport," Prof. Scott said, explaining his plan in the Hibbert Journal. "The whole pressure of our situation bids us take the industrial millions now pinioned amid bricks and asphalt, uproot them, and with a strong hand scatter them along the country roads."

The proposal is somewhat similar to Henry Ford's plan to decentralize industry. Under it a plot of land up to an acre in extent would be made available to every family, payment being deferred over a long period, as under the present Surrey Garden Village Trust, and the home garden helping to meet the instalments. The ultimate result would be, Prof. Scott thinks, the evolution of a stable agricultural-industrial civilization from the present situation, at the mercy of so many currents of insecurity. He would initiate the movement by education.

How It Would Work.

"Let any education committee or other authority simply proceed to lay hold of some tolerable 100-acre farm within a few miles of a city boundary, divide it into 100 separate acres, and put up two roomy pavilions, one for the girls and one for the boys," Prof. Scott proposed. "Let a general organizer take the whole in hand. Let him have as assistants expert Homecrofter-supervisors who have at their fingertips the whole science of so cultivating an acre of ground, in respect both to its direct and indirect products, as to supply the wants of the invisible family-of-six who are imagined to live there—to supply them in such fashion as to keep hunger from their door for the year round.

"There is nothing in the devoting of each higher-form pupil's time, up to the extent of one whole week in three, to this task, which would even seriously interfere with existing school arrangements. There Homecrofter-supervisors would have charge of the working of the 100 acres. Every Monday morning one particular given third of the teachers of higher-form classes in the town would bring their charges out to this Homecroft-training ground to the appropriate pavilion and, five minutes later, coats off and overalls donned, scatter them for the day, every platoon of five to its own acre, there to help the supervisor with whatever he is at, and learn food-production till nightfall; after which a general return to the pavilions, and home.

Repeat For A Week.

"Repeat this the next day, and for a week of days. The body may then return to the city schools for a fortnight, two other similar bodies being put through this same regime during the two intervening weeks; after which the first contingent come back once more to the ground to see what Nature and their neighbors have been doing with their handiwork in the meantime.

"With such a rotation system, the Nature lessons 'sinking in' while school lessons were going on, and school lessons 'sinking in' while they were handling hoe and spade, would two years of training in the practical science of fighting hunger do any harm to children's schooling as we at present conceive it, even if there were as yet no cottages waiting along the country roads against the time when these same pupils, turned industrial workers, should arrive at married estate, and go in and do the thing in earnest, and rear their own children in the way of it?

"And a great, long, toilsome road as lies between us and any such spreading out of the people who man our industries on the land, so that each industrial worker's family shall stand solid on its own feet, the times are favorable to it.

"Are we going to learn the law laid upon us by the new economic order which we brought on ourselves at the industrial revolution—in time? It is so simple, after all. It is not that we should stop mass production. It is that we should keep healthy while we pursue it. And in order to keep healthy, but one all-comprehensive duty is required of us—we must keep spread out.

"We cannot do without that by any amount of hygiene or any amount of moral teaching. We must cease the unseemly piling of human dwellings on top of one another—never a necessary consequence of mass production in any case, but only an historical accompaniment of it—and spread them out, spread them over green fields, and see stretches of brown furrows to the back of every row of them. And we can do it."

GOOD FRIENDS OF SPORT.

Peterboro's younger citizens—and older ones for that matter—who are interested in sport and recreation can afford to look forward to the result of Friday's mayoralty contest with a great deal of satisfaction.

No matter which candidate is elected a good friend of sport will be in the chief magistrate's chair.

Both Ald. Phelan and ex-Ald. Dr. Holloway have always taken a keen interest in Peterboro's athletic organizations, and both are firm believers in the advertising powers of a winning baseball or hockey team.

Ald. Phelan, himself a hockey and ball player in his younger days, was for a number of years President of the Peterboro Ball Club, while Dr. Holloway has been an enthusiastic supporter of the local teams.

Both have been "solid" on the idea that the civic government should as far as possible extend a helping hand toward Peterboro's sporting organizations, and that it is the duty of a municipality to provide recreational facilities for its citizens.

With either candidate at the helm, sport representatives in Peterboro will always be sure of a sympathetic and intelligent hearing and of as much practical support as the financial condition of the city will warrant.

THE YOUNGER VOTERS.

A feature of the municipal campaign that has not escaped attention is the number of young men who have offered their services to their fellow-citizens.

It is an encouraging symptom.

If some of the younger citizens are beginning to realize that the call of their city for service is addressed to every one capable of serving and not merely to the older citizens of the community, as seemed to be the opinion not so long ago, there is hope that the rest of the electors around their own age will at least interest themselves enough in municipal politics to use their franchise on New Year's Day.

Many young men have a municipal vote—but it is safe to say that there is a greater degree of apathy in regard to civic affairs among such electors than among those of more mature years.

The slackers are more numerous among the younger citizens, and therefore the advent of a notable crop of young candidates is a healthy sign that may be followed by an increased vote.

With younger men in the field and two issues, daylight saving and Sunday bathing, that carry an special appeal to those who do not usually vote in municipal elections, there is reason to hope that Friday's expression of opinion will be more emphatic and more representtaive than the average municipal vote.

SHOULD COME OUT IN THE OPEN.

Some municipal candidates have already made their position in regard to the Collegiate Institute question clear and emphatic.

Before Friday every aspirant for either the Board of Education or the City Council should similarly commit themselves.

The expenditure involved in the building programme of the Board of Education is not a light one, and if the Examiner senses public opinion accurately, the majority of the ratepayers are opposed to such an expenditure being loaded on them without a chance being given them to record their views.

They do not believe that the City Council should accede to the request of the Board of Education and authorize the construction of the new Collegiate building until the ratepayers have approved of the proposition.

That being so candidates for the Board of Education and for the Council should fly their colours.

If they believe that the expenditure should be assumed by the city without a mandate from the people, let them say so.

If they favour the submission of a bylaw to the ratepayers, let them make known their attitude.

Candidates who will not make a straight-forward declaration on this point are likely to get short shift from those electors who believe that the ratepayers should be consulted.

Before Friday every candidate in the race should be out in the open so that the electors will be in a position to realize just what policy a vote for any particular aspirant involves.

TWO ISSUES TO BE SETTLED.

Two questions that are to be voted on by the electors on New Year's are unfortunately out of season.

It is not an easy task to stir up interest in either daylight saving or Sunday bathing when the weather conditions are suggestive of Labrador rather than of summer recreation.

At the same time the Council has done well to present these issues to the electorate at the municipal election for a decision, thus avoiding a repetition of the controversy over both questions in the early part of last summer.

The electors should remember that the vote on New Year's Day is final; it will dispose of both these matters for another year, and there will be no advantage in trying to stir up an argument when the warm weather comes again.

Daylight saving is a matter that will touch every one in the community, because a vote favourable to summer time will mean that all our affairs during the summer months will be regulated by a different time standard.

There are various arguments in favour of and against daylight saving.

Its advocates claim that once the time is altered everything goes on as usual, except that there is an extra hour of sunlight available in the evening for recreation, and they add that the effect of this longer play period is wholly beneficial.

Those opposed to the plan declare that it is confusing, and that workmen who have to rise early and mothers who find it impossible to get their children to bed as early as they should find daylight saving a decided handicap.

It is noticeable, however, that in those cities where daylight saving has been in operation for a number of years there is little sign of a wish to abandon the plan, which would seem to indicate that the longer the summer time scheme is tried the more desirable it seems.

However, the issue is to be decided, so far as Peterboro is concerned, by the electors, and it is to be hoped that those whose names are on their lists will take the trouble to express their opinion on this subject.

As for supervision of the city's swimming beaches on Sunday, the Examiner's views are well known.

When Sunday bathing is done by every other section of the community the Examiner can see little logic and less justice in depriving those who are unable to get out of town on Sunday of the opportunity of cooling off by a plunge into the river under safe conditions.

For a number of years, until last summer, the civic beaches were supervised on Sunday, and there have been no indications of a lowered moral standard as a result.

As a matter of fact, beaches are open almost everywhere on Sunday, and unless Peterboro wants to be advertised as a hot-bed of blue-lawism the voters must see to it on Friday that the Puritan complex of the 1925 Council is corrected.

SOMETHING TO BE STRAIGHTENED OUT.

Twenty years ago the Government of Canada, aiming to check the outflow of Canadian grain through American ports, and for the purpose of giving our own ports in the Maritime Provinces a chance to get at least some of this business, embarked upon a great national railway scheme. It spent 170 million dollars in building a railway from Western Canada to Quebec and then onward to the Maritime Provinces. This road was built to carry Canadian grain to Canadian ports at a rate which would permit competition with American ports. Section 42 of the agreement reached with the directors of the new Grand Trunk Pacific set forth:

"... the aid herein provided is granted by the Government of Canada for the express purpose of encouraging the development of Canadian trade and the transportation of Canadian goods through Canadian channels. The company accepts the aid on these conditions and agrees that all freight on the lines of the railway or its branches not specifically routed otherwise by the shipper ... shall be carried to Canadian ports."

And Section 43 of the agreement said:

"It (the company) shall not in any matter within its power either directly or indirectly advise or encourage transportation of such freight by routes other than those above provided, but shall in all respects in good faith use its utmost endeavors to fulfill the conditions on which the public aid is granted, namely, the development of trade through Canadian channels and Canadian ocean ports."

Upon this clear understanding—nothing could be clearer—Parliament sanctioned the expenditure of 170 millions. Upon the same clear understanding the Maritime Provinces supported the project.

That understanding has never been lived up to. It is not being lived up to now. Since the opening of the present grain hauling season 92,000 carloads of wheat were loaded at C.N.R. points on the prairies. Yet not a single carload of it reached Halifax. Out of 125 million bushels of grain shipped from the West only 1,250,000 bushels have reached St. John. The remaining 123 million bushels have gone through American ports—much of it to Portland.

Why is this? Is the Canadian National management to blame, or the shippers, or geography, or the Government?

Sir Henry Thornton in an interview given on Tuesday to the St. John Telegraph-Journal disclaims responsibility. He says:

"Notwithstanding statements made to the contrary, neither the Canadian National Railways nor myself as its President can control the port of shipment for export grain. The control lies entirely with the grain pools and the owners of the grain."

Sir Henry goes on to say that:

"The entire matter is affected by economic shipping and market conditions of considerable complexity and a satisfactory conclusion will only be gained by a recognition of the sincerity of purpose by all sides coupled with harmonious effort."

What are those "economic shipping and market conditions of considerable complexity" to which Sir Henry refers? Sir Henry himself says that he is making an earnest effort to probe them, and those who know the man will have confidence in his statement. But Parliament, we think, should help; it, too, should try to ascertain why it is that the real reason for an expenditure of 170 millions of Canadian money has never and is not now being justified.

Certainly we did not spend that 170 millions for the sake of Portland and Buffalo.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Might as well join in with the throng and say, "Was it cold enough for you?"

Peterboro people were given a chance yesterday morning to experience what White River folks would call a balmy winter's day.

Vote as you like—but vote is the slogan this week in place of the familar "Do your Christmas shopping early."

The election is only a few days away, and so far not a single fight over daylight saving has been recorded. Doesn't anybody know there is to be a vote on this question on Friday?

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 27 (Canadian Press).—There was no demand for Canadian grain from foreign buyers on the Montreal market Saturday, and the enquiry from local and country interests was almost nil, therefore no new business of importance was done and the market on the whole was dull, but the undertone was firm. Car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats were quoted at 52 cents, No. 3 white at 50 1-2 cents and No. 4 white at 49 1-2 cents per bushel, ex-store.

There were no new developments in the local flour situation on Saturday, but the undertone to the market was very firm and the indications were that higher prices would be in order in the near future on account of the continued strength in wheat values. The demand from all sources was of a very limited character and business was dull. Winter wheat flour was also slow and prices were unchanged.

The trade in baled hay was slow and the condition of the market was unchanged, with car lots of No. 1 timothy hay quoted at $14.50 to $15 per ton, No. 2 timothy hay at $13.50 to $14 per ton, No. 3 timothy hay at $11 to $12 per ton.

EGG PRICE DECLINE

A noticeable weakness has developed in the market for strictly fresh eggs over the holiday and prices for extras have declined 7c per dozen, and firats 1c to 2c per dozen. The factors responsible for this have been the increase in the home production and the lower prices ruling in the United States with the result that some lots have already been imported from Chicago. The demand in the local market on Saturday was quiet as is usually the case after a holiday, but some business was done. There has been no important change in the condition of the storage egg situation, prices having ruled steady owing to the fact that stocks at most centres are said to be pretty well depleted and it is expected that what are left will be disposed of early in the New Year.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press).—Wheat kited higher today with a swiftness that amazed even trade veterans. Word that the harvest in Central and Southern Argentina is being spoiled by rain came just at a time today when the market was confronted with trade advices of curtailed supplies nearby everywhere except in Canada, and with United States mills reported as actually possessing bread material for only 60 days ahead.

After soaring as much as 9 3-4 cents a bushel in some cases, the wheat market had a tumultuous finish, 4 to 7 1-2 cents up. December $1.83 3-4 to $1.84 1-4 and May $1.79 5-8 to $1.80, with corn at 1 to 2 cents advance; oats showing 5-8 to 1 1-8 cents gain, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 52 cents.

Half-frantic bidding on the part of previous speculative sellers of the December delivery of wheat hoisted the price of that month a cent at a time before the top point for the day was attained shortly before the close. The extraordinary advance in the December price and the eagerness of buyers of that delivery was connected with the fact that a final settlement of all December accounts is due within the next four business days.

Most of the outstanding December deals, however, have apparently been cleared up, and the bulk of bueinsss was in May and July, both of which scored big gains, but were eclipsed on the blackboard by the streak-lightning action of December.

New high price records heretofore this season were smashed in the wheat market today long before the day's peak had been passed. From the outset talk was current that the adjustment of wheat supply and demand in the United States had never before been so close; that the domestic movement of wheat from the country is dwindling, and that marketings of wheat in the Canadian Northwest also are on the wane.

With available stocks of wheat on the ocean and in foreign markets represented as below normal, scarcity of offerings here during the first part of the Board of Trade session today tended further to stimulate demand, and it was not until business had nearly ended that profit-taking sales led to something like a decided reaction.

JUST LIKE A MAN By Gene Knott

HUNTERS KILLED CANADIAN GEESE

Recall Killing of Mate and Cogitate on Bird Love Story.

CHILDREN AFFECTED

PARSONS, Kans., Dec. 28.—When a mammoth white Canadian snow goose was shot at the Island, in a bend of the Neosho, it terminsted what is believed to have been a love story in bird-dom.

Hunters of the community believe that the death of the goose was the final chapter in a tragic story of bravery, noble leadership, lasting love and fidelity—the sequel to a tragedy enacted two years ago that was marked by news stories and editorials throughout the land.

That was the woeful death of "Snow King," so dubbed by his slayer, who had stalked the bird for three years as he made his southward flight dauntlessly leading a flock of brown geese. Majestically the great bird soared over the river and field where his hunter lay, cleverly keeping his distance. But finally man's carefully laid plans were fruitful. Disguised as a cow, with bell hung around his neck and gun holding the tail in proper position, he deceived the goose when it stopped to feed in a cow pasture. And Snow King fell.

At intervals since Snow King's death, a great white goose had been noticed about the scene of the tragedy. Farmers talked of its beauty; hunters coveted it—but it always eluded them. It always returned, however, to the scene of Snow King's last stand. It is believed the bird would join different flocks for it was seen to arrive with one bunch and then another, but always remaining after the others moved on southward.

Sentiment of the community, mixed with bits of out-door lore, have woven a pretty story about this second bird, which has been called "Canadian Beauty."

One hunter recalled having wounded a goose and of keeping it in camp. Its wild called and called for it and finally ventured into camp rather than be separated from its mate. Another added that when a goose mates, it mates for life; that if it loses its mate it will not stay long with any flock, and will fly and swim and feed alone.

And so they wonder if "Canadian Beauty" was the mate of Snow King. They wonder if she went a little while with the flock of brown geese two years ago, and, missing Snow King, returned to the scene of his disappearance in vain search for him. They wonder if discouragement prompted her to join other flocks, only to leave them and return to the place where her lost mate was last seen.

The youngsters, hearing of the double tragedy, stood in front of the window where "Canadian Beauty" hung for a while, marvelling at the six feet nine inches of her wing spread, their attitudes as expressive as if in the presence of honored dead.

A THOUGHT.

OUR OWN DOOMSDAY BOOK.

(By Glenn Frank)

Pollyanna is in eclipse.

Her smiles are being smothered by the literature of despair that is pouring from the presses.

Since the war the literary market place has swarmed with prophets of doom. On every street corner stands some modern Jeremiah to tell us that we are citizens of a crumbling civilization.

Here are some of the entries they have made in their day-book of despair:

The birth rate of the better human stocks is declining; the best families are having the smallest families; we are witnessing the survival of the unfittest; the masters are being swamped by the morons.

We are becoming mob-minded; the individual has been submerged in the crowd; the highest we dare think is what the mob will approve; we are being ruled by the autocracy of the average and run by a dictatorship of the dull.

In our passion for mass production we have put quantity above quality, chained ourselves as slaves to machines and made mechanization the spiritual mistress of our existence.

Our institutions have become so big and so complicated that we are not up to the job of managing them effectively any longer; we are like a nervous spinster clutching at the reins of a runaway team as we try to manage a civilization that has become too complicated.

The younger generation is on the loose, morally adrift without rudder or compass.

Suicide is on the increase, grim reminder that we have lost that zest for life that healthy civilizations always display.

Neurasthenia is spreading.

The proportion of insane and feeble-minded is increasing.

Religion is waning and witchcraft is waxing. We no longer pillory witches: We patronize them, paying them fat fees to tell us our futures by our palms or by the stars.

Murders multiply and crimes of violence grow by leaps and bounds.

Society splits into classes and cliques and clans, all highly self-conscious and self-centred.

There is a new birth of bigotry.

Humanity heads into a blind alley.

I am not stating my personal opinions; I am simply reading headlines from the doomsday book which the students of our civilization have written.

It behooves a man to keep his head while reading this literature of despair. Other ages have had their prophets of doom and still pulled through; it is always easier to predict ruin than to predict renewal; but we shall be unwise to ignore the fact that leaps from every page of this doomsday book; namely, that our material growth has outstripped our moral growth.

A visitor from another planet would be likely to describe us as a race with the power of super-men and the morals of sub-men.

If we can make our mind-power equal our horse-power, we can afford to burn our doomsday book.

THREE MEN KILLED, QUARREL AT DANCE

Found Near Door Of Social Club. Hall Furniture Wrecked.

NEW YORK, December 29. Canadian Press. — Three unidentified men were shot and killed here Saturday as the climax of a Christmas dance at the Adonis Social Club in South Brooklyn resort.

The police believe that the men came at midnight to the club where dancing was going on. They were accompanied by girls, and it is believed that a quarrel arose between the strangers and the dancers over the choice of partners.

The triple crime was discovered when a policeman found one of the bodies lying in the street, and two others in a hall near by amid broken furniture which had apparently been wrecked in a terrific struggle. The hall was deserted.

ANOTHER CRISIS APPROACHING IN FRENCH CABINET

SUGGEST ECONOMY

Briand Will Resign if Government's Projects Not Accepted.

PARIS, Dec. 28. — (Canadian Press).—The Government and the parties which compose its majority in the Chamber of Deputies are now providing the extraordinary spectacle of a frantic race to forestall each other in the presentation of a financial programme to Parliament.

This situation gives rise to the prospect that the New Year will start off politically with another Cabinet crisis. The seriousness of this is heightened by Premier Briand's declaration that he will make no further partial changes in his Ministry. If Finance Minister Doumer's projects are rejected it will mean the rejection of the whole Cabinet.

The issue may not come to a head, however, until the regular session of the Chamber begins about the middle of January.

During the past week three groups of the Left cartel have been working feverishly on bills designed to balance the budget. That they have outstripped the Government in the race was indicated Saturday by their announcement that their bills have been drafted and will be introduced in the Chamber Monday morning.

Cabinet Divided.

Meanwhile, the Cabinet remains divided on M. Doumer's plan for a double tax on business turnover and will be unable to settle this matter before the Cabinet meets again on Tuesday. By that time, it is believed in the lobbies of the Chamber, the groups of the Left bloc will have applied rigid discipline to all their members and have made approval of the Government bills, whatever they may be, impossible.

The bills which the Left groups will push as substitutes for the Government measures provide for economies in official administration amounting to 800,000,000 francs; increase the income taxes payable by foreigners; institute grave penalties for tax dodging, and reinforce the means at the disposal of the fiscal administration for the detention of false declarations.

One of these bills provides that no person can vote until he has satisfied the authorities that he has complied with all the tax laws. Commissions are proposed to decide what persons engaged in the liberal professions shall pay if these disagree with the tax officials.

Dodge Capital Levy.

The Radicals and Socialists have cleverly dodged the question of a capital levy in these bills, restricting them to measures considered sufficient to balance the budget, leaving measures for fundamental financial restoration for later consideration.

Some features of the Left bloc's bills are generally accepted favorably, although altogether they are criticized as likely to increase the cost of collecting taxes more than the economy of 800,000,000 francs for which they provide.

The engineers of the wrecked locomotives, I. N. Litrell, Wichita Falls, Texas, and P. J. Wallace, Fort Worth, were injured about the legs.

CROWD MOBBED AND KISSED COMPOSER

Emotional Outburst at Chicago Opera Premiere.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Opera in English enthusiasts broke all bound Saturday when W. Franke Harling, Boston composer at the conclusion of the world premiere of his "A Light from St. Agnes" was pursued into the lobby of the theatre and kissed repeatedly. Harling conducted his own opera, the first to introduce the saxaphone and banjo, and with the Chicago Civic Opera artists received the plaudits of society and music lovers in the galleries, but the real demonstration occurred when he reached the lobby.

At least 200 men hugged and kissed him. Women were as emotional as the men and Harling escaped them almost in a state of collapse, fleeing to his hotel room.

Supplied by autho ity of the chairman of the Board of Education:

What is the state of things in the Collegiate Building on McDonnel Street. Here every inch of classroom space is occupied. One class of 40 pupils being on the third floor. Most of the classes have 40 pupils enrolled, although the department regulations permit only thirty. There are four First Forms, each with 40 pupils.

The majority of the first form pupils must be cleared out into three Second Forms each year, to make way for part of the 225 Entrance pupils who seek admission. Some of the pupils pushed up into the Second Form and then into the Third Form have failed in several subjects, but go on into another form with those who have made high marks—classes so large and of such different standing are very difficult to teach and the situation is unfortunate for pupils, parents and teachers.

There is no provision for Domestic Science, Manual Training and Gymnasium in this school. The girls in the two first years get a certain amount of Domestic Science in the Central School, but this room is not available for Third Year work, which is the most interesting and valuable to the girls. The boys of the Junior School get one hour a week manual training at the Central School—but the higher classes have no training. The Board of Education pay $700 a year to the Y.M.C.A. to give some of the boys a certain amount of Gymnasium work.

Is it fair to these pupils to overcrowd the rooms, making good teaching almost impossible, to have boys and girls losing time going to the Central School and to the Y.M.C.A. for work that they should have in their own school? The limit of accommodation has been reached in this school. Where shall next Septembers 225 Entrance pupils be placed?

WOUNDED WERE LEFT TO DIE IN CHINESE BATTLE

Feng's Capture of Tientsin Most Sanguinary in Modern China.

TWO WAR ZONES.

Field Hospital Service Inadequate — Arms Exhausted.

PEKING, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—The battles which led to the defeat of the Chihli army of General Li Ching-Ling and the occupation of Tientsin by Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang were the most sanguinary ever fought in modern China, in the opinion of observers. Twenty-three hundred wounded in the Nanyuan hospital alone doubtless represent only a small porportion of the Kuominchun (Feng's army) casualties, whose total probably will never be known.

General Li is reported to have estimated his dead at 4,000 and to have boasted that his was smaller than the enemy's.

Because of the nature of the conflicts and the inadequate field and hospital service, thousands died in the trenches and open country from wounds and exposure.

The reports of the reverses suffered by General Kuo Sung-Ling, who was executed after his defeat by Marshal Chang Tso-Lin around Mukden open up a new chapter, since with hostile forces north and south of Tientsin the tenure of the Kuominchun is questionable.

It is not expected, however, that any attempt will be made to recapture Tientsin because of the exhaustion of resources on all sides. It is believed that railway service will be reopened to Tientsin at an early date.

The Manchurian Front.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Details received here of the collapse of Kuo Sung-Ling's army in Manchuria indivate that, finding his troops losing their spirit and because of the bitter cold, shortage of ammunition and medical and other supplies, de decided to stake all on a powerful offensive. His scouting and reconnaisance work was poor, while Marshal Chang's cavalry and aircraft kept the Manchurian chieftain informed of his adversary's every move.

General Kuo's advance troops went forward in a great wave, but their supports were unable to keep in touch with them, while the defenders slowly retreated until the force of the wave was spent. Meanwhile, Chang Tso-Lin's aircraft unceasingly bombarded the advancing enemy, and 5,000 cavalry delivered a sudden attack on Kuo Sung-Ling's left rear, which was thrown into dire confusion. The main defending army then took the offensive, and the whole of Kuo's army collapsed within a few hours.

RESUME SERVICE CHINESE RAILWAY

Line Between Pekin and Tientsin Was Disarranged By Fighting.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (Canadian Press). — The resumption of service by the international train between Pekin and Tientsin, disarranged for some days because of fighting about the latter city, was disclosed in a message from Minister MacMurray, made public last night by the State Department. The commercial service has been resumed with depleted equipment, the message said. Unofficial advices told of the capture of Tientsin by the Kuominchun (national people's army) over the opposition of General Li Ching-Ling, former Governor of Chihli Province.

WANT MUMMIES BACK.

Algerians Seeking Count to Prorok.

PARIS, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press) —The Matin says that the Governor-General of Algeria has broadcost an announcement throughout his sphere of action that he is "searching for an American citizen, Charles Byron Cunes, known as Count De Prorok, born 1896 in Mexico." The announcement is accompanied by a list of grievances against Cunes. The Government of Algeria, adds the paper, says that despite the rigid regulations, Cunes "carried off a certain number of archaeological discoveries made in Algerian subsoil, notably four mummies which he unearthed at Hoggar."

SCHOONER LOST PORTLAND FEARS

Sailed For Boston Three Weeks Ago.

PORTLAND, Maine, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Two Portland four-masted schooners, the Cora F. Cressy and the Bright, which left Boston together three weeks ago bound for Norfolk, have not been heard from, and fear for their safety is expressed here. Charles W. Griffin is in command of the Cressy and he has a crew of eleven. The Bright sailed under Captain A. L. Warner, of Boston, and had a crew of ten. Both crews were shipped at Boston.

Heavy gales were reported 48 hours after the schooners left port and the weather has been rough most of the time since their sailing.

MIDWEEK MARKET.

There will be a New Year's market in Peterborough on Wednesday.

BIG SILK MERGER.

$20,000,000 Consolidation Involves Beldings.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—A $20,000,000 silk merger, uniting Belding Brothers and Company and the Heminway Silk Company, two of the oldest and largest silk thread manufacturers in the United States, was announced last night.

The consolidation involved an outright purchase by the Belding interests of the Heminway Company, which has total assets exceeding $5,000,000. The enlarged concern, which will be known as the Belding-Heminway Company, will have total assets of more than $20,000,000, estimated annual sales of approximately $16,000,000, and estimated net earnings of $2,000,00, based on the past year's showing.

EXPLAINS MIRACLE.

Professor Y. Henderson, the Yale physiologist, who in a lecture in London gave a natural explanation to the miracle of Elisha raising to life the son of the Shulamite woman. Prof. Henderson believes that the child was in a coma as a result of eating poppies in the fields. Elisha breathed carbon dioxide, which is exhaled by all human beings, into the child, and recent experiments show that carbon dioxide used with anaesthetics allow greater control of breathing and speedier return from anaesthetics.

W. Smith, and to the retiring secretary, Mrs. J. Todd, whom all were glad to welcome back after her recent illness. The recipients of the gifts expressed warm appreciation of the kindly thoughtfulness prompting, in so pleasant and tangible a manner, these outward tokens of the harmony and helpfulness which characterize the spirit of the class.

"I see by the papers . . ."

WE ALL do. It's a national habit. Newspapers open and close the day. They are a vital part of our daily existence. Take them from us and the wheels of progress stop. We must have the news!

And news about merchandise ranks with news about current events. As a matter of fact, it is even more personal. It concerns you and your daily needs. Food. Clothing. Shelter. Household necessities.

The newspapers bring you this vital news of merchandise. The advertising columns of this paper are a business guide-book to guide both footsteps and expenditures. They tell you what, tell you who, and show you where. Pilots of the family purse.

Read the advertisements. Every day. Buried in small type may be a bargain that was born for you especially. Know before you go to buy, just what you want and what you will have to pay for it.

"I buy by the papers" is the twin of "I see by the papers." You consult a time-table to see what train to take. Consult this newspaper to see what goods to buy.

Newspaper advertisements are buying beacons to light your way to wise expenditure

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore, finding herself late at night aboard a mysterious yacht in Long Island Sound, had plunged overboard and swam to shore. In the water she was joined by the faithful dog, Bugle. The two lay on the beach and while Connie slept Bugle disappeared, to return with a man's oilskin coat—for her. It has been a night of strange adventures, which started when Connemara stole away from Aunt Celimena's Connecticut home rather than announce her engagement.

A pair of leather gloves. Worn, but very swanky. "Two pounds in Jarvis Street," computed Connemara, who knew her London—"that would be something like ten dollars before the exchange went down." He must be rich. Or frightfully extravagant. "We'd be very congenial," she thought.

Reaching into another pocket, her hand felt something hard, cylindrical, and smooth. She started to pull it out, then started back nervously. Perhaps it would hurt her. Dynamite was shaped like that. . . . And if it were dynamite it would explode as easily in the pocket as in her hand. She might as well get it over with. Gingerly she pulled it out.

"Milk Chocolate!"

Oh, what a man, what a man! Someway, somehow she'd find him. And she knew she'd adore him. And if she adored him, he'd just have to adore her. She opened the chocolate.

"But, oh, maybe, he's married!" she thought as she bit into one of the beautiful, brown, round, life-sustaining slices. "And if he is——"

She didn't decide what she'd do then, for Bugle came crashing through the sage.

"Morning, old dear!" sang out Connemara, honestly delighted to see him again. At that thought she laughed out loud, for she had never seen him until that moment. And what an extraordinary-looking beast he was. Tall, and broad and big like a mastiff, but with short, curly hair, piebald black and white.

As he leaped toward her, she saw that he was bringing something more in his useful mouth. To her vague disappointment, it was not the morning paper, which he laid at her feet, but a huge and rather dirty bone.

And in spite of its slightly repulsive appearance, Connemara appreciated the tribute he had paid her. She stooped to pet him, to look into his fond hazel eyes and thank him properly.

"You are probably the nicest dog that ever was," she estimated, "and undoubtedly the funniest looking. You look like—let me see—the biggest of all the Christmas tree dogs at Wanasak's department store, the kind that costs sixty-three dollars and nobody ever buys."

He must have understood her, for by the sad drooping of his head she knew that he was hurt. She leaned to take him in her arms and speak to him, heart to heart.

"Dear Bugle," she began, and stopped short. Tied neatly around his neck in a scrap of oilskin was a small package of surprisingly mysterious appearance.

"Shall I, Bugle?" she asked, all a-flutter with this new and sudden development in the plot. "Shall I open it?"

Bugle made it very plain that she should and smiled benevolently when she untied it from his neck. Kneeling before him, she turned the mysterious package aimlessly in her hands. The simple thing, the natural thing, would have been to untie it. But what if it should contain a human finger, or, worse still, a pair of ears?

However, since the first package she had opened had contained nothing more terrible than chocolate, she took heart. It might be breakfast bacon.

Bugle kept his experienced eyes on her as she unwrapped it. Inside was an envelope, carefully folded over; and inside that lay the fifty grand!

It couldn't be; she was dreaming; she was drunk. But she was neither. There it was. The fifty crisp one-thousand-dollar bills which that frightful creature had given her on the ferry one exciting evening, long, long ago! And there was no doubt, when she compared them closely, that the square scrap of oilskin exactly fitted the ragged gap in the coat she was wearing.

Connemara thought very fast, which she always did when she thought at all.

"We must bury this, Bugle," she said, and she knew she was right by the way he smiled and wagged his tail.

"Dig, Bugle! Dig deep, old dear!" cried she. But for an instant he failed to understand, then she scooped up a handful of earth and he caught the idea immediately. Taking over the job, he started digging a fine, deep trench.

"Perhaps his vocabulary isn't very large," mused Connemara, "and that's no doubt because he doesn't know the right sort of people. But he's intelligent without being pedantic. And that counts for a lot in a situation like this."

As she refolded the banknotes in their envelope and tied the last knot around the fateful package Bugle stepped aside to indicate that the hole was ready. She dropped the parcel in its little grave and together she and Bugle covered it with sand. Tamping it down with her little silver slipper—now, alas, so sadly soiled—she wondered when she could come safely back and get the money, and what she would do with it when she got it. Then . . .

What was that? A twig crackled behind her. A branch rustled. A masculine throat, delicately baritone in its timbre, cleared itself tentatively.

Turning, she looked into a man's eyes—the nicest, clearest, cleanest, sweetest, manliest, bluest eyes she'd ever seen. She hadn't realized they were so blue last night.

"How—did you get here?" she asked faintly.

CHAPTER XIV.
By Frank Craven.

Lacy stood at the edge of the beach, looking at Connemara, who lay peeping out from under the much-too-large yellow oilskin.

"Where's McTish?" called Lacy.

"I don't know," replied Connemara weakly. "I lost him last night in the swim."

"I hope he's all right," Lacy frowned. "I have been up and down the shore for quite a stretch, and there isn't a sign of him."

"Is that all that interests you? You men certainly do stick together. Here you find me washed up on the beach with nothing to wear but a cold stiff, clammy raincoat. You could hardly call it a usual situation, and yet your first concern is McTish. I suppose my plight means nothing to you."

"Of course it does, but really the natural question was——"

"The natural question," interrupted Connemara, who suddenly realized she was getting a certain amount of warmth from this burst of indignation, "was to ask if I was comfortable, and if there wasn't something you could do for me." As a matter of fact, this was the first time it had occurred to her. Had Lacy been too solicitous of Connemara, the chances are she would herself have been concerned about McTish, even sent Lacy looking for him. The sweetest, manliest, bluest eyes she'd ever seen. She hadn't realized they were so blue last night.

"How—did you get here?" she asked faintly.

"Well, since you have shown me the right thing to do, is there?"

"Is there what, Mr. Gallant?"

"Anything I can do to assist you?"

"Well, you might tell me where I could get some clothes—dry ones."

"I have a small farm about five miles down the shore. If you think you have the strength, I can promise you not only clothes but food and drink."

Miss Florence Garrett is Leaving After Several Years' Service.

TWEED, Dec. 28—Following the closing exercises of the Consolidated School on Friday last previous to the holidays when the pupils and staff presented Miss Florence Garret with cut glass sherbert glasses and goblets and the following address:

Dear Miss Garrett,—

The teachers and children of Tweed Consolidated School have learned with sincere regret that after Christmas you will no longer be a member of the school staff.

For the past six or seven years as teacher in the Primary Department you have rendered splendid services and have won the love and respect of all who have had priiviged to come in contact with you whether in connection with your teaching or in social activities of the community.

The entire community is suffering a loss which cannot soon be made up by the fact that you are going away. You will indeed be missed.

At best, words are but a poor medium with which to express our appreciation of your work and of the splendid qualities that have been displayd in so many ways. We trust that you will accept these goblets, the gift of the staff, and these sherbet glasse the gift of the Tweed Consolidated school pupils with their sincerest wishs fr a useful and happy future.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"It is more dangerous to be fat than it is to travel on an ocean liner, ride on a railroad train or fly in an airplane."

This is the recently expressed opinion of the president of a great life insurance company. He thinks the subject is so important that special efforts should be made to educate the public to the dangers of overweight.

There is no doubt that excessive fatness is really and truly dangerous. I have told you lots of times what a survey of 500,000 insurance policy holders proved. This is it:

A man fifty years of age who is fifty pounds overweight lessened his chances of living 50 per cent.

You see, fatness is a health hazard you cannot afford to carry. It lessens your comfort and efficiency. What is more deplorable, it shortens your life.

Of course, there are plenty of men and women who have lived to be very old, even if they were fat. But this is the exception. Most of the very old people are thin folks. They are the thin, wiry type.

I don't think it is a good thing to be too thin. In a sense good flesh is a blanket of safety. It offers a reserve in time of need. But that is no reason why that blanket of safety should be multiplied and become a bale of blankets.

There is a happy medium which should be the aim of each of us. To keep fit you must keep from fatness. It is exceedingly difficult to get rid of fat. The sensible thing is to keep from getting fat.

There should be a set of good scales in every house. They should be used, not every day, but often enough to indicate the tendency. If you find yourself increasing in weight, take steps at once to stop taking on fat.

There are two ways and only two, for dodging fatness. There are two ways and only two, for taking off fat:

Eat less: exercise more.

These four words embrace the secret. There are plenty who will give you other rules. There are multitudes of fat persons who insist they eat little and exercise a lot. But they don't.

I will admit that some persons have a tendency to fatness which is probably due to a fundamental physical condition. The "ductless glands," by overworking or by failure to operate properly, may have a good deal to do with fat accumulation. But, in my opinion, such cases are rare. It may be said, in general certainty, that overweight is the result of conditions which character and will power can control.

Each of us possesses more or less unconscious egotism. Each of us feels that some way or other we will not suffer as other people suffer. We are going to escape the usual penalties.

That's the way we feel about it. But we are wrong. You and I are going to pay the fiddler just as all other men and women must pay. If we play right, we win. If we try to cheat, we lose.

The secret then of keeping thin is to eat moderately and to exercise abundantly. Details we will give you another time.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By Barbara Bayne

THE "LUCKY" IRISHMAN

Never has Ireland sent from her shores a more sagacious man than Alexander T. Stewart. He was born in Belfast in 1802 and educated for the ministry. But the youthful Irishman had decided other views anent that matter.

So, one day in 1818, after a long and weary voyage, a windjammer came to anchor in New York harbor, and Stewart was among the passengers. While getting his bearings in the New World, he began his career by teaching.

At twenty-one, he returned to Ireland, took the inheritance of 1,000 pounds left him by his grandfather and invested part of it in Irish laces and trimmings which he brought to America. Then, for six years he conducted a little retail business at No. 283 Broadway, principally by buying up "sample lots" of goods at auction and offering them at bargain prices. His business expanded and he leased a three-story building on Broadway between Chambers and Warren Streets, where he carried a better quality of goods.

About four years later he bought the "Washington Hall" from John Coster for $60,000. Upon this site, on Broadway at the corner of Chambers Street, in 1848 Stewart erected his "marble palace." The financial crisis of 1837 which wrecked so many firms had left him unscathed and coining money.

Later, on the Broadway block between Ninth and Tenth Streets, Stewart erected his famous store, constructed of iron—the first store in America to have a rotunda above the first floor extending to the roof. In its day it was the finest store in the world.

True to his Irish blood he believed with the superstition that an old apple vendor who sat on a box in front of his old store for years had brought him good luck that when he removed to his fashionable new establishment, he personally carried her box there and assigned her a place on the sidewalk.

Stewart's wealth continued to pile up. He bought for cash the world over—he was America's greatest importer, and his duties averaged $30,000 gold per day. And he sold for cash. He showed good business psychology by employing good-looking clerks. "Stewart's nice young men" was the topic of conversation at all feminine affairs.

In 1860 Stewart owned more real estate that any other man in New York except William B. Astor. His holdings, besides the two magnificent stores on Broadway, included the Metropolitan Hotel; the New York Theatre; a palatial residence on Fifth Avenue and 34th Street which was filled with art treasures from the Old World; and nearly all of Bleecker Street from Broadway to Depauw Row.

Under President Grant, in 1869, Stewart became Secretary of the Treasury. But when some prying iconoclast unearthed an old law forbidding any merchant from becoming head of the Treasury Department, he retired from the contest.

At his death in 1876, the management of his vast estate devolved upon Judge Hilton, long a valued friend. The famous store eventually passed into the hands of Wannamaker.

CALOMEL IS GREATEST MEDICINE IN THE WORLD

CLEANS AND TONES UP THE WHOLE SYSTEM

To wake up without that tired feeling, without headaches, backaches, coated tongue, nasty breath, no more gas on stomach and feel your best day in and day out. What a glorious feeling. Keep yourself 100 per cent. efficient by taking one Tanol Calomel Tablet before meals or two at bedtime to stimulate your liver, clean your kidneys and stomach and a cup of hot water first thing in the morning to wash all the previous days' wastes, poison and undigestible matter from the bowels, before more food is taken in. Tanol Calomel is harmless, no Salts or Seidlitz are necessary to remove it from the system. Get a few of these tablets from your druggist, and I am sure they will make you eat better and sleep better, digest better, work better and feel much improved in every way. GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID MAKES A QUEER DISCOVERY.

When David glanced out across the waters and spied the queer-looking sail-like thing cutting the waters, he cried out excitedly: "Gracious me!"

"You startled me," laughed a tiny voice. David turned around to find that he was not alone, for a wee little elfin was standing by his side. "I was sound asleep under this stone when you yelled."

"Oh Squeedee!" David cried, shaking the elfin's hand. "Look quick out across the waters. What in the world is that funny-looking thing out there? Looks like a sail, yet I know it's not one. See it?"

"Couldn't help but see it," laughed the elfin. He took out his magic whistle and blew loudly on it three times. The queer-looking sail turned quickly and came toward the shore. "Come on in closer, Mr. Swordfish," he called gayly.

The queer sail-like-looking thing came closer and David had his first glimpse of a swordfish.

"My, what a big fellow you are!" David exclaimed after Squeedee had introduced him. "I'll bet you weigh at least three hundred pounds."

"Yet I'm considered a small fellow among my relatives," chuckled Mr. Swordfish. "Some of them weigh from eight hundred to one thousand pounds. Well, I'm satisfied. I wouldn't care to be any larger. As it is, I can ram a boat with my sword," and he raised his long, pointed head out of the water and showed David his upper jaw.

"I'm considered small."

It was long and flattened so that it really and truly looked like a sword about three-tenths of the length of his whole body. He swam over so David could feel it, and it was almost as hard as steel. His sword was dark brown above and shaded lighter beneath, while his body was a bluish-black on top and silvery white underneath. On his back near the head was a long, sickle-shaped fin. This was what David had seen sticking up out of the water like a sail.

"I'd hate to see you coming toward me if I was in swimming," David declared. "I'd be afraid you'd chew me up."

"Big chance I'd have," answered Mr. Swordfish, "chewing you." He opened his mouth. There was not a tooth to be seen. "No, my way of attack is with my sword," he said. "But I can puncture a boat if I want to. I very seldom fight unless I'm forced to. Well, I must be on my way. Come and see me again some time," and with a swish of his great big broad tail Mr. Swordfish sailed away, the sickle-like fin cutting the waters as he went.

"Gracious! Squeedee, I'm glad you were here," David laughed, but when he turned around he found the wee elfin had disappeared. Whistling softly, David ran back to his sand pile and watched the queer sail until it disappeared from sight.

RUSSIAN PALACES BECOME MUSEUMS

Government Had Commandeered Private Collections of Art Works.

LENINGRAD, Dec. 28 (Associated Press).—Russia has become a nation of museums. All over the country former Imperial Palaces, private residences, churches, monasteries and summer homes have been appropriated by the State and converted into museums for the "proletariat."

By commandeering private collections of works of art the government has added enormously to the present exhibits at the museums. At the Hermitage Fine Arts Gallery is one of the greatest collections of Rembrandts, Van Dyks, Rubens and other Dutch and Flemish masters in the world.

The sumptuous Winter Palace, where all the Czars for the last 150 years guided the destinies of state, is now a national museum. The apartments formerly occupied by Nicholas I, Alexander II, Alexander III, and Nicholas II, are preserved as far as possible in their original condition.

The great White Hall, the scene of so many brilliant festivities in the past, now has been transformed into the Museum of the Revolution. The former living rooms of the late Czar Nicholas II and his family, including the boudoir of the Empress and the nursery room of the children, are roped off for public inspection.

The former Imperial palaces at Peterhof and Tsarkoye-Selo also are carefully preserved and are in much the same state as when occupied by their former tenants.

This is particularly noticeable in the case of the Tsarkoye-Selo palace, which was the favorite residence of the late Emperor. Here every detail connected with the life of the Imperial family is laid bare, and the public, which all over the world has an insatiable curiosity to know how royal personages live, can gratify its desire to the full.

All the furniture, clothing and personal belongings of the slain Czar and his family and—more pathetic than anything else—even the toys of the little murdered Czarevitch, including a miniature toboggan slide and an American teddy bear, remain intact and undisturbed.

Britain's two best customers are India and the United States.

JEWS FORMING FARM COLONIES IN SOUTH RUSSIA

While Now Free Citizens, They Find Small Businesses Heavily Taxed.

GOING ON LAND.

Are Making Good as Farmers in Southern Districts.

MOSCOW, Dec. 28 (United Press).—Ten or fifteen years ago America provided the chief outlet for the overcrowded Jewish cities and towns of southern, western and southwestern Russia. War and the new American Immigration Law closed this outlet and to-day the Russian Jews are turned to a systematic programme of land settlement as the most practicable remedy for the evils of congestion and overcrowding.

The Revolution has made an outlet for the Jewish population of the Ukraine and White Russia more necessary than ever. To be sure it has abolished the racial discriminations which existed under the Tsarist regime. Jews are now free to live in any part of Russia, to enter the universities and to occupy state positions on the same terms as people of other nationalities.

But at the same time the Soviet regime has struck a hard blow at private trade, which afforded subsistence to a very large proportion of the Jews before the Revolution. The small handicraftsmen, tailors, shoemakers, etc., also suffered as a result of the revolutionary upheaval. They were heavily taxed and deprived of many of the privileges which are given to those workers and employees who are tradesunion members.

According to official statistics 38.7 per cent. of the Jews in Russia were engaged in trade and 35 per cent. were independent artisans. Now the Jewish small trader finds himself driven out of business by the competition of the co-operative store, while the Jewish tailor or shoemaker is often crushed under a double handicap of slack business and high taxes.

The vast unsettled and thinly settled stretches of virgin soil in southern Russia and the Crimea provided the natural solution for the problem of overpopulation and underemployment in the Jewish towns and cities. A number of agencies, Russian and foreign, are now co-operating in promoting the transfer of the surplus Jewish population from the cities to the land.

The Soviet Government is actively promoting this movement, and is represented by a Committee for Jewish Colonization, attached to the All-Union Soviet Executive Committee. The Ozet (Society for Jewish Land Settlement), an organization formed by the Russian Jews themselves, is carrying on a steady campaign to arouse interest and raise money for the scheme. Last, but not least, are the foreign Jewish organizations. The Joint Distribution Committee (now operating in Russia under the name Agro-Joint), the American Jewish organization which carried out most of the Jewish relief in the time of the famine, plans to contribute the lion's share of the expenses of colonization.

The programme of Jewish land colonization has been pushed forward energetically; and during the last year alone thirty thousand Jews have settled on farms in various parts of Russia. Advocates of the colonization scheme assert that Russia in one year has absorbed more Jewish farm colonists than Palestine has absorbed in forty years.

The Jewish farm colonists have made out extraordinarily well, according to the general testimony of Russian and foreign observers who have seen them at work. They have gone into farming with real pioneer enthusiasm; and what they lack in practical farming experience is often made up by their readiness to adopt the latest and most improved agricultural methods.

The colonies are organized along collectivist lines at the present time. A group of from twenty to fifty families, often from the same town, takes over a stretch of land and works it in common, sharing the proceeds of the labor. But it is believed that this collectivist form, which is well adapted to the early pioneer days of settlement, may be modified as time goes on. Some of the older colonies have already broken up into smaller units and in some cases individual farms have been established.

The main belt of Jewish colonization is in the Southern Ukraine (in Kherson and Odessa Provinces) and in the Northern Crimea. Some colonies have also been established in the Gomel and Pakov Provinces of White Russia and land in the North Caucusus region has been reserved for Jewish settlement.

The emergence of an autonomous Jewish Republic within the frontiers of the Soviet Union is a not unlikely development of the future, especially if the plan for settling a hundred thousand Jewish families on the land comes anywhere near realization.

Yiddish is the official language in the farm colonies which have already been established. The Soviet Government favors in principle the establishment of autonomous republics in regions where the majority of the population has a distinctive race or language; and a Jewish Republic in the Southern Ukraine, with Odessa as a possible capital, may be set up as soon as the growth of the population warrants it.

Influenza is not the modern infliction it is generally imagined. This disease is mentioned in the play, "The Lame Lover," written in 1770 by Samuel Foote.

SEALSKIN COATS FREE OF CHARGE

Bounty For Killing Will Pay the Cost of Using Skins.

KILLING FISH.

By C. T. HALLINAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BOSTON, Eng., Dec. 28 (United Press).—This old town is one of the few places in the civilized world where a girl whenever she likes, may clothe herself gratis in sealskin.

A grateful government will give her two dollars for every seal she kills. All she has to do is to send in the nose to the local office of the Ministry of Fisheries. This two dollars will cover the cost of skinning and curing the late unlamented and if she furnishes all materials, the local furriers will turn her out a fashionable garment for next to nothing.

Seals, however, attractive on Bond street, London, or Fifth Avenue, New York, are a pest in Boston, England. Thousands of families find their livlihood threatened by the inroads which the seals are making upon the fishing in The Wash.

Experts estimate that there are now about 1,500 full grown seals sporting about in the bay, and as each seal consumes daily from fifty to sixty pounds of fish, it is increasingly difficult for the professional fishermen to compete with them.

However, the seals in The Wash have become so wary that it is almost impossible to kill them. They lie in hundreds on the sands when the tide goes out but at the first sight of a human being, they dash flopping and wriggling back into their element. Fishermen who try to sail noiselessly up to a school of seals, find suddenly that every wet, black bobbing head in the bay has disappeared.

During eight weeks of steady hunting in September and October, only nineteen seals were killed.

A fishery cruiser has been equipped with a gun but it has few noses to its credit.

During the entire year 1924, the combined efforts of villagers, fishermen, sportsmen and Ministry of Fisheries experts accounted for less than 150, while the noisy colony in The Wash increased by at least a thousand.

London County Council Playing "Find the Men"

LONDON, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press)—Statistics just issued by the London county council show that 11,998 husbands are missing in London. These official figures show that there are 877,298 married women, exclusive of widows, in that part of London ruled by the council but that in this area there are only 865,300 married men.

The question is, where are the missing benedicts.

SITUATION IS REALLY SERIOUS SAYS LONDON EDITOR WHO IS AT PRESENT TOURING TURKEY

No Decision Will Be Made Till Tewfik Bey Returns.

LOSS OF PRESTIGE.

Kemal Is Still Faced With Strong Opposition and Fears Revolt.

LONDON, Dec. 28 — (Canadian Press).—J. A. Spender, well-known Liberal editor, now in Turkey, finds some cause for alarm in the Turkish attitude toward the award of Mosul to the British mandate of Irak. He telegraphs to the Westminster Gazette, of which he was formerly editor:

"The situation is really serious, although no decision will be reached pending the arrival of Tewfik Rushdi Bey (Turkish Foreign Minister, who attended the League of Nations sessions which made the award) next Tuesday, when the most critical period will begin. The Supreme War Council takes place to-day under the presidency of Mustapha Kemal. All the army commanders will attend.

"I have had a conversation with a close friend of Kemal and a director of the Government organization, who said: 'The territorial loss of the Mosul vilayet is insignificant compared with the loss of prestige to Kemal and his Government which is still faced with strong opposition in Turkey.

"'The Government fears a repetition of the revolt in Northern Kurdistan last spring, reinforced by a claim to Kurdish local autonomy as the result of the League decision. The wavering elements that also have been loyal before may now become hostile as a result of this diplomatic defeat. The Government could save its face if it were able to show some compromise instead of complete loss of the Turkish case. The Government may be forced into a war to regain its prestige and avert a revolution at home.'

"The Russo-Turkish Treaty signed by M. T. Chilchorn and Tewfik in Paris contains a secret clause guaranteeing Soviet support to Turkey in case of war. The Turkish press bitterly attacks the French Government and press for supporting the British position."

WORK STARTED ON BRIDGE SLIDE

Is in Same Position as Last Year on Side of Bridge.

READY THIS WEEK.

Five men are busy to-day attaching a toboggan slide to the half million dollar bridge on Hunter street. Commissioner Harry Evans said that he had just received the order the day before Christmas or the structure would have been in place by this time.

He says that given suitable weather the chutes should be ready for use at the end of this week. Cold weather will act as a deterrent with the men but will facilitate the final coating of the slides later. Snow will be gathered from the park to bank the runways and a new playground will be ready for the youth of the city.

It is estimated by the Dental Department that 90 per cent. of the industrial workers need dental attention. Moderate prices are to be charged at the clinics which, it is hoped, will be started in various industries.

HYDRO BUSES NOT HERE YET

The Superintendent Expects Them to Arrive Within Few Days.

LOWER FARES.

James L. Clifford, district superintendent of the Hydro Electric Power Commission to-day set to rest a rumor to the effect that one of the buses had arrived in the city. He declared that he also had heard the rumor and after making the most exhaustive search he was unable to locate the bus, but he did expect that some would come within a few days. They would come under their own power from Toronto and not by rail. Mr. Clifford admitted that the time for making the change was not as auspicious as it might be although the new system should be given a fair trial. He would make no statement regarding the rate of fares other than they were expected to be lower than those charged at present. Whereas the medium of payment now in use was largely currency he anticipated an increased use of tickets because of certain inducements for quantity purchase.

The only thing you can tell by some watches is what time it isn't.

ST. PETER'S.

"When the fullness of time had come, God sent His son that we might receive the adoption of sons," a text taken from the fourth chapter, first to seventh verses, of the Epistle to the Galatians was, the theme of the sermon preached at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien.

"No matter what we are, bond or free, black or white, Catholic or non-Catholic, we are all sons of God and He came down from heaven for our salvation", said His Lordship. "Faith, the foundation of all justification, is a Divine virtue which we can't figure out for ourselves. It is a gift from Almighty God infused into the soul of man and even the very acceptance of it depends upon God's grace also. The first work of God in the adoption of us as His sons is to implant faith in our souls. It is the solid base of virtue, just as the builder makes sure of a solid foundation for his building. Faith is not given as a prize or reward of virtue, but to build up virtue in the soul of man. Christ came to build up in our souls the household of the faith and to develop a knowledge and love of God's law."

The Bishop exhorted his hearers to make a new beginning on New Year's Day, and, in the coming year to strive to avoid venial, as well as mortal sin, to keep from uncharitable speaking and from loss of temper and to practice the beautifull virtues of patience and truthfulness, even in little things.

ST. PAUL'S.

The singing of Mr. Arthur Blight, of Toronto, appropriate messages by the pastor, Rev. Wm. Allan, and large congregations, especially at night, in spite of the inclement weather, were special features of yesterday's services in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, marking the last Sunday in 1925. The interest in the work of the church, as shown by increasing attendances at the Sunday and midweek services, continues to increase and is resulting in various improvements in the building and innovations in connection with the services. Recently the lighting in the auditorium has been strengthened and has given a much brighter effect to the evening services. The solos yesterday of Mr. Blight at both services were greatly enjoyed, especially his rendition in the evening of "The Prodigal Son," "Home Sweet Home," and "When Jesus Washed My Sins Away." The latter two solos were given at the close of the sermon. Mr. Blight not only has a voice of exceptional tone, combined with clear enunciation, but he sings with a spiritual fervor that is rare, and, therefore, all the more appreciated.

What Is Your Life?

The evening sermon by the pastor was based on the text, "What Is Your Life?" and centred around the homes the schools and the churches of Peterboro'. The text was taken from James 4, 14. The question it asked was raised by the Apostle James who is believed have been the most practical of any of the Apostles. It was he who made the statement that "faith, without works, is dead." The question he asked is nothing if not practical.

"First, what is your life in itself? Many of us have lost our sense of wonder because we live in such close contact with life. We take it as a matter of course. It falls naturally into three departments, our physical, our mental, and our moral natures. Physical life is wonderful in its beginnings. Is there anything more wonderful than a babe in its mother's arms, helpless, yet destined to dominate all other classes of life? It is uncertain in its duration. None possess a lease on life.

"There is nothing more interesting than our mental make-up. It commences in the expression of wonderment in the eyes of a babe. Even a child can ask questions that the greatest cannot answer. Our moral nature begins as soon as a child is able to determine the difference between right and wrong.

"There are three institutions that care for these three forms of life, the home, the school, and the church. Nothing can take the place of a father and mother in the home. It is their duty to protect the young life entrusted to their care in all its departments. Great care should be taken to exclude from the homes certain books, too many of them written by women, that cannot be read without soiling the mind. It is the duty of the parents to prescribe for the young people of the home. In these days only too often the young people are allowed to prescribe for themselves.

"It is the duty of the state to provide an adequate education for every child. It is the duty of the people to support the state and to take full advantage of their opportunities to elect competent and honorable men to office. Were we living in countries like Russia and Italy we would appreciate more than we do the advantages of British citizenship and be more willing to assume the full responsibilities that are inherent in these advantages.

"The public should realize also what it owes to the church. There could not be a Christian civilization without the church. Men who realise what the church has accomplished through its effect on civilization should ask themselves whether or not they are linked up with the church or if they are numbered with its critics, who find fault with it from the outside.

"Civilization is built on the homes of the people. These should be fortified against wrongs and should be marked by the spirit of thrift and thus prepared for times of need. While many to-day find it difficult to save, there never were more opportunities to save as furnished by benefit societies, insurance companies, old age pensions, and through similar facilities."

The speaker closed by speaking appreciatively of Peterboro', including its homes, its business institutions, its churches and its schools. It would be a mistake, he contended, in connection with the schools, to force the pupils to follow along exactly the same scholastic paths as their predecessors, and thereby deny them opportunities to develop themselves for the occupations for which they were best suited. He believed that if the public could be made to see that great moral issues were at stake, questions of taxation would not prevent the instituting of any needed reforms.

ST. GEORGE'S ANGLICAN.

A special service in which the singing of carols took a major part, was held in St. George's Anglican church last night. Decorations placed by members of the A.Y.P.A., formed a suitable background. A Christmas tree, with colored illuminations dominated, and for certain numbers all other lights were turned off.

Interspersed among the musical selections were readings from various portions of the Scriptures, and other sources. The first hymn, "Oh, Come all ye Faithful," was sung in unison, and was followed by the regular order of service with the addition of a Christmas collect.

Some of the carols were "All my Heart," "Cradled all Lowly," "Hark What Mean Those Holy Voices?"

In the carol, "See Amid,' S. Robertson and Misses Elsie and Ida Parks and Hannah Scott sang solo verses. Miss D. Butler sang as a solo the carol "Sleep, Holy Babe."

"Nazareth"was presented as a solo by Rev. J. L. Hughes. "When Christ was born," the First Nowell and Nunc Dimittis were other selections.

The "Song of the Magi" was sung with the church in darkness, with the exception of the lights which were left burning on the Christmas tree. "Holy Night" was rendered in a similar manner.

A Robertson played violin accompaniments with Bruce Quinn, who presided at the organ.

With the coat is worn a small, natural colored felt hat. Sports hats in ballibunti and bankok are also smart.

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

B. E. W.—Your mentality, once strong and well on the way to proper development, has deteriorated under misuse and bad habits. Your youth is in your favor, and there is still time to retrieve the harm that has been done, to some extent, at any rate. Leave your present bad company and seek better things. Nothing is so devastating to ambition as bad company—and no matter how smart you are, or how high your ideals, the gutter is your goal at your present gait. You show engineering ability and creative skill, but should gain a more general knowledge before linking the two as an inventor. That may be your destiny—if you start right now. You were born on a Thursday.

W. R. E.—You are untroubled by sadness and have not much sympathy for others, though you feel badly over your own worries. You are witty, inconstant, and vacillating. You will not succeed by jumping from one position to another job, and must develop stick-to-itiveness. You are self-centred and your vision is limited. You seldom look farther ahead than today, and must learn to look at tomorrow and the years that are to come. You are logical and daring, and inclined to disregard the rights of others. You may be domineering and even offensive as the mood strikes you. You have a good vocabulary, but undeveloped. Lots of initiative, but inability to deliver the goods. In fact, what you need is a good strong hand over you that will correct some of the wilfullness and childish ways that remain in you when you should have outgrown them. Think it over. The day of which you enquire is a good one for undertaking new enterprises. Your color is flame. You were born on a Tuesday.

R. R. M—You are most charming in manner and efficient in business, with musical and artistic skill beyond the ordinary. There is a great future before you in business, if you choose that course; you are painstaking in details and do not like to see things done in a slipshod manner. Guard against jealousy and do not pay attention to what people say. Do what you believe to be right; avoid quarrels; keep your aim high. You were born on a Sunday. Your colors are blue and gold.

R. L A.—You have climbed a good part of the way toward success and it now remains for you to assert yourself and see that you get what you want. You are not highly individual, and should associate yourself with others in most business ventures. You have considerable personal attraction, and will make many friends. You are apt to be fickle and changeable. You are watchful and cautious in a high degree, but not timid. You are apt to see dangers where there are none, but will not avoid them when duty demands your meeting them. Develop initiative and set a high aim for yourself. Your color is pink. You were born on a Monday. Avoid argument on the day you name and do not enter any business deal. Don't enter new social relationships on this day.

Betty.—Yours are characteristics of service, and you will spend your life in serving others. You have deep sympathies and will make many close friends. You may have musical ability and certainly should develop it. You are highly developed mentally, though not well trained in the mechanical way. I mean, what you know seems to come to you instinctively rather than through book learning. You have deep and abiding affection, permanency and integrity. You must guard your health, being susceptible to certain nervous disorders. Do not read the poorer class of books—choose healthy reading matter. You were born on a Saturday, not Thursday as stated. Your colors are red and brown. Make no important purchases on the day you name. Be agreeable and avoid strenuous exercise or work.

M. S.—You neglected to send your birthdate. Please send it.

N. D.—Life is too short. I intend starting a series in The Examiner in the New Year, telling how to apply the advice I give from day to day in these columns.

D. A. A. and others.—I am answering the inquiries just as quickly as possible. There are hundreds on hand, and they are being disposed of in order as received. If there is room in the paper I hope to have all cleaned up by the first week in January—except, of course, those that arrive from now on. Clip out and save the reply so that you may compare it with the instructions in my articles.

E. N.—You have a good degree of self-respect and independence, yet are not falsely proud; you have secured the respect of your fellow men through your integrity. You value the good opinion of your friends, but are careless of public opinion. Do not let this stand in the way of your advancement—pursue the right course in spite of censure and don't seek to avoid praise. You are a lover of peace, but will not stand by quietly and see your rights betrayed. You have good perception of sounds, and are fond of instrumental and vocal music, but are particular about the latter. You possess excellent planning power and constructive skill, with an eye for detail. You are candid, frank, and open-hearted, and dislike underhanded methods. Your outspokenness may on occasions cause you embarrassment. You have a good share of prudence and forethought, except under great excitement, when you are apt to act rashly. Your colors are orange and gray. You were born on a Monday.

D. D. B. (Keene).—You possess a good degree of will-power and firmness of character, and must guard against trying to force your will on others. Try diplomacy. Your mentality is strong, active, and creative, but you are likely to have limited vision and may become tired of the grind and satisfied with your position while there are yet wide spheres of activity opening out before you. You possess a good share of perception of analogies, and can reason quickly and correctly from a given fact to its ultimate truth. You can read character well. These qualities make it worth your while to consider well whether you are doing all you could do to gain material well-being. Do not be afraid to venture. List your qualifications and look over the field that is open to you—then go out to win. You would excel in civic, county, or wider politics, and would succeed in doing much good. Your colors are rose and yellow. You were born on a Sunday. The date of which you enquire is a good one on which to undertake new enterprises or assume new responsibilities. It is suitable for conservative investment of funds and even mild speculation. Be bold, but use good judgment.

INDIAN POETESS.

Francis Nickawa, Cree Indian from York Factory on Hudson Bay, has just returned to Toronto after a tour around the world in which she made a marked impression in reciting Canadian poems.

The day of which you enquire is one for originality of thought and expression. You may safely undertake new ventures and should not let any opportunity pass.

Babs.—I think that in the rush before the holiday the wrong reading made its way into your envelope, and I have not the address now, of course. The following is your correct reading: success will not come easily to you, but will be gained by hard work long continued. You must exercise great patience. You would have succeeded in a business career if you had been guided into it earlier, and even now you show great adaptability for business. You have good ability for planning and contriving and are adept at making improvements. Have many ideas for helping in work you do regularly. You can copy readily what you see others doing, but prefer your own system. You have a good degree of self-government, and can keep your own counsel well. You act with dispatch in emergencies, and are a great help in times of trouble. You have deep sympathies and great personal charm. Your colors are gold and blue. You were born on a Friday. You did not give a date for your inquiry about July 1926.

DANCED WITH PRINCE

Miss Esme Magann, Canadian girl who was one of the Prince of Wales' most popular dancing partners during his last visit to Canada, is now wintering at Monte Carlo.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

December 28th, 1925.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—It has occurred to me that after 12 years on your Utilities Commission it would be well to outline the development of the Waterworks system since it was taken over by the people and operated by a commission.

In the year 1902, by vote of the people, this system was purchased for $230,000 and debentures issued that mature in 1931 or five years hence. The equal annual payments have been kept up and the first purchase price will be paid in full at that time.

The methods of the privately-owned company were carried on for years where, in case you were a large user of water, you bargained with the Commission and made the best terms possible.

In the year 1915 the city purchased the electric distribution system also and the operation of this utility was also placed in the hands of the Utilities Commission—but the operation of this utility was subject to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, who set the rates, which are deemed to be fair to all classes and do not allow for any bargaining to the large consumers, to the disadvantage of the smaller user. The principle is one price to all and service at cost.

In the year 1920 we had a commissioner that believed conditions should be made the same in the Waterworks Departments as in the Electric, and this Commission did some preliminary work which was completed by the Commission of 1921.

After a careful survey it was decided to make a flat rate for the householders and to put the factories all on meters, and it was then the Commission found that as factories (not as a whole, but a number of them) had not been carrying their fair share of the cost of operating of Waterworks system, and that the householders and smaller users had been carrying much more than their share.

One of these factories, the Canadian Packing, put in their own system of mechanically filtering water in the latter part of the year 1921,—and since then have been taking only a small supply of water from city mains.

Whether the Canadian Packing Company's system is satisfactory or not I do not know. I do know, however, they have been flirting with members of the Commission staff for a special rate, when our rate here is less than they pay for partially filtered water in Toronto.

The present Commission are not entertaining any suggestion for a special rate and stand firmly by the principle of Service at Cost and One Price to All

The Waterworks system is owned by the water users of the city, regardless of whether they are a tenant or an owner, and the water system is now among the best in the Dominion, and if you find that I have assisted in developing the system to its present high state of efficiency, and helped to equalize the rates, by having the factories pay their fair share of the operating cost, and if my stewardship of the past 12 years meets with your approval, on January 1st next, kindly signify in the usual way on your ballot for Utilities Commissioner.

ROBERT HICKS.

THE CIVIC ISSUES.

Editor, The Examiner.

Sir—We have the civic slate before us in the list of candidates for election. It is to be hoped that both those who find election to the City Council and to the Board of Education will all adhere to a marked reluctance to further the objects of the Board of Education of 1925, to make expenditure on the proposed school buildings. If there ever came a year in which the municipal commitments of this city required the most careful and rigid consideration, the coming year demands that minute scrutiny be exercised.

We may accept the protestations of the late Board of Education that many of its members are committed to a tide of educational expansion. Such may be commendable, else we make no progress, but the present time is not favorable. Let the ratepayers and property owners, who view the involvements of the city with regret and almost dread, resolve, firmly, that until circumstance point the way to a tax rate, stabilized, instead of one to be increased, that expansion shall stop.

We have not as yet felt, in the taxes rate, the full force of the expense of building the sewage disposal plant. That debt will fall on us, heavily the coming year, adding about $16,000 to the public debt, annually. In addition nothing has been provided for operation expenses, and for the erection of four or five dwellings, adjacent to the plant. Absolutely necessary to house the employees Council has not made any provision for such expenditure, which will cost, at a fair estimate, $15,000 in addition to the cost of the plant, the running expense of which may reach from four to seven thousand dollars.

If the Council should give way to the insistance of a Board of Education the annual expense, as planned would add to the debenture rates, yearly, $28,000, with additional teachers' salaries of say $10,000. No use putting up the building and not equip and run it to its alleged capacity. Then in a year or two will come from the Board of Education the demand that the Aylmer Street frontage of the school grounds be expropriated and the money found to recoup those whose property has been taken, say $30,000. Against these costs can be placed what the Department of the Provincial Government says it will repay, if the standard of requirements are met from year to year.

What is needed just now is a conference of business men and other citizens, to get together with the representatives of the Council and Board of Education and look this matter in the face. In all the wrangle that has been going on, not one word has been said by those who should and do know, as to what expedients might be employed, re-arrangements made, or any practical suggestion coming from those engaged in the work of tuition in the Institute and schools. The teachers and instructors are capable men, skilled in their duties. It would seem that the system is partially responsible. The impression is prevalent that if suggestions were offered, the individual would be at once a "marked man," to be dealt with further on as an example. In no other walk of life or sphere of action would the assistance and advice of such a number of men be so ignored.

I am sure of this. Teachers have expressed to me what they considered practical, and that is to put in a part-time tuition period, each day. The only obstacle, that really hinders, is the obstinacy of a number of the members of the Board, supported by the protestations of and from a few of the staff. It is quite plain that people who have children to be taught (and most parents have children), must pay, either in increased taxes or in some said-to-be inconvenience. You take your choice.

Those of us who mark our ballots on polling day will consider very carefully the minds of men who offer for election, and hesitate to approve of those, if any, who would not support the decision of council to continue to refuse the commitment of the ratepayers to very substantial expenditure, until some practical scheme has been devised and honestly tried out, with the end in view that the city be tided over the financial responsibilities of the next few years.

It is earnestly asked, that as a preparatory study for the candidates for Council, that each one will procure a copy of the Auditors' Report for the year 1925, just passed, and turn to the last nine pages, and view the financial responsibilities that weigh down so heavily on the city, and rise from the perusal with the firm resolve, that be as it may, the city shall not be loaded additionally, with expenditures that may be avoided. If those who seek to be responsible will manfully face the situation and use a little strategy to get around an obstacle, for the ensuing three years, the ratepayers will approve.

We have been told of the crowding, the lack of room, the need for additional premises in which to carry on the work. Has the Board of Education been diligent in looking the field over to find premises that could be employed. Likely not, for there is no evidence that anything in that line has been developed. Three earnest citizens, not overawed by the accredited majesty of the Board, would settle the opportunities in a few hours.

These things will be on hand when a new building is erected, and the money will not be wasted. Let the Board show some alacrity, some earnest effort to assist in tiding over the present emergency, and it will receive hearty support.

GOLDEN WEDDING

WARKWORTH, Dec. 28. — Verses writen on the occasion of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker's golden wedding by Mrs. S. E. Falkner, Belleville:

Just fifty years ago today,
You launched your bark for life,
Upon the matrimonial sea,
As husband and as wife.

In sunshine and in storm you've sailed
That sea, like sailors true,
With just enough of shadows gray,
To make your sky more blue.

You've shared each other's burdens,
Wise helpmates you have proved.
This world's a pleasant place to live
When hearts by love are moved.

If cares you've had they've left no trace
Nor imprint on your brow;
To you, "Old Father Time's" most kind
To him we all must bow.

You sympathize with those who mourn
You are staunch friends in need;
In times of sickness ever near,
To help by word or deed.

Love, friendship is a sacred [illegible]
Not to be bought or sold,
And to possess true friends like you
Is worth far more than gold.

Your cheerful dispositions have Helped lengthen out your days;
May we all take a lesson from
Your bright and happy ways.

Through all these years you've worked for Him
And tried to do the right
In this as in all other things
You've done it with your might.

Your many friends have met today
Their greetings to extend,
And wish you many happy years
May joy your ways attend

The absent ones in far-off lands,
Who are so near and dear
From this eventful day though barred
In mind and thought are here.

May health and happiness by yours,
And sunshine light your way,
And may it be as bright as on Your "Golden Wedding Day."

YORK AMERICANS DEFEAT T PIRATES 3-1 IN THRILLING GAME

Crowd of 12,000 Saw Best Hockey of Season in Rickard's Rink—Major Penalty to Milks for Slas hing.

BURCH AND CONACHER IN GREAT FORM

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Pittsburgh's Pirate ship of hockey buccaneers was scuttled in Madison Square Garden Saturday night, when it sailed in the warring zone of the New York Americans, met with an unexpected, vicious attack and was finally forced into retreat before a three to one score. But it was not until the fastest and most thrilling game of the National Hockey League schedule yet witnessed here had been reeled off, that the much-improved team-work of the New Yorkers succeeded in putting the invaders to rout. Rickard's men played with a new vim and they were led into such a dazzling pace by the youthful Pirate band that the 12,000 spectators who jammed the lower tiers of the Garden were kept in a continuous uproar.

The Pirates were fighting back gamely at all times with a brilliant forward line attack and a "concrete wall" defence, but the Americans showed a scintillating combination from the start that could not be brought down. In the second period the battle was especially hot and the bombardment trained on both goal cages reached such a pitch from the start of this frame that three goals had been netted before the crowd had settled down for the reopening of hostilities.

Concentrated Attack.

It was after "Shorty" Green had put the locals into a first period lead that play really reached its peak. Across the face-off in the middle period the Americans propelled an attack that resulted in Billy Burch scoring past Worters in one minute and thirty seconds. Pittsburgh then came back with a new vengeance and Lionel Conacher, stellar defence man, led a Pirate onslaught that netted him a goal thirty-five seconds later. Play had only continued for little more than another two minutes when McKinnon, New York sub, wended his way through the entire opposition to score the third goal for Rickard's men.

That ended the scoring for the night, but the attacks, given renewed momentum by the frequent use of substitute players, continued feverish until the "finis" bell.

Crowd Hooted Milks.

Considering the lightning speed with which the game was marked, the penalties doled out by Referee Billy Bell were comparatively few. The one major foul of the evening went to "Hib" Milks, when the brawny Pirate centre slashed McKinnon across the forehead with his stick following a stiff bodycheck. McKinnon was aided from the ice to the cheer of the crowd, while Milks went to the penalty pen accompanied by hoots and jeers.

TOWNSLEY SOLD FOR $25,000 TO LEEDS UNITED

Seventh of Last Season's Scottish International Team Lost.

ENGLAND'S GAIN.

Many Reverses in Boxing Day Soccer Scores.

LONDON Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Holiday football produced its customary crop of surprises, particularly in the First Division of the English League, where in most cases the results of Christmas day were completey reversed on Boxing day. In only one case, that of Bury, did the success of Friday's game find a repetition on Saturday, that congregation defeating Manchester on both occasions. Leicester, Burnley and Everton each [illegible] three points out of the two [illegible] in which they engaged [illegible] other teams of the division with the exception of the four [illegible] had their encounters postponed each gathered in a couple of points. Thus the effect of playing [illegible] games on Boxing day counterbalanced the results of the previous day. Noteworthy was the tall scoring in the first string, eleven goals being recorded in Saturday's contest at Bury and nine in Friday's game at Burnley.

The games postponed—Huddersfield Town at Sunderland on Christmas Day and Manchester United at Bolton yesttrday were due to frozen grounds, but in general the weather was favorable for good fast football and the aggregate gates on Friday totalled 650,000, while those of Saturday amounted to 850,000.

Fifty thousand fans saw Aston Villa turn the tables on West Ham on Saturday following a bad defeat on the previous day. The same number turned out to see Blackpool defeat Chelsea in the last three minutes of the game at Chelsea yesterday.

Gallagher's Performance.

Notts Countys victory over Arsenal, coming on the heels of their defeat by the Highbury Club on Friday was welcomed by the fans and all credit went to Harris who recorded all of his team's four counters. A similar feat was performed by Gallagher of Newcastle United, lately secured by the Northumbrians from the Airdrieonian team of the Scottish League, for the consideration of $30,000. Gallagher routed Liverpool on Saturday obtaining all three goals while on Friday he scored one of the three in the Tynsiders ineffectual attempt to ward off defeat at Liverpool.

Incidentally another transfer from the Scottish League has enriched the English teams, this time Townsley of Falkirk and a player who is reckoned as one of the best defenders in the country, being traded to Leeds United. The price is five thousand pounds sterling—$25,000. Townsley has been much sought after by the teams south of the Cheviots. He is now the seventh player of last season's Scottish International team against England to have been transferred this season.

WELLS DISQUALIFIED.

English Welterweight Used Back-hand Blow.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.— (Canadian Press.)— Billy Wells, of England, was disqualified in the seventh round of a ten-round welterweight match here Saturday night against Harry Dudley, of California, for using the back-hand blow. Repeated warnings by the referee prior to the disqualifications were ignored by Wells, in spite of the fact that newspapermen at ringside conceded him an advantage on points.

Jimmy Sakamoto, of Japan, scored a technical knockout over Billy Wiley, of New York, in the eighth round of another ten round match, the referee stopping the bout after Wiley had been floored.

SOCCER FIELDS UNDER SNOW IN SCOTS' LEAGUE

Pitches Had To Be Swept Off For Saturday's Games.

REVIEW OF PLAY.

Only One Home Club Won —Some Remarkable Results.

GLASGOW, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press Cable).—League games in the First Division of the Scottish Football Association on Saturday were somewhat marred by the heavy snow that blanketer the entire country. And in many cases the snow had to be swept off the grounds before the contests could be proceeded with One game was postponed, that between Morton and Aberdeen, scheduled for play at Greenock.

Some remarkable results featured the nine games contested, only one home club, Heart of Midlothian, winning. In every other case where the game went to a decision the visiting teams were victorious, and this fact produced a strange medley. Dundee United, for example, defeat the Airdrieonians; St. Johnstone defeated Rangers. Cowdenbeath drew with Celtic and Patrick Thistle drew with Falkirk.

Rangers had no excuse at Ibrox Park for both Archibald and Cairns were again in their team, but despite this acquisition of strength they went down when Munro shot in the only goal scored for the Perth club in the second half. The Saints won on thir merits according to the concensus of opinion among the fans.

Dundee's Victory.

Dundee United also played Airdrieonians to a standstill, the latter giving the worst display of football they have given for many a long day. Simpson counted for the United.

Leonard was the hero of the game at Cowdenbeath where the home team held the cup-holders to a one-all result. That player recorded Cowdenbeath's goal, while McLean registered for Celtic.

Williamson with two and Moffat with one added to Clydebank's discomfiture when Hamilton Academicals carried off the game by three to one. Evans starred for the home team.

Hibernians played a wonderful game against their ancient rivals, Dundee, and well merited their four to one win. Ritchie tallied twice and Dunn and McColl one each for the victors while Barclay was responsible for Dundee's solitary goal.

St Mirren Defeated.

It was Slavin's goal near the finish of the game at Tynecastle Park that gave Heart of Midlothian their win over St. Mirren in a game that was fatured by strenuous, albiet clean play on the part of the Paisley club.

Kinloch and Ness scored for Partick Thistle against Falkirk when the "Bairns" had to accept a division of the points on their own ground. Cowan and Dougall starred for Falkirk.

Queen's Park were easily beaten by Motherwell at Hampden Park with Ferrier, McFayden and Murphy scoring for the winners.

Nine goals featured the Overs-Kilmarnock contest played at Kirkcaldy when the "Killies" got the margin by the odd goal. Weir registered two and Dunlop, Smith and Walker one each for the visitors, while Allison with a couple and Brown and Ritchie with one each scored for Raith.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions, "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

The thing which characterizes this whole country more than any other one phase of American life is the nervous energy of the people. This characteristic is certainly reflected in the efforts of golfers. They are possessed of such nervous energy that they nearly all fall into the speed habit with their golf clubs. American players will see the slow, measured rhythmic swing of MacDonald Smith, yet learn nothing about the greatest lesson in golf, which is that the back swing starts slowly, evenly and gracefully. If the golfer will learn to do that the remainder of the back swing will naturally accelerate itself to a natural speed, or swing.

SENATORS TURN BACK CANADIEN ATTACKS, THEN OPEN OFFENSIVE THAT BLANKED MONTREAL TEAM

Individual Rushes by Joliat, Morenz and Boucher Broke on Defense.

SCORE WAS 3-0

Lou Marsh, Referee, Injured by Fall and Forced to Retire.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Dec. 28. — Canadian Press. — Smart hockey generalship as opposed to disorganized play by the opposition gave Ottawa a 3 to 0 victory over Canadiens before a packed arena Saturday night. The win was the fifth shutout scored by the league leaders in their nine games so far this season, and incidentally was the second 3-0 win the Senators have tallied at Canadiens expense.

Canadiens were very much in the picture in the first period of the game when they started out with their customary opening attack. Morenz, Joliat and Billy Boucher sent thrust after thrust against the Senators but the speediest of their dashing plays could make no headway against the Senators' defensive game, and it was not the Clancy-Boucher outer guard which was blocking the rushes so much as the sweeping sticks of Frank Nighbor and Hooley Smith, who smothered rush after rush with their poke and hook checks at mid-ice. This pair found the Canadien attack simple to solve. There was little attempt at combination by the local forwards and it was just a case of halting the puck-carrier.

Canadiens did pass the puck on occasion, but the wings were seldom there and the passes invariably were intercepted.

Canadiens Lost Heart.

When the Canadien forwards saw their efforts in the first period go for naught they seemed to lose heart. As the game wore on the flashy Morenz-Joliat-Billy Boucher scoring division lost its dash and punch.

Ottawa, who had been playing a sound defensive game, measured Canadiens carefully and as soon as they saw the attack beginning to break, the Senators, led by George Boucher, King Clancy and Cy Denneny, opened up an offensive which brought goals, Cy Denneny scoring the opening counter in the second period, Hooley Smith the second goal, and Skipper Boucher the third goal, the two latter tallies coming in the final session.

Lack of combination play by Canadiens left Ottawa with a simple task. The lone rushes of Joliat and Morenz were easy to stop with Smith and Nighbor sweeping the small ice surface with their long sticks. There was no attempt to even fake a pass, which aided the Ottawa guards, and when the Canadien players saw they could not get through they let up in their work. Joliat drew the wrath of the more partizan of Canadien supporters on his head for his seeming carelessness towards the end of the game and there were loud cries of "Take Joliat off!" where earlier in the game his lone rushes had drawn rounds of cheering.

Lou Marsh Injured.

With Canadiens beaten the high spot of the game for the supporters of the team came in the second period—and it proved a most unusual occurrence. Referee Lou Marsh was in charge of the contest, being assisted by a fellow-journalist from Toronto, Bobby Hewitson, who was making his debut as a pro hockey arbiter in Montreal. In the middle session, Marsh, while careening in full flight down the ice, attempted a sudden swerve to follow the play back in the opposite direction. Marsh got tangled around the skates and went diving headlong to the ice and up against the side boards. He landed squarely on his left shoulder. He slowly got to his feet and skated off the ice, his arm hanging limply by his side, and his face clearly showing the agony he was suffering. When it was suggested that he go to the hospital he refused, requesting that a doctor attend to the dislocation that he might get back on the ice. In the meantime Bobby Hewitson started the game again. An attempt was made to re-set Marsh's arm, but it was too painful an operation, though Marsh was lying quietly enough on his back on the floor, pulling on his trusty old pipe as Dr. Griffiths manipulated the arm. Dr. Wiseman was called in to assist, and a little anaesthetic aided in a successful manipulation of the dislocated arm to its proper setting. Marsh did not get back into action, though he witnessed the last few minutes of play from the sides.

The line-up:

Canadiens: Rheaume, goal: Couth defence: Mantha defence: Morenz, centre: Joliat wing: subs., M. Boucher, Holmes, Leduc, LePine, Larochelle, Paulhus.

Ottawa: Connell, goal: G. Boucher and Clancy, defence; Nighbor, centre; H. Smith, wing; subs., Denneny, Gorman, Kildrea, Duggan, Finnegan, A. Smith.

MAROONS BEAT ST. PATRICKS

SHOWED WORTH.

TORONTO, December 28. Canadian Press. — The surprise team of the National Hockey League is the Montreal Maroons, and the fact that a team composed largely of first and second year professional players has been able to share the leadership of the circuit with the well seasoned Ottawa Senators since the start of the season, has caused considerable comment around the loop. The Maroons had already played in every other city in the league and have demonstrated why they are up in front and on Saturday night they showed local enthusiasts the reasons. While they were giving their exhibition they ran in two goals and held St. Patrick's scoreless, chalking up their eighth win of the season, and their fifth away from home.

STARTING NEW CAMPAIGN AT 75

Rev. H. T. Crossley is Survivor of Famous Evangelist Team.

SAYS HE'S NOT OLD.

By WILLIAM BANKS.

At seventy-five years of age Rev. H. T. Crossley, D.D., survivor of the famous Canadian team of evangelists, Crossley and Hunter, has embarked upon a new series of campaigns beginning at Fonthill, Ont. Thence he will journey to Prince Edward Island, where he will go to the Maritime provinces to conduct evangelistic meetings in several centres. Every day for months ahead is planned for, and with the exception of Saturday every one calls for two meetings.

'How do you do it?" I asked on the day of his departure from Toronto. 'It must be all of thirty years since I first heard you and . . ."

'But I'm not old," Dr. Crossley interrupted genially. 'I am seventy-five years young if you like. A man should never apply the word 'old' to himself after he is forty years of age, because 'as he thinketh so he is'."

'How long?" I persisted, 'and how do you——"

'I've been in the ministry for fifty-two years," he broke in, 'and continuously engaged in evangelistic work for forty-two years. One of the great secrets of my being young in spite of the years I carry is the physical exercises I take every night and every morning of my life. These date back for thirty years. No man can claim to be the originator of such exercises. I have adopted some as the result of reading, others from visual observance of athletes and animals and a number from my own experience and experiments. Out of them all I have evolved a system of my own which embraces 35 exercises and I do each one of them four times in five or six minutes. Wherever I conduct a campaign I devote one night to a lecture on the upbuilding of the body."

It is Dr. Crossley's happy claim that he weighs 150 pounds, which was his weight when he was nineteen or twenty years old, and that this never varies more than a few pounds either way.

Dr. Crossley was born on a farm in King Township some 25 miles north of Toronto and met his famous partner, the late Rev. John E. Hunter, at Victoria College, then located at Cobourg. After being called to the ministry Hunter went to Dominion City, near Winnipeg, and Crossley to Weston, near Toronto. Subsequently correspondence revealed that each was thinking of becoming an evangelist and finally they decided to start out in that work together. For 26 years they were in partnership with a happy division of the work that suited both.

During his career as an evangelist with Mr. Hunter and since Dr. Crossley has taken part in 500 separate campaigns and he says 'in that period 120,000 men and women and young people, have been enlisted for the new life, including Sir John A. Macdonald who, in my opinion, was the greatest statesman that Canada ever has known. That was at Ottawa 37 years ago where what we regarded as the most outstanding meetings we ever held took place."

Almost incredible distances have been covered in the course of these campaigns. The extreme west and the extreme east of Canada have been visited four different times, Newfoundland once and many states of the union several times. A number of places have had campaigns for three and four years in succession, and plenty of them want Dr. Crossley to go back. He could easily book up for three years ahead if he cared to do so.

When Crossley and Hunter started their work they agreed that no matter what happened the local expenses of campaigns should be the first charge on the collections, and that of anything that was given to them one tenth should be returned in the shape of contributions to religious, charitable, philanthropic and patriotic enterprises and work. This was increased until it reached fifty per cent., and during the last twenty-five years Dr. Crossley's contributions to these objects has been fifty-four per cent. One would not get that admission voluntarily; it only came on this occasion in response to questioning that bordered on the impertinent.

Dr. Crossley is still a bachelor. 'I have been so busy," he said when I asked him about that, 'and there is so much for me to do that would take me away from a wife and family for months together."

Chinese Embezzler Was Cockroach Executioner

SHANGHAI, Dec. 23.—(United Press).—It remained for Shanghai to develop cockroach killing as a fine art.

Arraigned in the international Mixed Court here recently on a charge of embezzlement, a Chinese said that he was a cockroach killer by profession. Evidently, however, trade was slack or he found the remuneration too small, for the court decided that he was guilty of embezzling a small sum of money entrusted to him. Municipal jail authorities say that he will have to learn a new trade for they have no opportunities to offer him in his particular field.

MARION DAVIES

ENCHANTMENT and adventure . . . . . that's Marion Davies in her newest role! The stirring and romantic tale of a hoydenish girl of Old New York's Shantytown, who danced her way into the heart of a scion of wealth.

A riot of laughs and thrills!

AT THE CAPITOL

MARION DAVIES' LATEST REAL TREAT FOR THE FLAPPERS

Good morning, girls!

If you want to get something on grandma, see Marion Diaves in "Lights of Old Broadway," a Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, directed by Monta Bell and now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Marion has interpreted a dual role of the early seventies with such fidelity that she has given us quite an inkling about grandma's life as a flapper.

The lovely Marion flaps quite ardently and beautifully, even if she uses more antiquated methods than is the mode of today. She has some of the 1871 sheiks doing flip-flops and landing kerplunk at her feet.

She's demure and all that, but she exercises her wiles in an even deadlier manner than we do now—and she has poor Conrad Nagel twisted about her little finger in a manner that would make it seem he were double-jointed.

Yes mam, girls—put on your Spanish shawls and go to the Capitol Theatre and see grandma in her paisley. Scan her as she rides about in a victoria drawn by a spanking team of dapple greys. True enough, she knew nothing about straight eights and high-powered motors but she knew a lot about old Dobbin and some of the one-horse shays that used to set the styles in fashionable transportation methods.

And when you see the power of Marion Davies' heart, take a look at Conrad Nagel and the other well-dressed young men that copied their wardrobes after the modes of the then Prince of Wales.

Your blood has tingled many times when you have seen Conrad make love, but I'll guarantee you have never seen him at his best until you se him in the role of Dirk de Rhondo in pursuit of the heart of Feldy O'Tandy.

"Lights of Old Broadway" is that young and handsome Monta Bell's latest directorial offering and it's real entertainment.

Carey Wilson wrote the scenario from Laurence Eyre's stage success "The Merry Wives of Gotham." Others in the cast are Charles McHugh, Eleanor Lawson, Frank Currier, Julia Swayne Gordon Mathew Betz, Wilbur Higby and George K. Arthur.

AT THE GRAND

It is doubtful if any other opera ever written can lay claim to the undying fame of "The Mikado," Gilbert and Sullivan's gem of gems, which will be offered at the Grand Opera House, Monday, January 4.

No other opera has given the world more genuine pleasure and it delights modern audiences just as much as of old. This was conclusively proved through the recent New York presentation. It was hailed as one of the outstanding hits of the New York season when many of the "girl shows" had to be withdrawn.

The production coming to Peterboro' is sponsored by Brandon Brothers, who have made an enviable reputation for their operatic productions. On this occasion they have given the famous old gem a most beautiful scenic and costume production and are bringing one of the best singing organizations that has ever been heard on a trans-continental tour.

It takes more than a theatrical spirit to revive the old operas that were popular twenty or thirty years ago. It requires confidence on the part of the producers that the theatregoers of to-day are becoming more interested in better music and it takes a genuine desire to supplant some of the "jazz" drivel with compositions and productions that are really worth while. Works of enduring worth like the operettas of Gilbert and Sullivan or "The Bohemian Girl" or "The Chimes of Normandy" when properly presented are of cultural value to any community and it is unfortunate that there are not more revivals like the one that Brandon Brothers are bringing.

With a stage-full of worthful scenery and a cast of brilliant singing artists "The Mikado" will be one of the outstanding musical events of the season and prospective patrons are advised to make reservations well in advance.

AT THE REGENT

"WILD JUSTICE."

Left alone by his master's murder, Arno, a giant police dog, is claimed by Bob Blake, unscrupulous settler of the lonely North country. He is rescued from beatings by Dr. Dave Wright, and finds a home and happiness.

Polly Ann Hadley, niece of the murdered man, falls into Blake's clutches and is rescued by Arno and the doctor. Blake organizes a posse to kill the dog. A bullet from Blake's gun wunds him. The doctor discovers that the bullet which wounded the dog and the bullet which murdered the girl's uncle are the same.

They know Blake was the slayer.

Blake, warned by a spy, summons the Vigilantes and convinces them the doctor himself is guilty. Masked, they surround the cabin. Blake and the doctor fight and at the end Blake confesses his guilt. Before he can be bound, however, he leaps from the house, seizes a mask, joins the posse and later rides for the border and safety.

Arno, returning from a wild encounter with the rapids of a mountain stream, follows Blake. They fight on the edge of a precipice, and after one of the most thrilling struggles ever filmed, Arno forces the man over the brink to his death.

The story was directed by Chester M. Franklin. The supporting cast is headed by George Sherwood, Frances Teague and Frank Hagney. "Wild Justice" is a John W. Considine, Jr., production for United Artists Corporation release.

U. S. OFFICIALS ARREST SEVERAL COUNTERFEITERS

Gang's Operations Said To Have Extended Into Canada.

$50,000 ISSUED.

Made Fake Federal Reserve Notes and Stock Certificates.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—The arrest of five alleged members of a counterfeiting band, whose operations included the printing and distribution of fake stock certificates and Federal reserve notes, was announced to-day by United States Federal officials.

The gang's operations are reported to have extended into Canada, and the Royal Mounted Police were said to have assisted in the round-up.

ELIZABETH, N.J., Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Elizabeth police today were informed that the arrest of seven alleged international counterfeiters in New York has been made as the result of the apprehension here yesterday of Frank Wiegan on similar charges.

Federal agents said the eight arrests and three additional ones which they hoped to make to-day would dispose of a band of counterfeiters whose operations extended throughout Canada and the United States.

It is said that instead of printing presses the counterfeiters employed a photo engraving process.

Secret service agents of the Treasury Department said the evidence they had gathered in the investigation showed that the counterfeiting operations of the band totalled between $35,000 and $50,000. Of this amount, $25,000 in counterfeit bills was distributed in Canada.

The prisoners are given by the police as Frank Wiegan, formerly a jeweller, who lives in Elizabeth, N.J.; Irving Miller and Herman Bessen of Manhattan, and Abraham Weinstein and Nathan Kraft of Bronx. Wiegan was quoted by the agents as having said that his jewellery firm, the Wiegan Jewellery Corporation, of Irvington, N.J., failed for $150,000 two years ago and that he turned to counterfeiting to recoup his fortune.

His counterfeitings ranged from $5 to $500 bills. Gold notes in denominations ranging from $10 to $100 also were counterfeited.

ST. MARY'S TEAM STRONG OUTFIT

Will Give the Petes Tough Argument on the Holiday.

The St. Mary's team which meets the Petes here on New Year's Night is about the best amateur crew in Toronto right now, with the possible exceptin of Varsity. The Saints have shown their class by beating Kitchener Seniors 3 to 1 in Kitchener, and they are dead anxious to add the Petes' scalps to their list. The game New Year's Night should provide the fans with a great night's hockey, for St. Mary's, with Foulis, Hughes, Steve Rice, Jeffrey, Kane and other well-known performers in line, will make the Petes go the limit to hold them. The game will start the new season off with a bang.

COLD SPELL IN MOST OF CANADA

Doucet, Quebec, Carried Off Honors With 26 Below.

24 AT WHITE RIVER.

TORONTO, December 28. Canadian Press. — With the temperature taking a plunge to 14 below zero, which was reached in the early hours of Sunday morning, Toronto had one of the coldest week-ends that she has experienced for some years. This was the temperature recorded at the Observatory but in the more exposed parts of the city and suburbs very much colder temperatures were experienced.

The cold wave was general through out the province, and also over a big part of the Dominion. White River, of course, had to come into the picture with 24 below, but of the recorded temperatures, Doucet, Quebec, carried off the honors with 25 below. Parry Sound and Cochrane both had the same temperature as White River. At Ottawa it was 16 below, and at Montreal 12 below.

The above despatch is from Toronto and is probably correct as far as it goes, but fails to give credit to the Arctic conditions that prevailed in this section early on Sunday. No citizen of Peterboro who was out Sunday morning would doubt the correctness of the official figures of 26 degrees below zero prevailing Sunday forenoon, and the northern portion of the county has yet to be heard from.

CANE GUESSING CONTEST.

The candy cane exhibited in Dean's Candy Store was won by Mrs. J. E. McClavey, 176 Dalhousie Street, who estimated the weight as 8 pounds 5 ounces. The cane weighed 8 pounds 4 ounces.

For the Board of Education

TO THE ELECTORS:

In yielding to the persuasion of citizens who have urged me to offer my services as a member of the Board of Education, I wish to make my position in regard to the proposed new Collegiate Institute absolutely clear.

I am utterly and flatly opposed to committing Peterborough to the expenditure of the large sum involved in the proposed building programme until the people have been consulted and have been given an opportunity to express their opinion by means of the ballot.

If I am honored by your confidence, my policy on the Board of Education will be to urge that the Council be asked to submit the question to the ratepayers, rather than to endeavor to have the building proposal ratified by the Council itself, with no mandate from the people.

Under the pressure of high taxation, it becomes necessary to surround the assumption of new and heavy expenditures with every possible safeguard, and in the case of the new Collegiate Institute, these must include the submission of the issue to the ratepayers.

With Best Wishes for a Very Happy New Year.

RAISE QUALITY SUGGESTS HON. JOHN S. MARTIN

SPEAKS TO ROTARY.

Ontario's Minister of Agriculture Suggests Get Together Meeting.

That it should be the main duty of the Ontario Department of Agriculture to encourage the improvement of the quality of Ontario's agricultural products, and thus ensure good markets at top prices, was the declaration of Hon. J. S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, in a most instructive address to the Peterboro Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress to-day. It was not possible to do anything specific for agriculture, the Minister said, but good results could be looked for along the lines suggested.

In beginning his address, Hon Mr. Martin, who was introduced by Rotarian W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., advocated a Rotary farmers' night as a means of bringing representative farmers in touch with city men in a social way with a view to improving their mutual understanding. It was desirable that each should get to understand better the other's problems, and in this connection he pointed out the farmer was laboring under a number of handicaps, foremost of which was the question of weather conditions. Mr. Martin instanced the fate of Ontario's apple crop this year as an example of how disaster could unexpectedly arise from a sudden weather change. Ontario's Northern Spy crop, the best the speaker could remember, had been ruined by the frosts of October, and the losses of some of the fruit growers were enormous.

Ontario, the minister explained, had come through the after-the-war period in much better shape than most other parts of the continent, escaping the experience of Iowa and other states and blessed by three splendid crops, and good prices; during the last three years; there was little at present for the Ontario farmer to complain about. The farmer who knew his business should be able to show good results, and Hon. Mr. Martin referred to the dairy business as offering great possibilities. The world was demanding more and more dairy products and to the young men on the farm, the minister said, there was nothing that offered better prospects than dairy farming. Good prices could be counted on and there was a steady flow of income the year round.

Referring to his own department, Hon. Mr. Martin told of how the Government stamp of approval on Ontario apples had enhanced the prices of this fruit in the British market and declared his belief in a similar policy for other Ontario agricultural products. Too much emphasis had perhaps been placed in the past upon production, but the speaker suggested that what Ontario must do to capture and hold the desired markets was to improve the quality, even if the Danish method of exporting the highest grade and keeping the rest for home consumption, had to be followed.

Rotarian W. A. Logan, past president of the Hamilton Rotary Club, was among the guests and extended unofficial greetings from Hamilton Rotarians.

Early Advance In Wheat Followed By Recession

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—With big trade in progress and general buying at the start, future deliveries of wheat advanced here today to a fresh high price record of the season. The strength in foreign markets, especially Buenos Aires, was the chief news factor. Heavy rains in Central and Southern Argentina, undesirable for harvest time, were reported. On the advance, however, previous buyers turned sellers and a sharp reaction ensued. Chicago opening prices, 1-2 to 3 1-4c higher, new style, December 186 1-2 to 187 and May 180 3-4 to 181 1-4, were followed by moderate further gain and then by a setback that in some cases went below Saturday's finish.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat. After opening 1-4 to 1c higher, May 86 to 86 1-4c, the corn market scored an advance and then underwent a sag.

Oats started 1-4c off to 3-8c up, May 46 1-8 to 46 3-8, and later held near to initial figures.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift provisions.

Sharp Advances Recorded In Winnipeg Grain Market

WINNIPEG, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press). — Sharp advances were scored when the wheat market opened after the holiday, the closing period today ranging from 3 3-4 to 7 3-4 cents, May future touching high point at $1.67.

Constructive Move Aided By Good Business Reports

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Speculators for an advance retained control of the price movements in the stock market after the triple Christmas holiday. Constructive market operations were aided by the optimistic tenor of the first 1926 business forecasts to make them optimistic, the outcome of the proposed Pacific Oil-Standard Oil of California merger, the unusually favorable earnings statement of the Hudson Motor Company and the fine showing made by the latest batch of November earnings reports.

Bullish operations were particulary progressive in oils, rails and motors. S. S. Kresge scored 15 points above last week's to 775, and Mack Trucks and White Motor extended their early gains to 3 points or more before the end of the third hour.

Strong Market At Toronto With Many Big Advances

TORONTO, Dec. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Numerous large advances and exceptional activity characterized the opening session of the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning after the Christmas holidays. Led by Consolidated Smelters, which reached a new high at 182 3-4 in a turnover of more than three thousand shares, the market was uniformly strong.

Smelters' close at 181 3-4 was an advance of four and three-quarter points, though it was a point below the high mark reached during the session. Brazilian, the next most active, closed at its high of 84, five-eighths higher, and the active Twin City was sold up two and a half points at 79. Abitibi was marked up three points at 75, Brompton two and an eighth at 28 3-8, and Canadian General Electric preferred a point at 57. Imperial was leader of an active and strong bank section, and Dome mines strengthened 20 at 17.00.

Royal Bank's Annual Report Shows Increase In Assets

MONTREAL, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).— The annual statement of the Royal Bank of Canada was made public here today, showing an increase in assets of $205,000,000. Of the increase, approximately $105,000,000 may be attributed to the purchase of the Union Bank of Canada and the Bank of Central and South America, it is stated in the report. The deposits show an increase of $180,000,000, of which $150,000,0 is in Canada. Current loans, however, did not keep pace with the growth in deposits, but there is an increase of $42,000,000 commercial loans in Canada.

Bountiful Wheat Supply Raises Hope Of Price Drop

LONDON, Dec. 28 (British United Press, by Herbert Bailey).—The bountiful supplies of wheat promised in official "market reports" issued by the Ministry of Agriculture have raised hope here for a cheaper loaf, a feature of this report is the record of Europe's increased yield, which has arisen from 552,000,00 cwt. to 724,000,000 in one year; Russia is not included in these figures. The Canadian and American yields are reported to be reduced from 608,000,000 cwt. to 600,000,000, but the totals show an increase of 1,604,00,000 cwt. to 1,795,000,000 over the preceding year.

Slight Increase Shown In Heavy Mine Market

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (Canadian Press).—Total trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was 246,310 shares. In the active stocks there was slight tendency towards increase since the last day the Exchange was open, December 24th. The highest gain this morning was in the unlisted stock Noranda, which gained 1.43, closing to 14.25.

Lake Shore gained 20 cents closing at 9.60. Wright Hargreaves went up 20 cents to 7.95. Teck Hughes closed at 2.51, a gain of six cents, and Vipond Consolidated at 158, a gain of three. Nipissing gained 10 cents to close at 6.30. Capitol went to 34, a gain of two cents. McIntyre was off 10 cents, making it $22.50 at the close.

WEDDING BELLS.

MURRAY—HEFFERNAN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at eight o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Helen Anne, daughter of Mrs. W. Heffernan of Romaine Street, became the bride of Mr. Peter Joseph Murray, son of Mr. John Murray of Detroit, formerly of Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed within the sanctuary by Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

The bride was beautifully attired in a hand-embroidered blue taffeta frock with touches of gold and yellow roses. She wore a scarf of hand-tinted blue net fastened at the shoulder with a large gold rose; a large black satin hat with shadow, gold embroidered leaf, and black satin slippers with gold buckles and hose to match. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, Baby's Breath and Lily of the Valley.

The bride was attended by Miss Eileen Murray of Buffalo, N.Y., in a charming gown of yellow chiffon with gold lace trimming. She wore a large black hat showing touches of gold, black satin slippers, and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses.

The attendant of the groom was Mr. Geo. Heffernan of Lakefield.

The groom's gift to the bride was a dinner ring set with twin diamonds; to the bridesmaid, a little finger ring; to the groomsman, a tie-pin.

After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the home of the bride's mother, where a dainty buffet luncheon was served to the immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Murray.

The young couple left on the afternoon train for an extended honeymoon. The bride travelled in a panne velvet dress of mahogany shade twih trimmings of fur and hand-embroidered French crepe.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray will reside in Detroit, Michigan.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having again received the Nomination for Reeve of the Township, and as it will be impossible for me to see you all, I am taking this means of asking your support at the poll on January 1.

I am not a stranger to you, having had seven years' experience in the Township Council, the last four years as Reeve. I am in close touch with the requirements of the Township, both locally and in the county, and I believe my record for those years will have some weight on my behalf. At least, I respectfully ask you to use your franchise on polling day, and mark your ballot for the candidate you believe the most capable of handling the affairs of the Township, to the best interest of all concerned.

Wishing you all the Compliments of the Season,

Yours respectfully,

VOL. LVI., No. 151 — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1925 — PRICE THREE CENTS

LIBERAL BERTH IN RUSSELL FOR KING IS MOOTED

SETTING STAGE

J. C. Elliott, K.C., of London to Move Address in Reply.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press).—J. C. Elliott, K.C., newly elected member for West Middlesex, will move the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the fifteenth Parliament, and L. Lacombe of Two Mountains will second the Address. Premier King announced last night. Following the Canadian custom in this piece of Parliamentary procedure, the honors are divided between English-speaking and French-speaking members. Mr. Elliott is a former member of the Ontario Legislature, and Mr. Lacombe is a Montreal barrister.

The debate on the Address will probably not commence until January 11, the Monday following the opening ceremonies. The Government, it is known, is proceeding on the basis that with the meeting of Parliament and the election of the Speaker of the House of Commons, its position has been established. With this in view, appointments which have been deferred since the general election will probably be made early in the session. There are Senate vacancies to be filled as well as numerous minor appointments in the Civil Service. Thus the Government will not wait for the inevitable test of strength at the conclusion of the debate on the Address before assuming the entire functions of office.

Visited Premier.

Monday saw considerable activity around the office of the Prime Minister. There were numerous visitors, including members of the Cabinet and private members of the new Parliament. Of particular interest was the visit of A. Goulet, the new member for Russell, and A. Belanger, the member for Russell in the Ontario Legislature. Russell has been for many years a secure Liberal seat, and the visit has given some strength to the rumor that Mr. King may stand for election in that constituency himself later in the winter. Mr. Belanger and Mr. Goulet also called on Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, and Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster-General.

Mr. Goulet, at the recent election, was opposed by an English-speaking Conservative, Mr. Merkley. In the event of Mr. King running in Russell in a by-election it is rumored that he will be opposed by a French-Canadian Conservative candidate.

$10,000 STOLEN IN VANCOUVER

Department Store Safe Was Blown on Sunday Morning —Watchman Held Up. $1,222 Job, Too.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press). — The exact amount secured by robbers who held up two watchmen and blew the safe in the Woodwards department store, Sunday morning, was unknown Monday, but Charles Woodward, the head of the company, stated that the loss might exceed $10,000.

$1,222 IN THIS SAFE.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press). — Employing practically similar methods to those used in the robbery of the Woodward stores, Sunday, robbers some time between late Thursday night and Monday morning blew the safe in the men's furnishing store of T. B. Cuthbertson and Company, Granville Street, and escaped with $1,222.

The robbery was not discovered until Monday morning, and police are working on the theory that the two jobs were the work of one gang. In both cases electric circuits were used to discharge nitroglycerine to blow off the safe doors; goods from stock were piled around the safes to muffle the sound of the explosion and the combination dials were knocked off.

HEART DISEASE AND CANCER TAKE HEAVY TOLL IN CANADA LAST STATISTICS SHOW

More Canadians Died of Diseases of the Arteries Than From Tuberculosis Last June — Five Street Car Fatalities.

OTTAWA, Dec. 28. — (Canadian Press).—Heart disease and cancer are the two most active agencies of death in Canada. In June, 1925, the last month for which vital statistics are available in the registration area of the Dominion, which does not include Quebec, of the 4,897 people who died, 573 died of heart disease and 468 of cancer. It is notable that more people died in that month of diseases of the arteries than from tuberculosis. The figures are, respectively, 286 and 284.

There were 243 premature births, 317 died of pneumonia, 107 of influenza, 166 of cerebral hemorrhage, 213 of nephritis and 134 of senility. Diarrhoea and kindred ailments claimed almost as many victims as railroad, street-car, automobile and other traffic accidents combined. The former caused 70 death; the latter 76 deaths. Congenital malformations and debility lost to Canada 189 citizens; appendicitis was the cause of 81 deaths.

Of the 27 headings under which the Bureau of Statistics group the causes of death, and which are accountable for 3,644 of the deaths in June, the lowest is street-car accidents, which caused five deaths.

MASONIC FESTIVAL IS TRIBUTE TO GRAND OLD MAN OF MASONRY IN PETERBOROUGH—HARRY RUSH

Fiftieth Anniversary of Installation as Master of Peterborough Lodge.

MEDAL AND BANQUET.

Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada Present.

The Festival of St. John the Evangelist was observed in royal style at a banquet held in the Empress Hotel by the three Peterborough lodges, namely Corinthian Lodge No. 101, Peterborough Lodge No. 155, and Royal Arthur Lodge No. 523, A.F. & A.M., G.R.C. The Festival in Peterborough took the form of a "Harry Rush" night and much honor was paid to this worthy citizen of Peterborough.

Over three hundred brethren took part in the proceedings, which were of a nature that will live long in the memories of those who were fortunate enough to be present. Rt. Wor. Bro. John Crane acted as chairman for the evening.

The toasts were as follows: The King; The Grand Master and the Grand Lodge of Canada—Wor. Bro. W. R. Morris, Rt. Wor. Bro. John S. Martin; Our Visiting Brethren—Wor. Bro. R. L. Dobbin, Rt. Wor. Bro. W. M. Logan; The Absent Brethren—V. Wor. Bro. E. B. Fowler; The Junior Warden's Toast—"Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again."

John S. Martin.

The Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario, Rt. Wor. Bro. John S. Martin in a brief speech described conditions as he had seen them while on a visit to France and Germany, and paid tribute to Britain as being the big factor in negotiating the recent Locarno agreement which in his opinion was a structure that will stand for a permanent peace in the world. He stated that the League of Nations did not fulfil its purpose, because it was exclusive—it excluded Germany, but the Locarno Agreement was inclusive of every country, and for that reason if no other could not help but bring peace to a war tired world. One of the most encouraging signs in Canada today, he said, was the interest that young men were taking in the affairs of the country in general and this province in particular. He spoke of attending the Grand Lodge of Masons in England, where men of different color and costumes were present, all British subjects and all Masons.

He stated that no one force had more to do with the force of the British Empire than Masonry and stated that the training of Masonry would last as long as life. Masonry in his opinion was unique, it has never fallen down in philanthropic matters, in fact it could be called a practical Christianity as it was composed of men who not only preached good works, but practised them. The speaker paid tribute to Rt. Wor. Bro. Henry Rush, who last night was celebrating his 50th anniversary as a Past Master of Peterborough Lodge.

Rt. Wor. Bro. W. M. Logan

Rt. Wor. Bro. W. M. Logan of Hamilton, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of the Province of Ontario in Canada stated that, in his opinion, the highest honor that could be paid any man in Masonry was that of being a Past Master of his lodge. It did not fall to the lot of many men to be able to look back 50 years after they had served in that capacity. Grand Lodge realized this and had had a special medal struck for Past Masters who had achieved this distinction. He was here on behalf of the Grand Lodge to honor Rt. Wor. Bro. Henry Rush who was installed as Master of Peterborough Lodge on December 27, 1875, at the Festival of St. John. By a strange coincidence, the speaker said, this event was also on a Monday night so that figuring it out it was exactly 2609 weeks since Rt. Wor. Bro. Rush had been installed as Master of his lodge. At this point the Deputy Grand Master pinned the decoration on the breast of Rt. Wor.

FRENCH CABINET APPROVES PLANS OF FRESH TAXES

Briand Wrests Victory By Sheer Force of Personality.

NO RESIGNATIONS.

None of Radicals Walked Out as Had Been Expected.

PARIS, Dec. 29 (United Press).—Premier Aristide Briand gained fresh laurels to-day when his Cabinet approved the tax projects of Finance Minister Doumer, and none of the Ministers resigned, as had been feared might be the case.

Developments up to to-day gave some indications that the Radicals of his regime might walk out upon approbal of the tax measures, thereby plunging France into a Cabinet crisis of considerable gravity.

Bu Briand again, by sheer force of his political skill and personality, wrested from the Cabinet a new victory comparable to his earlier success with the Chamber on the temporary finance bills when he seized a personal triumph from what appeared certain defeat.

After the Cabinet session, Briand declared that everything had progressed well within the conference chamber.

"The spirit of Locarno entered the Cabinet room," he observed pleasantly.

The new victory for Briand was met with statements that he was rapidly proving himself the man of the "hour," whom France has sought to save her in the biggest crisis since Verdun.

Though the crisis was temporarily stifled by to-day's action, it is probably that it will arise again in January when the Finance Commission and the Chamber have the projects up for adoption.

The other project is designed to raise 8,800,000,000 francs through increased income taxes, improved collections, increased tobacco prices through the French State monopoly, additional temporary turnover tax and an increased tax on straight exchange dealings.

Phonographs driven by electricity, a wireless receiver, and a collapsible writing-desk have been fitted in an automobile recently constructed in London for a prominent composer of music.

$10,000 Damage Done at Murray St. Church by Fire Early Today

Blaze Believed To Have Started in Pile of Soft Coal in Cellar—Burned Through Floor in South-west Corner of Building.

DISCOVERED BY CARETAKER.

Choir Loft, Pulpit Steps, Carpet, Pews and Other Fittings Damaged—Organ Injured By Water—Dense Smoke Filled Building and Basement.

Ten thousand dollars damage was caused by the disastrous fire which broke out in Murray Street Baptist Church this morning, according to a statement made by Fire Chief George Gimblett. The choir loft, organ, pews and the carpet were badly damaged by water, while three gaping holes in the floor bear testimony to the work of the flames.

When the fire brigade reached the scene the Chief was unable to proceed down the body of the Church so great was the volume of smoke that greeted him. He immediately got his men to work in the basement and succeeded after arduous efforts in confining the blaze to the south west corner of the building.

In the opinion of the Fire Chief the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion of the coal in the coal bin and to prove his contention he reclaimed from the bin several large pieces of soft coal which had become carbonized from the heat.

The caretaker, J. Kingsbury, said that he was at the church this morning about 5 o'clock and at that time he noticed nothing unusual. He returned about 9.00 o'clock to fix his fires and on nearing the Church he noticed considerable smoke. He opened the entrance to the cellar, intending to investigate the cause of the smoke, but was unable to go down the stairs on account of the dense smoke that prevailed. He immediately rang in the fire alarm and in a few minutes the brigade arrived. If the fire had occurred during the night there is no doubt but that the entire building would have been demolished, as the ceiling of the cellar was plastered, thus enabling the flames to get a good hold on the structure before being noticed.

Canada Has More Money Available For Business

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Canada has one hundred and twenty-five million dollars more available for business at the present time than at the same time a year ago, declared Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, at the annual meeting of that institution to-day. "Canada is in splendid shape to go ahead," he declared.

BRITAIN SCORNS TRADE WAR TALK

Buys Too Much Cotton and Wheat For U. S. To Start Conflict.

COMPLAINT RIDICULED.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (British United Press, by H. Bailey).—Talk of a trade war between Britain and the United States which is rumored in despatches from Washington to the London newspapers is laughed to scorn here, for it is declared that the United States is in no position to start such a war since Britain imports such vast quantities of her cotton and wheat. There is no doubt, however, that the denunciation of the suggested restrictions by Britain of the rubber output made by Hoover and Longworth has caused some ill feeling mingled with amusement. Hoover's complaints are ridiculed on all sides.

It is pointed out today that members of the American Cotton Association have called a meeting to be held at Atlanta, Georgia, on January 7th, to discuss methods of reducing the crop of 1926 so as to ensure profits for the growers. The pertinent question is, therefore, what is Mr. Hoover going to do about this meeting? Will he denounce the Cotton Association for its proposed action as strongly as he has denounced the rubber growers? The Morning Post is leading a particularly lively campaign in refutation of the American arguments.

TROUBLE AHEAD FOR SETTLEMENT

Agreement With Italy May Not Pass Through U. S. House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Trouble lies ahead for the Italian debt settlement. The recent outburst that greeted Senator Smoot's discussion of the question of ratification of the agreements was not on the programme, but since that time the sentiment has developed into a definite movement. It is quite possible that this has attained such momentum that by the time the vote is reached there may be a majority against ratification.

The argument that the terms amount to forgiving of the principle and a receipt in full for what amounts to less than 2 per cent. over a period of sixty-two years is responsible for the distaste for the settlement.

Dies At Pal's Bedside Shock Kills Invalid

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press)—Called to the bedside of a dying friend, Dugald Paterson, 76, a farmer of Sidney district in Manitoba collapsed as he entered the sick room and died. The shock was too much for the invalid, John McGregor, 70, and he died a few hours later. The pals of more than a half century will be buried in the same grave.

PUBLIC WARNED FUEL SHORTAGE MAY BE SERIOUS

Hon. Charles Stewart Advises Householders to Buy Reserve.

SUPPLY LIMITED

Danger of Transportation Tangle by Winter Weather.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Hon. Charles Stewart in an interview here strongly recommends householders "to immediately protect themselves by laying in supplies of whatever fuel they can obtain at present prices, as an acute situation may develop at any time by reason of a winter tie-up in transportation or by the extension of the labor difficulties into the bituminous fields."

The minister stated that he was keeping a close watch on the situation in the American anthracite mines through the Dominion Fuel Board. Though a change in the attitude of the two parties to the dispute might occur at any time he could not urge too strongly that householders should secure reserve supplies of fuel.

Supply Running Out.

In explanation the minister said that the Fuel Board had found that Central Canada had received 70 per cent of its usual household coal requirements by the 1st of November, but this supply would not take care of normal needs for that portion of the heating season. The board had also found the bulk of the anthracite received had been already delivered to consumers and that the remainder available to the month-to-month buyer would be exhausted at an early date. The dealers are keeping their depleted stock bins partially replenished by importations of household coke and low volatile bituminous coal, but only at increasingly higher prices resulting from the heavy demand of the American householder for these anthracite substitutes.

Mr. Stewart said that in securing supplies of coal the Dominion Fuel Board is prepared to co-operate with provincial and municipal authorities to the fullest extent of its responsibilities, but that in any interprovincial movement of coal the primary responsibility for meeting their needs must rest largely on local authorities.

FLOODS BECOME WORSE HOURLY

Saone River is Rising Steadily—Villages Are Flooded.

PLAIN MADE LAKE.

PARIS, Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press).—The floods in Eastern France are assuming almost the proportions of a disaster. The River Doubs and its tributaries are far out of their banks and have converted the plain of Montbeliard into a vast lake. The inhabitants of several of the villages had to decamp hurriedly in the night. Many farms are isolated and Brasse Plain, famous throughout France for its chickens, is under water.

The Saone is rising an inch an hour, and fields are flooded all around Chalons, while the lower parts of Chagny are inundated.

The flood situation, due to recent heavy rainfalls and the melting of snow, is getting worse rather than better.

The River Rhone, which last night apparently was about to recede, suddenly started to rise again early this morning, and more rapidly than ever owing to waters coming down from various tributaries.

All the low-lying country around Lyon is flooded. Water has formed a vast lake three miles wide, and from above the surface at many places the trunks of poplar trees and the roofs of houses are to be seen.

SHORTAGE OF JUTE.

High Prices Are Predicted . . Because of Small Production.

LONDON, Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press).—A shortage in the world production of jute threatens to create a situation paralleling, though on a much smaller scale, that of the rubber producers.

Manufacturers everywhere are predicting very high prices in 1926, which will affect the United States buyers, who take approximately 800,000 bales of jute from British India during the season.

MISSING MEN DIED ON ISLAND

Bodies Found Short Distance Inland—Water in Watches.

GONE THREE WEEKS.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—The bodies of Robert Sidwell, of Algonac, and Leslie Isaac, an Indian, of Walpole Island, were found by Dennis Altiman of Russel Island about five o'clock on Saturday evening, while he was crossing the ice to Algonac. W. C. Oliver, of the Provincial Police, received a report about 7 p.m., and, on investigation, found that the men had, on December 5, visited Port Lambton in two boats, and it was thought that they had drowned as they were seen in Lambton with only one boat.

The bodies were found about 40 feet inland from where they had landed. The boat in which they landed on the island was pulled out of the water, but the watches and flashlights of both men had water in them, so that apparently they had been in the water and managed to get on the island, where they had perished.

Sunday Morning Tragedy in Quebec Hamlet Near Ville Marie.

TWO IN HOSPITAL

General Store and Apartment House Were Totally Destroyed.

COBALT, Ont., Dec. 29. (Canadian Press).—Four people are dead and two are in hospital, badly burned, as the result of a fire in a rooming house conducted by P. Lefebvre, Guiges, Que., store keeper, early Sunday morning. Details of the tragedy reached Cobalt Monday afternoon from Ville Marie, Que., the nearest railway station to the scene of the fatality.

The dead are: P. Lefebvre, aged 35; Mrs. Lefebvre, aged 28; A. St. Jean, aged 21, and Miss Blanche Lacroix, aged 17. Burned and in Hospital at Ville Marie: C. Lafreniere and D. Barette.

The fire is believed to have started in a room of the apartment which the Lefebvres occupied next to their store. Candles left lighted on a Christmas tree are thought to have been the cause. The store and apartment, along with the out buildings, were completely destroyed.

In addition to those who were burned to death and those who are in hospital, A. Drahman and A. Guilbealt were boarders in the Lefebvre home. They escaped unharmed. According to the story they told, they were awakened first by a shout of "fire" from Mr. Lefebvre, who called to them to bring the fire extinguisher. Looking around the rooms they were unable to locate Mr. Lefebvre, but noticed Mrs. Lefebvre and Miss Lacroix standing together in the kitchen.

Floor Gave Way.

Hearing Miss Lacroix scream, Lefreniere ran to her, and, picking her up, attempted to carry her to safety through the back exit of the house. When near the door, the floor in the kitchen broke through, dropping him into the cellar. In the smoke and flames he was unable to find Miss Lacroix, who by this time was unconscious and unable to answer his calls. Lafreniere only escaped after a dash through the flames to the front door. A peculiar feature of the tragedy was that those who were burned to death and those in hospital attempted to escape from the house through the rear exit, near where the fire was burning fiercely, while the front of the house was, during the early part of the fire, untouched by the flames. Drahman and Lafreniere escaped through the front door.

Bodies Huddled Together.

It is believed that from the positions in which the bodies were found that driven back by the flames around the back door, the four dead huddled together in a corner of the kitchen. The bodies were all found in an area a few square feet there.

When found the body of Mr. Lefebvre was the only one of the four that bore any resemblance to a human form. All that remained of the other three was charred bones. It was possible, however, to identify the bodies through their sizes.

Interment of the four bodies took place this morning at nine o'clock.

ALL-RAIL GRAIN MOVEMENT SEEN DURING WINTER

Eastern Ports Have Only Two Weeks' Supply in Storage.

EUROPE BUYING

Elevators and Ships at Lake Head Are Filling Fast.

FORT WILLIAM, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Since the close of navigation of grain from the West to the Lake terminals has begun to close up, partly due to the cold weather in the West lowering the quantity that is being delivered to country elevators, and partly to the desire on the part of the railway companies to avoid congestion in the yards at the head of the lakes. Already one elevator here has one thousand cars in the yards, waiting to be unloaded and another has eight hundred. By the end of the week all the boats that are here for winter storage will have been loaded, so that no further relief from that quarter can be expected to elevator space.

With an addition of eight million bushels to the grain in store during the week just past and the storage space in the houses half filled, it is obvious that accumulation of stocks here at that rate would plug the storage by the end of January. It is believed that the slowing up of the deliveries here and the possible shipment of a million bushels a week "all rail" will enable the houses to continue taking in grain for at least a month longer.

The belief that there will be steady all-rail movement is based on the fact that Europe and the United Kingdom are still buying freely and the fifteen million bushels now in store at Eastern ports only represents two weeks' requirements. After that is used up, the all-rail grain will be the only grain available.

Quieter at Lindsay.

LINDSAY, Dec. 29.—Shipment of Western grain through Lindsay via C.N.R. and C.P.R. from Georgian Bay ports has abated somewhat. There are still a number of grain laden vessel locked in the harbor at Port McNicoll, and this will be removed during the winter. In connection with grain shipments from the northern terminals, it is said that American competition during the past year has had a rather discouraging effect. At least 20,000,000 bushels of grain that should have come to Canadian ports and over the C.N.R. and C.P.R. from the head of the Lakes have been diverted to Buffalo and other American ports. Georgian Bay ports have felt this competition keenly, and Port McNicoll elevator has handled 10,000,000 bushels less than in 1924. The total receipts this year at the C.P.R. port were 29,937,304 as against 3,934,32[illegible] bushels last year. Other ports along the bay have suffered also because of shipments going to Buffalo owing to a slight difference in rates.

MARTIAL LAW IN FLOOD DISTRICT

Hungarian Action Follows Many Crimes Committed.

TRAIN IN RIVER.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Martial law has been proclaimed in the flood district of Bekes and Bihar, in consequence of repeated crimes against life and property. Eighty thousand acres are inundated.

The flood situation is hourly growing more serious. The engineer and fireman were mortally injured when the locomotive of a passenger train plunged into the River Pinka as a bridge collapsed. Fortunately the coaches automatically uncoupled and no passengers were injured.

MANY LIVES LOST.

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Hundreds of lives have been lost in the floods along the Roumanian frontier, according to despatches received here from Torda. The flood waters are declared to be sweeping bodies and debris through the streets of that city.

A tragic case is told of a family of five who took refuge on the roof of their home, only to be forced off by fire which broke out in an upper storey. All were drowned.

14 DEPORTED.

Naturalization Certificates Were Revoked.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Fourteen certificates of naturalization of aliens in Canada, as British subjects, have been revoked by Order-in-Council.

Those whose certificates have been cancelled, it was learned at the Secretary of State Department Monday afternoon, include two Germans, one Assyrian, two Russians and a number from various parts of Central Europe.

Conviction of criminal offences carrying with them deportation is the reason given for revokation in two instances. In the other cases, false representation in procuring naturalization, or fraud, is the cause of cancellation. The majority of the aliens affected have already left Canada.

In Scotland, coal was mined as early as the 12th century.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

FROM MR. LEES

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—I was somewhat disappointed and a good deal surprised to learn from an editorial in last night's Examiner that there are just two main issues before the people in the present election. These are the question of Daylight Saving and the opening and supervision of Sunday bathing places.

Permit me respectfully, to point out that the first is not an election issue at all. It as a mere reference to the people for their view on the question and that view will, in all probability, be carried into effect, whoever is elected. It is, therefore, to be inferred that a community of the size and importance of the City of Peterborough has among its would be rulers no statesman capable of evolving any greater question than whether the boys who want to swim on Sunday shall or shall not have a policeman to watch over them. Truly a great problem for a progressive community and a weighty question for the editorial staff of a leading newspaper to concentrate its talents on.

There are many, however, who do not agree with you and who believe that there is a real problem of supreme importance before the people, one that ought to be seriously in the mind of every elector. The most important asset of any community is its young people, and by far the most important task of a community is the making of adequate provision for the proper education of its youth. That is the question that, at present, ought to be agitating the mind of every citizen and not a petty squabble about whether or not boys who swim on Sunday should be supervised.

A short time ago, you instituted a humorous and very clever comparison of Peterborough's City Buildings with those of some other similar places. How would it do now, for you to make a similar, but serious, comparison of Peterborough's facilities for secondary education with those of similar towns? In doing so, you might keep specially in mind the provision for industrial education, for does not Peterborough boast herself as being one of the chief industrial centres of this highly industrial province. Just let us know how we compare, in this respect, with say, Chatham, Sarnia, St. Thomas, Windsor, Galt, Guelph, St. Catharines, Owen Sound, Kitchener and other places of greater or less importance. They have at least technical institutes, whether or not they have police-infested swimming holes for Sunday bathers.

Two objections have been raised by those opposed to a school here. We are told that the question has not had sufficient consideration and that it should be submitted to a vote of the people. Both are mere excuses for delay and for shirking responsibility. In the first place, the Board of Education has had this question under careful, thorough and capable consideration for some years. We know their opinion about the necessity for vigorous and immediate action, and objectionable as comparisons may be, no one, looking over the record of the two bodies for the past fifteen years, will for a moment contend that the Board is less capable than the City Council of deciding wisely any important matter.

In the second place, this question can be got before the people in no other way than that open to them now. A vote on a by-law, as is proposed, would narrow the expression of opinion down to little more than one-third of the electors. The other two-thirds can express their opinion only by turning out on Friday and electing aldermen who will support the request of the Board for the funds necessary to provide a school.

In your discussion of the bathing problem, you have expressed great concern for the working man and his family. Could you not, with equally as clear a conscience, point out to him that to secure for his children educational opportunities along industrial lines, for which they may be specially fitted, or naturally inclined and from which they may acquire the means of livelihood, is a matter of at least almost as much importance as that they should be privileged to wash in the river on Sunday, an officer of the law standing by. Surely this is a theme quite as worthy the pen of a journalist or the eloquence of a statesman. If you can persuade these electors to realize this, to turn out on polling day and to show by their votes that they desire this privilege as well as the other, it might change the viewpoint of some of the aldermen that are or are to be.

I regret, Mr. Editor, to have occupied so much of your valuable space and thank you for your courtesy in the matter, but I shall not apologize for the question under consideration is of sufficient magnitude and importance to require no apology.

RICHARD LEES.

THE CHURCH AND SUNDAY BATHING.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:

According to your report in Monday's issue, Rev. J. D. Richardson of St. James' Church fears that the permission of Sunday bathing under supervision will injure the work of the Church.

The Church of Jesus Christ was never stronger; never made converts more readily; and never made greater conquests, than when persecuted by laws against it. Today, if the Church is losing power so that it fears the permission of Sunday bathing, it is because it is every year delegating more of its authority and right and duty to legislatures, learning to lean on protective laws instead of on the rock of its foundation.

Whose fault is it that Peterborough ministers fear to allow the opening of the bathing beaches on Sunday? Is God's strength weakened? Is the devil more powerful? Or has the Church become a weak sister depending for progress on the wheel chair of legislation?

To many people, it will appear an unworthy admission that Mr. Richardson makes.

Yours truly,
T. T. A.

FROM J. P. MOORE.

Editor, Peterborough Examiner—

Dear Sir:

The citizens of Peterborough are to be congratulated that a man of the calibre of John R. Marshall has allowed his name to appear as a candidate for the position of Alderman.

What this city needs more than anything else is proper business administration, and this can only be attained by appointing to the Council men of business training and ability.

Mr. Marshall, in his capacity of Sales Manager to the Canadian Nashua Company has demonstrated his fitness for business administration and being a property holder is in a position to fully appreciate the pressing need at the present for economy and sound civic financing.

As President of the Kiwanis Club, Mr. Marshall did splendid work for the city generally, has always been keenly interested in all local organizations charged with the advancement of the city's interests. He deserves the support of every thoughtful elector.

Yours truly,
JAMES P. MOORE.

FROM T. F. MATTHEWS.

Editor of The Examiner,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:—My attention has been directed to a letter in your issue of the 24th inst., signed by Robert Hicks, in which reference is made to my being Chairman of the Utilities Commission, and Manager of a plant to which a low rate for water had been given. With your permission, I desire to explain the transaction.

In the year 1898, several years before the City of Peterborough purchased the Water Works System, the plant of the Geo. Matthews Co., Limited, was enlarged, and as Manager of the Company, I arranged with the Peterborough Water Company, through its Manager, Mr. Wilson Henderson, for a yearly water rate of $400.00. This rate was agreed to after the Board of the Water Company had carefully looked into the whole situation, and realised that if a low rate was not named, the Matthews Company, would without doubt, instal a water pumping plant of its own.

The rate named in 1898 was continued by the Water Commissioners after the Waterworks System was purchased in 1902, with this change. Several years after City ownership began, larger water connections were made with the packing plant, to provide water for a sprinkler fire protection system, and for which the Matthews Company paid the cost of installation, and also paid tariff rates based on the number of sprinkler heads and private hydrants, in addition to the yearly rate for water. These rates for fire protection, were common to all Manufacturers having similar equipment, and let me say that Peterborough was the pioneer City of Canada to make a charge to Manufacturers and others, for this service.

In 1920 and 1921, the packing plant was again enlarged, additional refrigeration equipment was installed, which required additional water volume in its operation. Water meters were placed on each service to the packing plant, and for several months, rates were collected, for unfiltered water, from the Canadian Packing Company Limited (Successors to The Geo. Matthews Company Limited) in excess of rates collected by the City of Toronto, for filtered water supplied to a much larger plant owned by the Company, for the same period. These rates were paid by the Packing Company only so long as it took to instal a private pumping and filtration plant—about five months—and the cost of water now to the Packing Company, is the actual cost of power consumed, and depreciation on, and maintenance of the plant.

It must not be overlooked that unless a low rate for water had been given to the Packing Company, a private pumping plant would have been installed many years before, and the City would have been without the revenue it received, as the factory is situated on the bank of the river, making it possible to construct and operate an installation at minimum cost. The Packing Company continues to pay to the City, tariff rates for fire protection, both for sprinklers and private hydrants, and also pays for city water consumed in the plant, at meter rates, but the consumption is very small, owing to the fact that the private pumping and filtration plant is working very successfully.

It is unfair for Mr. Hicks to compare a rate for water supplied in 1921 to an enlarged plant, with the rate collected for years from a much smaller plant, and he does not tell you that in the packing business, a large volume of water is used in the summer months, and a comparatively small volume used in the fall, winter and early spring months, when maximum mechanical refrigeration is not required. The yearly rate cannot be correctly calculated on the quantity used during the three summer months.

Mr. Hicks, in his letter, also refers to the building of a filter plant and substation. It is gratifying to know that the judgment of the Commissioners in purchasing land for a Filtration Plant, and for a Hydro-Electric Sub-Station, Water Works Office and Pipe Yard, was later confirmed by the carrying out of the schemes outlined by the Commissioners at the time of purchase.

I am still of the opinion that the judgment of the Commissioners to defer the building of the Filtration Plant and Sub-Station, etc., until costs were lower than in war time, was sound. It was necessary, however, to purchase the properties when they were available.

I regret that this letter is somewhat lengthy, but I hesitate to close without referring to the work performed by Mr. R. L. Dobbin, to whom credit is due for the design and construction of the Filtration Plant, of which every citizen of Peterborough should be proud, and also to the work of Mr. H. O. Fisk, in the building and equipping of the electric sub-station, and the operation of a distribution system for several years, under very trying conditions.

Yours sincerely,
—T. F. Matthews.

ALDERMAN HANCOCK'S VIEWS

Mr. Editor,—As I see the present and future financial conditions in the city of Peterboro, we must not allow our debenture debt to increase to any great extent for some time. During the past six or eight years we have seen almost a continuous sale of debentures, all of substantial amounts, namely: (1) Hunter Street bridge; (2) filtration plant; (3) Prince of Wales School; (4) sewage disposal plant, together with paving debentures, surface drains, etc. The total amount now exceeds four million dollars. The interest and sinking fund on same means much to the small taxpayer (who has just bought a home). I say the small taxpayer, because the larger taxpayer generally has many resources from which he may draw in time of depression. The small taxpayer may be depending entirely upon his earnings, and in case of lack of work, finds himself in an embarrassing position when the tax bill is presented. In addition to this, he may have to meet the interest on a possible mortgage.

I contend, Mr. Editor, that this is the man we need to protect. He is a real asset to the city. He becomes interested in the city and its welfare. This man needs encouragement. Don't overburden him with taxation. Give him a chance at the poll to state his opinion on large issues and large proposed expenditures. Do not treat him as the Council did a number of ratepayers in East City last year, when they petitioned the City Council to prevent an oil company from erecting large storage tanks for gasoline and oil on Hunter Street, a leading thoroughfare through one of our main residential districts.

I regret that East City did not place a candidate in the aldermanic field for this election.

We cannot expect to reduce taxes this coming year, but I do believe we can prevent them increasing materially before the retirement of a large portion of debentures now nearing maturity. Peterboro needs more encouragement and less knocking, and with a steady administration is sure to emerge triumphantly.

I appreciate what the electors have done for me in the past in giving me their support, and solicit a continuance of their support, assuring them my best attention to their interests.

Yours truly,
W. J. HANCOCK.

WHISKEY AND POLITICS FACTORS IN ELECTION OF WARDEN OF TWO COUNTIES, ALLEGED AT MEETING

Charge by Ex-Deputy Reeve Nelson at Seymour Nominations.

DENIED BY A. HUME

Township Avoids Election—Grants $1,000 to Campbellford for Memorial.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2[illegible] — There will be no municipal election in Seymour Township this year, the reeve, deputy reeve and all the members of the council having been elected by acclamation at the nomination meeting held in the Regent Theatre Monday. It was proposed, in case of an election to submit to the taxpayers, the question of making a $1000 grant for a war memorial to be erected in Campbellford. This matter was settled, however, when on motion by F. B. Nelson and Alex. Hume, a standing vote was taken and the incoming council was unanimously authorized to make the grant.

The following were nominated for the various offices:

For Reeve.

W. S. Grills, by Ernest Haig and Fred Peake.

George S. Van Volkenburg, by Andrew Milne and F. B. Nelson.

P. B. Nelson, by George S. Van Volkenburg and W. H. Locke

Mr Van Volkenburg was reeve in 1924, but retired at the end of the term, and Mr. Nelson was defeated for the reeveship by Mr. Grills. Both withdrew, making the return of Reeve Grills unanimous.

For Deputy Reeve.

Andrew Milne, a former member of the council, by P. B. Nelson and W. H. Locke.

Russell Peake, deputy reeve this year, by Albert Grills and John Sands.

Mr. Milne withdrew his name.

For Councillors.

Robert E. Innis by George S. Van Volkenburg and W. J. Hooper.

Robert A. Linn by Will I. Allan and W. J. Hooper.

Will I. Allan, by Robert E. Innis and Robert A. Linn.

All of the above were members of last year's council and were re-elected by acclamation, as Ernest Cook whose name was presented by P. B. Nelson and Andrew Nelson, declined to stand.

The Public Meeting.

Returning officer Dr. G. A. Hay presided over the public meeting which followed the nominations, when those whose names had been presented were allowed 15 minutes each to address the electors. Reeve, Reeve Grills and other members of the council reviewed the work of the year—the reeve devoting the major part of his address to giving a synopsis of the 1925 sessions of the Counties Council. Ex-Reeve Van Volkenburg, ex-Deputy Reeve Nelson and the other nominees, had some criticism of the expenditures on the roads, but all questions asked were answered by the reeve, apparently to the satisfaction of the audience.

Interest of Temperance.

The session towards the close developed into what resembled an old-fashioned temperance meeting. Ex-Deputy-Reeve Nelson gave the proceedings this bent when in the course of a somewhat academic address, he declared, that capable, courageous and clean men were wanted in the public service. He alleged that in the election of the warden of the United Counties whiskey was freely used in the canvass made by the different candidates, and that politics cut too much of a figure in determining the result.

Ex-Warden Hume Protests.

Alex. Hume, who was warden of the United Counties in 1916, and he is esteemed at Cobourg as one of the best who ever held that position, was in the audience and he took exception to the remarks of Mr. Nelson. Mr. Hume said that when he was elected warden, he did not spend a cent for liquor or cigars, nor did he authorize any other person to do it for him. He hoped he was elected on his merits and everybody who knew him was aware that he deplored the use of alcohol in any form. There might be isolated instances of drinking at Cobourg, but the majority of the members of the Counties Council, were picked men of Ontario. Perhaps politics did enter somewhat into the election of the warden, but politics is something that is woven into the whole web of life.

Pastor Seeks Information.

Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of the Seymour United Circuit, and who is chairman of the active temperance organization, said that Seymour Township at the plebiscite election in 1924 gave for the O.T.A. a majority that showed that the township was in favor of prohibition, through and through. In his pastoral work he found that the two greatest obstacles against which he has to contend, the influences most dangerous to the young people are booze and the dance ahlls. Police aid was required to suppress these evils, but when Mr. Daniel appealed for assistance to Chief of Police Brown of Campbellford, that officer told him he had nothing to do with affairs in the Township.

Returning Officer Hay told Mr. Daniel that Township Policeman Ruttan was the official appointed to deal with such matters.

Ernest Craighead stated that there were reports that men employed on the roads did not apply themselves to their duties and that there was considerable drinking in the camps.

In reply to this, Reeve Grills and Councillor Innis reported that they had investigated such reports and found that they were without foundation.

Township is Solvent.

The report of Treasurer M. T. Stephens shows that from January 1 to December 14, 1925, the total expenditures were $49,444.94, this including an overdraft of $4,720.43 left over from last year. The outlay on roads and bridges was $12,261.86, but on this there will be a Provincial refund of $3,000. The Township has assets of $250.99 in excess of its liabilities.

Electing the Council by acclamation will save the taxpayers approximately $100.

When the nominees for this office were called on to address the meeting there was not a single response.

Mayor Meyers' Address

Mayor Meyers was the first to address the public meeting which followed the nominations and over which Town Clerk McGregor presided. After announcing his withdrawal from the office which he has occupied for the past five years, the Mayor dealt with the financial condition of the town as follows:

At the beginning of the year we still had incompleted the Sebastopol and tributary sewers, Kent and Napier Street sewers, and the Front and Major Street sewers, as the financial statement will show. We spent on these sewers the following amounts: On Front and Major Streets, $4,136.31; on Kent and Napier Streets, $3,856.48, and on Sebastopol and tributary sewers, $9,589.36. This work was completed early in the year, and the debentures have all been sold, although we have not yet received the money for the Front and Major Street debentures, amounting to $6,475, or for the Sebastopol Street debentures amounting to $47,600. We expect to have this money in two or three weeks. These amounts, therefore, appear in the statement of current amounts to offset the bank loans, and loans from the Water and Light Commission.

We have also completed the Second Street sewer as far as Ranney Street. This amount is shown in the statement of expenditures and also in current assets, since debentures will be issued as soon as the work is completed to replace the money which has already been spent on the sewer and which has been borrowed from the bank and which appears in the statement of loans on the liability side of the statement of current assets and liabilities.

The Road Roller.

"We also spent $3,950 for the purchase of a road roller and scarifier, rock crusher and sprinkler wagon. This machinery was paid for by the issue of debentures for $3,800, the balance being paid for out of current revenue.

"Speaking of this investment in road machinery, I believe this is one of the most economical deals the town has ever made. This machinery should pay for itself in three years by saving on the amount usually spent on roads to the extent of two or three thousand dollars a year. Just to illustrate—this year we spent in the roads and bridges department $6,165.36. I see no reason why, because we have this machinery, the expenditure on roads and bridges could not be cut to $4,000 a year, a saving of $2,165 over the year's outlay.

A Surplus or $18.42.

This year the tax rate was 47 mills, and we practically had a balanced budget, the financial statement showing a nominal surplus of $18.42. The Water and Light Commission contributed $6,000 out of their surplus, and this practice will be continued from now on.

"While I say that we have a balanced budget with the help of the Water and Light Commission, yet we have also met some unusual expenses out of current revenue. Last year we had an item of $2,200 charged against special sewer accounts, this item representing delayed charges against sewers which had been completed. This item was paid out of current revenue this year.

"We also paid $974 to the counties for repairs to the bridge. This amount was in dispute, but the Provincial authorities ruled that it must be paid. We had a deficit of $1,500 last year, and this was paid out of current revenue this year. Charity took $500 more this year than usual and the Board of Health, owing to the epidemic of measles, cost $300 more than usual. Our police department cost, not considering the fines collected, over $900 more than last year. The total of these items is $5,974, or about 4¾ mills on your tax rate. In addition to this, the High and Public Schools took nearly $6,000 more than last year.

"The next two or three years will be the hardest the taxpayers have to face, and in order to keep the rate down, your Council must exercise strict economy. Strict economy, combined with the help of the Water and Light Commission, will keep the rate within reasonable limits.

Council's Power Limited.

"No matter what you may hear to the contrary, I am telling you facts when I say that there are only three departments wh[illegible] Ont. siderable saving can

High and Public schools where the expenditures are controlled by the Board of Education, and I ask them to be as economical as possible. The roads and bridges department may be able to reduce their expenditures to $4,000 a year.

The Police Department.

Our police department as at present constituted will cost us next year, I should say, approximately $3,000. This, as I have always maintained, is more than we can afford to spend in this department, and such an expenditure is, in my estimation, unnecessary. I believe that any candidate for a position in the Council should state whether he is or is not in favour of a reduction in the expenses of the police department.

In conclusion the Mayor stated that he had not yet made up his mind whether or not he would be a candidate for the position of Water and Light commissioner.

The Police Issue.

The issue raised by Mayor Meyers was discussed by renominated members of the Council, but Councillor Cole alone took sides with him. Reeve Davidson, Deputy Reeve Palliser and Councillors Wiggins, Abernethy and Kingston contended that two policemen were required and that the present officers are giving good service, while the extra cost of the new system is a matter of two or thee hundred dollars a year.

Other Speakers

Reeve Davidson, who has been in the public service for over 20 years, asked for the support of the electors as he intends, if returned, to be a candidate for the Wardenship. Councillor Kingston announced that he would be a candidate for Mayor and gave a resume of the financial condition of the town, saying that debentures were never sold to better advantage than this year. Deputy Reeve Palliser sketched the work done by the Counties Council, and Councillor Cole, who for the past three years has been chairman of the roads and bridges committee, showed how the expenditure in this department had decreased year by year, from $11,000 in 1920 to $5,200 this year, and yet he had never seen the streets in better condition during the 47 years he has resided in Campbellford. If Councillor Cole had not volunteered the information, no one would have suspected his age from his well-kept appearance.

Best Word of All.

S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the Water and Light Commission, brought a message of cheer when he reported that the Commission would this year be able to turn over to the town ten or twelve thousand dollars out of its surplus earnings, or double the amount received from this source last year. Besides this, the Commission will continue to loan the town money at a low rate of interest.

Dr. G. A. Hay, who was nominated for the Council but declined to stand, challenged the right of the Commission to loan money to the town, holding that all surplus earnings should be turned over to the municipality.

W. J. Abernethy will be a candidate for the Council; W. S. Wiggins has not made up his mind, and J. N. Stone retired.

Major Tygott spoke briefly on behalf of the Board of Education of which he is chairman. Henry Redden attacked the financial policy of the Council. John M. Arnold, nominated for Mayor, declined the honor. J. A. Anderson will not contest the reeveship. Alex. McDonald is in the friend for the Council; T. J. Rowe will not stand, and John O'Sullivan is undecided.

George E. Morrison, in one of those Demosthenes-like orations, for which he is famous, declined to be a candidate for the Council.

"I will stand or fall," said A. L. Riendeau, nominee for Conimissioner, "And I ask your support."

The candidates have until 9 o'clock tonight to qualify.

He did not seem to mind the fifteen below zero weather, and walked with the swing and freedom of a much younger man.

FRENCH BIRTH RATE PAST OLD FIGURE

Only Country Which Has Got Back To Pre-War Birth Rate.

PARIS December 29. — Canadian Press. — France is the only country of all those engaged in the Great War, which has succeeded in establishing its birthrate at pre-war figures, M. Durafour, the Minister of Labor, told the Chamber of Deputies yesterday in contradicting the general impression that France's birthrate has fallen.

"The figures for 1924, show that France in that year surpass[illegible] the 1913 average," M. Durafour said. "There were 191 birth to every 10,000 inhabitants in 1913, and 192 in 1924. In other countries there have been notable decreases in the birth rate, especially in England, where the rate has fallen [illegible] 241 births per 10,000 [illegible] the war to 188."

OBITUARY.

CHARLES ALLEN.

Charles Allen, a highly respected resident of Lindsay, passed away December 17th at the home of his son, James Allen, 66 Victoria Ave., in his ninety-third year. The deceased gentleman had lived under the reign of four sovereigns, namely, King George IV, Queen Victoria, King Edward VII and King George V. He was a loyal son of the old land, despite the fact that he had lived for over forty years in Canada. He was a native of Tewkesbury, Gloucestershire, England. In the early eighties, the deceased for a time worked as carpenter on what is known as the missing link, a section of the old Midland railway, between Omemee and Peterborough. Afterwards he took up farming in Harvey township, where he resided for some years, where was was well known. In 1919 he went to live in Lindsay with his son. His wife predeceased him six years ago. In religion he was an Anglican. DIED IN JAIL FIRE.

Drunk Locked Up at Own Request.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Fire which destroyed the Lakeside Woods City Jail early Sunday, burned to death Fred. Kulju, a boy of 20, who obtained too much moonshine while attending a dance, and on his own request had been placed in jail until he recovered. Coroner Phil Keiser, who investigated the fire, said he believed Kulju was smoking and fired the bedding.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Irving R. Hignet, aged 28, of London and Toronto, Ont., Detroit, Mich., and Montreal, lecturer for the "Kanadian Ku Klux Klan" and "a human dynamo," according to the business card found on his person, was placed under arrest this week-end, and this morning appeared before Judge Perreault in Arraignment Court charged with evading a board bill of $53.45 at a local hotel. He pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence on December 31.

PEACE RIVER IS STILL DOUBTFUL

Appeal Made To Alberta Supreme Court For Order to Judge.

NO PROPER POLL.

EDMONTON, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—An appeal against Judge Mahaffy's decision in the Peace River Federal Election recount under which D. M. Kennedy, Progressive, was declared elected over James A. Collins, Conservative, by a majority of 17, will be heard by a judge of the Supreme Court of Alberta on Saturday morning next. In the case of the Peace River recount, the point under which direction to Judge Mahaffy is sought is that he shall exclude from his total of ballots cast, as checked over at the recount, those cast at Paddle River poll. At that poll, it is claimed, a deputy returning officer was not properly appointed, no proper poll was held, and no proper return made to the returning officer, which would warrant him in including in his totals, the ballots cast at the poll.

Should Judge Mahaffey be directed to ignore the Paddle River ballots he would then declare Mr. Collins elected by a majority of 41 over Mr. Kennedy.

For the Board of Education

TO THE ELECTORS:

In yielding to the persuasion of citizens to offer my services as a member of the Board, I wish to make my position in regard to the Collegiate Institute absolutely clear.

I am utterly and flatly opposed to the expenditure of the large sum in the building programme until the people have been given an opportunity to express their opinion by means of the ballot.

If I am honored by your confidence, my policy on the Board of Education will be to urge that the Council be asked to submit the question to the ratepayers, rather than to endeavor to have the building proposal ratified by the Council itself, with no mandate from the people.

Under the pressure of high taxation, it becomes necessary to surround the assumption of new and heavy expenditures with every possible safeguard, and in the case of the new C[illegible] tute, these must include the submission of the issue [illegible] ers.

BETTER QUALITY THE KEY.

The policy laid down by Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, in his address to the Rotary Club yesterday as the most important duty of the Department of Agriculture will appeal to business men as well as to farmers as common sense and businesslike.

Briefly, Mr. Martin's idea of the responsibility of his department is that every effort should be made to improve the quality of Ontario's agricultural products to such an extent that they can be sent out to the world, stamped with the approval of the Provincial Government and guaranteeing to the purchaser first-class goods.

The Minister says that the world is flooded with second-rate goods, and that the quality product is always in demand and always sure of top prices.

He has proven his theory by examining Ontario apples, stamping them with a Government mark of approval and sending them to the British market where they succeeded in bringing a price $2.50 more per barrel than the Nova Scotia product.

There seems to be much that can be done for agricultural products along the same line, and Mr. Martin is on the right path in pleading for better quality as the key by which the world's markets are to be opened wide by Ontario.

EXCELLENT SERVICE.

For the time being, at least, Mayor J. J. Turner is retiring from the public service after two years' good work in the chief executive's chair.

The general verdict is that Mr. Turner has proven an excellent Mayor.

He has taken a deep interest in almost every aspect of municipal and community affairs, has seen to it as presiding officer that the proceedings of the Council were carried out with proper dignity, decorum and despatch, has advanced a number of constructive ideas of general value and in general has been "always on the job" as chief magistrate.

The Mayor of a city has many calls upon his time, inasmuch as, in addition to the business that comes directly under the direction of the Council, he is a member of various civic bodies, including the Police Commission, Board of Health, etc., while there are so many functions of a public and semi-public nature at which the presence of the Mayor is in demand that the incumbent of the chair, if he gives proper attention to his manifold duties, is making a considerable sacrifice.

Mayor Turner has faithfully answered these various calls, and busy man though he is in private life, has never failed to measure up to his responsibilities as head of civic affairs.

For this sacrifice of time and this expenditure of energy on behalf of his fellow-citizens Mayor Turner has earned the thanks of the community.

A GOOD SHOWING.

Sir Henry Thornton, head of the Canadian National Railways, has produced a very acceptable Yuletide gift for the National stocking in the report of the operations of the Government-owned system during November.

Apart from last' father Sir Henry's figures show an op[illegible]ker, veteran hockey [illegible]0,884, which represents an in[illegible]th the Victoria Cougars, [illegible]3.13 per cent., over Novem[illegible]lived 56 years in Port Arthur, [illegible]7, or 39.54 per cent., over other children survive.

AXE VICTIM MAY [illegible]ding in the assurance it gives SASKATOON, Dec. 29.—[illegible]gressive management Can[illegible]sportation line can be James E. Johnston, victim [illegible]rovement. Christmas night axe attack in[illegible] been decreased during home, lay in City Hospital Mon[illegible] hovering on the line that divides built and the net earn[illegible]ard death, no appreciable [illegible]ar, if December's showing is as good as the average for the first eleven months of 1925, will reach the comfortable figure of approximately $35,000,000. The total for the first eleven months is $26,916,205.

Of course, these figures have nothing to do with the fixed charges, which this year amount to between $65,000,000 and $70,000,000, which will leave a net loss to the treasury of $35,000,000 for the year.

But the splendid showing from the viewpoint of the operating surplus during 1925 gives bright hopes for the future.

The Government system may be nearer the end of deficits that many people imagine.

WHY NOT MAKE IT SAFE AND SANE?

One aspect of the Sunday bathing question that has not been touched upon in public discussion is that the youngsters themselves are an important element in the issue.

The average swim[illegible]oy cannot be kept out of the [illegible]ter on a hot Sunday by a dozen City Councils.

He will go swimming either with or without parental consent, and if civic dressing-rooms are closed and no protection is available, he'll take a chance on undressing behind a pile of lumber or a park bench or a tree or a boathouse, and he'll take greater chances by swimming in dangerous places where no help is available in the event of an accident.

The question is not really, then, whether or not there should be Sunday bathing, but whether or not there should be supervised Sunday bathing with dressing-room accommodation for the bathers.

The boys of Peterboro might much better be allowed to swim in safe areas under the eye of caretakers and with dressing-rooms open to them than to be driven to points along the river where no protection is available.

Sunday swimming will go on no matter what Friday's vote may decide.

Why not allow [illegible]and go on under safe and decent conditions?

That is a view of the situation the Examiner commends to the voters as worthy of consideration when they are expressing their opinion on this question on New Year's Day.

PAYING TOO GREAT A PRICE.

A despatch from Scranton told of Christmas gifts in the homes of many of the miners who have been on strike for months. The gifts distributed were not those usually carried in a pack on the day before Christmas, but consisted of food, clothing, boots and shoes for the families of many of the miners who had been brought to a state of privation because strike pay was not as substantial as regular wages.

This condition had been fairly well concealed until a day or so before Christmas, when it was announced that an appeal was being made by the President of the central labour organization in United States on behalf of the wives and children of the striking miners. The miners had not only brought hard times to themselves, but transferred it as well to their families.

The desperate circumstances in which these families now find themselves means that the power of further resistance has been reduced to a very low point. It introduces an element that is greater than the merits or demerits of the case, and undoubtedly puts the mine owners in a position to name most of the conditions on which the new agreement will be named. The miners are not in as strong a position to present their case as they were the day they went out on strike.

The anthracite strike was regarded as a test of strength from the outset. The operators had plenty of financial backing, and, what was more important, they had large reserves of coal above ground which were disposed of at prices which represented a good profit. The miners also had a strong organization, well organized and with a large strike fund. The difference was that the day the strike started the income of the miners in the way of wages ceased and they began at once to deplete their reserves by drawing from them in strike pay. It did not take any profound method of calculation to see that the miners had pitted their energies in an unequal struggle. Strike pay does not improve the morale of those who receive it, because it represents a very much decreased standard of living. The entire family of the miner feels the privation, and the fact that so little has been heard about the suffering is indicative of the resolute spirit in which the whole mining community, men, women and children, have faced the struggle.

The history of strikes is that they are not worth the investment. That does not mean that there have not been strikes that were fully justified by conditions that men could not tolerate, but many of these circumstances have been overcome, and there is machinery in existence today that works very well in bringing all the facts to the surface, and recommendations based on such findings are very powerful agencies for fair dealing.

The strike is too expensive a weapon for workers to employ. If what has been gained by its use were placed against what has been expended it would be found that the price paid had been too great. In the present instance there will be an agreement made, and there will not likely be a clause in it that could not have been arranged the day the strike was declared. From the point of the men they were in better shape to negotiate then than now.—London Advertiser.

SUPERFLUOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Reduction of Government departments and Cabinet portfolios is said to be under consideration by the Government. The reason for such consideration, as it exists, is clear: The Government seeks to make an administrative virtue out of what has become almost a political necessity—fewer Cabinet positions, fewer by-elections, with less danger to the Ministry.

Yet, whatever the motive, the end sought is desirable. Canada has too many Government departments and too many Cabinet Ministers. She has, for example, twice as many Cabinet Ministers as the United States, which has eleven times her population, dependencies to administer, and a great army and navy. She has almost as many Ministers as Great Britain, which has no Provincial Ministers, which has four times Canada's population, and whose administration encircles the globe.

Why, for instance, do we need a Solicitor General? In England, a Solicitor General goes into the courts and earns his money pleading Government cases. Who ever heard of a Canadian Solicitor General doing that within the last ten years? As a matter of clear fact the Solicitor Generalship is a pure sinecure; it is simply a branch of the Department of Justice; it shouldn't be anything else.

We don't need a Seretary of State. In other countries the Secretary of State looks after foreign policy; he is the Minister for Foreign Affairs. In Canada foreign affairs are under the External Affairs Department—looked after by the Prime Minister. All that the Secretary of State does, so far as we know, is to try to look busy in Parliament, and to put his signature to the incorporation of companies—which could be done by Trade and Commerce.

Immigration and Interior ought to be one department. They were ten years ago, when the Interior Department had really more to do than now, and when we were getting more immigrants than now. And if any further evidence be desired as to the superfluity of an Immigration Minister, it is found in the fact that we have just had a brand new immigration policy—declared to be the best ever—while the Immigration Department has no Minister at all.

Railways and Canals and Public Works are all public works, and should have but one Minister. In truth, since naval affairs and fisheries protection have been handed over to the Department of Defence, and since Quebec has been given control of its own fisheries, Fisheries, Railways and Canals and Public Works might very well all be amalgamated.

Then there is Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. Canada was one of the few countries in the world which established a separate department and a separate Cabinet Minister to re-establish her soldiers. Perhaps it was wise in the first place, but the idea of maintaining a separate Minister years after the war, and when practically all our soldiers have been swallowed up into civil life, is ridiculous. Whatever work remains to be done can be done by the Department of Defence—certainly not overworked.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

"Vote as you like, but vote."

Remember, the daylight saving question will be decided by ballot on Friday, not by petitions presented next summer.

The New Year's vote, with so many issues involved, should be the biggest municipal vote on record here.

Electors are given two choices for every aldermanic vacancy to be filled. There is not usually so much latitude offered the local voters.

At least the weather recently has given prophets who foretold a cold winter to say, "I told you so."

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, December 28. — Canadian Press. — The top price paid for a few heavy export steers was $8.50 a cwt. One good export bull brought $5.75 a cwt. Bunches of good mixed 1000 lb. butchers' sold at $6.75 to $6.90 a cwt. Fair quality butchers' were $6 to $6.25 a cwt. The prices on butchers' cows were steady and there were few above good mediums on sale. Only four loads of stockers were in to-day and one of these brought $5.25 a cwt. To-day's supply will be mostly sold out to-day.

There were two few calves to permit the Buffalo buyers to operate, but prices held just about steady. Top calves made 13c, good calves 12c and mediums averaged 10c a lb.

Lambs were firmer. A small select bunch sold at 14½c, good lambs brought 14c and fair quality ewes and wethers 13½c a lb. Sheep were steady at 7c a lb. for good butchers'.

There were only 500 on the market this morning and it could scarcely be called a market. The sellers were asking 25c a cwt. higher at $1. a cwt. f.o.b. and there did not seem much doubt that this would be paid.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK.

WINNIPEG, Man., December 29. —Receipts 1015 cattle and calves, 715 hogs and 6 sheep.

Trading was brisk on the cattle market this morning and prices worked to higher levels, with killing classes 25c to 50c stronger.

The hog market ranged higher; thick smooths $12.75 and select bacons at a premium of 10 per cent.

Sheep and lambs were insufficient to establish a market.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, December 28. — Canadian Press. — Heavy selling out to realize profits did a good deal to force a set back in wheat prices today, and so too did 2,729,000 bushels enlargement of the United States visible supply. The wheat market closed irregular at 1½c net decline to 3-4c advance, new style, Dec. $1.84½ and May $1.78½ to $1.78 5-8; corn finished 1 3-8c off to 3-8 up; oats 5-8 to 3-4 to 1¼c lower, and provisions varying from 5c drop to 3c gain.

Despite a general buying rush at the start wheat values soon began to give way under the burden of realizing sales which developed. The reaction however did not commence until all deliveries here had scored a new high price record for the season. To-day's fresh incentive for buying was strength in foreign markets, notably Buenos Aires, together with reports of rain in Central and southern Argentina, where the harvest is progressing and dry weather needful. On the other hand the extreme rapidity of the price advance in the last few days had brought about a change of outlook among many traders.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 28. Canadian Press. — Increasing receipts continue to be the chief feature of the egg market. Christmas poultry market cleaned up with good strength in most centres although St. John reported a slump.

Toronto unchanged. Country shippers paying extras 45 to 47; firsts 35 to 37; seconds 25 to 27, and making sales extras 47 to 48; firsts 37 to 38, seconds 27 to 28 f.o.b.

Montreal increased local production and lower American markets have brought about a decided price decline. Jobbing fresh extras 68; firsts 63.

Winnipeg egg and poultry markets unchanged; car of storage seconds rolling Montreal from Winnipeg costing 30½ delivered.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que. — ember 29. —Canadian Press. — Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats were quoted at 52c; No. 3 white at 50½c and No. 4 white at 49½c per bushel ex-store.

In sympathy with the continued light offerings of winter wheat flour from Ontario millers couple with the small stocks held on spot the market was stronger and prices were advanced 20c per barrel. The trade in white corn flour was very quiet and prices were unchanged at $6.80 to $7 per barrel in jute bags, delivered to the trade.

There were no further developments in the local egg situation, prices for strictly fresh being steady at the recent decline noted owing to the much colder weather prevailing throughout the country here and in the United States. The movement continues fair for domestic consumption. The receipts of eggs were 1,423 cases, as compared with 176 for the same day last week, and 159 for the corresponding day a years ago. The receipts last week were 1,395 cases, as against 2,402 for the previous week, and 5,939 for the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1, 1925, to December 26, 1925, were 350,487 cases, as compared with 397,872 for the same period last year.

Advance in Potatoes.

Owing to the renewed demand from the United States for Canadian potatoes on account of the shortage of supplies, a stronger feeling has developed in the local market and prices have advanced 10c to 25c per bag. The volume of business here has not been large, but there is a little more activity in the market and the prospects are more encuraging for the future as the very cold weather prevailing will tend to curtail supplies from coming forward.

The receipts of butter were 537 packages, as compared with 272 for the same day last week, and 312 for

A THOUGHT.

WHAT IS A FRIEND?

What is a friend? I will tell you. It is a person with whom you dare to be yourself. Your soul can be naked with him. He seems to ask you to put on nothing, only to be what you are. He does not want you to be better or worse. When you are with him you feel as a prisoner feels who has been declared innocent. You do not have to be on your guard. You can say what you think, so long as it is genuinely you. He understands those contradictions in your nature that lead others to misjudge you. With him you breathe freely. You can drop your little vanities and envies and hates and cherished lies; your meannesses and abjectnesses and shames, and, in owning them, destroy them. They are accepted as the rubbish of the ocean of his loyalty. He understands. You do not have to be careful. You can abuse him, neglect him, tolerate him. Best of all, you can keep still with him. It makes no matter. He likes you—He is like fire that purges to the bone. He understands. He understands. You can weep with him, sin with him, laugh with him, pray with him. Through it all—and underneath—he sees, knows and loves you. A friend? What is a friend? Just one, I repeat, with whom you dare to be yourself.

Manufacturers Announce a NEW TIRE WARRANTY

Effective January First, 1926

THE Tire Manufacturers of Canada are putting into effect on January 1st a new policy of great importance and advantage to the motorists of Canada. Thereafter, every pneumatic tire will be guaranteed for 90 days—solid tires for 180 days—from date of first road-wear, against defects of material and workmanship. The unfair basis of adjustment, which has survived from the early days of the industry, is abolished.

Tires of standard make now give such high average mileage—two to three times the maximum mileage of tires in the days when the old basis of adjustment was established—that the 90-day warranty, with its benefits to the public and to the industry, now becomes possible. If a tire contains a defect, it will show within 90 days. A standard make of tire which discloses no defect during the first 90 days use, will give long mileage—barring accident or misuse.

The old adjustment basis developed flagrant abuses. Unprincipled merchandisers used it as bait to sell poor tires. Unprincipled motorists imposed dishonest adjustment claims upon tire dealers and tire manufacturers. The honest motorist paid for these, because adjustments have always been a factor in making tire prices.

To-day you buy standard tires with confidence, knowing that the manufacturer has no doubt as to their quality. You buy tires as you buy shoes, clothing, furniture—knowing that you get enduring value for every dollar you pay.

Manufacturers of the United States sell tires only under 90-day warranty, and have done so for the past 18 months. The twenty-five million motorists of the United States buy their tires under this plan. They are satisfied with it.

They have been freed, as you will be, from the adjustment burden of the dishonest motorist, and of the motorist who shortens the life of his tires by abuse.

Hereafter you will pay only for your tires; you will no longer be penalized by the operations of the professional adjustment-seeker.

The manufacturer will continue to take care of genuinely defective tires; the 90-day warranty period will enable him to do so.

DAMAGE IS HEAVY

Christmas Hamper Too Late to Save Starving Man.

(By Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29.—Since Christmas Eve local firemen have answered 48 alarms, bringing a toll of one dead, one injured, and heavy property damage, though in many cases the fires were of a minor nature.

STARVED TO DEATH

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 29.—Neighbors who called on Chris. Fisher, 43, Sunday, found him dying of malnutrition in his shack which was destitute of all necessities except the remains of a Christmas hamper. He died before a doctor arrived. His brother, in Manchester, England, has been notified.

MAYOR'S SALARY INCREASED

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 29.—Over the protests of Mayor J. Carl Pendray against any increase being made in the salary of the chief magistrate for Victoria, the aldermen have decided that the pre-war pay of $4,000 yearly should come into effect with the year 1926. A $1,000 reduction was voluntarily made in 1915 by Mayor Alex. Stewart.

NEW THICK IN THIEVERY

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29—Alleged to have expeditiously removed the head of his bedfellow from his pillow by tickling him under the nose with a feather, George Luchuk is in jail here. He stole $50 from beneath the pillow.

INDIAN FORGED CHEQUE

SARNIA, Dec. 29.—Isaac Ireland, 17-year-old Muncie Indian, pleaded guilty in County Police Court Monday to a charge of uttering a forged cheque for $4.75 at the town of Forest on October 6, and was sentenced by Magistrate Woodrow to a term of three to nine months imprisonment. The sentence will run concurrently with a penalty of one year meted out by Magistrate Gorman for the theft of a bicycle.

BROCKVILLE ICE BRIDGE

AXE VICTIM MAY DIE

SASKATOON, Dec. 29.—While James E. Johnston, victim of a Christmas night axe attack in his home, lay in City Hospital Monday, hovering on the line that divides life and death, no apparent progress was made toward a solution of the most remarkable crime that has occurred in Saskatoon in many years. Police were waiting for the victim's wife to become sufficiently composed to be further questioned, in an effort to elicit sufficient information so that a start could be made toward finding the would-be murderer.

Fifty years ago England had 13 penal servitude prisons and 113 local prisons, now there are only four penal servitude and 13 local prisons. During the same period the prison population has been reduced from 30,000 to 10,000.

38 BELOW ZERO AT LAKEFIELD

At Least C. S. Tanner's Thermometer Was Extremely Sensitive Sunday.

27 AT APSLEY.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29.—On Sunday morning the thermometer certainly hit the low spots, registering 38 deg. below zero at Mr. C. S. Tanner's house on Water Street in the early morning. A fall of fine snow in the afternoon and evening brought a higher temperature, and Monday morning saw the thermometer only a few degrees below the zero mark.

WARMER AT APSLEY.

APSLEY, Dec. 29. — Real winter weather set in on Christmas night, the lowest point reached being 23 below zero. The highest point registered during Saturday was 3 below, the temperature falling again at night to 27 below, and not rising above zero all day Sunday. Sleighing is at its very best, the official reading of the depth of snow on the level being given as nine inches.

VOTE ON SUSPENSION.

N. H. L. Clubs Consider Option of Fine.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 — (Canadian Press).—A telegraphic vote is being taken by members of the National Hockey League on a suggested change of the League rule which automatically suspends a player who receives a third major penalty. The vote is being taken by President Calder on request of the Montreal Maroon Club, which is said to be in favor of the president imposing a fine instead of a suspension.

A wire to this effect was received yesterday by President Frank Ahearn of the Ottawa Hockey Association from President Calder. Mr. Ahearn stated that the Ottawa Hockey Association was opposed to any change of the present rule which was made in the interest of clean sport and the penalty as provided is a real punishment for offenders, whereas a fine would be more or less farcical.

MANILA VILLAGE HOUSES BURNED

Two Residences and Outbuildings Destroyed—Business Block Saved.

LOSS HEAVY.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 29. — (Special).—A strong northwest gale and zero weather fanned a bad fire which broke out in the home of Laughlin Keeler at Manila village about twelve miles from Lindsay at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

Laughlin Keeler's residence and contents were completely destroyed, together with the residence of John Ferguson, and its contents and an outbuilding with contents. Only by the greatest efforts of the villagers who formed a bucket brigade was a large business block saved from destruction. The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss will be heavy and only partly covered by insurance.

A HOCKEY SURPRISE.

Proposed New League Unknown to Hammond.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press)—Colonel John S. Hammond, director of hockey at the Madison Square Garden, and spokesman for New York's National League Club, professed surprise Monday at reports from Montreal that a metropolitan syndicate was seeking a franchise in the League for Brooklyn.

"The New York Club, operating at Madison Square Garden, has exclusive rights to the metropolitan territory," Colonel Hammond said. "No other league club could be established here without our sanction. As a matter of fact, we hold two franchises for this district, only one of which is now effective."

Colonel Hammond and other hockey officials professed ignorance of the existence of the syndicate reported to be angling for the Brooklyn franchise or the identity of its representative, James Villeneuve.

OPPOSITION TO BRIAND STRONG IN HIS CABINET

Radical Group of Seven Ministers Against Doumer's Scheme.

CRISIS DEFERRED

Premier Purposes Fighting Financial Issue to Decision.

PARIS, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—The cabinet crisis, delayed insistently because of Christmas week, now appears likely to be delayed until the Chamber reconvenes for the regular session January 12.

"I have been thrown down too often to quit now," was Premier Briand's comment on the situation Monday afternoon. This was interpreted as meaning that the Premier intends to fight the issue out and resist the indirect pressure which is being brought to bear on him by the groups of the Left, either to give up the helm of government or throw his Minister of Finance overboard.

M. Briand declared that he was going to do everything in his power to bring about a conciliatory solution of the question and would make every effort to retain in his cabinet any members disposed to leave it. He was thought to refer to the radical members of the government, who are maintaining stout opposition to M. Doumer's financial measures.

The situation thus reverts to the period when M. Painleve introduced his measures for financial renovation and encountered opposition from the groups of the left. The issue then was between the partisans and opponents of a capital levy, the question now is between those preferring direct taxes to indirect taxes.

Radicals in Cabinet.

The line-up on either side is much the same, but with the difference that the Radical group, which is opposing M. Doumer's scheme for an increase in direct taxes, has seven men in the cabinet. M. Painleve ceded to the Left coalition and was overthrown by the Chamber. M. Briand thus far has refused to submit to the conditions of the Left groups in the Chamber ,and risks being overthrown in his own cabinet.

Behind the parliamentary manoeuvering against the cabinet, political experts aver, is the desire of the Left block to get rid of both Doumer and Briand and pave the way for the return of M. Herriot. The Socialist leaders seem to entertain a slight hope that in default of M. Herriot they may be called upon to take over the power. The question of their participation in the exercise of the executive power will be decided so far as the Socialist policy is concerned by the national congress of the party on January 10.

The groups of the Left, which muster 280 votes out of an effective strength of 576 in the Chamber, introduced their financial measures this morning, thus gaining a lap on the government. Official circles, however, are little moved by this advantage, as the haste with which the bills were introduced is regarded as contrasting much with the reluctance the same parties voted measures of similar import which were presented by the previous government.

Partial Solution.

M. Doumer rejects the plan of the Left groups because he insists it is only a partial solution of the problem, and likely to fail even to balance the budget, which would still be susceptible to fluctuations of exchange. He contends that the whole problem of financial restoration must be settled in comprehensive measures which would assure stabilization of the franc; otherwise successive Ministers of Finance will be called upon indefinitely to struggle with the problem.

MUST HAVE LIQUOR.

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Says Government Can't Stop It.

ST. CATHARINE ISLAND, Georgia, Dec. 29—(United Press.)—If the people continue to demand liquor, it will be almost impossible for the Government to prevent it from reaching the market", assistant secretary of the treasury Andrews said here today during his inspection trip along the South Atlantic coast.

"The law will be enforced when the people want want it enforced and not until then," he said.

DEFENDS CHINESE.

Not "Lazy Fatalists" Oriental Asserts.

SASKATOON, Sask., Dec. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Denial that the Chinese are a race of "lazy fatalists," which he said they were often accused by occidentals of being, was made by W. C. Hu at the morning session Monday of the student Christian movement here. Mr. Hu compared Chinese and occidental religions, remarking that the history of Western civilization has been one of aggression and conquest in the search for food, due to climatic and soil conditions, while in China, with more equable conditions, the Confucianist religions of the people was equable and peaceful as were the people themselves. He said that Christianity had done much to temper the war-like spirit of the occident. Mr. Hu is studying for his doctor of philosophy degree at Harvard.

MINISTER ATTACKED.

Another Incident in Union Aftermath.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 29. (Canadian Press).—Rev. D. T. Lancaster, minister in charge of St. John's Church, Pittsburgh, which is at present figuring in litigation regarding whether or not the congregation is subservient to the Continuing Presbyterian Church or an independent body, had an unpleasant experience with several men who were in attendance at the morning service held by the Continuing Presbyterians Sunday when, it is alleged, he was roughly handled. Mrs. Lancaster witnessed the occurrence, and rushed from the manse to the assistance of her husband. Rev. Mr. Lancaster yesterday was closeted with his legal advisor discussing every aspect of the affair.

DRUGGIST CHARGED.

Accused of Selling Morphine in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—As the result of evidence adduced in the case of Dr. Paul E. Marier, of Hull, charged with selling morphine, and who is awaiting judgment in his case, Detective Paul H. Miller of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, yesterday laid two charges against James Hardy Grant, druggist, Ottawa. Mr. Grant is charged with selling a drug to an unauthorized person and also with selling drugs and neglecting to keep a record of the sale.

In Police Court before Magistrate Hopewell, Mr. Grant was arraigned and remanded until January 4 for trial. No pleas were entered.

FATAL CRASH.

Automobile Skidded on to Railway Tracks in Front of Train.

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Dec. 29. —(Canadian Press.) — One man was killed and another suffered probably fatal injuries Monday when an automobile in which four Pawtucket, R.I., bricklayers, were going to their work at North Adington, skidded on to the railroad tracks here and was struck by a train.

MOUNTAINS MOVED BY POSTAL STAFF

Mountains of Mail in Busiest Christmas.

More than 100,000 letters whirred through the automatic stamping machine at the post office at the height of the Christmas mail rush. This was the registration of outgoing letters, virtually all of them from this city, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

The Thursday count and also the totals for the previous Sunday and other days that swept a strong tide of letters and parcels through the local office, were not recorded.

However, that 100,000 figure for three days indicates the volume of mail handled by Post Master Lacheur's staff. It may be assumed that there was an equal number of letters received for local distribution during those three days thereby doubling the card and letter figures. Include Thursdays mail and that of other days within the holiday period, and the total volume of letters coming into Peterboro and going out must have been close to 250,000. Added to that were the parcels, mountains of them that required additional help and long hours overtime to keep moving. Only the orderliness and systematic efficiency of the postal staff could prevent the flood of mail becoming a hopeless muddle. It was the busiest Christmas the local office has experienced, and the limited space for sorting and racking hampered the efforts of the staff. And on top of the holiday mail a Toronto departmental store dumped stacks of catalogues that bore down so much more heavily on the clerks and carriers.

Date-and-nut cakes are made with one cupful of flour, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of nut meats, chopped, one cupful of dates cut into very small pieces, three eggs and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat whites of eggs and yolks separately, add half the sugar to each and beat again. Combine mixtures and add flour, baking powder, nuts and dates. Pour into a greased shallow pan and make in moderate oven. When cold cut into two-inch squares for serving.

TWO MEMBERS HOLD ONE SEAT

Spotton Already Gazetted For North Huron—King To Be Gazetted.

DECISION TO HOUSE.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 29. —(Canadian Press).—Possibility of two rival candidates in the last general election taking seats in the House at the opening of Parliament next week, each as an officially gazetted member for the one constituency, presents itself in the case of North Huron. The unique situation is said to be without precedent in Canadian politics.

George W. Spotton, Conservative has already been gazetted as member-elect for North Huron but following the recent decision of the Supreme Court of Ontario in favor of his opponent John W. King, ordering the acceptance of certain ballots marked for him but with counter foils attached, a further return has now been received showing the election of Mr. King. Mr. Kings election, will consequently, be also gazetted in the coming issue of the Canadian Gazette.

The chief electoral officer, it is understood, will prepare a report for Parliament showing the return of both Mr. King and Mr. Spotton and placing the circumstances before the House.

SCARLETT—HILL.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A few weeks ago an interesting dispatch was sent out by the Heralds' College of London. It told about an ancient document, dating back to the sixteenth century. This professed to trace the genealogy of the Saxon kings back to Adam and Eve.

It is disclosed that Adam died of "ye gowte" and was buried in Hebron. The dispatch did not say whether Adam might have survived if he had eaten an apple a day to keep the doctor away.

It would be perfectly natural for a sixteenth century English writer to attribute Adam's death to "ye gowte." A large percentage of persons dying in England in that time died of gout.

I don't believe Adam died of gout. He was too much of a vegetarian for that. Alcohol and overfeeding were not included in the vices of Adam's day. Heredity, too, is an important factor in gout development. Poor Adam could not place "ye gowte" at the door of an ancestor! Since he reached the ripe age of 930 years, my guess is Adam died of old age. Methuselah beat him by less than forty years.

In gout we observe a number of symptoms, chief of which is an inflammation of the joint of the big toe. course it might attack some other joint, but this is the classical symptom.

There always exists a tendency to the disease, but there are exciting causes. Among these are indiscretions in eating and drinking. A big dinner with many courses of rich food and many kinds of alcoholic beverages, or too much of one variety, may bring on the attack.

Where the tendency to gout exists, a slight injury, or a severe mental shock, may bring it on. The victim of this inheritance may be brought low by it at any time his resistance is down.

There is an old saying, "once gouty, always gouty." Even so, there can be escape from the misery of this ailment, by leading a model life. Temperance is essential. This means temperance in eating, as well as total abstinence as regards liquor.

I have told you lots of times that a man lives on one-third of what he eats and his doctor on the other two thirds. The gouty person should not forget this. It is all important to reduce the intake of food.

The mineral waters are counted of value in controuling gout. Undoubtedly they are useful, but plain water is, too. The gouty subject should drink lots of water. Lemonade, or rather lemon and water, will be a useful addition to the dietary.

Apples and other fruits of the orchard and garden are useful. They kept Adam well and they will help you to avoid gout.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By Barbara Bayne

JOHN N. WILLYS—THE MOTOR MAGNATE.

Born in a little New York village in 1837, John N. Willys early developed a mania for business and had had a varied career in testing his earning power before he had donned long trousers. He succeeded in everything he tackled except one—despite his persuasive tongue and fine personality, he fell down as a book agent.

At sixteen years of age, with a chum he opened a laundry in Seneca and, contrary to his parents' expectations, he succeeded, though he did not know how to go about cashing the first check for $6 offered in payment.

Realizing the need of more education, he sold out, returned home and buckled down to his studies. His father's death, however, compelled him to face life, not in the spirit of adventure, but with grim earnestness.

Bicycles had just come in. Johnny Willys bought one to demonstrate with and at the age of eighteen years opened a combination store and repair shop. He was going on high gear when the silver rumpus in 1896 bowled him over.

He Opened a Laundry.

Then he went on the road as a salesman, and during the Klondike rush one of his customers, anxious to join the gold seekers, offered his $2,500 business to Willys for $500. And he became the proprietor of the Elmira Arms Company.

Then came the automobile—and financial history. In 1902 Willys formed the Motor Sales Company and undertook the sale of the whole output of the American and Overland companies, both located in Indianapolis.

The Overland had been in business six years, and its banner year had had a total output of forty-seven cars. Came the panic, and Willys, with an order for 500 cars, raced for Indianapolis, reaching there just twenty-four hours ahead of the hour set for the Overland to go into the receiver's hands.

Right there Willys showed his financial ability. In a strange city, without even the small amount necessary—$350—he hustled around and got it. Though he knew it not, he had opened the gate to millionairedom.

In January, 1908, Willys became president, treasurer, general manager, sales manager and about everything else of the Toledo Motor Company and moved the plant to Toledo, Ohio.

By the following October he had manufactured and sold 465 cars. Today the plant turning out the Knight occupies 100 acres, and the output is in excess of 2,000,000 cars per year.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 30.

A day of obstacles and disappointment is forecast from the prevailing lunar transits. Saturn, Mars, Neptune and the luminaries are in unfavorable aspect for rendering much assistance. It might be well to pay attention to the health, to be on guard against treachery and fraud, and it is admonished that serious difficulties may follow and indulgence in rash acts and hasty speech. Those in the employment of others are urged to safeguard their positions.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year of difficulties, setbacks and reverses, unless they care for the health, guard against fraud, protect their employment and govern their speech and conduct. A child born on this day is likely to be rash, headstrong and quarrelsome, consequently may have difficulties in business and employment.

CONDEMNED DANCING.

Leads To Sin Priest Warns Flock.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press).—The spectacle of "half dressed girls, wriggling like rattlesnakes," is greatly deplored by Monsigneur W. L. Jubinville, who in a sermon at St. Boniface Cathedral, scored modern dancing and its devotees.

Asking "where does society get its permission to sin?" Mgr. Jubinville declared: "Jazz is brutal and the dances that accompany it animal. These dances are leading you to sin.

"If you want to go to hell it's your own business, but first it is my duty to warn you. To you 'young five cent sport' I will say it is not the dances themselves that are sinful, it is the thoughs they bring with them."

THE ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Do you believe in the scientific determination of destiny?

The Examiner has secured the services of a local expert in the science of drawing from a few basic facts a great amount of information that will be helpful and interesting to you. This gentleman, who for obvious reasons desires to remain anonymous under the pen-name "The Oracle", has made a deep study of the science. It is a fascinating study, founded on facts that no one can dispute. It is one of the oldest of the sciences, revived through much reading and application to ancient tables and writings.

And the knowledge of the ages is offered to Examiner readers free of all cost.

All You Must Do

is fill in the attached form and mail it to "The Oracle", The Examiner Office, 419 George street, Peterborough. Initials only will be used in The Examiner. If you desire a personal reply, enclose a stamped envelope.

Please note that full information can be based only on the complete particulars. Here is what is offered:

When full particulars are given:

The significance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success; how you must act to gain happiness; whether the date named is an auspicious one on which to take an important step; your particular color; where to apply your efforts and where you will best succeed.

Please Remember

that the full name and full date of birth must be given, such as: "John Robert Doe, 12 March, 1899." In seeking advice on a particular day, state the date, month, and year.

And Take Warning

that "The Oracle" will not sugar-coat his pills. If you desire only pleasant things brought to your attention, do not send your inquiries to him. If there is a warning to be issued, "The Oracle" will give it; if there is a bad trait to be corrected, "The Oracle" will warn you of it.

No full names will be printed in The Examiner, only initials or pennames as given being used. And any information given to "The Oracle" will be kept confidentially. Replies will appear as soon as possible.

Full name .....

Birth date: (day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

Would the following date be an auspicious one for me to enter into an mportant transaction or engagement?

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

D. A. A.—You are subject to change and uncertainty, in spite of the fact that you have great mental and physical powers. Your name characteristics, however, are supported by strong birth features which show creative powers. You must guard against attempting to domineer or "lord" it over others. You are too young to have strongly developed traits indicating business ability, etc. The day of which you enquire will be uneventful; it is a good day on which to commence a journey or a holiday. Your color is flame. You were born on a Friday.

J. A.—Yours are characteristics of high individuality and you will make a success of business for yourself. You are especially fitted for pursuits of commerce or finance and are in a class with many who have amassed great personal fortunes. You have considerable personal attraction and will be successful in company. Cultivate the power of sticking to a task until it is done. Do not be fickle. You were born on a Monday. Your color is pink.

Loving One.—You will succeed by cleverness, not by force. You will be loved for your service to others. Your mentality is strong, active and originally creative. You are logical, but inclined to disregard the rights of others. You are quite buoyant and sanguine, and inclined to look on the bright side of things. While possessing a full share of reverence you have little use for creeds and ceremonies. You are affectionate, but have not the universal sympathy that makes friends of all the world. You have excellent talent for planning, and will make a beautiful home through your skill. The date of which you enquire is past. Your color is flame. You were born on a Saturday.

Twenty-one.—You are always at "outs" with the world and are generally disliked by your associates. You assume a gruffness that is not natural to you; have small chivalry; like to quarrel. You are satisfied with your job, while probably often objecting to features in it. Your ambition is stagnant. You need a shaking up to see the possibilities in life and learn life's obligations. There is no room or sympathy for the grouch in the present scheme of things, and he succeeds best who serves best. Try to see the best in people, after finding out the worst in yourself, and cultivate agreeableness. You were born on a Sunday, not Thursday as stated. Your color is yellow.

G. C.—You will find material success in life, and financial success will come through hard work. You have self-satisfaction and poise, but are not altogether satisfied with what life has given you. You are conservative, not given to new enterprise, and not seeking glory or renown for the sake of public approval. You have a good degree of self-respect, and detest underhand methods. You have good perception of first principles and ability to trace events to their causes. You are a practical observer of men, and your first opinions are seldom wrong. Assert your ability; don't be discouraged by set-backs. You were born on a Tuesday. Your color is steel.

G. D.—Yours are strong indications—soul of an artist and the sympathies of a philanthrophist. You may be trusted. You have excellent discriminative talents, and are quick to differentiate between true and false analogies. Your individual traits and qualities will be better developed in a couple of years. On the day of which you enquire you may confidently assume new obligations, but should not play games of chance. You were born on a Thursday. Your color is orange.

M. C. R.—Your destiny is to bring joy to others. You are witty in company, and never at a loss for the right word. You have creative power and tenacity, but are apt to be material in your aims. You have fair ability for taking on impressions, yet are not specially gifted in forecasting the results of certain actions. You have ability to work quickly with your hands and are neat and tidy in fabricating. You have selling ability, but need development. You were born on a Thursday. Your color is blue.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

— By Blanche Silver —

BETTY VISITS AN INTERESTING SCHOOL.

Betty scowled when her teacher came into the schoolroom late. Betty and the other children were just hoping the teacher wouldn't come at all so they would have a holiday.

Betty was just about to turn around to the little girl back of her to whisper, when a tiny hand touched her arm and there stood Go-comeback, the wee elfin from Travel Land at the side of her desk.

"My goodness, why don't you smile and bow pleasantly?" asked the elfin. "It's such a lovely day. Everyone should be happy."

"That's just it," said Betty crossly. "It's too nice to stay in school. We thought she wasn't coming and we'd have a holiday. So I don't feel like smiling and bowing."

"Well, you'd never do to go to a certain school I know of," declared Gocomeback. Before Betty could ask where the school was, she found herself floating beside the elfin through the school window, across the yard and down the road.

"Where are we going?" she asked, when she could get her breath.

"Right here," answered Gocomeback, as they lighted in a strange land.

Betty looked around and laughed merrily. She knew by the little girls and boys playing around the low building surrounded with cherry trees all in bloom, that they were standing in front of a Japanese schoolhouse. All the boys wore gray divided skirts. The girls wore about the same style skirts, except that they were fuller and much longer.

"I know we're in Japan," whispered Betty.

Just then the children were called into the building and Gocomeback and Betty followed them.

Before the children sat down in their seats, they all stood beside their desks. First the teacher bowed very low, then the children bowed still lower. The teacher bowed again, and took her seat, the children bowed once more, then all sat down and began their study.

Every time the teacher wanted the class to recite, she would rise and bow, then the children would follow her example, repeating the bowing at the end of each lesson. When it came time for recess, the teacher bowed and after returning the bow, the children passed out and formed a line at the door, standing very still. Down the line the teacher passed and when she reached the end, she turned and bowed once more. Every child in that line, including Betty, bowed. Then they all ran out to play.

"Goodness," laughed Betty, when she and Gocomeback were out in the open air once more. "No wonder the Japanese are so polite. They have to be. Well, I guess I'll practice part of it, anyway. It will make me feel better."

Then, like a flash, Japan and its dear little children vanished and Betty found herself once more in her seat at school. From that day on, Betty never forgot to bow and smile when her teacher came into the room.

WINNIPEG POTATOES UP.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press).—Potato prices advanced 15 cents a bushel here on Monday, and dealers intimated that a further rise was possible as a result of reduced supplies. The retail price was quoted yesterday at $1.50 a bushel.

The famous asphalt lake in Trinidad which is the world's chief source of supply is a huge mass of seething pitch, one hundred and ten acres in area. Although at least 4,000,000 tons of asphalt have been removed from the lake since its discovery, it has fallen only 15 feet, and experts believe that the supply is almost inexhaustible.

New Series by WYNNE FERGUSON
Author of "Ferguson on Auction Bridge"

ARTICLE No. 22

One of the amusing things about bridge is the fact that poor players will often lose tricks in the most ingenious manner. The writer was recently watching a game in which two spades was the final declaration. The declarer should have easily made four odd, game and rubber, but by some uncanny play failed to make his bid by one trick. After the hand was over, his partner said: "Well, partner, if you could only use the same skill in winning tricks that you do in losing them, you would be the best player in the world." Some time when this result happens to you, try to figure out how the tricks were lost and very often you will be unable to do so.

A bridge playing lady, a-joking,
Announced with a smile most provoking,
"As bidding I'm bad,
And my plays make you mad,
But—I really am great at revoking."

The first two of the problem hands in this article are of such a character that an analysis of the points involved can be better understood with the cards of all four players exposed.

Hand No. 1

Hearts — J, 7, 4
Clubs — K, 6, 5
Diamonds — K, J, 9, 7, 5
Spades — 8, 7

Hearts — Q, 8, 3	Y	Hearts — A, K, Q, 10, 5, 3
Clubs — J, 9, 7, 4, 2	A B	Clubs — 8, 3
Diamonds — 3		Diamonds — A, 8, 4
Spades — J, 9, 3, 2	Z	Spades — Q, 6

Hearts — 6
Clubs — A, Q, 10
Diamonds — Q, 10, 6, 2
Spades — A, K, 10, 5, 4

Score: YZ 10, AB nothing, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade. A and Y passed and B bid three hearts. Z and A passed, Y bid three spades and all passed. What should A opes? A has four trumps and should open his partner's suit. With three of the suit, he should open the top, in this case the nine. With this opening and a return lead of the hearts by B, YZ cannot make three spades. If, however, A opens his singleton, the trey of diamonds, YZ will easily make three odd. The point of the hand is: With trump strength, open your long suit. A singleton opening is advisable at times but don't make it if you have any other better opening.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — Q, J, 10
Clubs — A, Q, J, 9, 4
Diamonds — 6, 2
Spades — 8, 7, 3

Hearts — 7, 6, 2	Y	Hearts — A, K, 9, 8, 5
Clubs — 10, 3, 2	A B	Clubs — 8, 5
Diamonds — K, J, 8, 4		Diamonds — 10, 9, 7, 3
Spades — 9, 6, 4	Z	Spades — A, 5

Hearts — 5, 4
Clubs — K, 7, 6
Diamonds — A, Q, 3
Spades — K, Q, J, 10, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade, A and Y passed and B bid two hearts. Z bid two spades and all passed. A opened the seven of hearts and B won the trick with the king, Z playing the four. B now led the ace of hearts and Z played the five. What should A play and why? A should play the six of hearts. With three of your partner's suit and the lead, play the top and then the middle card, not the second round of hearts, B would think A had no more and would lead the third round of hearts, Z would trump and so be able to get the trumps out before he lost his ace of diamonds. If A makes the proper play, however, of the six of hearts, B must figure that he probably also has the deuce as Z hasn't played it. B's proper play, therefore, is the five of diamonds. This play prevents Z from going game, for on the first lead of trumps B is again in the lead and must make at least one diamond trick. Note this play very carefully for it will enable you and your partner to save many games not otherwise possible.

Hand No. 3

Hearts — 7
Clubs — A, J, 7, 6, 5
Diamonds — A, K, 8, 2
Spades — A, 4, 2

	Y
	Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one heart and A bid one no-trump. What should Y bid? This hand is really a puzzler but the writer considers a double of the no-trump bid as the proper thing to do. There should be a penalty of several hundred points. On the other hand, Y has no certainty that he can go game with any bid that he might make. The way to win at auction is to play for certainties whenever possible. In this hand the double of one trump is a certainty and a bid doubtful, so the writer has preferred the double.

"If I have the strength," repeated Connemara. "You are not suggesting walking, are you? Isn't there a team or a car we can use?" And the tone brought tears to Lacy's eyes.

"Not a chance. I'm sorry, but it's walk or stay here."

"All right," Connemara sighed, "I suppose I'll be warmer walking, anyway. Just turn your back until I get this sailor's kimono draped around me—and by the way, I suppose this is yours."

Lacy blushed, although, of course, Connemara couldn't see him. He was rather nicely ingenuous at times for so experienced a young man. Finally Connemara was as well draped as she could be. "All right," she called. "I guess this will do. I'll make you walk ahead of me, and that will give me a little bit more privacy."

"Do you think you'll be able to walk five miles in those?" he asked, pointing to her muddy little silver slippers.

"Why not? I've danced more than twice that number and never thought much about it. If I can't stand them I can take them off, or at least the heels. Come on."

And so they started on their journey, Bugle at their heels, Connemara mincing along in her little high-heeled slippers, the slicker slapping at her legs like a wet sail, the once carefully wound and jaunty turban now slipped rakishly over to the side of her head, damp and grimy. And Lacy—the always immaculate Lacy, looking like nothing an outfitter of class would use as an ad for "the well-dressed man"—strode on in front, forging ahead one moment and then, as Connemara called out to him, shortening his stride to keep one respectful pace ahead of her.

As they trudged along, Connemara told her experiences and how she and McTish went over the side of the boat, and Lacy recounted the last dive of the Bloody Nuisance and the capture of the Filomena and her company.

"I got away because they thought I was knocked up so badly there wasn't any need of watching me," he wound up.

"Do you believe that Aunt Celimena's in danger?" Connemara asked anxiously.

"Well, of course, she has been safer," he admitted, "but there has been a split in policy between our friend Pooch and the Swede, so I fancy for the present—till tonight anyhow, they won't take any definite steps one way or the other."

Now they walked in silence. Lacy had led the way along the beach instead of taking the road, and they had come to a stretch of hard sand where they were able to synchronize their gait a little better. Connemara even drew level with Lacy and, slipping her arm through his, allowed herself to be almost towed.

"There is something I want to ask you," she said gravely. "Why did you send me that money by Bugle? You're not sure even now whether I am a crook or not, are you?" And then, as Lacy tried to stutter a reply, she continued: "Oh, you needn't protest, it doesn't matter—but feeling that way I'd like to know why you gave up the money."

"By the way, where is it?" he evaded.

"That's my secret and Bugle's," said Connemara, and she turned to call Bugle but he had disappeared. He may have felt that with Lacy's appearance his responsibility was at an end, and had quietly melted out of the picture like the gentleman he was. Maybe he had gone back to guard the treasure, or maybe he just had a date somewhere. Whatever it was his doggish fancy had turned to, he most certainly was nowhere to be seen.

"Bugle's gone," wailed Connemara.

"He's all right," assured Lacy. "Don't worry about him, he'll turn up some time."

"I hope so. I never had a chance to really thank him for all he did for me. I don't want him to think me ungrateful."

"I'll explain it to him when I see him," said Lacy with a little laugh. That laugh was his mistake, for it brought Connemara right back to her topic. Too many men have made the mistake of laughing and appearing at ease when they thought they had a woman sidetracked from a topic, particularly when a woman develops a one-track mind.

"You haven't answered my question. Why did you give up the money?"

"Well," he faltered, "I am rather given to doing impulsive things. You can understand the feeling better than anyone, I should say. You know what the feeling is when——"

"You're wandering," she warned.

"Well, I'm puzzled about you—curious—so when Bugle came back to me after taking you the slicker, I staged a little experiment that ought to give me the answer to the puzzle of you."

"Go on," Connemara commanded.

"Well, you see"—Lacy was speaking very slowly and accusingly now—"I half believe you're that girl I met at Auteuil only— Well, it's all very confusing and improbable—all the Pooch and Sweetie and Doc business and their being so chummy with you, and especially, handing over all that money to you. Oh, I feel like a rotter even saying this to you," he interrupted himself to exclaim in very real distress.

"So, thinking I am a crook, you sent the fifty thousand back to me. It was nice and generous of you—but why?"

"I told you I was impulsive."

"I should say so—fifty thousand dollars!"

"And yet there was a thought back of it all," he went on. "If you really were the girl of Auteuil, I was safe, wasn't I? And if you were mixed up with that gang against your will, there was a nice tidy little sum of money that you probably had as much right to as any of the rest of the gang. Anyway, it gave you a chance to break away, go somewhere and——"

"Start all over again," Connemara finished for him. "Yes, for an impulsive act, it was very well thought out. Well, let's see how it works."

Sometimes the beach became very rocky, and then Lacy would turn to help her. At times she accepted his assistance and at others would draw herself up haughtily and wait for him to walk on. By the time they had reached their journey's end she would gladly have allowed him to carry her.

Lacy's house was one of those old-fashioned houses which have been remodelled, and about which one is supposed to keep saying "How quaint!" Connemara eventually ran out of "How quaints." Yet it really was a picture, set in a little grove of pines which must have helped to make it nice and damp at times, but provided a charming background. However, a picture meant nothing to Connemara at this time, and Lacy was sensible enough to realize the fact.

"The first thing you'll want is a change of clothes and then a piping hot breakfast, and there, waiting for us, is the person who can furnish them both."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

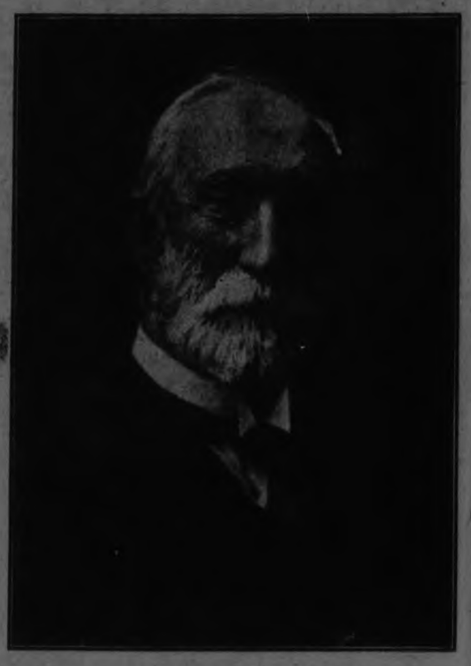
HARRY RUSH HONORED



The following lines were written in appreciation of Harry Rush, who was honored by Peterborough Masons last night:

We've met, my brothers, to bestow
The kindly greetings due
To one, who, fifty years ago,
Was made a master true.

And what has been our brother's guide
Through this dark vale of tears?
On what support has he relied
For half a hundred years

These fifty years, to move within
The compass, was his care!
For fifty years his guides have been
The level plumb and square!

Faith, Hope and Charity he strove
To cherish in his breast;
For fifty years the Temple grew,
Has been his bosom's guest!

For fifty years a craftsman true,
As any in the land;
For fifty years the Temple grew,
Beneath his willing hand.

He lived, for these half hu... years,
A life exempt from blame—
And not a slur or blot appears
To stain his honoured name.

With reverent heart he liste... here
To many a solemn vow,
Pronounced by many a brother d...
Where are those brothers now?

Few of their honoured nam... now fill ..
A place on life's frail page,
While he sojourns amongst us st...
Blest with a green old age—

And one among the last;
A precious golden link, to bind
The present to the past.

And may he long be spared belo...
Our mystic joys to share,
To cheer the brotherhood and sh...
What ancient masters were!

MASONIC FESTIVAL HONORS HARRY RUSH

Bro. Rush amid a scene of enthusiasm and affection that has seldom, if ever, been equalled in Peterborough.

Rt. Wor. Bro. E. H. D. Hall.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Hall who has been a member of Corinthian Lodge for 50 years and who is the oldest surviving Past Master of that Lodge, on behalf of the Peterborough Lodge, presented Rt. Wor. Bro. Rush with a beautiful portrait which in his own words "was that of a mighty good looking gentleman," Rt. Wor. Bro. Rush. He also asked Rt. Wor. Bro. Rush to accept a magnificent bouquet of roses for his wife, as a token of the esteem in which they were held by the members generally. The speaker stated that the best tribute that could be paid to Rt. Wor. Bro. Rush was, that after such a long period of service he should still hold the affection of the brethren. It was a signal honor that did not fall to the lot of many men in their journey through life.

V. Wor. Bro. J. G. M. Wilson.

V. Wor. Bro. Wilson, on behalf of the Past Masters of Peterborough Lodge also paid tribute to the character of Rt. Wor. Bro. Rush, and presented a portrait of Rt. W... Bro. Rush from the Past Mast... to be placed in a conspicuous po... tion in the banquet room of t... lodge in order that it would serve ... an inspiration to the younger me... bers of the Craft.

PETER ROBINSON SNOW BALL

The Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. held its annual Snow Ball last evening in the G.W.V.A. hall, with an attendance of about two hundred people. The arrangements were looked after in the efficient way that always characterizes the affairs undertaken by this Chapter, and the decorations were particularly attractive. An illusion of the Aurora Borealis, the "Northern Lights" effect, was contrived by the use of soft paper in pastel tints, cut in pointed patterns to achieve the appearance of icicles. These long icicles in pale pink, mauve, green and yellow, covered the electroliers, ending in large pompoms of frilly paper, and pointed streamers in pink, green and white crossed the hall. The windows were filled in with panels of mauve, green, yellow and pink, curtains of crinkled paper were at the doors, and from the window ledges depended fringes of white icicles. The orchestra stand was decorated with little evergreen trees banked with shredded white paper to stimulate snow.

Several novelty dances contributed to the enjoyment of the evening. For the Grand March, favors were pretty colored Pierrot caps for the men and Pierrette ruffles for the ladies. Butterflies on long sticks and snowballs filled with confetti were favors for another number, and the "lucky number", dance, won by Miss Betty Davidson and Mr. A. W. Medd, of Montreal, had a big snowball holding a box of candy, for its prize. Excellent music was provided by Ken Blood's four-piece orchestra.

Several tables of cards were played in the small room at the rear of the hall, the prize going to Mrs. B. Burns.

Ladies in charge of the arrangements were the regent, Mrs. F.Hooper, who acted as general convenor; Miss Mayme Montgomery was in charge of the decorations, Mrs. J. McNabb of refreshments, the Misses Rose and Gladys Mulholland invitations, Mrs. L. Soden, favors, and Miss Hazel Buller, cards.

Rails Centre Of Interest New York Market To-day

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Interest switched from industrials to rails in to-day's stock market, when the former showed a tendency to yield on profit-taking and bear selling. The opening was strong, with the oils and motors in the forefront of advance, but selling soon broke out in the merchandising issues and carried the general list downward. Early in the afternoon operators on the long side started to bid up rails, centering their initial efforts on eastern carriers, with buying apparently based on the possibility of an early resumption of anthracite mining. Steady accumulation also was noted in western issues, particularly those reporting excellent November earnings.

TORONTO, December 29. Canadian Press. — Total business on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was 270,767 shares The feature was strong trading in Consolidated West Dome Lake which went up 2½ cents to close at 23½ cents. Noranda, which showed a big increase yesterday, was off 40c to-day, closing at $13.90. All gold mine stocks which showed changes at all, were advances, most of them fractional.

Activity Greatly Decreased Smelters Led In Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Activity was greatly decreased on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, but nevertheless a moderately heavy volume of transactions was recorded with the biggest turnovers in Smelters and Brazilian. While the market was generaly strong, a number of stocks turned easier. Smelters closed the morning a point and a half lower at 180 3-4, and Brazilian was 3-4 lower at 83. Duluth eased 3-8 at 31 1-8. Brompton advanced 1-4 at 28 1-2, C.P.R. one at 148, and Bell Telephone one at 129 1-2. Davis A and Atlantic Sugar Preferred both sold up a point or more and Royal and Standard Banks each advanced a point. The Mines were also strong.

Set Back In Liverpool Caused Sharp Break To-day

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Material breaks here in the price of wheat resulted today from a greater setback in Liverpool quotations than had been looked for. Besides many traders lean to the view that bullish factors including the latest revisions of the United States Government crop estimates had been over-discounted by the recent sharp upturns in values. Support from buyers was lacking except on declines. The opening, 1-2c to 1 1-2c lower, new style, December $1.83 3-4 and May $1.77 1-4 to $1.78, was followed by an irregular fall to $1.83 3-8 for December and $1.76 1-... for May.

The New Costume Blouse

One of the new silks having an attractive border design has been chosen for the fashioning of this charming costume blouse. The new trimming feature of fine tucks is introduced in the groups placed at the hips either side of the front and back, emphasizing the bloused effect; and right now let me tell you that the smartest way of wearing your tucks is on the inside of your frock with just the back of the seam showing on the outside. The appeal of this blouse lies in the length. Frequently one has dresses that are worn at the top and around the hips, yet quite good at the lower edge. The worn-out top may be cut off, making a slip over which this blouse may be worn, making a charming costume. The full sleeves are gathered into narrow bands at the wrists, and a collar with long ends is tied in the front. No. 1246 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 2⅝ yards 40-inch, or 2¼ yards 54-inch material. Price 20 cents.

FASHION FANCIES

By Marie Belmont

The combination of brown and brick color never fails to be smart. Because of their richness of effect, this is a particularly happy choice for a winter afternoon dress, such as the one above.

The frock is designed for the young girl, and shows a most effective slanting tunic, worn over a skirt of pleated brick crepe.

Amber beads trim the lower part of the tunic, and the square neckline has a drap of crepe run through slits at either side, below the neck.

CAN WOMEN WIN SPUR IN POLITICS?

Suffrage Is Much More Than Allowing Women to Vote For Men, Says Mrs. Belmont—Women Make Good in Office.

By Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

One of the curious and amusing things in this world is that there remain in it so many people who continue to argue pro and con the merits of woman suffrage.

Never have men asked themselves, and never have women asked them, whether in their use of the vote men were showing themselves effective for the public good, whether they were raising the general tone of politics, whether they were making definite contributions to the successful operation of government, whether they were inclined to think and act independently of personal or family considerations, in what offices or branches of the government they were showing themselves best qualified to serve, and whether, above all, men making good in the political world could be and actually were proving themselves to be good husbands and fathers.

Men wanted, and fought for, and won the right to vote in order to establish not necessarily a better government, but one in the creation and control of which they might have a part, and which for that reason they preferred as meeting more fully what they conceived to be their needs.

And yet women, who wanted, and fought for, and finally won, the vote, for exactly the same reasons that men wanted and fought for and won it, and whose right to it rests on precisely the same foundation, continually are called upon to prove the excellence if not the superiority of their use of the franchise as compared with men, as the only reasonable justification of their possession of it.

Women's Honesty.

The fact is, of course, that self government will prove itself an entirely successful experiment in this or any other country if or whenever every man and woman entitled to vote exercises that high privilege with honesty, sincerity, and intelligence.

In the present stage of our progress toward that shing peak of achievement, women have made a record in politics which abundantly justifies, if justification were needed, their demand for a share in the government under which they live.

So far their energies largely have been and for some time to come should be devoted to removing the discriminations against women which in greater or less degree hamper them in their personal and public lives. That women make useful public servants, when given an opportunity to serve, no one would deny.

Women, from a machine point of view, are so distressingly literal. They actually expect promises to be kept, and have such an annoying tendency to make things unpleasant when assurances made before election are forgotten afterwards.

Also it is becoming increasingly difficult to pacify them with appointments on "associate" and "advisory" committees. Or with invitations to sit on platforms, or even to make nominating speeches. Or to get together quietly in "corner groups" the day before the announced meeting of a committee council, or the day after, and fix up for themselves vital decisions in which the women have no part.

The cheerful theory that the only result of woman suffrage would be more voters to vote for the men who run for office has fallen very flat.

What Women Want.

To the working of the political machines in the matter of picking candidates for office is due more than any other one thing the concerted effort women now are beginning to make to put in office women of their own choosing.

Women want and mean to have, equal control of their children, their property, and their earnings; equal citizenship and inheritance rights and equal right to make contracts; equal opportunities in schools and universities, in the professions and industries, and in the government service; equal pay for equal work, equal rights after marriage to their own identity, an equal moral standard, and equal control of national, state, and local government.

Women must work together internationally as well as nationally. They must have a part in international discussions and a share in the making of any international engagements.

Far more independent politically than men, and principally interested, so far at least, in office holding as a means of public service rather than as a means of livelihood, women are not inclined to seek office unless they feel they have a distinct contribution to make.

Women, however, are demanding a more adequate representation, and the strength of their demand is apparent in the increasing number of women who are coming forward as candidates for elective and for appointive offices, and the increasing readiness on the part of the public to accept them.

Another encouraging sign of the times is the generally high standard established by the women who win and hold positions of public trust, a standard which is steadily rising.

Women who already have won their spurs in business, in science, and in the professions, can be trusted not to fail their country, their families, nor themselves in public office.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES AN ADORABLE AFTERNOON FROCK.

With the holiday season on, we have had a fine time keeping our eyes open to the pretty frocks to be seen everywhere.

Of course we manikins have to work just the same through the holidays, and indeed our days are busier, but Madame has been a darling about letting us off earlier when she could. She said:

"I want you all to go to tea and do pleasant things, because this is the time of year when all young people should enjoy themselves."

We were delighted at this viewpoint, and set about to entertain ourselves as much as possible.

Most of the girls at Madame's go out in the evenings a great deal, and of course there is always much conversation about frocks and designing.

Yesterday Pam suggested to me that I go to tea with her at the house of a young friend.

"Yvonne always asks me to bring anyone I want to," Pam explained. "I know she'd love to see you."

This was invitation enough, and we set off before five.

Yvonne was as cordial as could be, and said tea would be ready very soon. She added:

"In the meantime, do tell me what you think of my new frock."

I replied that I had already been thinking it was one of the prettiest velvet frocks I had seen during the holidays.

Yvonne showed her pleasure. She confided:

"You see I'm going out with my best beau to a very informal party tonight, and I am so anxious to look as well as I possibly can."

"You will," Pam assured her.

The dress was of the supple chiffon velvet which clings so gracefully. The overblouse was finished with a tunic skirt, pleated in sections, and there was a tight foundation skirt beneath it.

"That jabot is stunning," Pam said. "How is it made, anyway?"

This Charming Black Velvet Creation Is Trimmed With Cream Lace.

"Don't you see?" Yvonne obligingly explained, "There's a high collar, lined with the cream lace, and an end of it drops down on the bodice."

Pam paid her an implied compliemnt when she said:

"When I want to be most alluring for my best beau, I must get a black velvet trimmed with cream lace. It is so feminine."

EDDA MUSSOLINI RECEIVES MEDAL

SHOWED BRAVERY.

ROME, Dec. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—For bravery in saving a girl from drowning at Cattolica last August, 16 year old Edda Mussolini, daughter of the Premier, has been awarded the Carnegie silver medal for bravery.

The citation accompanying the award says: "While bathing August 4 with another girl, the latter was suddenly overcome by the violence of the waves and in difficulties. Miss Edda, animated by noble sentiments and altruism and regardless of every danger, ran to help her, and, seizing her, succeeded in saving her despite her youth."

IN POLICE COURT.

A heavy docket confronted Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning but the cases were disposed of in record time. In the list there was one sentence, one withdrawal of the charge and two remands.

A charge of private assault which had been preferred against a local youth by a young girl was withdrawn and the case dismissed.

One month in common jail was the sentence imposed on a man by the name of Salsberry on a charge of attempting to collect funds by false representations.

A man formerly of the House of Providence pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was remanded. It was divulged that a fight in which several of the inmates were implicated had ruffled the calm of the old folks' home and resulted in a number of minor injuries to those taking part in the melee. The accused had taken flight afterward and had nowhere to go.

A local man was charged with stealing a Congoleum rug, but refused to plead or elect. On consent of the prosecution an adjournment was obtained to January 5.

EARLY RETURN OF MINERS FORECAST

Those Familiar With the Situation Expect an Agreement.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—On the eve of the resumption of wage negotiations between the mine workers of America and the Anthracite Operators' Association in the Union League Club today, those most familiar with the situation forecast the early resumption of mining. The hope is that it will be by an agreement of the groups led by John L. Lewis of the miners and William W. Inglis of the operators.

FACTS REGARDING COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

The question is asked: When the proposed extension to the Collegiate is built and equipped, what will be added to the taxes per $1,000 assessment? This has been figured by Mr. S. R. Armstrong, city clerk, as slightly under .82 cents on $1,000 assessment. What does this mean to the individual taxpayer? It means that the man with property assessed at $2,000 will pay $1.64 per year or about .14 cents per month. The man with property assessed at $3,000 will pay $2.46 per year or .20 cents per month. On $4,000 assessment, $3.28 per year or .28 cents per month; $5,000 assessment, $4.10 per year, or .34 cents per month.

What children will receive most benefit from this Combination School? The children going into Commercial and Industrial life. At present the Commercial pupils, who are in the old South Central Building are robbed of the third and most important year of the course, besides suffering under disadvantages that have been described.

Students wishing to enter Industrial life (and needed there) are offered nothing of a vocational nature in the present Collegiate and leave the school after two or three years there, with no understanding of what they are fit for and no knowledge of machine shop practise, carpentry or electrical work, representing the chief opportunities in Peterborough.

Students who wish to enter the teaching profession, to matriculate or go on to University are given the necessary work in the present school. Indeed, the first year University work is also taken up. Their needs are provided for, though the classes are overcrowded and much is lacking as described in a former article.

The parents of this group of students, who are provided with the courses they desire, will certainly not grudge to the other group of industrial and commercial students opportunity to enter courses fitted to their needs. Nor should the taxpayers whose children have used the present Collegiate or who have no children dependent upon them, grudge the additional tax of .82 cents on $1,000 which will give additional accommodation for academic work, vocational training, &c.

It is the Vocational Department of the proposed Combination School that makes the cost of this school to the city only .82 cents on $1,000 assessment and that will lower the cost of maintenance within one year after the school is opened.

TEAMS STRONGER IN PETES' GROUP

Opening Games on Wednesday Night Will Provide Test.

THREE SCHEDULED.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—Before the season opened it was expected that Peterboro would experience but little difficulty in again annexing the title of the local group, but eventualities in the S.P.A. series have caused the railbirds to somewhat modify their verdict. Not that the flying Petes have gone back at all, for the hustling squad from the Lift Lock City is going even better than it did when it made such a strong bid for the O.H.A. honors last year. The other five teams in the group, however, show a great deal more promise than was first apparent.

The combination of tried veterans and ambitious youngsters that Kitchener was able to place on the ice almost upset the Peterboro band wagon in their S.P.A. game, and the outcome of their first scheduled encounter should be just as much in doubt. In the past Kitchener have done better at the Arena than on their own smaller ice surface, but the same holds true for Peterboro, so the location of the game should not have much bearing on the result, and despite the fact that the conflict has a Kitchener setting, the Petes will likely be favored to win.

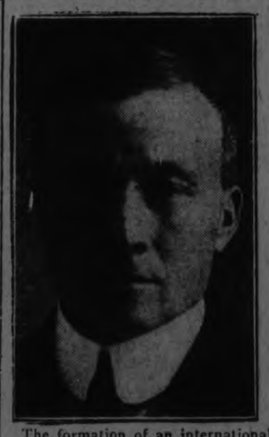
Appear Well Matched.

The first regular Senior O.H.A. game to be played at the Arena will be that between Parkdale and Osgoode Hall on Wednesday night, and while on their showing in the S.P.A. series Parkdale should reign as favorites, subsequent proceedings would seem to indicate that the law students have the stronger team. The Paddlers with the assistance of a couple of St. Mary's intermediate stars, put Niagara Falls into the discard in the Sportsmen's series, and made a good stand against Preston, the ultimate winners, but any team that can step into Grimsby and defeat the intermediate champions by 4 to 0 must be counted as a high-class aggregation, and that is the latest achievement to stand to the credit of the legalities. Wednesday's game should be a humdinger with the team having the better condition likely to be the victors.

Hard Game for Red Ringers.

The Toronto Canoe Club Seniors have had a fairly strenuous preseason programme and the team coached by Dr. Willard Box has made a very creditable showing but they tackle a hard problem when they go up against the Hamilton oarsmen in the opening engagement. The Rowing Club squad have not had much of an opportunity to show their wares, but as they have the most of the players who made it so interesting for other teams in the group last season the Red Ringers will find considerable difficulty in emerging on the long end of the score.

MAY PROMOTE SOCCER.



The formation of an international soccer league, embracing teams from Canada and the United States, and to be headed by one of the Dominion's greatest hockey mentors Frank L. Calder, of National Hockey League fame, is heralded by the New York Evening Post.

Maroons vs. Canadiens.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press.)—Inter-borough pro hockey battles between the Montreal Maroons and the Canadiens in the National Hockey League have developed into the classics of the season so far as the local hockey public is concerned. The series, begun only last season, has taken the popular fancy, chiefly due to the gruelling struggles which were waged by the two teams last winter; contests in which Canadiens emerged victors on their own ice, but were held by the Maroons at home.

Wednesday night the intra-city rivalry breaks out anew. Maroons will be at home to the Canadiens and there is every indication that there will be a big crowd at the west end rink, when the two teams face one another for the start. So far this winter, the two teams have played one game, when Montreal nosed out a 3 to 2 win.

LAKEFIELD RINK WILL OPEN SOON

Was Flooded on Saturday Afternoon—Youngsters Are Interested.

VILLAGE RENDEZVOUS

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29.— The rink will open for the season in a very few days if Jack Frost continues to reign as "King of the Revels." The manager, Mr. Chittick had the bottom prepared well and on Saturday afternoon the fire engine added its quota which is the last word in this business. The operation was viewed with deep interest and considerable applause by a group of youngsters who anticipate many good times when Lakefield's "playhouse" is opened for the season. The children are not the only anxious people regarding the revival of the winter sports as adults of both sexes have visited the rink to see what the prospect is for skating and curling. Once again the village life will centre around the rink and it will take its place for the fifth winter as the village rendezvous.

BOSTON COLLEGE BEAT MONTREAL

University Team Wilted After First Period in New York.

SCORE WAS 4-2.

NEW YORK .Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—The Purple Six of Montreal University went down to a 4 to 2 defeat when it clashed with the Yellow Shirts of Boston College in the season's opening intercollegiate hockey match in Madison Square Garden Monday afternoon. Unable to withstand the pace set by their heavier Hub-town opponents, the Canadians were forced "into the ground" in the last two periods. Play in the opening frame was all in favor of Montreal, but the Boston boys gradually wore down the lighter six and forced the going from the second period on. The match drew a matinee hockey audience of about 2,500.

The diminutive forward line from Canada overshaded the Boston wings and presented a machine-like combination that completely baffled the Yellow Shirts. Mahoney and Mullawney were a power of strength in front of the Boston goalie, however, and play after play of the purple team was broken up by them. The Montreal defence also held well, but Beaumont, in the Canadian cage, showed a weakness for being drawn out, and two of the Boston tallies were scored on an open net.

Montreal opened the scoring in the first period when Desy outguessed the Boston back, and passed to Emard, who sent a hot shot past Dunn. Boston registered two goals in the middle session, Groden getting the first on a pass from Tedesco and Conin netting the second on a lone rush. Mullawney banged in another for Boston a minute after the third period opened. Montreal then set up a hard attack and Desy scored for the Purple sixteen minutes later. With the end in sight, play was feverish, but Mullawney clinched the match a minute before the final bell when he drew Beaumont out of his cage with a circling play and sent a back-hander into the Montreal net.

The line-up:

Referees—M. J. MacDonnell and Donald Grant.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

The golfer is told often enough about his so-called anxiety to hit the ball. This may be part anxiety, but the chances are it is mostly too much speed in the back swing And especially it results from that burst of nervous energy with which the average player jerks his clubhead back from the ball in beginning the back swing. When the speed away from the ball is so great the clubhead literally jerks itself to the top, so that the player is taxed to arrest its flight and get it started down again. This causes body stiffness and jumpiness, and the effect looks like anxiety to hit the ball. The anxiety results from the quick back swing and is not always the cause of it.

FOUR OPENING GAMES PROMISE SOME GOOD FUN

All Eight Teams in City League Are Well Fortified.

EVENLY MATCHED.

Teams in Both Series Have Been Practicing Hard For Opener.

Keen ice, and well-balanced teams blessed with plenty of subs, promise some rare sport for hockey fans when the City Hockey League gets into action at Brock Street Rink tonight. The first double-header, with four teams in the Junior series, starts at 6 o'clock; St. Andrew's and St. James taking the opener. Following, at 7 o'clock, St. Peter's play Raybestos. At 8 o'clock, De Laval play the Crescents, and Brintons and Raybestos go on at 9 o'clock. Two periods of 20 minutes each will constitute a game and all teams have been warned to be ready to start on time.

Walter Jackson and players from the Senior O.H.A. team will referee the contests. It is hoped that hockey supporters will show their appreciation of the efforts being made in the interest of more and better hockey players by giving tonight's games a large attendance.

Brintons have Lew LeBarr in goal, Lackey and Peter Mulholland, defence, and Rose, Fred Graham and King, forwards, while Cripps and Chidley will do the relief work.

Herbert Legros will guard the nets for Raybestos. His teammates will be picked from the following well-known players: Alex. Butcher, R. Williams, M. Williams, Walter Jackson, Jack Thornton, Geo. Helson, D. Wright, Jas. Coursey, Fred Batten, W. Rogers and Jack Gillespie.

De Laval will have Johnny Ward in goal, Jack Marchen and K. Miller defence, and Ira Dundas, Eddie Williams and M. McDougall on the line. Jack Smith, Geo. Kingdon and Evans are down as subs.

Jack McDonough, L. Collins, Holland, J. Jones, N. Collins, Hall, C. Kenneally, V. Rishea, "Scotty" Maudsley and "Stuffy" Mahood will be found with the Crescents.

The St. Peter's squad against Raybestos in the Junior game will be: Goal, Mein; defence, Graham and LeBarr; centre, Kenneally; wings, Jones and Archambault; Carroll and Wolff will sub.

Raybestos have signed H. White, S. Jones, O. Corkery, R. Koster, V. Williams, K. Graham, W. Brady, J. Reynolds, O. Meagher, S. Chambers, D. Hatton, and M. Starr.

SEASON OPENS ON NEW YEAR'S NIGHT

Strong Line-up For St. Mary's Against Peterboro Seniors.

The St. Mary's team will give the Petes the merriest kind of an argument here New Year's Night, as the Toronto crew are out to show the O.H.A. that they should have been given a senior franchise. The Saints have signed up seven or eight players, any one of whom would be welcome on any of the Toronto Senior squads, and they will be at full strength for the holiday fixture here. To-morrow night's game in Kitchener should put the Petes right on edge for their first home appearance of the season, and all in all the game should be a real lively affair. Tickets are in demand, and the plan, which is at Bert McLeod's drug store, is being rapidly cleaned up.

EVEN BREAK IN COLLEGE HOCKEY

Boston College Beat Montreal University—R.M.C. Beat Princeton.

PLAYING AGAIN.

NEW YORK, December 29. Canadian and United States Universities opened a four game international hockey series in Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon and last night, and after the "finis" curtain had been rung down on a pair of tilts, the two countries stood on an even footing. The United States jockeyed into the lead yesterday afternoon when the Boston college took the measure of the University of Montreal sextette by a score of 4 to 2, but last night the ferocious Princeton Tigers met a more vicious hockey foe in the Royal Military College, and the Canadians won, 3 to 1. This afternoon R.M.C. meets Boston and the final match of the series this evening will see Princeton facing the University of Montreal.

Theatre

AT THE CAPITOL

MARION DAVIES IN 'LIGHTS OF OLD BROADWAY'

The lovely Marion Davies is at the Capital Theatre for the first three days of this week in an extremely interesting picture, "The Lights of Old Broadway." It is the type of production seldom seen in these days of swift living, a story that has its atmosphere in the times when automobiles and electric lights were unknown, and New York was in its infancy, as compared with the city of to-day. Figures like the little Teddy Roosevelt, scampering along the streets to his father's shop with his "excellent" card for school examinations, Thomas Edison in his young manhood, and Weber and Fields trying to get a job at Tony Pastor's Broadway variety show, are included in this picturesque unfolding of romance in the days when ladies wore bustles and pullbacks and gentlemen sported "side burns" and tall white hats.

There are some immense characterizations. Marion Davies has a dual role, as the fair-haired Fely O'Tandy, the hoydenish, beautiful Irish girl who dominates the picture and the heart of Dirk de Rhonde, son of the aristocratic De Rhonde of Fifth Avenue, and also plays the part of Dirk's sister, Anne, a dark-haired, dignified maiden. The two are really orphan sisters, separated in their infancy and adopted, one into the rich element of the New York of that day, the other by the O'Tandys, Irish immigrants, living in Shacktown, now an exclusive residence section of the busy city. Nothing better than the acting of Shamus O'Tandy the father of the lovely Fely, has been seen in many a day. He is typically Irish, from the quick-witted twist of his words to the outrageous courage with which he projects his smiling face into the office of "the dirty aristocrack" and calls the latter to battle in true Celtic style.

Conrad Nagel is very effective in the role of the young lover, scion of a rich house and madly in love with the Shacktown beauty, who leads him a merry dance and treats him to many an exhibition of her Irish temperament and temper. Marion Davies is superb in this role and keeps her audience in a chuckle with her transitions of mood and charming appearance. One of the high lights of the picture is the melee which follows the encunter by the Orangemen's Parade with a group of Shacktown dwellers.

EXCEPTIONAL CAST FOR "WILD JUSTICE."

Players Supporting Peter the Great Chosen with Great Care by New Producer.

An exceptionally well balanced and versatile cast of human players supports Peter the Great, the marvel dog of the screen, in "Wild Justice," his new starring production, coming to the Regent Theatre to-day under a United Artists Corporation release.

In line with his firm belief that there are hundreds of virtually unknown actors and actresses in Hollywood possessing marked screen talent, John W. Considine, Jr., producer, interviewed more than 300 applicants before finally selecting his players.

George Sherwood, who has the leading male role, is the scion of a theatrical family. He decided upon a stage career immediately upon completing college and less than eighteen months ago reached Hollywood to enter motion pictures.

From the first his success was marked. After mastering the "mechanics" of motion picture acting he rapidly achieved leading roles in several productions. His work in "Wild Justice" is believed to be the best of his career, and as a result of his selection by Mr. Considine he is expected to forge rapidly to the top.

Supporting characters were chosen with equal care and the list of performers includes such names as Lou Morrison, remembered for his work with Constance Talmadge, and others.

Direction of "Wild Justice" was entrusted to Chester M. Franklin, who is a lover of dogs and a student of their moods. He has directed other dog stars of the screen and has lately become known as a "wizard" in handling these temperamental canine actors.

AT THE GRAND

"THE MIKADO."

Monday, January 4 at the Grand Opera House the approaching production of "Th Mikado" will recall to many the days of their youth, when "The Mikado" was first produced in 1885.

The old familiar melodies, tuneful lays and merry wheezes will "fall as the gentle dew from heaven" upon their "jazztern" spirits, and living again in their delightful Gilbert and Sullivan era, perhaps their twentieth century nervous systems will be soothed by the tonic.

Through the subsequent years "The Mikado" has lived and we know it today as one of the classics of light opera. Although the first production was exactly forty years ago, it was revived in New York last season where it was one of the outstanding musical hits.

It will be remembered that "The Mikado" had the longest run in any London theatre up to the time of its production and held that position until comparatively recent times when "Chu Chin Chow" wrested away its honors.

The combination of W. S. Gilbert's lyrics and Sir Arthur Sullivan music produced a result of delightful educational entertainment that never has been and probably never will be surpassed. "The Mikado" was the first big success of this happy combination and was followed fast by other brilliant results from their fertile pens.

Unfortunately for succeeding generations and the lovers of comic opera there arose a quarrel between W. S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan, a chasm that was never bridged, and the two ceased writing in combination. Both continued to write, but not in unison, but their work never received the public acclaim of their joint effort. Both authors are long since dead, yet their brilliant operas have lived throughout the years and are as popular today as they were in the years of their presentation. They will continue for many years yet to come. Brandon Brothers Opera Company now playing the most important cities of Ontario are bringing a company of gifted singers to Peterboro in this memorable Gilbert and Sullivan masterpiece.

An honest and persistent endeavour to carry out the wishes of the electorate.

No more capital expenditure until some debentures maturing soon are retired—because the ratepayers are already committed to $585,000 increase in debenture debt, made up as follows:

1925 pavement	132,000
Contracted for 1926	33,000

The Daylight Saving and Sunday Bathing questions should be dealt with in accordance with the votes of the people.

F.R.J. MacPHERSON FOR Alderman

Having accepted nomination for the Aldermanic Board of our city, I feel that our ratepayers should know something of my policy.

I am of the opinion that we should not consider at present any capital expenditure that can be postponed until some of our other debentures have been retired. We can get along nicely for a while without additional and excessive pavement construction, and give many of our working men who are struggling to pay for their homes and other essentials a chance to do so.

Better bathing facilities for our citizens who cannot conveniently leave the city to enjoy such privileges.

After nearly thirty years' business experience, I feel that I am in a position to render valuable assistance in advancing the progress of our city.

Rigid economy in all departments will have my support.

If elected I will advocate greater efforts to secure more industries for Peterborough.

Soliciting your vote and influence and Wishing You a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

FOR ALDERMAN

Having accepted the nomination for Alderman I will, in a few words, state my position on some of the main issues that are to be met in 1926. Twenty-five years a citizen, and a freeholder, I am naturally vitally interested in the city's welfare. I have enjoyed a certain amount of participation in public affairs through the Motor League and the work of the Health Association. I look forward to getting behind our public bodies—Police, Firemen, Board of Education, Utilities, etc.—always with the idea of protecting the finances of the public.

On the question of the new Technical School I take the stand that the whole subject be gone into by a joint committee, taken from the Council, Board of Education, and outside experts drawn from mercantile, manufacturing, labor and social associations. Let them study not one but dozens of schemes, and settle on the best, on which the public must vote before any expenditure is undertaken. While we are Peterboro citizens we are all part of the Ontario Government and are interested in whatever way the money is spent.

We have had bitter experiences in the past—leaping before we properly look. Let us not error in that way again.

I am interested in the transportation question, which I realize requires careful handling. I am in favor of Sunday supervision of bathing; and for the sake of those who have not leisure through the day, I am in favor of Daylight Saving.

I ask for the votes and confidence of the people because I believe I can be of practical use to them as one of their Aldermen for the next two years.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Last Sunday I was handed a tract to read, entitled "A Bible Hell, or Gods Penitentiary." The tract was compiled by one J. M. Harris, a preacher of "endless torments." These tracts were on distribution at one of our city churches. The title of this tract seemed to me t be peculiar. In the first place he suggested more than one kind of "Hell." In the second place, he made what he called "A Bible Hell," to be a penitentiary, belonging to Almighty God. From his description of his "Bible Hell," it could not compare with a penitentiary, for a penitentiary means relating to penitence, a place of correction; and he says there is no repentance in his "Bible Hell." He quotes Psalms 9:17: "The wicked shall be turned into hell," hell meaning to him "endless torments." Any well-read scholar knows that the word "turned" is a mistranslation, and should read "returned or turned back" into "hell" (the grave or death condition.) They had gone down to "hell" (the grave) once, and after being resurrected (on account of wilful wickedness), are returned again into "hell" (the grave.) This dying the second time, is called the "second death," from which there is no resurrection, it being an everlasting punishment. The whole tract is so wholly misrepresentative, that it is superfluous to say more concerning it. Those who preach "endless torments" should not pose as preachers of the gospel (glad tidings.) Honesty ought to compel them to call themselves preachers of "bad tidings." — M. T. Butcher. 1d152- 4890

The reading of communications formed the basis of the meeting this morning. In the absence of Alderman McIntyre, C. H. Rogers acted as chairman. Others present were: His Worship Mayor Turner, Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H. and Dr. J. O'Brien.

Among the communications read was one from Lilian Carruthers, Honorary Secretary of the Canadian Anti-Vivisection Society, dated Nov. 18, and which read as follows:—

Chairman of the Board of Health:—

"I was greatly interested this morning in the Globe's account of the differences between Doctors Sutton and Young.

"I am afraid Dr. Sutton has been filled up at Toronto. This town is a great vivisection centre and a regular hot-bed for propaganda for stock-holders in serum factories. All these vaccines and anti-toxins are just so much commercial stuff and dangerous at that.

"I am disappointed in Dr. Sutton. I had been reading his section (No. 4) in the Provincial Report for 1924 and I thought he showed good sense; but I see he has got in with the Social hygiene bunch—Dr. Gordon Bates' faddists.

"I should be glad of an opportunity to go to Peterborough to speak on anti-toxins and vivisection—or medical torture of living animals. At the present time there is a lot of human vivisection going on. Children all over the province are being inoculated with these poisonous serums—and a lot of it I find from the Report has been compulsory, although compulsion is against the law.

"I should be glad to go to Peterborough to address the Board of Health or the City Council, or any society. It would be necessary to have my railway fare guaranteed."

Very truly yours,
Lilian Carruthers.

AN OPEN LETTER

This letter was received from one of our graduates of June last. It shows the success attained by those who take advantage of the opportunities offered by our training:

MR. J. A. McKONE,
Peterboro Business College,
Peterboro, Ontario.

MONTREAL,
November 11, 1925.

Dear Mr. McKone:—

I have received your letter dated November 4th, and am pleased to say that with your kind help, I have been successful in securing a position as stenographer in the Main Office of the Royal Bank of Canada.

I am serving as stenographer for two men, and I am pleased with my position in every way. My surroundings are of a very cheerful nature and at present I am receiving a salary of $800 a year, with a promise of advancement as soon as I am capable of filling a higher position.

During my short stay in this city, I have come to see some of the heights that may be attained through a Business Education, and I feel I shall never regret choosing it in preference to Normal. My only regret is that I did not make better use of my time while I was attending P.B.C. You may use my name at any time as a thoroughly satisfied graduate.

Thanking you again for your excellent recommendation and your kind interest in my future welfare.

I am, Yours very sincerely,

ELECTION CANDIDATES EXPLAIN THEIR OBJECTIVES IN SEEKING SUPPORT FOR VARIOUS OFFICES

Personal Introduction To Every Citizen From Men in Civic Contests.

MEET THEM ALL.

Most of Aldermanic Candidates Declare Stand on School Question.

In order that the citizens may have a closer acquaintance with the candidates for civic offices, The Examiner interviewed all those whose names will appear on the ballots and the following introductions resulted. Many of those appearing for election this year are well known in the city; others have not previously appeared as aspirants to public service. All of those interviewed were very willing to give what information they could, and every statement may be taken as a personal "How d'you do?" for every citizen.

W. J. Hancock.

W. J. Hancock stated that all the people should have a voice in all matters involving an expenditure of public funds. He had gathered considerable knowledge of civic administration since his appointment as successor to Alderman Stocker on his retirement last year. Mr. Hancock is an auctioneer

F. R. J. MacPherson.

Mr. MacPherson has never served in the council nor has he acted in any public capacity but he said that he had thirty years of business experience and believed that there was a need at the present time for a business like administration. He is not in favor of arbitrary expenditure especially as applied to the school question but would refer all such matters to the popular vote or expression of opinion. He would induce more manufacturing plants to locate their factories in the city and increase its industrial strength.

George A. MacDonald.

George A MacDonald is a superintendent at the factory of the De Laval Manufacturing Company. He has been in Peterborough for the past twenty-five years and in that time has been actively associated in the various sporting activities, particularly rugby and baseball. This is his first venture into public life. OTTAWA, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press). — Her Majesty, the Queen, and the Prince of Wales, have each accepted a box of of Canadian apples, according to a communication received by the Department of Agriculture from the High Commissioner's office in London.

These apples were Ontario Northern Spies, grown in Western Ontario, and formed part of a shipment specially chosen by the Department of Agriculture for shipment to the High Commissioner for presentation purposes.

MANY COUNTRIES ARE INUNDATED

Scores of Lives Have Been Lost in Rumania and Hungary.

HOPE FOR COLD.

PARIS, Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press).—The year 1925 may still be remembered in history as "the great flood year" in Central and Western Europe if the warm winds which have swept the highlands and caused the rapid melting of the snows do not give place to colder airs soon. Already there have been many lives lost in Roumania and Hungary, while vast sections of France, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia are inundated. Weather predictions point to continued warmth and heavy rains. Most alarming conditions are reported from Central Europe. Torda (Thorenburg), Rumania, has been swept by a torrent of overflowing waters that smashed houses by the score. Direct reports from Torda report the loss of hundreds of lives along the Rumanian frontier, with the waters sweeping bodies and debris through the streets of that city.

FLOODS WORSE IN EAST EUROPE

Martial Law Has Been Proclaimed in Rumanian District.

MANY DROWNED.

PARIS, Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press.) — Floods, particularly in Central Europe, are increasing their ravages and overflowing their banks. Transylvania, Eastern Rumania, and Eastern Hungary are being disastrously affected.

Pillaging has begun and the Rumanian government has proclaimed martial law so that thieves may be summarily dealt with. It is impossible from reports thus far received to estimate more than approximately the loss of life, but it undoubtedly exceeds 200. Thousands of horses and other stock have been drowned.

Many villages in the environs of the Serbian capital are under water.

Rough Workman Touched By Child's Plaintive Weeping

CALGARY, Alta., Dec. 30. —Hearing what sounded like a plaintive cry of a child in apparent agony, emanating from a huge packing case consigned to a local merchant, a railway trucker raced for appliances to open the case, meanwhile shouting to fellow employees to come to his assistance.

"Get an axe quick and smash open the case before the kid suffocates," the man appealed. He was about to wield a hefty crowbar when he was halted by a foreman.

"Where is this car checked from?" the latter queried.

"It's all the way from Winnipeg—and if we don't hurry the kid'll be dead," the trucker replied, excitedly.

Just then the light dawned upon the foreman. He grabbed the iron bar and threw it to the ground. Plainly disgusted he walked away with the parting sally,—"sure there's a kid in there—there should be a gross of them by right. It's just a consignment of 'Ma-Ma' dolls, so lay off the rough stuff unless you want to pay for the load."

The trucker is reported to be nursing a grouch.

TWO KILLED IN REVOLVER FIGHT

TWO MEN WOUNDED.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—A police sergeant and a robber were killed and a patrolman and a grocer were wounded in a gun fight last night which followed an attempted robbery. The shooting began when a bandit entered Manchester's store and commanded him and his wife to hold up their hands.

AGED WOMAN DIES OF BURNS

Mrs. Bowlby, of Kitchener, Burned When Clothing Caught Fire.

FROM HEATER.

KITCHENER, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— Mrs. D. S. Bowlby, Sr., aged 89, was so seriously burned shortly before noon yesterday when her dressing gown caught fire from a small gas heater in a bathroom, that she passed away at the Kitchener and Waterloo Hospital last night.

Mrs. Bowlby was alone upstairs at the time of the accident. Her maid downstairs heard her screams and rushed to her instantly, finding her a mass of flames. The maid snatched a rug off the floor and smothered the flames, but not before Mrs. Bowlby's clothes had been practically burned from her.

CONSERVATIVES HOLDING CAUCUS TO MAKE PLANS

Will Assemble On One Of First Days of Session.

COURSE UNKNOWN.

May Move Vote of No Confidence or Amendment to Speech From Throne.

OTTAWA, December 30. Canadian Press. — The Conservative members will hold a caucus as soon as the members-elect foregather here to attend the opening of the 15th Parliament. As yet a definite date for the meeting has not been determined but in all probability it will be held on the date parliament convenes or the following day.

The general caucus, it is understood, will likely be preceded by a conference between Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader, and other leading members of the party. The date for this conference has been tenatively set for Wednesday of next week. Conjecture respecting the programme of the Conservative party in the next house has given rise to several rumours. One is to the effect that a vote of want of confidence may be moved by the Conservatives. Whether this will be done or an amendment move to the speech from throne will not be decided in any definite manner, it is understood, however, until the caucus is held.

BIG METEORITE FELL IN STATES

Was Taken For Comet By People Along Atlantic Coast.

SEEN LONG WAY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.— (Canadian Press.)—The meteorite which fell near Kingsmere Hills yesterday was observed by persons in the north-eastern States over an area extending to the Atlantic seaboard. The trail of light resulting from the passage of the body through the atmosphere caused ich a brilliant glow in the north-western sky that residents of Maine, Massachusettes and Rhode Island reported that they had observed a comet.

EXPERTS ACCEPT.

Fourteen of Those Asked Agree To Attend Economic Conference.

GENEVA, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Fourteen of thirty-five internationally prominent figures of the economic and industrial world, who were invited to assist in preparing for the international economic conference scheduled for next October, have accepted.

A preparatory committee will meet in Geneva late in February to prepare an agenda, outline procedure, etc.

None of the three United States experts invited to sit on the preparatory committee has yet accepted and their names will not be announced until they have done so.

Robert Hicks Tells Electors About Progress of Utilities And Urges Support for Hydro

Water Up 83%; Household Light Up 121%; Power Up 77%; Commercial Light Up 50%; Says Mr. R. R. Hall in Indicting Utilities

Well Attended Meeting Hears Dynamic Presentation of Civic Issues—Candidate Gives Categorical Denial to Campbell Mills Company Allegations.

SAYS ONLY ONE CITY HAS LOWER POWER RATE THAN PETERBOROUGH

Declares Packing Company Obtained Water at $400 a Year For 19 1-2 Years When Metered Rate in 1921 Was $9,160 a Year.

Robert Hicks, Utilities Commissioner and candidate for re-election, last night addressed a public meeting in Victoria Hall. He definitely and indignantly denied the truth of allegations concerning the power accounts of the Campbell Milling Company: answered a communication from T. F. Matthews, former Commissioner and former head of the Packing Company, by saying that for nineteen and a half years only $400 a year was paid for water when the metered rate at the end of that time was $9.160 a year; and concluded with a plea that the people support the public ownership policy of the Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Many of the taxpayers have been astonished to learn that during the year 1924 water consumers of Peterborough paid 83 per cent. more than they did in 1919; and the consumers of electric light for houses paid 121 per cent. more; and the commercial light users paid 50 per cent more; and the power users paid 77 per cent more. When is this reign of Hicks' extravagance to end

There should be full enquiry by the City Council into the workings and operations of this Commission, in which this city has over one million dollars invested, and to help this Council to get at all the facts, there should be new blood brought into the Commission, because the old blood will only naturally seek to cover up its blunders and the result of its short-sighted policy.

Let me give an example. It is definitely claimed that this Commission has lost to this city $20,000.00. through the Campbell Milling Company.

The Council wanted to get at the facts. The Court held that the law did not give them that right. Then the Council should apply to the Legislature and get that right. Why should not the Council which collects the taxes to pay shortages and make extensions, not be able to make enquiries under oath before a Judge where charges are made?

It may come as a surprise to many that the Water Commissioners do not supply water to many of our largest factories. The Commissioners asked such high and excessive rates that they found they could put in their own plants and get the water for their plants at less cost.

It any one wants to verify this statement, he may make enquiries from the Auburn Woollens plant, Bonner-Worth, Vermont Marble, De Laval, Brinton Carpet Company, Quaker Oats, William Hamilton Company and the Canadian Packing Company, all of which have been forced to put in pumping stations of their own, because of the excessive demands made upon them by the Peterborough Utilities Commission, of which Mr. Hicks was lately chairman, and of which it is in the interest of this city he should cease to be a member.

The Commission had and has the plant to supply these manufacturers and part of that plant is standing idle when it should be earning money from these companies.

It will thus be seen also that the Canadian Packing Company is not the only Company that has had to instal its own pumping plant, as Mr. T. F. Matthews' letter in last evening's Examiner clearly shows.

Moreover, it plainly appears from Mr. T. F. Matthews' letter, that Mr. Robert Hicks knew all about the rates that the Matthews Company was being charged, and knew that if the Commission were not satisfied, the Company would put in its own pumping plant.

After Mr. Matthews left the Commission, most excessive rates were imposed upon manufacturers, with the result that the revenue from these large consumers has been lost, the ordinary water consumers charged increased rates to make good this loss, and the City given a "black eye" to new industries seeking location.

Mr. Hicks was very poorly advised to insinuate graft and dishonesty to Mr. T. F. Matthews where none existed, because hundreds will resent it for reasons that are too apparent to all, but not to one who sought to take a mean advantage.

One of our large manufacturing companies has installed a steam power plant in its factory. The power rates are getting so high, it paid them to do so.

This is a nice state of affairs to take place in THE ELECTRIC CITY. No wonder the city is not growing in population but is standing still, if not going behind while power rates and water rates and electric lighting rates are rapidly climbing up under the management of Mr. Robert Hicks, whose services may now be dispensed, by the taxpayers who have the greatest complaints to make against him.

Dec. 30, 1925. R. R. HALL.

The meeting was well attended, though the growing interest of women in municipal affairs was not in evidence, only two ladies forming part of the audience. Walter J. Oke presided, and on the platform by invitation of Mr. Hicks were Alderman Nagle E. Phelan and ex-Alderman W. T. Holloway, candidates for the mayoralty.

The addresses were followed with interest, both mayoralty aspirants presenting clearly and definitely their views on the issues in that contest, and Mr. Hicks giving a dynamic and interesting outline of the aims, achievements and difficulties of the Utilities Commission. In the course of his address the Utilities candidate referred in eulogistic terms to the work done by E. F. Mason, now chairman of the Utilities Commission, and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., the third member, who were seated in the auditorium. He also alluded personally to his predecessors on the Commission, and to the splendid services they had rendered

Mr. Hicks stated that he had been a member of the Utilities Commission for twelve years and that the matters involved in the present election seemed to entail criticism of the Utilities Commission in general and Robert Hicks in particular; but, as one man had remarked, "They hadn't knocked a sliver off him yet."

Waterworks System.

He purposed dealing with the waterworks, particularly from the time when he was first appointed as chairman. The system was first taken over in 1902, and in 1914, he (Robert Hicks) was elected to replace W. H. Hill, who had retired after 13 years of service on the Commission. The business of the city in that connection, Mr. Hicks declared, to be more intricate than the average person could imagine and in addition to the waterworks, the electric system was also added later in the same year, so it was essential that he master the operation of both utilities.

Following the war period came the realization that a filtration plant was essential as the water was in such a state of impurity that the users were forced to boil it. The Commission which was at that time composed of himself as chairman, Charles Sisson and George Duncan decided to submit the matter to the ratepayers who gave their decision that the filtration plant should be established. As a consequence of that decision, Ross Dobbin went down to Montreal, made out plans and came back, well-armed for the task.

A grant of $350,000 was awarded

MEAFORD MAN FATALLY HURT

Shotgun Discharged When He Poked It Down Rabbit Hole.

WALKED TO ROAD.

MEAFORD, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Walter Adams, son of Charles Adams, who lives about two miles out in the country, was hunting rabbits with his younger brother in the bush yesterday afternoon and was poking at a rabbit down a hole with the butt of his shot gun when the trigger caught on a stone and the gun was discharged, the shot piercing the right side of his chest and entering the lung.

He walked to the road from the bush, a distance of about 40 rods, after being hit, when a farmer with his team overtook him and rushed him to a private hospital here. It was found impossible to remove the shot, and no hope is held for his recovery.

REV. W. ALLAN GAVE ADDRESS

"Things Old and New" Basis of New Year's Message to Kiwanis Club.

WIDE IDEALS.

Rev. William Allan, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, was the speaker of the day at Kiwanis, taking as his subject "Things Old and New." In a scintillating address he presented thoughts of the Old Year and for the New Year, serious and humorous by turn, that won appreciative applause. Religion, love, and life, he said, are always old, and yet always new.

Rev. Mr. Allan spoke at length on the Bible, showing how religion and empires move around it as a focal point. He urged the careful appreciation of the Book that will in the New Year bring a religious outlook without which a man cannot amount to much. Of love, he said, it is the one thing that can transform the home into a heaven on earth.

Dividing "Life" into three sections—physical, mental and moral—the speaker placed the emphasis of physical development on the home; mental development on the state;

MILLION DOLLARS OF LIQUOR SEIZED IN DRY AGENTS' HOLIDAY RAID IN NEW YORK

Supply For New Year's So Diminished That Bootleggers Quadruple Prices Over Night — Ten Arrests in Round-up.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—A million dollars (bootleg prices) of high-grade liquor was seized Tuesday by prohibition agents under Director Foster, whose efforts, combined with those of District Attorney Buckner, against bootleggers of denatured alcohol assumed the appearance of a sweeping pre-New Year's offensive.

The liquor, consisting of as yet undiluted whiskeys, wines, cordials and liquers, was seized in two raids in Manhattan and the Bronx. The agents said it was worth at least half a million and would have sold for twice that much after it had been "cut" and put on the market. Apparatus for diluting it was seized in one of the raids.

"Though Attorney Buckner's agents made no arrests in addition to the ten of Monday in his round-up of sellers of alcohol through illegal channels, Mr. Buckner said the price of alcohol to bootleggers had almost quadrupled overnight. He said it had jumped from $1.50 to $5.20 a gallon.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION

Citizens of Peterborough:—

From Mr. Dobbin's letter in Monday's Examiner you might be led to believe that the Board of Education had no regard whatever for the citizens, and the taxes they have to pay. There is not a member of the Board for 1925 who is desirous of increasing the rate of taxation in the city unduly. They are all tax payers one way or another, and if the taxes are increased they must pay as well as other citizens. We would like to give an adequate education without additional taxation, but you will agree that as sewage disposal plants, filtration plants, parks and roads cost money and increase our tax rate, so does education. It is impossible to get these things without paying for them. Is it too much to ask for 82 cents on a $1000 assessment, to give our collegiate children proper accommodation and adequate courses?

For the past six or seven years this matter of extension to our Collegiate and provision for technical education has received the earnest, careful consideration of the Board of Education.

In 1920, Dr. Miller, of the Department of Education, made a survey of the city to determine the needs of the greatly enlarged number of children coming into the Collegiate under the Adolescent Act. His report to the Minister of Education recommended that certain vocational courses should be established, and the plan as suggested by the Board provides for these courses. For a number of years the Collegiate Inspectors have criticized the Board for using the South Central School, thus separating one group of children from the whole collegiate body.

The fact that we have these classes in the old South Central, and not in a technical school or an extension, as the Board proposes, means a loss of over $7000 in salary grants during this past year, because the Department refuses to recognize the present Commercial Department as coming under the Vocational grants while it is in South Central. The Inspectors also report unfavorably to the Department on the shortening of the courses in domestic science and manual training. These courses are, at the present time, not as full as they should be, owing to the fact that they are being taught, not in the Collegiate, but in the Central Public School, and only certain periods of the day are available for them. The use of the gymnasium in the Y.M.-C.A., and also in the Y.W.C.A. for certain classes is also a point of criticism, as the whole intention of the Department is that all pupils and all courses should be in the one building and no doubt you will agree that better work can be done when this condition obtains.

The proposed combination school to be built at the rear of the present Collegiate is an earnest endeavor on the part of the Board to satisfy the demands of the Department of Education, meet the needs of the students and safeguard the ratepayers' interests. This proposed extension has been approved by the Department and no other form of accommodation would be permitted by them. Any suggestions that are outside Department regulations, such as scattering groups of collegiate pupils here, there, and elsewhere would not be tolerated. The Board of Education has taken all these things into consideration and have acted accordingly.

No Board can hope to successfully present to the Department any other plan for increased accommodation than the one already submitted. This plan has been submitted to the 1925 Council, has been gone into thoroughly with them, and has been endorsed by the majority of the members. They have expressed themselves as being individually in favor of the scheme, feeling that it is the proper and economical solution of the problem.

To offer for 82 cents on the $1000 assessment a school which will meet the educational needs of all classes for many years to come is surely offering the citizens good value. This means about 4-5 of a mill additional taxation, and covers full equipment as well as cost of building.

The erection of this building, at the present time, would be a very important thing for Peterborough. Most of the money would be spent here, and it would provide work for a large number of people. In addition to this, we could take in county students, and the amount of money which would be spent in the city in way of board, clothing, etc., would be no small item.

The Board of Education has had information regarding the needs of the city before them, and have spent many hours in considering this matter. We have looked at it from all angles that are feasible and workable. We have had before us the pros and cons, and after due deliberation, taking into consideration everything and the interest of everybody concerned, we have submitted what we consider the best scheme for the solution of the problem. It is an easy matter for one on the outside who hasn't given the matter any appreciable consideration to bring forth some scheme which possibly isn't worth anything when looked into. It has been suggested that instead of spending more money on buildings, that we run a double shift; that is, teach from 7 to 12 in the morning, and from 1 to 6 in the afternoon. At first sight this looks like a rather clever idea, but it has been tried out and discarded as absolutely unworkable.

Mr. Dobbin accuses the 1925 Board of Education of being asleep, but as Chairman of the Board I may say that nearly every scheme that can be thought of has been weighed, and most of them found wanting. I am greatly surprised that Mr. Dobbin would even suggest to the citizens of Peterborough a scattering of classes as he did. Surely if he had given it any thought wha ever, he would have been convinced that the plan was not feasible.

One citizen this morning suggested that we do not go to the expense suggested by Mr. Dobbin, but that we send the teachers to the different homes, thus cutting out the need for new equipment and paying rent at the same time they might mind the children while the family went out. This scheme of course is not any more feasible than that already suggested by Mr. Dobbin.

Yours very sincerely,
J. A. McKONE,
Chairman, Board of Education.

FROM MR. O'BRIEN

Editor, The Examiner,
City.
Dear Sir:

I have been asked by a great many people why I did not qualify and stand for election for Alderman at the ensuing municipal elections. A word of explanation will I trust suffice to answer the inquiry one would naturally expect to be made.

The firm of Gordon & O'Brien, of which I am a member have a number of actions against the City of Peterborough, which were pending at the time of the nominations. Some of our clients would not consent to this litigation being turned over to another solicitor, I think the public will agree with me that under the circumstances I was in duty bound to conform to their wishes.

The Municipal Act provides amongst other things that "a person who, either himself or by or with or through another, is counsel or solicitor in the prosecution of any claim, action or proceedings against the Corporation or in opposing or defending any claim, action or proceeding by the Corporation—shall not be eligible to be elected a member of a council or be entitled to sit or vote therein." As a consequence it was not possible for me to qualify.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness in giving this letter publicity.

Yours faithfully,
J. A. O'Brien.

SIFT ASHES.

To the Editor of The Examiner,
Dear Sir:

If the citizens of Peterborough would only sift their ashes for the next twenty-years they would save to themselves enough money to build a combined Collegiate that would be a credit—and the best advertisement our city could have.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours, etc.,
W. H. Merrill.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The majority of the "low brows" are somewhat tickled to see you get your dressing down in the paper last night. It is just possible that you thought that school days were over and there was another trimming coming to you, but we see that the schoolmaster has got hold of you and strapped you properly, put the dunce cap on you and turned your face to the corner. Now be good.

It would be interesting to know just which editor deserves and received this dressing down because possibly he may be a product of one of the wonderful school departments in some of the towns that were mentioned and not a "home-brew." If so, he should be ashamed of himself. Now that we have rubbed it in through the press possibly we might say a word to the school teacher. Practically all text books for letter writing and correspondence state that the subjects should be dealt with briefly and to the point and that sarcasm has no place in a letter. We notice in the letter on the discussion that sarcasm is a large part of this letter and that the swimming question is dealt with in five different places in a sarcastic manner. Possibly one would have been sufficient.

May we suggest that letter-writing be added to the curriculum of the Technical School and that some of the teachers take a post-graduate course.

As a business man who is out in the world and meeting a very large number of men, possibly able to size up the situation as the average citizen feels it, you can do no better than back up the small subjects as you have. Your efforts to make our town liveable such as giving us support to the supervision of bathing houses, daylight saving, bands in the park and your good community efforts are appreciated, also your efforts to assist in better business such as support to the Board of Commerce, the proper understanding of public questions with a view to eliminating wastage are appreciated by the large mass of your readers. All we can say is to go right ahead in the course that you have laid out, remembering all of us. Let the first and greatest text book teach us first Godliness and then cleanliness. Knowledge comes afterward and we will forgive you if you do fall down once in a while on knowledge if we are given a good exhibition of common-sense to take its place.

I sized the situation up after talking with a number of citizens that everybody wishes to give as good an education as possible to those who want it and to those who will work hard to get it. Book knowledge is not education, it is only a means to the end and to force all children to school after certain ages which varies with the child is not in the best interests of the child or the community. It is a fact that there is a great wastage of overhead in the investment that is made in our town and province for technical institutions. It is a fact that our school teachers do not put in the hours at their work that business men, mechanics and unskilled labor have to work in order to make a comfortable living. It is a fact that there are too many holidays in the schools and the teachers thereby lose contact with their work and there is a lack of efficiency. It is a fact that these questions have had consideration and that some communities are utilizing their large overhead, that is, the educational plant, by adopting the platoon system.

All these phases of the present situation should be examined not by one body, which is largely composed of professional men, but by a community committee who will thoroughly study this subject and decide whether one plan shall be forced through or if several plans can be developed and laid before the people in such a manner that they can understand the question thoroughly. There is an attempt being made by the Ontario Department of Education to make every small community live up to a certain standard and in a manner that is directly opposite to that adopted by the Educational Department themselves. For example, the Educational Department wish to educate teachers, and they do not place a Normal School in every locality. There is one place in six or seven centres in the province and the expenses thereof are thus divided over a greater mass of the people. This same principle is adopted to a more or less degree by the position of our universities in the province. Why cannot the Collegiate Institute, Technical Schools and so forth be supported at least by the county as well as the city? Possibly this could be arranged by a conference between the county and the city. Why could not these intermediate schools be supported by several counties and small towns, thus dividing the load? Such a proposition is not an impracticable one. For example, the support of our road system is generously contributed to by urban as well as rural districts. A few years ago this would have been considered absolutely impracticable.

A call goes forth to our Board of Education to re-open this subject and bring into consultation practical business men, county officials, industrial leaders, leaders in community associations such as Trades and Labor, Owners and Tenants, U.F.O. and so forth.

The average citizen is tired of having thrown up to them that inspectors of the Educational Board demand certain features and will hold certain grants, etc. These inspectors or officials of the Educational Board are not our masters; they are our servants. The Government of Ontario is not our master; it is ourselves, and I am convinced that our good member for Peterboro would only be too glad to introduce such a committee to the Government with a view of making regulations more practicable to conditions in smaller communities.

The business men of town have for the last few years had the greatest trouble to keep their heads above water. The manufacturers have had to curtail their expenses and Mr. Common Man has had to tighten up his belt and practice all sorts of economies to give his family a reasonable living. Many of our citizens are to-day paying more in rent and taxes than they can afford out of their earnings. These are hard, stubborn facts which have to be met with and realistic theories do not meet them. As stated by one of the candidates for alderman on nomination night, "we are educating our boys off the farms and out of our towns to go to the United States." It would be far better that the brains of our community and other smaller communities in Canada be concentrated on providing employment of a productive nature and that our children are not educated to despise the hard and heartless task of building up Canada for Canadians to live in.

Wishing you, Mr. Editor, and your associates, school teachers and all the rest of us common folks, a happy, prosperous New Year.

BUSINESS MAN.

MUSSOLINI PAYS OFFICIAL VISIT TO CHAMBERLAIN

Italian Premier and British Foreign Secretary Hold Long Conference.

SECRECY OBSERVEED.

Only Secretaries of Two Statesmen Present—Chamberlain Host at Dinner.

RAPALLO, Italy, December 30.—Canadian Press. — Premier Mussolini, returning to Rome from his Christmas vacation in Milan, stopped for several hours yesterday to visit Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, who is spending his holiday here.

The meeting brought this picturesque winter resort of the Mediterranean, already famous as the birthplace of international accords, once more into prominence.

Although complete secrecy was maintained as to the subject matter of the long private conversation of the two statesmen, it is generally assumed that it meant more than a formal salutation of friendship from the head of the nation to the distinguished visitor.

Sir Austen met the premier at the station and greeted him cordially. A large crowd had assembled, although Mussolini's coming had been known only a few hours previously and the two drove off through the streets, where they were cheered enthusiastically, to Sir Austen's hotel.

After a long talk in a private room, where they were attended only by their secretaries, the Italian premier was his British colleague's guest at dinner.

PARIS HOSPITALS ARE OVERCROWDED

Patients In Some Have To Defend Themselves From Rats.

PARIS, Dec. 30 (United Press)—Certain Paris hospitals are in such a sorry condition that the patients are actually obliged to defend themselves from the rats, is the startling statement made in the course of a discussion in the municipal council Tuesday. The Director of the Public Charity department, which controls the hospitals, said they are so overcrowded that tents may soon have to be used, despite 2,000 supplementary beds which have been put in. It has been suggested that empty barracks and dismantled forts be taken over as hospitals for foreigners, who cost the city $400,000 a year.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 30 (United Press) — Barney Oldfield, demon automobile driver, lost a race for a divorce Tuesday. Mrs. Rebecca Oldfield, charging the speed king with familiarity with "another woman" crossed the line a length ahead of Barney and was awarded a decree in superior court. Oldfield had brought suit against his wife, charging desertion.

CAMPBELLFORD'S POWER PLANT AGAIN DEMONSTRATES ITS VALUE AS BIG ASSET TO MUNICIPALTY

Power Commission Contributed $6,000 to the Town's Treasury.

OTHER LOCAL AIDS.

Grant in 1926 Will Reduce Tax Rate Nine Mills.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30.—G. A. Kingston and Henry Redden, both of whom were nominated for the Mayoralty Monday night, differ as to the exact amount of Campbellford's debenture debt. Mr. Kingston places the actual total at $144,000, while Mr. Redden just as stoutly maintains that it is $400,000. It is not a question of veracity between the two gentlemen, but simply a matter of book-keeping methods.

In his address at the nomination meeting Monday night, speaking as the town's financial minister, Mr. Kingston said that at the beginning of the year, the bonded indebtedness was $243,000, and that debentures to pay for sewer work, amounting to $61,000, had been sold during the year, bringing the total obligation up to $307,000. Of this amount, ratepayers who are benefitted by the sewers will pay as their share of the improvements $55,000, the town practically holding a mortgage on their property for the amount. Of the new High School debentures, the county will pay about $75,000. This reduces the total by over $100,000 and the power plant debentures will take care of themselves.

Mr. Redden's contention is that a debt is a debt, no matter to whom or by whom it is owing, and that the residents who have to pay frontage tax for sewers can find little comfort in Mr. Kingston's financial philosophy.

That Balanced Budget.

Those taxpayers who are disposed to sneer at the idea of a balanced budget with a nominal surplus of $18.42 are asked to remember that the financial statement has been vouched for by Treasurer F. W. Wood, and anyone who knows that gentleman is convinced that he would not affix his signature to a statement calculated to mislead the public.

Why Talk Calamity?

There are civic Jeremiahs in Campbellford just as there are in every municipality who predict all sorts of financial disaster. On the other hand, there are optimists whose vision does not require rose tinted glass to enable them to see that things are anything but as black as the apostles of blue ruin paint them.

The address made by S. J. Abernethy, chairman of the Water and Light Commission, at the nomination meeting, shows that this town possesses a power plant that earns a yearly surplus of over $30,000. This, too, is earned by a plant that furnishes satisfactory domestic and commercial lighting at a low rate, and, besides, sells the cheapest power of any municipal plant, civic or provincial, in America. A town that owns such an asset cannot, with reason, be regarded as anywhere near the edge of bankruptcy. This surplus is earned after not only all operating expenses but the debenture payments on the plant have been provided for. In a word, if the plant were sold, it would be found that nearly all, if not all, of the total bonded debt of the town could be wiped out.

A Year's Record.

In 1924 the Commission extended their lines and were able to turn over to the town this year the sum of $6,000 out of their surplus, or sufficient to reduce the tax rate by nearly five mills. In addition to this the Commission loans the town $27,000 on easier terms than can be secured from the banks.

This year the Commission purchased a new 100 horse-power pump for the fire hall at a cost of $4,000, and spent about $2,000 in repairing the building. The fire fighting equipment is now so complete that in the event of a big fire, five or six streams of water could be thrown at the same time over the highest building in town. It is hoped that a reduction in local fire insurance rates will result.

Hope For the Future.

In spite of this extra outlay, Chairman Abernethy brought the cheering message that the Commission will be able to make the town a grant of ten or twelve thousand dollars in 1926, which would reduce the tax rate by nearly nine mills.

Dr. G. A. Hay, and he has municipal experience, and is recognized as an authority on civic affairs, says that the entire surplus earned by the power plant, less what is required for a sinking or contingent fund, should by law be turned over to the Council. If this were done, and the $27,000 loan now rated in the financial statement as a liability, appeared on the other side of the ledger, the town would furnish fewer excuses for the wailings of the pessimists.

NO ELECTION IN CAMPBELLFORD ALL OFFICES BY ACCLAMATION

Only Enough Qualified to Fill the Various Positions.

KINGSTON IS MAYOR.

First Time in Years That There Has Been No election Needed.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 30.—There will be no election in Campbellford next Monday, as out of the long list of candidates nominated at the public meeting only a sufficient number qualified to fill the various positions. For the first time in years the town is to be saved the expense of holding an election.

Those who qualified and who will hold office during 1926 are as follows:

Mayor, George A. Kingston.
Reeve, Chas. H. Davidson.
Deputy-Reeve, C. W. Palliser.
Councillors, R. H. Cole, W. J. Abernethy, Nelson Stone, Walter S. Wiggins, Alex. N. McDonald, and John O'Sullivan.

Councillor Stone announced at the nomination meeting that he would not stand but was prevailed upon to change his mind yesterday.

Water and Light Commissioner, A. L. Riendeau.

Member of the Board of Education, P. C. Denyes, A. G. Thompson and R. J. Allan.

There will be two new members at the council table next year, Alex. N. McDonald and John O'Sullivan, the promotion of Councillor Kingston to the mayoralty and the retirement of Councillor Moore creating two vacancies. Councillor McDonald was a member of the council in 1924, and gave good service. Mr. O'Sullivan is a retired business man, one of the town's wealthiest residents, with large property interests, and with plenty of leisure to devote to his new duties. He made his money in Campbellford, chiefly in the lumber business, and has for some time been known as an open advocate of economy in the administration of civic affairs. It is expected that he will take an active part in the council proceedings during the year.

The New Trustees.

The new trustees are all well known young business men. R. J. Allan was a member of the council in 1923 and supported the issue of a grant to the Board of Education for the construction of the new high school. A. G. "Glenn" Thompson is accountant in the Standard Bank. He has been a resident of the town for 5½ years, coming here from Brighton. Mr. Denyes is a former employee of the Hydro, but is now in business for himself.

Police System Safe.

One thing is settled by the election of the council for 1926—the police system as established a year ago, is safe, and the two officers on the force are secure in their positions. There are only two councillors who would favor a return to the one-man system if the question ever came to a vote. An attempt was made to ring the matter in as the leading issue in the campaign, but Councillor W. S. Wiggins at the nomination meeting declared that the two men were costing the town only two or three hundred dollars a year more than the old system when extra men had to be engaged, and it was foolish to hold an election over such a small amount. Mr. Wiggins held out no hope to the electors that the tax rate would be lower next year. If the council, he said, can hold it down to 47 mills (this year's rate) they will do well, and all that can be expected of them.

The lid was clamped down tight in Campbellford this year. A glance at the personnel of the new council leads some citizens to the conclusion that the lid will be rivetted into place in 1926.

PROPERTY SOLD NEAR MARMORA

Lot Was Bid in By the Mortgagee—Fox Hunter Successful.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Dec. 30.—But a few minutes sufficed on Saturday afternoon at the St. James Hotel for Mr. Fred Johnston to dispose of the following property: Part of the west half of lot 11, lying west of the Central Ontario Railway in the 7th concession of the Township of Marmora. It was purchased by Mr. John Murray, of the Township of Marmora, mortgagee, at the reserved bid of $1,450.00. Messrs. Parker and Crabtree, of Toronto, were solicitors for the mortgagee.

Success continues to favour the hunting pursuits of Mr. James Gardanier. On Monday, Dec. 21st, he secured three foxes and three others also coming his way, makes six pelts to his credit within seven days.

Prizes for best attendances at the United Sunday School for 1925 were awarded in course of the recent Christmas entertainment to Thomas Warren, James Thomson, Douglas Airhart, Alice Henry, Edith Henry, Harry Bateman, George Bateman and Olive Airhart.

Marmora's skating rink opened officially for skating on Saturday afternoon. Owing to the inability to have a picture show at night, many would-be patrons forgot their disappointment by indulging in the delights of skating.

Despite the extreme coldness of the evening, there was a good congregation at the United church on Sunday when the Rev. F. J. Horwood most admirably gave Dickens' Christmas Carol in place of the usual sermon.

WEDDING BELLS

YAKE—FRANCEY.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30.—A quiet but very pretty Yuletide wedding took place at ten o'clock on Monday morning, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Jas. Francey, when her youngest daughter, Irene Elizabeth, became the bride of John Hall Yake, of Brighton.

The bridal party was unattended, the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Victor Walker, of Janetville, taking place beneath an arch of white intertwined with evergreen and pink roses.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Harry Francey, of Oshawa, looked charming in a dainty wedding gown of ivory georgette crepe, trimmed with cloth of silver, and worn over white satin. Her veil was caught, coronet style, with tiny silver blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink Ophelia roses. Silver shoes completed her costume.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held, the guests including only the immediate friends and relatives of the family.

The bridal table, for the wedding dinner, was centred with the handsome, three-story wedding cake, and had white streamers caught at its four corners with pink roses.

Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Yake left by motor for their home in Brighton, amid showers of confetti and good wishes. The bride travelled in a coat of French blue, with sable trimming, worn over a dress of black crepe back satin, also trimmed with French blue, and with hat to match.

The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial cheque, and the many other beautiful gifts received were tangible tokens of the esteem and affection in which both are held by a large circle of friends.

Among those from outside points who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eyers, of Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. William Munro, of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Francey, of Oshawa.

MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS

OMEMEE VILLAGE.

OMEMEE, Dec. 30. — An enthusiastic gathering attended attended the nomination meeting for the village of Omemee in Cornation Hall on Monday night. The following were the nominations:

For Reeve—W. D. Stinson, L. A. Southworth, R. Poast, E. H. Mitchell, T. C. Ivory, H. Lamb, S. Skuce.

For Councillors— L. A. Southworth, R. Poast, J. Magee, R. Carey, F. Parker, Ed. Jamieson, F. McBain, P. Race.

School Trustees—R. H. Williamson, B. Sanderson, W. G. Stephenson, R. J. Cornwall, Thomas Newman.

Hydro Commissioners — J. T. Beatty, T. C. Ivory.

BELMONT TOWNSHIP.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 30.—The nomination for Reeve and councillors for the Township of Belmont and Methuen was held on Monday afternoon, December 28th at the Belmont Town Hall. The following is the result:

Reeve—J. F. Breckenridge, W. E. Griffith, Geo. Vansickle (Mr. Vansickle withdrew).

Councillors—Norris Whitney, A. C. Buchanan, Gilbert Steenburgh, Ernest Spencer, Geo. Vansickle, G. B. Sanders, W. J. Seeney, A. D. Buchanan, S. Cole.

W. J. Seeney and S. Cole withdrew and all the old councillors filed their qualifications.

HAVELOCK VILLAGE.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 30.—At the conclusion of the nominations at Havelock Monday Mr. E. Fennell was appointed chairman of the meeting on motion of Reeve Curtis and I. Barlow.

Reeve Curtis was the first speaker and in giving an outline of the work done in 1925 he said that the council had been economical in spending the people's money and he was pretty well satisfied with the year's work.

During the year $2,500.00 had been spent on streets and sidewalks. This amount was about $1,000 more than in 1924. Seventeen cars of rock loaded to capacity had been purchased from the Ontario Rock Co. at a cost of $555.47 plus C.P.R. freight, $467.62.

The calcium chloride put on the streets in the business section and where there was the most traffic at an expenditure of $450 was one of the best expenditures the council had made. There was no use of putting on gravel to blow away, he said, and calcium chloride keeps the road surface damp and causes it to harden. The tax rate, he continued, was two mills lower in 1925 than 1924 and there was no reason why it should not be brought to 44 or 45 mills in 1926 as the streets were all in pretty good condition owing to the permanent road building that had been done this year. He had also been successful in getting a $500 grant this year which is a hundred dollars more than in 1924.

S. S. Joyce.

Mr. S. S. Joyce, a candidate for Reeve, was next called and stated that he had not had any time to look into the financial statement as issued by the clerk but he did not agree with Mr. Curtis in some of his expenditures. With reference to the rock he thought the council made a good bargain in buying it but did not agree with the way it was put on. He believed in spreading it thickly on a road eight feet wide. He said it was put on some streets so very thin it was like sowing grain. He had found when travelling during the summer that the gravel was spread thickly all over the highway. He did not think the village had any permanent roads. He then drew attention to the experience he had had in county council and if elected he would bring as much money home as Mr. Curtis and possibly as much in one year as Mr. Curtis had done in three. In conclusion, he said, "I am before you for Reeve with one proviso, that it will be a straight contest between Mr. Curtis and myself. If Mr. Sanderson qualifies I will withdraw, as I will not run in a three-cornered fight."

Councillor Campney.

Councillor R. E. Campney promised if elected to do as well as he had done in previous years.

Councillor Scott.

Councillor James Scott said that as he had been nominated he intended to stand for election and uphold the council in the work that had been done on the streets this year.

Councillors Alf Spencer and James Kitchen asked the electors for their support on their record.

Nominated For Both Offices.

R. Sanderson, nominated for both offices, had not decided whether he would stand for election for Reeve or council but was not going to make any promises but would do his best if elected.

Firman Haig said that at the request of a number of citizens he had decided to seek election as councillor.

D. McAdam said he was in a little different position. All the others had served in this council and he was a new man. But he had had several years' experience in township council where he lived before coming to Havelock.

Mr. Fennell, the secretary of the school board read the financial statement for the Board of Education showing that the school tax rate had been lowered 2 mills in 1925.

Mr. D. A. Forde was the only one of the nominees for Board of Education to speak and promised if again elected to do all in his power for the benefit of the school.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 30.—At the after meeting following the nominations on Monday night, Mr. T. W. B. Marling took the chair, on motion of Mr. E. A. Tanner, seconded by Mr. F. J. Burgess. Mr. Marling called on the nominees present to address the meeting.

The first speaker was the Reeve, Mr. J. C Strickland, who after thanking those who nominated him announced his intention of standing again. When he was elected reeve in 1920, the village was deeply in debt with an overdraft of more than $8,000, and at the end of six years there is a surplus of $959.46, and during the past year the tax rate has been lowered two mills and the speaker is satisfied that the rate can be lowered 2 or 3 mills in the next few years. After the hard struggle of the past six years, Mr. Strickland would like to reap some of the pleasure of the easier times and the lowered taxes.

Another reason for re-election, Mr. Strickland feels is the good roads question, which has been fought out in the County Council for several years, the speaker opposing the entrance of the villages into the system as being too great a burden and at present there is a good prospect of the county paving the main street of the village as a connecting link between their roads and over which, he said, 85 per cent of the traffic in the Lakefield-Peterboro road goes and which is really a county obligation.

Regarding the school question, the speaker is trying to carry out a legislation by which the County will go 50-50 on the maintenance of the High Schools and in time he thinks the county will take over both High Schools entirely.

Regarding the bridge over the canal deemed by many as unsafe and certainly too narrow; it is not at all improbable that the Government will replace the present structure with a good cement bridge in the near future.

Mr. Strickland feels that the reeve of the village ought to have his interest centred in the county and can assure the ratepayers that on the County Council he was not asleep but held out for Lakefield getting its share.

Re the Canada Cement By-law; the Council has been blamed for being slow in this matter, but the by-law submitted at the public meeting did not seem quite fair to the village on second reading, and after taking the matter up with the village solicitors, the present agreement is much better for the village.

Mr. Strickland assured Mr. Moore that in the coming contest he would do his best to win and would guarantee a fair fight and if elected the affairs of the village will receive his best attention, but whether he is elected or not the taxes will be lowered.

Mr. F. J. Moore was the next speaker and after thanking those who nominated him, he announced his intention of standing, and if elected, he said, would do his best for the village. He has held the office in the past and always got the County money in his term of office.

Mr. E. A. Tanner was the next to be called on as Chairman of the Finance Committee in the 1925 Council.

Mr. Tanner is not a candidate for 1926, but reviewed the past few years where gradually the bank overdraft was reduced till now there is a surplus, which will pay one and a half mills on next year's taxes. Regarding the agreement with the Canada Cement Co., the village has now the best agreement they ever had with the company, which is binding and contains a heavy penalty clause in the event of the company not making good its contract. Although this year the speaker is dropping out of municipal life, it is possible that after a few years he may get back into harness again.

Mr. N. A. Moore, chairman of the property committee, was the next speaker, and after a brief resume of the work done in the past four years he has been councillor, he announced that he will withdraw this year. His father is a candidate for reeve, and two members of the family in the field is not wise, he said.

Mr. W. Madill, chairman of the charity committee, spoke very briefly on the subject of his department, which had very little to do, as only between $60 and $65 was expended. Mr. Madill had no intention of entering this year's contest.

Mr. J. E. Richardson is uncertain as yet as to whether or not he will stand, but will await further developments before deciding.

Dr. M. P. Kenpedy will stand this year for election, and thinks that with the village in such a good condition it is a good time to enter the Council. Nominated last year, he had been accused to sliding out, but if he had stood then it would have necessitated an election, as all the others had gone in by acclamation. Dr. Kennedy bespoke the support of the electors present, as he intends to make no canvass.

Mr. J. F. Lillecrap declined the nomination, although he fully appreciates the honor of nomination and feels his past record on the Council must have been worth while, otherwise he would not have been remembered again. The speaker is president of the Board of Trade and at present a movement is on foot to re-organize it at a meeting to be held to-morrow night. Mr. Lillecrap will support any Council which will do what is right and if he thinks it is not doing right, he won't be afraid to tell it so.

Mr. Nathan Payne declined the nomination for school trustee, as did also Mr. Wellington MacDonald.

E. R. Tate, the re-elected Hydro Commission, gave a very interesting statement of the work of the local Commission, which wired the bridge in the past year at a cost of $334, which does away with two street lights and gains five.

The value of the local equipment, etc., is $44,564, the debentures sold are $33,500 of which $30,000 was spent on the system. The remainder is invested in bonds paying 5 1-2 per cent. Up to the end of November, 1925, the receipts for light, etc., are $9,247, of which $3,428 is for domestic light and $3,376 for commercial light, and $1,240 for power, and $940 for street lights; $80 interest.

Wages and salaries amounted to $1,171, the amount over and above the superintendent's salary paid in wages was $52. There are 305 meters and 20 ranges and hot plates and 99 1-5 street lights.

The books are audited twice a year by a competent auditor, who pops in a moment's notice and checks up the books by the individual counter card system, and by the bank's records. During the past season a bad thunder storm did a considerable amount of damage to the local station which necessitated extensive repairs.

Mr. Marling urged, in closing the meeting, that any one who had any question regarding the financial statement would come to him any time during the next week and a half, when he would be in his office. Wild rumors often go about through people getting a wrong idea and not taking the trouble to verify it. Rumors start easily and any member of the Council or he himself would gladly give any information asked. The meeting closed.

SAVINGS INCREASE.

Forty Million Savings Certificates Bought By Thrifty Britishers.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—We may be a decadent country financially, as we have been assured from an eminent authority elsewhere, but at any rate there still exists a striving after thrift among at least a proportion of the people of England. Forty million saving certificates were sold in the last twelve months, and 721 millions have been sold since the movement started in 1916. These certificates are purchasable at 16s, and in five years time are worth £1, which means interest at over five per cent. Moreover, they are not liable to income tax. The whole movement, of course, is under the authority of the Government.

INFORMING THE VOTERS.

The last piece of constructive action effected by ex-Ald. Crowe is being demonstrated by the delivery to every voter of an official notice informing him of the place in which his vote is to be recorded on Friday.

This propaganda has not been expensive, and the beneficial effect arising from this official method of informing the people will make the expenditure well worth while.

One of the causes generally given for failure to vote has been the fact that many electors did not know where their particular polling booth was located, and would not go to the trouble, especially on a holiday, of trying to find out.

The method followed this year of notifying every person whose name is on the lists wipes this excuse out of existence.

It may be necessary to repeat the plan next year, but thereafter the electors generally will have grasped the idea that polling will take place always at the schools or at the City Hall, and that they will continue to vote at the same place every year.

If the experiment succeeds in bringing out even a couple of hundred more votes, the expenditure occasioned by ex-Ald. Crowe's policy will be amply justified by the results secured.

THE FUEL SITUATION.

The warning of Hon. Chas. Stewart to the Canadian householders to lay in what supplies of substitute fuel they can secure at present prices may be of some value.

Unfortunately, however, those most affected by the coal shortage are those who are not in a position financially to purchase any large amount of fuel.

Those with ready financial resources protected themselves earlier in the year by absorbing the available supplies of anthracite, and they have no great need of substitutes, while the balance of the citizens who willy-nilly have to buy their fuel from month to month are not only unable to secure anthracite but find themselves in a position where they are facing higher prices later on for the substitute fuel they need.

The city's Fuel Committee might well be advised to consider this phase of the situation in the face of Hon. Mr. Stewart's warning that the ever-increasing demand by the American consumers for anthracite substitutes will mean an increase in the price of these substitutes for those Canadians who have to depend on securing their fuel in small quantities as they need it and as they are able to pay for it.

THE MAJOR ISSUE.

Mr. Richard Lees' letter published last evening would seem to indicate either that Mr. Lees has not been reading the Examiner as closely as he might have or else that we have been unfortunate enough to have created an impression that was not intended.

The Examiner has never said that the two main issues of the municipal campaign are daylight saving and Sunday bathing; on the contrary, the Examiner has more than once in the last two weeks stated that the major issue before the electors hinged on the new Collegiate Institute question.

It is our opinion—and we believe the opinion of the majority of our readers—that this question should be submitted to the ratepayers.

It will then become the duty of the Board of Education to convince the people that the building programme proposed by the Board is essential if Peterboro is to provide proper educational facilities for its children.

There has not been enough done to educate the citizens as to the necessity of this extension project, and if a bylaw were to be submitted next year, the Board would be given a chance to drive home to the people the need of action.

It should be remembered that it has taken some years to convince the majority of the Board of Education that the programme now endorsed represents the best solution of Peterboro's educational problems.

That being so, it is not surprising to find opposition in many circles to the projected undertaking.

Daylight saving and Sunday bathing are, of course, not issues as affecting the election of candidates; they are, as the Examiner considers it, already made plain, questions that are to be settled by the people themselves, and the first especially is of considerable importance because every man, woman and child in the city will be affected by the passing of a daylight saving measure.

VOTING AT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

History is an open page which tells many tragic stories of the fight waged through generations for responsible government. Yet, with these victories won, how often the public has become indifferent to their responsibilities.

During recent years, this apathy has displayed itself conspicuously in Canada. The franchise, so dearly bought and paid for by our ancestors, has been held in such little regard that returns following elections are frequently startling in the small percentage of votes represented.

The electorate should be awakened from its lethargy. Taxpayers in a municipality are equivalent to shareholders in a business enterprise. An analysis of the investment in civic works, of the expenditures for municipal services, will show the interest which each individual citizen has at stake, but what part is every man and woman taking in the community enterprise?

An examination of the record will show that efficiency in ballot expression has steadily declined, while the investment has increased. Only through the ballot can electors have a real control over the quality and cost of their civic services.

The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce at their fourteenth annual meeting adopted a resolution to urge upon every one the necessity for exercising the franchise. This movement is non-political, the object to get the citizens to the polls. How they shall vote on any question or for what candidate is the business entirely of the individual.

The slogan, "Vote as you like but vote," is well taken, and is recommended for the thoughtful attention of all citizens as the municipal election draws near.

ADOLESCENT ACT.

Protest made by the Canadian Council on Child Welfare to Premier Ferguson against the proposal of the Toronto Board of Education to make compulsory the attendance at night classes of day-time exempt adolescents was unnecessary, it is revealed, the Prime Minister, who is also the Minister of Education, having in mind an amendment to the Act that will permit of total exemption in cases of hardship, says the Hamilton Spectator. The Adolescent Act has conclusively proven itself to be a splendid piece of legislation and there is always a danger of spoiling good legislation by tinkering with it, but Premier Ferguson has not been unmindful of this and, it is revealed, has guarded against it. His plan is to have a court of appeal, composed of but one official, whose responsibility it will be to decide whether appellants are entitled to total exemption. If the child is a support of the family and his attendance at school would add to the distress of the family he will, under the terms of the amendment, be relieved of the necessity of completing his education. This amendment will eradicate the one feature of the Act that has been open to criticism. The Adolescent Act was placed on the statute books at a time when depression enveloped the country and unemployment was epidemic. The natural result was that problems confronted the administrators of the Act that will not be encountered in normal times. In many homes in Hamilton the money being brought in by the youngsters is all the family has to depend on. To prohibit these adolescents from working and compel them to continue their studies would be inhuman. When, however, there are jobs for all the breadwinners, the Adolescent Act will really come into its own. And many of the boys and girls of today, who otherwise would have finished up in blind-alley jobs, will come to the realization when they attain manhood and womanhood that they were in the hands of their friends when they were compelled to continue their studies.

ANALYZING UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Manitoba Free Press has been analyzing the figures of the relief given on account of unemployment, and comparing the winters of 1923-24 and 1924-25. The single men do not make up the unemployment problem, neither do those, as is often stated, who have just come to the country.

It was asked how long the applicants had lived in Manitoba, and how long they had been in Canada. Taking the 1924-25 figures, it is disclosed that while 386 asked relief who had been in Manitoba less than three months, 2,473 asked relief who had been in Manitoba more than ten years.

And while 21 asked relief who had been less than three months in Canada, 3,419 asked relief who had been in Canada for more than ten years.

It was also asked how long the applicants for relief had lived in Winnipeg, and this was the answer: 249 had lived in Winnipeg less than three months; 120 less than six months; 204 less than one year; 168 less than two years; 693 had lived in Winnipeg from two to ten years; and 1,266 had lived in Winnipeg for more than ten years.

These figures have brought the Free Press to conclude that there are married men with families, residents of the city for years, who come each winter to the relief department. During their productive months they have not been able to get anything ahead; their problem is the same one year as it is another. They have no other place to look for assistance, so they become regular visitors to the relief department.

The establishment of relief departments has served to bring these cases together; it does not indicate that there are more of them than in other years, but it does serve to show from correct work in collecting statistics that the problem of unemployment belongs to the city itself to a greater extent than was generally supposed, because we have been told many times that it came from outsiders rushing for winter cover.

The best sort of relief is work at reasonable wages, and the keeping of correct reports on those being assisted in this way forms an intelligent way of dealing fairly with the question. London's experience is no doubt similar to that of Winnipeg or any other city. Apart from very exceptional cases the men in need of relief prefer to have it in the way of wages given for work. In this way a city gets value for the money it spends and to a fair degree meets its unemployment situation. It is by far the best method yet devised.—London Advertiser.

A THOUGHT.

THE DAMNATION OF DEFINITION.

The dictionary is a dangerous book.

It is more dangerous, perhaps, than all the sex novels and subversive political tracts that keep the censors awake nights, because the dictionary is a symbol of our passion for definiton.

And next to muddled thinking the most dangerous form of mental activity is the practice of forcing everything into fixed and final definitions, and branding as heretic or traitor the man who later questions them.

It s a great day in a man's life when he learns that the most important things of life cannot be captured in neat definitions.

As Samuel Butler suggested, a definitions is an attempt to enclose a wilderness of idea within a wall of words; a definition is a kind of scratching around an idea, and the scratching usually leaves a sore spot.

John Jay Chapman has ventured the opinion that "Christianity persists because men reflect on Christ at odd moments." That is, because men reflect on Christ when they feel no responsibility to define or defend any doctrinal notion of Christ. In such moments they are free to feel the full impact of his stirring and stimulating personality. When they set out consciously to define Him they may fall into logic-chopping and miss the contagion of His personality.

We cannot capture infinite meanings in finite words.

Most of us are prisoners of the definitions we have inherited and the definitions we have ourselves drafted.

Definitions are useful as markers to show the road along which we have traveled in our intellectual and spiritual growth.

Definitions are dangerous when we clamp them down tightly over the future and command the future to operate within their limits.

Definitions are means of taking our latitude and longtitude, but they are not sailing charts for the future, if the future is to mean growth; if we are to sail on new seas and explore new lands. They may tell us how to get back home if we find our intellectual and spiritual adventures futile; but we must not allow them to keep us forever in the same port.

Politics, religion, education, law, business—every field of human aspiration and activity is weighted down and definitions that are straightjackets for men's minds and spirits.

We do not have to solve every problem for all time.

Most of the problems that harrass us will harrass our children and our children's children.

Life is an exciting adventure just because so many problems are apparently insoluble. We know that we shall always have a lot of unfinished business on hand.

A sense of the insolubility of most human problems will not turn real men into fatalists; it will turn them into men who with a wholesome doubt of the finalty of their definition will become spiritual adventurers blazing fresh trails for their children.—Glenn Frank.

CANADA'S GIANT DRYDOCK

3. Canada's 1,150 ft. Drydock, Ready for Gates.
4. Canada's Giant Drydock Filled.
5. One of the 1,600-ton Drydock Gates, Made by Yarrows Limited, at Esquimalt, Victoria, B.C.

During the Great War the Dominion Government of Canada decided that it was necessary to have a drydock on the Pacific Coast big enough to take the largest ship afloat. After a very careful survey and consideration, Victoria was chosen as the obvious site; and the building of a huge drydock in Esquimalt Harbor, Victoria, was commenced in 1921. This giant basin, hewn out of the living rock, has cost approximately $6,000,000 and measures 1,150 feet long, 149 feet in width at the top, 126 feet at the bottom; its depth is 49 feet 5 inches, with 40 feet of water on sills at high water. The dock will take any ship afloat, or, if desired, can be devided into two section of 400 feet and 750 feet respectively. It is lined with concrete, with granite coping altars or steps, granite keel and bilge block seats, and is equipped with four caisson berths of granite.

To make ready for this dock, it was necessary to excavate 81,000 cubic yards of dredging, 41,000 cubic yards of earth excavation, and 350,000 cubic yards of rock excavation, while in the construction of the dock there was used 103,000 yards of concrete, 105,000 cubic feet of granite, 36,000 lbs. of wrought-iron, 141,000 lbs. of steel, 40,000 lineal feet of piping of various kinds, 1,800 tons of cast-iron, and approximately 2,500,000 tons of steel were used on the caissons.

The dock is to be finished early in 1926.

There is only one larger dock in the world, and that is the Commonwealth, at Boston, Mass., which is 29 feet longer.

The dock will be operated electrically. There are three 54-inch main pumps and two 22-inch auxiliary pumps, which empty the dock in four hours. The water is pumped out into the sea through a 600-foot tunnel measuring 9 feet by 14 feet.

When filled, the dock contains 42,000,000 gallons of water. The dock gates, which weigh 1,600 tons apiece, were constructed by Yarrows, Ltd., Esquimalt.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—A sharp decline in fresh eggs from the high levels has taken place, which is earlier this season than usual. The opinion is the drop has been too sharp and it is quite probable there will be a reaction.

Toronto—Fresh specials, jobbing, 60, extras 58, firsts 55, storage extras 45, firsts 42, seconds 35.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—Exciting right about face action in the wheat market today suddenly resulted in 9 cents a bushel advance from prices current this morning. The advance quickly followed word that Secretary Hoover had said wheat is worth $8 a bushel as compared with British prices for rubber.

Both wheat and corn closed buoyant, wheat 1 3-4 to 6 1-2 cents net higher, new style, December, 1.87 to 1.89, and May 1.83 1-2 to 1.85. Corn finished 3 1-8 to 4 1-8 cents up; oats at 7-8 to 1 to 1 1-8c gain, and provisions showing a rise of 7 to 35 cents.

Violently in contrast with this outcome was the fact that before Secretary Hoover's allusion to $8 a bushel for wheat had gained any general publicity, the wheat market had been undergoing a pronounced setback, chiefly owing to a greater decline in Liverpool quotations today than Chicago traders were expecting. Notable weakness of prices here early were also induced by talk which was prevalent that stimulating factors such as the big reduction in the latest United States Government wheat crop estimate had already been over-discounted. Under such circumstances, support for the market was virtually absent, except after sharp declines in prices.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 29 (Canadian Press).—A steady feeling prevailed in the local market for strictly fresh eggs, and prices were unchanged. There was no change in the storage eggs situation, prices being steady with the movement up to the average for the season, which indicates that the consumption is keeping up. The receipts were 235 cases, as against 671 for the same day last week, and 123 for the corresponding day a year ago.

A very firm feeling prevails in the market for potatoes, and prices were fully maintained at the late advance noted, but the volume of business on spot showed no marked improvement owing to the fact that buyers in most cases have still fair stocks on hand and until these are worked off not much increased activity is expected.

The receipts of butter in Montreal were 100 packages, as agains 134 for the same day last week, and 528 for the corresponding day a year ago. The tone of the market was firm under a continued steady demand for supplies and a fair amount of business was done, which would indicate that stocks in second hands have been reduced to low level and that they are now being replenished.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal were 461 boxes, as compared with 342 for the same day last week, and 137 for the corresponding day a year ago. The market was without any special feature to note, business being slow in all directions and prices on spot for early makes were nominally quoted at 21 1-2c to 22c per lb., and current receipts at 18c to 18 1-2c per lb.

CAROLS AT APSLEY BY CHURCH CHOIR

St. George's Choristers Sang in Village.

APSLEY, Dec. 30.—St. George's Church choir followed the custom of previous years of singing carols on Christmas Eve, at various points in the village.

Personals.

Mrs. Bert Lean, with her sister, Mildred, is spending the holiday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hales.

Mr. William James, a former resident of Apsley, and now living in Saskatchewan, is visiting his sons, Hubert and Owen.

Three weddings of local people took place in Peterborough during the last two weeks.

Mr. John Reynolds, of Bancroft, was on the village last week, purchasing furs from local trappers.

A big bear was secured by Robert McCauley between Apsley and Burleigh, last week.

Rev. C. A. G. Spence conducted service at Holy Trinity Church, Haultain, on Sunday morning, and in spite of the severe cold there was a good congregation present.

Just eighty letters were received by Santa Claus at Apsley, and every one of the senders received the thing asked for, except three, whose requests were beyond Santa's power. They, however, received a substitute which gave satisfaction.

SANTA CLAUS WAS WELCOME VISITOR

Surrounded By Admiring Kiddies During Visit to Deloro Hall.

MARMORA, Dec. 30.—Those attending the annual Christmas Tree held in Deloro Hall on Christmas Eve, and for which the Social and Dramatic Society of the village is responsible, viewed the most elaborate affair of its kind for miles around. At an early hour children of both day schools repeated various items rendered at the schools' concert on Monday. The basement of the Deloro Hall was crowded by an appreciative audience. In due time noise overhead signalled the descent of Santa Claus. The drawing back of the stage curtains revealed a beautiful improvised fireplace. In a second, it seemed the jovial old chap appeared through the fireplace and with the most graceful of somersaults, landed on his feet at the front of the stage to bow to the audience so warmly greeting him. The welcome visitor first occupied himself with organizing musical chairs for the juveniles most ready. Then, clambering to the floor of the hall, wee tots were given rides on his back around and around with aspirants for the honor clutching his garments.

Back to the stage the hero returned and bags filled with candies, nuts and an orange found their way into even the tiniest palms. A second series of joy-rides ensued and then Santa Claus clambered over the miniature fence surrounding the majestic and brilliantly illuminated tree and presents galore were showered around.

It is said that the attendance of children and adults exceeded that of any previous year.

TRENTON LADY 103 YEARS OLD

Mrs. Susan McCarmen is Still in Good Health Despite Great Age.

BORN IN TRENTON

COBOURG, Dec. 30.—One of the oldest residents of the lake front district is Mrs. Susan McCarmen, of Trenton, who, last Monday, celebrated her 103rd birthday. Mrs. McCarmen enjoys the distinction of being the first white child born in Trenton. She was the oldest of eleven children born to Mr. and Mrs. Hawley, of U.E. Loyalist descent, who went to what is now the town of Trenton to take up residence shortly before Mrs. McCarmen's birth. Mr. Hawley was Trenton's first postmaster, magistrate and reeve. He kept store in Trenton long before the advent of the railroad, when goods had to be all brought in sleighs in the winter time, and by wagon, stage-coach or boat, in the summer time. In his home there was held concerts and other entertainments to raise funds to help pay for the erection of the present St. George's Church. The river Trent, from which Trenton derives its name, was then spanned by a wooden bridge. It was in 1916 that the present five steel structure was built. Of her brothers and sisters there remain now only Mrs. D. Roblin, Toronto and Mrs. M. C. Francis, Trenton, with whom Mrs. McCarmen resides.

Rules for Longivity.

Although past the century mark, Mrs. McCarmen retains the use of her faculties, excepting that during the last two years her sight and hearing have failed some. She attributes her good health to wholesome food, regular hours and sensible dress, and has no use for late hours, fancy dishes, or the present day styles in women's clothes, which many affect.

PREPARING PROGRAMMES.

Miners and Operators Holding PreConference Sessions.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SUNDAY BATHING.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear sir:

I do not consider it fitting that the pulpits of the city should be used for political propaganda, either municipal or of wider import. And it is just a question whether, if the Church has been consistently doing its duty, such propaganda should be necessary from any source or platform.

Surely the great aim of the Church should be the educating of the people's morals, and if the Church has so far failed in its teachings that the public leans toward the heinious crime of bathing on Sunday, then the Church should redouble its efforts to reclaim the strayed lambs instead of endeavouring to build legislative barb wire fences around the bathing beaches. If the will to do "wrong" is there it is easy to crawl through a fence, but if the education is well given then the indivdual will not desire the evil thing.

Let the ministers who oppose Sunday bathing sit down quietly and discuss honestly with themselves whether they have, during the past year, preached sermons calculated to inspire reverence for the Sabbath day. And if, instead, they have allowed their Churches to be turned into concert halls for the display of musical gymnastics, let them mend their ways from the first Sunday in the New Year and watch the effect

Has it occurred to them that the preaching of the Church may have had something to do with the sanctity in which the Sabbath was held in the days of their youth?

Yours truly,

D. E. WINSTON.

TOTAL PROGRESSIVE VOTE FELL FROM 769,387 TO 282,599 OCT. 29; 3,157,571 BALLOTS WERE MARKED

71.1 Per Cent. of Eligible Electors Exercised Their Franchise.

FINAL RETURNS.

Liberal Shrinkage Slight Compared With Loss of Members.

OTTAWA, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—An analysis of the popular vote cast in the general election of October 29 reveals that approximately 71.1 per cent. of those persons on the electoral list exercised the franchise. In the 1921 general election the estimate was that 70.3 per cent. of eligible voters cast ballots. The popular vote of the election this year was 3,157,571. This is 35,727 more than the popular vote of 1921. It is assumed by electoral officials that the numbers on the eligible lists have not changed materially since 1921, when there were 4,435,310.

The official figures of the total vote cast issued Monday do not give the votes secured by parties. The Canadian Press calculations of the total votes by parties in 1921 and in 1925 is as follows:

	1921	1925
Lib.	1,296,723	1,266,534
Con.	971,502	1,467,596
Prog.	769,387	282,599
Ind. and Lab.	84,232	140,842

While the Liberal vote shows a comparatively small change, in 1921, 117 Liberals were returned to Parliament, and in 1925 there were 101. In 1921 the Conservative party secured 50 members on a popular ballot of 971,502, and in 1925, 117 members on a ballot of 1,467,596. The Progressive party fell from 769,387 votes, which sent 65 members to Parliament in 1921, to 282,599 votes, and 24 representatives in the House of Commons.

Independents Gained.

The Independent and Labor vote, when grouped, shows a notable increase in 1925. At the previous general election two members were elected and 1925 three members.

It is calculated that each Liberal member elected represents 12,330 Liberal votes; each Conservative member of Parliament elected, 12,535 Conservative votes; and each Progressive elected 11,304 votes.

By provinces the total votes are as follows: In Prince Edward Island 49,480 votes were cast to return four members to Parliament; in New Brunswick, 151,650 votes to return eleven members; in Nova Scotia, 220,687 votes to return fourteen members; Quebec, 803,566 votes were cast to elect 65 members; in Ontario 1,220,111 votes were cast to elect 82 members; in Manitoba, 178,996 votes for 17 members; in Saskatchewan, 198,504 votes for 21 members; in Alberta, 160,609 votes for 16 seats; in British Columbia, 182,718 ballots cast to elect 14 members; in the Yukon there were 1,250 votes for one seat.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press)—A fugitive from the Oakalla Prison Farm and wanted here for molesting women, Wilfred Richards, whose actions recently instigated a general man hunt here, has been located in Winnipeg. Richards escaped from Oakalla when the automobile in which he was riding with a Victoria police officer stopped in front of the main entrance to the Oakalla prison farm.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's).—Tom Walsh, president of the Australian Seamen's Union and chief leader of the recent British seamen's strike in Australia, has been granted a year's absence by the union. He intends going to England to organize a new union of seamen there.

President Tom Walsh and Secretary Jacob Johannsen of the Australian Seamen's Union were arrested in connection with the seamen's strike in Australia and ordered deported, but the case was fought in the courts and they won back their liberty. After their release they brought suit against the Australian Commonwealth Government and the Premier, Hon. Stanley M. Bruce, for damages for alleged illegal arrest and imprisonment. The action for damages has not yet been heard by the courts.

MINERS OPPOSE ARBITRATION IN TRUCE PARLEYS

Have Not Changed Attitude On That Point Since Strike Began.

PLANS CONSIDERED.

Operators Want Long Term Agreement and Avoidance of Deadlocks.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—A plan for the settlement of the strike in the anthracite coal fields of the United States, presented Tuesday by Alvan Harkle, chairman of a joint wage conference meeting here, was opposed by the mine workers on the ground that it contained an arbitration feature. The miners stated that they were as much opposed to arbitration today as they had been since the inception of the strike on September 1 last.

The following agreed statement was issued by the joint conference last night:

"The various plans heretofore submitted were made part of the record. It was agreed that all plans could be brought before the conference. Among the plans offered were the following:

"Plan of Governor Pinchot; the legislators' plans; the engineers' plan, and the answer of the miners thereto. The letters and correspondence of priests for and against arbitration were made part of the record. Letters from the Panther Creek Business Men's Association and Scranton ministers also were entered in the record.

Men Want Pinchot Plan.

"Chairman Alvan Markle submitted a plan for the settlement of the strike. The plan was discussed at length. The miners voiced opposition to certain parts of it, claiming it was arbitration. The chairman said the plan did not amount to arbitration. There was discussion of the Pinchot plan. The miners argued that the Pinchot plan offered a constructive plan for settlement, while the operators claimed that the Pinchot plan was destructive and unworkable.

"The miners stated that they were as much opposed to arbitration today as they were four months ago and will continue in their opposition.

"The attitude of the operators was that an acceptable plan should provide for a long-term agreement, provision for wage adjustments if economic conditions require, and some means of avoiding deadlocks in case of disagreements."

DOMINION COMMAND OFFICES OF G.W.V.A. CONTINUE VETS SERVICE

Until Merged With the Proposed Canadian Legion.

EXECUTIVE MEETS.

OTTAWA, December 30. — Canadian Press. — The Dominion Command Officer of the Great War Veterans' Association and the Veterans' Adjustment Service Bureau at Ottawa will be continued in operation with the present personnel until the new united organization is prepared to assume direction.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the Dominion Executive of the G.W.V.A. presided over by the Dominion president, Lieut-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., here Tuesday. Representatives of the various provinces have undertaken to raise the funds required. C. G. MacNeil was asked to remain as Dominion secretary treasurer and will devote his attention to special work in various parts of the country preparatory to the G.W.V.A. becoming merged in the new association.

Besides General Turner those attending the meeting included Dr. W. D. Sharpe of Brampton, past Dominion president; Lieut. I. James McCara, Regina, Dominion first vice-president; Lieut.-Col. C. E. Edgett, D.S.O. of Vernon, V.C., Alex. Walker, Calgary, Provincial President of the G.W.V.A. in Alberta; Lieut.-Col. L. R. Lafleche, A.D.C., D.S.O., Ottawa; Lieut-Col R. L. Calder, V.C., of Montreal.

The concensus of opinion was that discontinuance of the adjustment service at this time would entail great hardship to a large number of disabled veterans, widows and dependents whose claims for pensions, treatment and other matters are now in process of adjustment.

The executive also felt that the task of drawing together all veterans of Canada into one organization would be greatly advanced if the adjustment work could be turned over intact to the new body.

LINDSAY CONSTABLE DEFENSE WITNESS IN LICENSE INSPECTOR'S LIQUOR ACTION

Contradictory Evidence as to Sobriety of Man on Drunk Charge.

CASE DISMISSED.

LINDSAY, Dec. 30.—The spectacle of a police officer giving evidence for the defence in a charge laid by a license inspector was witnessed in the police court here this week. License Inspector Porter laid an information against a young man on the charge of drunkenness. The charge was a result of a fight in the rear of a lane on Kent Street on the evening of December 19th. The Inspector interrogated the accused, a young man named Blair, following the dispersal of the crowd that witnessed the melee, and in his evidence swore that Blair staggered on the street, that he smelled of liquor and that he was intoxicated. Blair told the Inspector that he was perfectly sober, and would go to a doctor where he could be examined regarding his sobriety. He met Night Constable Reeves a few minutes afterwards and asked the officer to pass judgment as to his condition and also to smell his breath to see if he could detect liquor. The officer declared that Blair was sober—that he had not been drinking, but was very noisy. He advised Blair to go home and behave himself.

Constable Reeves was called as a witness for the defence in the hearing of the charge of drunkenness, and while License Inspector Foster swore that Blair was under the influence of liquor, Constable Reeves swore to the contrary.

County Crown Attorney Anderson criticized the constable for his attitude in connection with the case, and also in appearing as a witness for the defence in an action laid by an officer of the law.

Police Magistrate Bradford, in dismissing the charge against the accused on the ground of insufficient evidence, said that he would seriously hesitate before he would believe that either officers would testify to what they believed to be wrong. The Magistrate in dismissing the case, pointed out that he did not in any way reflect on the integrity of the License Inspector.

REDS' REQUEST LESS RELIGION

London (Ont.) Communists Ignored By Board of Education.

NATIONAL MENACE.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Declaring the Communist party to be a menace to Canada, members of the Board of Education yesterday refused to consider a communication from the local branch of that organization, asking for a reduction in the time devoted to religious study, cadet training and the complete elimination of home work in the city's schools.

The Board's attitude was led by Trustee Rev. R. D. Mess, war veteran, who said: "In public life I do not recognize any Communist party or any communication from such a body. I consider any such party a menace to our country and to British institutions. I move that the communication be returned without comment."

Trustee Kairnoross seconded and the motion carried.

UNMARRIED GIRL ABANDONED BABY

She Had Neither Work, Money or Food.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Without work, money or food, Marie Louise Barron, aged 19, is alleged to have abandoned her three weeks old baby boy on a vacant lot near the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Barracks here on Sunday morning, and yesterday faced a charge of "endangering its life," an offence which carries a maximum penalty of three years' imprisonment.

The baby, neatly dressed, was found by a police sergeant, blue with the cold, and near death. In another twenty minutes it would have been dead, according to physicians who examined it. The baby is reported as "getting along nicely."

In court, the case was remanded until to-morrow.

BRIAND CALLED RADICAL BLUFF OF LEAVING HIM

Proposed To Replace Extreme Left Ministers if They Resigned.

HOLIDAY TRUCE.

Radical Ministers Not Subdued—Cabinet Needs Stable Majority.

PARIS, Dec. 30 — (Canadian Press).—Premier Briand yesterday avoided a threatened Cabinet crisis by boldly declaring that the resolution of Radical Ministers who threatened to leave the Government if M. Doumer's financial plans were adopted would be accepted "with regret, but without despair." His plain intimation that the departure of former Premier Herriot's friends would not be allowed to disrupt the Cabinet caused a sudden and complete transformation of the situation.

The Radicals accepted the Finance Minister's measures without a dissenting vote, and the decisive issue between the Government and the coalition of the Left, which seemed imminent for the past ten days, has been put off at least until the regular session of the Chamber on January 12.

"The spirit of Locarno has been introduced into the Cabinet," was the way M. Briand described his victory over the recalcitrant Ministers after the meeting. There was a disposition in political circles, however, to regard the Premier's success as temporary. The Radical Ministers, it was argued in the lobbies of the Chamber, had been out-generalled, but not subdued. They preferred to remain in the Cabinet rather than furnish a chance for the head of the Government to enlarge his majority in the Chamber by putting representatives of other groups in their places.

Suggest New Elections.

The fight will begin again when the Chamber meets after the holidays, and will continue even if it is necessary to form new groupings of the parties that will give the Cabinet a stable majority, bent upon solving the difficulties of the hour without regard to party interests. There are still many party leaders who consider that this can be accomplished only after dissolution of the Chamber and new elections.

The groups of the Left seem to have had this eventuality in view in the moves they made the past week, and the measures they are prepared to present in opposition to the Government's financial bills are so framed as to furnish campaign material. They carefully avoid afflicting the taxpayers with new burdens, limiting their effort to provisions for balancing the budget, without reducing the debt.

Doumer's Measure.

M. Doumer has met them in a way, for the principal source of revenue under his bills will be indirect through a special stamp tax on commercial transactions. The bills as approved by the Cabinet, will, it is estimated, raise 8,500,000,000 francs (about $330,000,000) new revenue annually. Of this, 2,500,000,000 francs will go to the sinking fund to extinguish the short-term debt and 2,000,000,000 to reimburse advances from the Bank of France. The remainder will be devoted to balancing the budget and furnishing such surplus as would be calculated to avoid the danger of a recurring deficit through possible depreciation of the franc.

M. Doumer, however, figures that if the bills are passed as drawn up the franc will be steadied, so that the danger of further depreciation will be eliminated.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

Good Congregations at Both Services at Marmora.

MARMORA, Dec. 30.—The festival of the Nativity was observed at St. Paul's by Holy Communion at 8 a.m., and Holy Communion with sermon at 10 30 a.m. The church was beautifully and extensively decorated with the usual Christmas flowers and evergreens, mingled with artificial decorations. There was a fair number at each service. Mrs. H. R. Pearce presided at the organ for the latter service. Bright Christmas hymns were sung and the rector delivered an appropriate sermon on John 1, verses 1 and 14, dwelling particularly on the words, "The Word Was Made Flesh."

RECORD ROOT CROPS.

Horace Johnston Has Never Experienced an Actual Crop Failure.

CHAMPION, Alta., Dec. 30.—(By Canadian Press)—Western Canada's agricultural history abounds with records of enormous wheat yields per acre, but this district advances the name of Horace Johnson, an old-timer of the Champion community, for the title of the most consistent producer of good crops.

For more than twenty years Mr. Johnson has farmed in this district and according to figures he has kept, has averged a yield of about twenty-eight bushels to the acre during the entire period. Mr. Johnson has never experienced a crop failure although he has suffered losses similar to other farmers from natural causes.

CHINESE NEWSPAPERS

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PEKING (By mail to the United Press)—For every Chinese newspaper in Peking there is two news agencies.

This fact has become known through activities of Government officials who, ordinarily indifferent to the compilation of statistics, have suddenly started to collect them as regards the press because a propaganda find of some $500,000 Mex must be distributed as subsidies during this winter.

As a result of their efforts it is learned that, in round numbers, there are 60 Chinese newspapers in the capital and 120 Chinese news agencies. Round numbers are necessary because both papers and agencies spring up and die out so rapidly that no total stands good for more than a day or two.

Although foreign papers and agencies do not come within the scope of the journalistic "slush fund," it is noted that their numbers are no less startling in comparison. At present Peking has four daily newspapers published in English, while there are about 10 news agencies putting forth English reports.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR TO OUR FARM READERS

BETTER MEASURING EQUIPMENT HELPS FARMER GET MORE PROFIT

Lack of Knowledge Caused Work in Dark Before.

HIGHER STANDARDS

Food Consumed and Milk Produced Are Carefully Checked.

A former governor of the State of Wisconsin is credited with the remark that the inside of a cow is the darkest place in the world. By this statement he meant that it has been harder to interpret the body processes of the dairy than those of any other animal, and indeed, until the invention of the Babcock test and the use of milk scales the dairy cow absolutely defied all efforts at an accurate estimate of her value. The farmer, totally in the dark as to the weight of food consumed by individual members of the herd, assumed that each cow ate the same quantity; yet reason should have dictated that this conclusion was incorrect. The full pail constituted the sole criterion of dairy value; whether the pail was full for three months only, or whether there were two inches of foam on top of the milk were questions which received scant att[illegible]

[illegible] Standards.

But time has brought about new deas and higher standards of production. The advent of the scientific agriculturist has resulted in a careful scrutiny of the returns given the cow for her board and lodging. Her every act is checked and assigned a monetary value. Her milk is weighed, then tested for butter-fat. In all well equipped dairies there is a milk room which, with its usual equipment, is the first crucible in which each animal is tried. Experience has shown that emphasis must be placed upon the single animal. In many dairies it has been discovered that, if three unremunerative cows are thrown out, the annual profit on the rest of the herd will be from five to ten dollars more per cow.

The essential testing tools of the milk-room are the milk scales, the milk sheet, and the cupboard for composite samples. The two former items make possible the keeping of a permanent record of the production of a single cow over a long period of time.

The Sample Cupboard.

But the sample cupboard is also of primary importance, since the richness of milk of different cows often shows great variation. For instance, Jerseys and Guernseys may give milk testing as high as 6 per cent of butter-fat, while good Holsteins may run as low as two per cent. Of course butter-fat constitutes only a portion of the nutrients in milk; the skimmed milk is also valuable. But its food value is in direct proportion to the butter-fat of the given sample, therefore it is both customary and fair to use the amount of cream on milk as an index of its worth as food.

During a month of 31 days each cow gives 62 different messes of milk, no two of which are absolutely identical in proportion of butter-fat. Despite this fact, it has been found that if four successive milkings are tested and an average is struck, this average will be identical with that of all the milkings in 95 cases out of every hundred. This two-day method of sampling is followed almost exclusively and is used by practically all the breed associations in their conduct of semi-official tests.

Milk An Emulsion.

Milk is a typical emulsion, containing tiny spherical particles of fat, which are free to go wherever forces pull them in the fluid. It will readily be seen that the time between the beginning and conclusion of milk drawing is sufficient to give the droplets of lighter fat a chance to collect on the heavier fluid, so that, when the milker gets the pail and its contents to the milk room, the top milk is richer than the milk in the bottom of the pail. In taking a sample of milk for testing, an attempt is made at even distribution of fat; the milk is thoroughly stirred before the sample dipperful is ladled out into the particular cow's sample jar, and the jar is sealed to prevent the evaporation of water. This sampling is carried on for four milkings or through two days each month, then the milk is tested and the resulting percentage is placed on the milk sheet below the total quantity of milk delivered by that cow during the month.

Cow's Balance Sheet.

With these data on hand for an entire year, each cow's gross earnings are fully known. But net earnings alone can tell the story of profit and loss, and the dairyman must balance the cost through its sale. In order to do this, the raw materials consumed by individual cows must be definitely known.

Cows eat roughages and concentrates. In feeding roughages, the dairyman gives the cow as much as she is able to clean up. When, after several days of investigation, he has determined what quantity a cow eats daily, that quantity becomes her allowance and is recorded as such.

Concentrates.

The same method is pursued with the concentrates, except that as each animal shows a distinct appetite for a different mixture, the feeder experiments until he gets just what the cow likes. This mixture is then recorded and delivered to her daily. If, for any reason, one of the feeds cannot be secured, another is substituted and the cost of the substitute is charged against the cow in lieu of the other feed.

Lesser Items Considered.

In some ultra scientific farms, the value of bedding is charged against the animals. The manure is taken as being equal to the care of the cow. Thus these two items balance each other. An arbitrary sum is reckoned for depreciation of barns and equipment, this being based on the probable duration of the period of usefulness of such barns and equipment.

Some of this may seem pedantic, but it is directly in line with the principles of the shrewd business man. Dairy cows are like so many factories; some of them are efficient, many of them are wasteful and go bankrupt. The intelligent manufacturer takes all the factors into consideration; he compares the cost of production, including raw materials and labor, with the selling price; if the selling price be greater, well and good. Why should not the farmer act similarly, even to the most minute details?

The milk record, the feed record, the test record,—these constitute the jury before which the dairy cow must state her case. Failure to convince these jurymen of the validity of her plea means for her an early interview with the butcher and a summons to serve mankind in a capacity other than that of a milk producer.

VITAMINS NEW ELEMENT NAME

Explains Many Live Stock Problems That Are Old.

VERY IMPORTANT.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Young animals reared in nature's way, where the mother was free to select and pick up the food plants that her instinct lead her to, did not suffer from the nutritional disease common to young animals reared under domestication. All men have not learned the simple lesson from nature, taught to those willing to observe the unrestrained young animal that instinctively basks in the sun and eats green plants. Man's way of herding animals and poultry together in dark yards and stables and the use of fried feeds that do not carry the vitamins necessary to proper nutrition, have too often resulted disastrously for the young animal. Sunshine supplies something dry feeds frequently fail to supply, the necessary something required for proper development.

Calves, pigs and chickens that are born apparently strong, fail to develop properly unless they get in their daily feed the mysterious food elements that we speak of as vitamins. Diseases due to improper feeding have been recognized for many years, but exact knowledge of the lacking elements have been known but a short time.

Vitamin A is soluble in fat and is called fat soluble A. It is present in greatest amount in butter, yolk of eggs, green leaves, yellow corn, green alfalfa and cod liver oil. Young animals given feeds that are absolutely lacking in Vitamin A develop a sore eye condition called Xerophthalmia. Chickens lose weight, the comb becomes pale, the feathers ruffled and show progressive muscular weakness. A white exudate collects in the eye. On post mortem, birds that have developed this nutritional disease show small white or yellowish raised nodules in the tissue about the size of a millet seed and irregular in outline. These lesions are scattered over the surface of the oesophagus. In addition to the nodules in the oesophagus, birds suffering from Vitamin A deficiency may show characteristic changes in the kidneys. They are enlarged, pale in color, and streaked with a network of white lines. Occasionally there is a general distribution of urates throughout the body and the surface of the intestinal organs appear as if sprinkled with flour. The use of green feeds, yellow corn or cod liver oil prevents the condition.

Vitamin B also known as water soluble B. This vitamin is present in green leaves, fruit, eggs, yeast, and the covering of most grains. Its presence in the feed prevents polyneuritis in poultry, and beriberi in man. In birds, the disease is characterized by nervousness and inability to co-ordinate muscular movements. Paralysis of the legs, frequent and sometimes paralysis of the muscles of the neck. The internal organs appear shrunken and darker in color than normal. The muscle tissue is also darker in color than normal. The free use of foods, such as milk, fruit, tubers, green plants, bran and germ meal, prevents the antiheur tic condition.

Vitamin C. The lack of this vitamin in the food leads to the disease known as scurvy. It is usually called the anti-scorbutic vitamin. The main sources of Vitamin C are fresh green vegetables, citrus fruits and to a limited extent in fresh meat, tubers and fresh milk. In poultry, the deficiency is shown in a general unthrifty condition of the feathers. In man, the symptoms are too well known to need mention here.

Vitamin D. The presence of this vitamin in the food prevents the condition known as rickets or leg weakness in young chicks, children and young pigs. This vitamin is present in green leaves, milk and cod liver oil. One per cent. of cod liver oil added to the chick's ration will prevent leg weakness. Ricksts may also be prevented by exploding the young to bright sunshine, the ultra violet may be absorbed by the skin and have its influence on body metabolism.

A mixed diet for man, containing in addition to cereals and green vegetables, also some milk and fresh meat, is the best safeguard against the possibility of a vitamin deficiency, and, furthermore, insures an adequate supply of inorganic salts and protein of proper biologie. For animals, green feeds in season, well saved legume hay and roots for the rest of the year, and sunshine all the time. For poultry, green foods, milk, yellow corn and sunshine all the time will keep nutritional diseases away.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Compliments of The Season

JUNIOR CHAMPION

Above is shown "Browndale Guard," the yearling bull owned by James and Stanley Douglas of Caledonia, Ontario, which won the junior championship at the International Stock Show in Chicago being beaten for the grand championship only by the Prince of Wales' "King of the Fairies." "Browndale Guard" also won championships in Toronto and in London.

ONTARIO TOOK MANY PRIZES AT NATIONAL SHOW

Showing of Holsteins Was Especially Fine This Year.

WON HERD PRIZE.

State Herd Prize Comes To Ontario Province—Department Selected Animals.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Ontario Holstein breeders have again won a notable success at the National Dairy Show, which this year was held in Indianapolis.

The Ontario breeders entered twenty-four animals—nine bulls and fifteen females, and showed their twenty-four animals against approximately three hundred of the cream of American herds.

These Ontario farmers through the excellence of their stock were able to win individual prizes on eighteen of the twenty-four animals shown. The six animals not winning prizes were made up of: four heifer calves, 1 bull calf, all of which were not as extreme in size as their American competitors, and consequently were hardly in a condition to compete in 1925, but another story might be told if these same calves were returned a year from now. The sixth animal, a four-year-old cow, while not winning a prize, stood eleventh in a class of seventeen, being just outside the prize money.

The complete report of the winnings shows that Ontario breeders won: 4 firsts, 3 seconds, 4 thirds, 2 fourths, 1 fifth, 2 sevenths, 1 eighth, 2 tenths, and, in addition, won the Senior and Grand Champion female, Junior Champion male and first in the State Herd, which is the most coveted prize put up by the National Dairy Exposition. The report of such winnings by representatives from the herds of Ontario should be an excellent advertisement for the breed and the breeders, and in this connection it is well to note that this notable achievement by Ontario men was made possible through the Ontario Department of Agriculture assisting the shipment of live stock to a foreign exhibition. The assistance given consists of payment of the freight on exhibits, payment of entry fees, and certain other expenses in connection with the dressing and advertising the exhibit.

It was generally conceded at Indianapolis that the Ontario exhibit was one of the most uniform, and of highest average quality in that great show of Holsteins. The exhibit was also well staged and altogether it was one of the most attractive points of interest in the exhibits at the exhibition.

Following is a list of the winnings:—

DAIRY FARMING NOW BECOMING VERY IMPORTANT

Has Grown in Recent Years From Unimportant Industry.

YIELD INCREASED.

Average Cow Gives 30 Per Cent. More Milk Than Formerly.

During the past quarter of a century, dairy-farming in Ontario has advanced from a comparative unimportant sideline to the position of being, in some cases the most important revenue producing factor on the farm. In 1900 the number of dairy cows in the province was 976,124. Last year this number had risen to 1,170,010, an increase of 26%.

This jump in the figures is only part of the story. The change from the dual purpose animal to the specialized dairy cow has been followed by a rapid upward movement in the average production per cow. Twenty-five years ago, the average amount of milk per cow worked out at something in the neighbourhood of 3000 pounds of milk per annum. At present the annual yield per cow is estimated to be about 4000 pounds per animal—an increase of 33 1-3%. That there is still much room for improvement is made evident by a comparison with the annual milk production per cow of some of the European countries. The figures are: 5,666 pounds in Denmark, 5,934 pounds in Great Britain, 6,950 pounds in Switzerland and 7,585 pounds in Holland. These results have been brought about largely through the combined efforts of research workers and practical feeders, who have labored to establish recognized standards of feeding calculated to bring about maximum yields of milk and a sound condition of health. Of these, what has become known as the Wolf-Lehman standard has been adopted by most Ontario farmers, who have made a speciality of dairying. Under this method a 1000 pound cow, for example, giving 15 pounds of 4% milk, is fed 16.5 pounds of dry matter, 1.30 pounds of digestible protein and 10 pounds of digestible carbohydrates and fat. The amounts of feed vary with the percentage and quantity of milk produced, and with the weight of the animal. For every 100 pounds increase in the weight of the cow the dry matter is increased by 1.4 pounds, protein by .07 pound, and carbohydrates and fat by .72 pound.

What the Cow Needs.

An analysis of the ingredients found in milk throws a flood of light on the elements required by the cow if she is to maintain a high production in milk. Milk is made up of: water 87.2%; mineral 7%; protein 3.5%; sugar 4.9%; fat 3.7%.

A cow that gave 8000 pounds of milk in one year would thus have yielded 272 pounds of protein, 296 pounds of fat, 392 pounds of milk-sugar and 56 pounds of mineral matter. The carcase of a two-year old steer, finished for market and weighing 1,200 pounds, would contain 192 pounds of protein, 44.4 pounds of minera matter and 386.6 pounds of fat. Perusal of these figures shows that the cows give in milk more protein and mineral matter each year than the steer has been able to accumuate in its lifetime. Besides this the cow stores up great quantities of protein and mineral in developing the unborn calf.

That the cow may continue to yield these large quantities it is clear that her store requires to be continually replenished, and the food supplied must be rich in these elements. It is estimated that half of the cow's feed is used in building up and maintaining the body, the remainder being used in the production of milk. If the feed is deficient in the necessary ingredients, the milk supply will be reduced.

Three Important Factors.

Food value is largely determined by its composition, digestibility and palatability.

By composition is meant the amounts of different ingredients—proteids, carbohydrates, fat and mineral matter—essential in building of the body of the animal. Proteids for which there is absolutely no substitute, contain the necessary nitrogen and are required in the formation of muscle, hide, hair, and large quantities of them are diverted to the production of milk. Carbohydrates, the sugars and starches, along with the fat, supply the heat and energy and are the source of the fat in the milk.

The mineral matter is used to form bone and assist in the secretion of the fluids and juices, which are employed in the digestive tract, for the purpose of dissolving the solid foods into liquids.

The digestibility of feeds plays an important part in their value to the animal. Generally speaking, the more fibre or woody matter in the feed the harder it is to digest. Succulent feeds assist the animal in digesting the dry feeds which contain large quantities of fibre.

Closely related to the digestibility of a feed is its palatability. Animals differ somewhat in the amounts of certain feeds which they can digest. The feeder should always aim to provide a feed which caters to the likes of the animal. Variety in feeding also plays an important part in adding to palatability and consequently ensures better results.

Comparison of Feeds.

Oats and Canadian peas contain the highest percentage of protein. Barley contains less protein but is rich in carbohydrates and fat. Wheat is rich in all three, but makes a rather expensive meal when included in the bovine menu. Corn is low in protein, but has an abundance of carbohydrates and fat.

Concentrates.

Several by-products have come into favor as concentrates for cattle. Chief among them are bran, shorts and oil cake. Bran is specially useful for heavy milking cows and growing animals. Shorts, although richer than bran in the essential ingredients are less favored on account of the fact that they are heavier and more sticky. This reduces their value as cattle feed. Linseed oil or oil cake, is valuable as containing a large proportion of protein and has a laxative and conditioning effect on the animal body.

Roughages and Succulent Feeds.

Alfalfa Red Clover top the list as the favorite roughage feeds, the former especially making an excellent feed for young and growing cows. Corn silage and roots add considerable succulency to the feeds. Mangels and sugar beets are preferable to turnips, which taint the milk. When potatoes are cheap they are sometimes fed to live stock, but in the case of dairy cattle only in very small quantity. It is more than probable, in view of prices prevailing here and elsewhere, that the quantities supplied this winter will be mall indeed.

SEYMOUR TOWNSHIP FARMER TELLS OF TERRIFYING DREAM

Dreamed That He Was Chained to Holstein Cow Which Demanded Attention.

MONEY IN BUSINESS.

Twenty-six Cheese Factories in Seymour Township and Immediate Vicinity.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 3[illegible].—One of those comparatively rare individuals, a Seymour farmer who is not engaged in the dairy business, is in the habit of relating a dream he had probably by way of explaining why he elects to stay out of an industry in which so many of his neighbors are engaged. While this farmer slept, there came to him a vision of a Holstein cow, to which he was shackled by a long chain. Everywhere the cow went he was forced to follow. The cow demanded regular attention at feeding and milking times and the owner was his more or less devoted slave. Then the dreamer awoke and the vision was dispelled.

Leads To Prosperity.

The Holstein cow in the vision would have led her owner in the flowery paths of prosperity had she been true to the record of the species. The man who dreamed may have been chained to his vocation but not more so than is the individual who follows any other line. Nothing worth while in life can be attained without concentrated effort and the dairy business is no exception. There is no getting away from the fact that there is money in that branch of farming. Plenty of figures can be quoted to prove it.

In Campbellford District.

In the dairy district which is under the jurisdiction of Instructor John A. Murray and which includes Seymour and parts of adjoining townships, there are 26 cheese factories. During six months of the season, from May 1 to November 1, the months for which Mr. Murray makes his official returns to the Department of Agriculture, these factories handled 40,419,943 pounds of milk and the output of cheese was 3,468,535 pounds. Every 11.65 pounds of milk made one pound of cheese, which sold during the season at an average price of 20.7 cents a pound. The 17,026 pounds of whey butter sold by these factories brought in an additional $5,809, and $17,434 worth of whey cream was disposed of. The sum of $6,481 was spent on the improvements made in the factories. The total output for the season, some of the factories running for more than the six months for which the above figures are given, will not fall far short of $1,000,000. In the district there are 960 patrons and when the net revenue is divided among them the average share of each will be something like $1,000.

A Banner Season.

This was a banner season in the dairy business as in the Campbellford district 10 per cent. more cheese was made than last year and the average price was 4 1-2 cents higher.

The following technical records will interest dairymen: In the Campbellford district the average was 2.74 pounds of cheese for every pound of butter fat; the average of all samples tested was 3.13 per cent., and there were 6,211 composite samples submitted to the test. Five patrons were paid on the plus two basis.

In Seymour Township.

Two years ago The Examiner in its review of the dairy business in Seymour Township for 1923 stated that the total value of the cheese sold was equal to 25 per cent. of the assessed value of the entire township. This year the dairy revenue has jumped to over one third of the township's valuation. Seymour is rated on the assessor's books at $1,139,856 and the total value of the cheese sold this season was $393,574.06. The business in 1924 showed an advance of 10 per cent. and of 15 per cent. this year. In a word, the 389 men in Seymour township engaged in the dairy business could, by pooling their interests, buy the entire municipality at its assessed value and pay the principal in three years. It is little wonder that Seymour is rated as the banner dairy township in Central Ontario.

Why Dairying Pays.

There are farmers in this district who own cows that yield them a revenue of $100 a year. When the season is ended the farmer still has the cow which in the present condition of the market would bring him in $150 if put up for sale. The farmer who sells a beef steer for say $40 has nothing left but his capital is depleted by that amount, just as is that of the man who sells a block of his woodlot or of the Province when the Government disposes of several thousand square miles of timber. Under the system of bookkeeping in favor in departmental circles, this may not be made clear but the fact remains.

Another argument in favor of dairying is that the farm on which it is conducted is constantly increasing in fertility.

All Foreign Money.

At least 95 per cent. of the $393,574—and if all the returns were in the total would exceed $400,000—which has been paid to the farmers for cheese this year, is money that has come from England as nearly all the cheese was sold in that country. It was brought in from outside to be spent here. The dairy farmers are doing perhaps more than any other business men to maintain the trade balance in favor of Canada. They may be chained to their work, as the dreamer above referred to says, but in the chain which binds them there are golden links.

Not All Velvet.

The conditions under which the dairy farmers of Canada carry on are not altogether in his favor when compared with those of other countries in competition with him. He is the victim of the shipping monopoly for one thing and of high insurance rates for another. As an example: It costs $1.32 to ship 100 pounds of cheese from Montreal to Liverpool, a distance of 3,087 miles. The New Zealand dairyman, 11,000 miles from Liverpool, can send 100 pounds of cheese to the latter market at a cost of $2.04, and climatic conditions are more favorable for dairying in New Zealand than here. The New Zealanders clubbed together and were thus able to exert sufficient influence to secure a reduction in the ocean rates. If they were charged on the same basis as the Canadians, that basis to be the distance from the market, the New Zealanders would pay $7.14 for every 100 pounds of cheese sent to Liverpool.

In New Zealand last year the dairymen, by united action, secured a reduction of $130,000 in insurance rates

He is bringing his fiancee to Canada within a short time, and, due to the restrictions of the immigration act, will be married in the immigration shed at Niagara Falls.

Calf Offered For Meat Had Never Tasted Water

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 30.—Herbert Wilson of East Seymour has probably raised the record calf to supply baby beef for those who prefer that article of diet for their Christmas dinner. This animal was butchered when it was four months and three days old, and dressed over 350 pounds. During its brief lifetime the calf never tasted water, the only liquid nourishment allowed it being its dam's milk. The carcass has been sold to G. W. Haig who had it on exhibition in his shop window before cutting it up and offering it for sale.

HASTINGS VILLAGE.

HASTINGS, Dec. 30.—The present year of 1925 sees another municipal election in Hastings. Four citizens were nominated for the office of the Reeveship, and two out of the four running, namely, Dr. J. H. Hess, the present Reeve of the village, and Mr. A. E. Chapman.

Seven out of eight who were nominated for councillors are standing the election in the New Year: Messrs. James Stevenson, Jr., Neil McDonald, Wm. Lynch, Wm. Wellman, W. M. Fowlds, S. Hatherly, R. C. Doxsee.

KEENE.

KEENE, Dec. 30.—The nomination meeting for Reeve, Deputy-Reeve and Councillors was held in Keene Town Hall on Monday afternoon, when the hall was nearly filled by interested ratepayers. The old council of last year reviewed the work done. Mr. W. A. Anderson, Deputy-Reeve, taking up the county work in the absence of the Reeve, Mr. Morley Smithson, who was unable to be present owing to the serious illness of his father, Mr. Joshua Smithson.

There were only two nominations for Reeve: Mr. Smithson and Mr. F. A. Eason, but Mr. Eason, after a short speech, declared he would not run this year, thus leaving the Reeveship open for Mr. Smithson, who was declared elected by acclamation. W. A. Anderson was the only one nominated for Deputy-Reeve, and who also went in for another year by acclamation. Those nominated for Councillors were: S. Comrie, H. Reid, Wm. Devlin of last year's Council, and Alex. Huston, Percy Davidson and H. Humphries. Three councillors are all that are required, and unless some of them drop out there will be an election for councillors on Monday next. Both Mr. Anderson and Mr. Eason brought up the question of lighting all vehicles on the road, but opinion seemed to be divided among the audience on this question. The High School question came in for a considerable discussion. There is not room enough in Peterboro for all the pupils from Peterboro County, and quite a number of pupils are going to Campbellford, where the rate is much higher than Norwood and Peterboro. This will be the last year that a number of people have to pay for their telephones, which means quite an item off of their tax bill. The price for a 'phone installed was $88 cash, and if paid in installments it was $11.87 for ten-year payments, so there will only be the telephone operation costs for a number next year.

ECONOMIC LAWS CAUSE

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Economic laws and not retaliatory measures are responsible for an increase in the price of flour in Great Britain. The millers of the United States have replied to the British suggestions that the wheat merchants of this country are seeking revenge for Britain's rubber monopoly. The present wheat price increase has its immediate cause in the wheat shortage in Argentina said John Crosby, president of the Washburn Crosby Mills at Minneapolis.

"The crops there failed heavily so that it is natural the price should go up a bit," Mr. Crosby said.

NEWS OF BETHANY

BETHANY, Dec. 30.—Miss Mabel Ryley of Toronto is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ryley for a few days.

Mrs. Ida Carscadden and son, Preston, went to Peterboro Saturday to visit with friends.

Misses Eva and Bertha Staples of Pontypool were guests of their sister, Mrs. Herb. Patterson for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Galbraith of Port Hope spent the week end with Mrs. Galbraith's mother, Mrs. J. Staples.

The service in the United Church on Sunday was in charge of the pastor, Rev. A. Poulter. His subject was the "Untried New Year." Taking his text from Joshua, 3rd chapter and part of the 4th and 5th verses, "Come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye must go for ye have not passed this way heretofore. Sanctify yourselves; for tomorrow the Lord will do wonders among you." The New Year's hymns and anthem by the choir was all in keeping with the sermon. Commencing Monday, January 4th, a week of prayer is being observed and the pastor asked for the co-operation of the members in making the expected meetings of benefit to each individual and to the different organizations of the church.

For Wednesday afternoon and evening the board of management, consisting of the superintendent, teachers and pastor of the United Church has planned a sleigh ride, supper in the basement and a programme in the church, the chief item of which will be picture slides showing Henry Van Dyke's story of "The Other Wise Man", for the scholars and parents of the United Sunday school. All are welcome and a good attendance is expected.

Quite a number attended the nomination for reeve and coucillors for the township of Manvers on Monday. The election will be on Monday, January 4.

LIGHT DIVORCE LIST.

Smallest Docket For British Courts at Any Session Since War.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The divorce list awaiting the law courts in London when they re-assemble in January promises to be the lightest since the war. This subsidence in the open acknowledgment of matrimonial infelicity, however, is in some measure due to the fact that applications for divorce, in which the details are of a simple character, can now be made to judges conducting assizes in the country. Nevertheless there was a drop of about four hundred in the total number of divorces granted last year in England and Wales.

King's Prize Winner Will Treat Gift Rifle Like Wife

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Sapper A. Smith, who won the King's Prize at Bisley last July, has been presented by the Wood Green District Council with a service rifle, in commemoration of the distinction he brought upon this northern suburb of London where he resides.

Sapper Smith remarked he would treasure the rifle as he would a wife, and would probably treat it better than some wives are treated.

VILLAGE SIREN WILL BE BLOWN

Will Help Celebration of New Year's Arrival—Chief Experimenting.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 29.—The village siren will blow the old year out and the new year in, and all citizens are asked to make a note of this fact so that no one will be alarmed when at the stroke of midnight on Thursday night the village siren adds its note to the bell of St. John's in "ringing out the old and ringing in the new." In addition to celebrating the occasion it will enable the fire chief to do some experimenting.

On Tuesday the pupils of the public school had their annual Christmas parties, one in each room. Most of them had the usual tree with its load of gifts and also a feast of good things to wind up with. There is a good deal of extra work for the, but no effort is spared to make it a real gala day for the kiddies.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Stenner entertained the members of the Junior Auxiliary of St. John's Church at a Christmas party which included a Christmas tree. Rev. and Mrs. W. Cox were present also and assisted in entertaining the little folks who all had a very happy time.

On Wednesday evening the C.G.I.T. group, under the leadership of Mrs. (Rev.) S. A. Kemp paid a visit to the sick and shut-in members of the congregation of the Regent St. Church, carrying gifts and a message of cheer. A visit from such a group of bright young girls was in itself a bit of Christmas cheer. The idea was in accord with the Yuletide spirit of goodwill to all people.

By a typographical error, the account of a Christmas concert at Bethel Church, Dummer is entitled 'Bethel Church, Omemee.' The concert was at the Dummer Church of that name, situated a couple of miles north of Warsaw.

High Mass was sung at midnight in St. Paul's Church on Christmas eve; as this was the only Mass there was a very large attendance.

There were two celebrations of Holy Communion at St. John's Church on Christmas Day, the first at 8 a.m., with Rev. Walter Cox as the celebrant, and choral communion at 10.30 a.m., with Rev. A. W. Mackenzie the celebrant, with Rev. W. Cox assisting. At the latter service the choir was vested for the first time (thanks to the kindness of the choir of St. Jude's, Oakville), and this added very much to the impressive character of the service. Rev. Walter Cox was the preacher, and delivered a brief Christmas message, full of good cheer and the spirit of goodwill to all mankind.

The church was beautifully decorated with Christmas greens, brightened with red berries. The rood screen surmounted with a large star added very much to the effect.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Guild of the United (Presbyterian) Church these officers were elected for the ensuing year. —President, Mrs. Thompson Braden; 1st vice-President, Mrs. W. J. Charlton; 2nd vice-President, Mrs. Jas. Walton; Secretary, Miss Mary Adams; Treasurer, Miss Margaret Sanderson; Visiting Committee: Mrs. H. J. Sutton, Mrs. A. Windsor and Misses Bella Adams and Harriet Fitzgerald; Roll Call Secretary, Mrs. S. Huggins; Auditor, Mrs. G. E. Rennick.

SIMPSON TRIAL.

He will be committed for trial probably at a special session of the county court, to be held at the prison.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE.

Miss Olive Simpson, of Alderville, Received Many Fine Presents.

ALDERVILLE, Dec. 29.—On Wednesday afternoon, December 16th, a very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simpson, in the form of a linen shower to Miss Olive Simpson, who will, on Dec. 30th, become the bride of Mr. Wallace Marsden. One of the girls, Miss Reta Marsden, explained in a few brief words the reason for the social visit and on behalf of the girls congratulated Miss Simpson on her approaching marriage. It all came as a great surprise to Miss Simpson, who thanked the girls for their kindness and invited them to come and visit her in her own home.

After a pleasant afternoon spent sewing and playing games, the girls then served a dainty lunch.

"Bad luck" is only a polite way of saying "bad judgment."

By this time they were walking up the roadway to the house, and standing in the doorway, looking at them over her glasses, was "Miss Liddy" Parker, Lacy's cook-housekeeper. No need to say she was New England, the "Liddy" established that fact even before two minutes of conversation.

"Good morning, Mrs. Parker. This is—a friend of mine. We are in something of a plight, and we can tell you about it later if you will do what you can to find some clothes for her and then something to eat."

Mrs. Parker looked—and thought. Something was wrong, and should she allow herself to become involved? Who was this young woman, and why was she dressed in this manner? It was too unconventional. Mrs. Parker's life had never been that, and Mrs. Parker could see no reason why any other person's life should be. The pause became embarrassing.

"Don't you think you could find a dress of some sort for her?" Lacy was smiling sweetly and didn't seem as worried as he should have been. Mrs. Parker was a little reassured. In fact, she felt as though she could almost take a chance.

"I'll see what I can get her to wear," said Miss Liddy, "but I don't know what I can give you for breakfast. I ain't got a piece of pie in the house."

"Maybe you have some doughnuts, then, or we'd even take some poached eggs and toast and coffee as a substitute. As a matter of fact," went on Lacy, "I think some eggs held down with a nice piece of ham or some bacon would make an excellent substitute."

And so, after many questions which kept Connemara fencing for answers, Liddy Parker produced a not too badly fitting blue linen dress that belonged to her school-teacher daughter in Bayville, and then left Connemara to dress while she prepared breakfast.

Connemara found a broad blue ribbon belt, also the property of the absent daughter-teacher, and with it replaced the soiled and torn bandage with a turban so tightly and adeptly wound that Gloria Swanson would have immediately written for the recipe. Aside from the fact that she felt paralyzed from the hips down, Connemara was almost herself, but only food could have induced her to take another step.

Lacy was waiting for her at the breakfast table. The coffee and rolls and bacon and eggs were on the table. "Miss Liddy says she did have a pie," beamed Lacy, "so we will have that for dessert."

"How quaint!" said Connemara before she could stop herself.

Learning that there had been no word from McTish, and that no one around the place had seen him, Lacy after breakfast organized a small posse to move on to the hiding place of the Filomena. Before leaving however, he asked Connemara into the library and placed on the desk before her, three ten-dollar bills.

Connemara looked at them and then at Lacy. "Are you going to do a trick?"

"No—that's car fare for you."

"To where?"

"Home—that is, if you care to use it. I'm afraid the fifty 'grand,' as I believe it is called, would cause you some inconvenience—maybe trouble. This will simplify things for you. At three cents a mile it will take you some distance, and if I find you gone when I return I'll understand. But if you are the girl at Auteuil, as I am pretty sure you are, Connemara, I am going to find you waiting for me to take you home, wherever that is, and introduce me to your family, including Aunt Celimena—who really ought to be very grateful to me if I rescue her from the Swede."

And then without more words, or waiting to hear from her, he walked away and left her and the three ten dollar bills where he had placed them. She heard him give Miss Liddy some farewell message—saw him enter a car in which there were four men, and once more she was left with a decision to make.

He had been very patient. She wondered if either Adams or Carrington would have been quite so patient. And then the past few hours flashed through her mind and she wondered how she would be able to explain to him when he returned all the jumble and tangle of wills and announcements, of drama, melodrama and farce that had been sandwiched into the brief time since her flight. Some night-lifer once said, "It's great to be crazy," but right then Connemara would have taken the negative. Certainly she had been crazy enough, and while it lasted she had had thrills galore, nice new exhilarating thrills, and they had left her with new problems to solve. Wouldn't it be much better for her—anyway, simpler—to take the bills in front of her and go back to Moorelands and whatever awaited her there? After all, wasn't that her fate? She was in the mood for punishment. She was so tired, she was ready to accept it. All her resistance was gone. She was ready to punish herself, so culpable did she feel. Almost in shame, she buried her head in her arms on the desk, and in that action all her troubles, worries, and problems ceased. The eyes closed and quicker than one can read she was asleep.

One would think, sleeping on such a troubled mind, she would dream of ships, pirates, million-dollar bills which would be changed into nickels and pennies, and having no pockets in her dress in which to put them, of jumping off boats and going down, down through a sea filled with all sorts of strange sea monsters dressed in slickers and wearing turbans. But Connemara was a most unusual girl and slept peacefully and almost comfortably. She never heard a step on the piazza outside.

The step was made on tiptoe, for a small, bedraggled figure, dressed in soiled white yachting flannels which hung in folds on it, was trying to make as little noise as possible. Not that it didn't want to waken Connemara, for after taking a look around to see that "the coast was clear," as they say in the drama, it reached in through the window and laid a hand on Connemara's shoulder.

"Wake up, for Pete's sake, Sister," said the shrill young voice of Sweetie in Connemara's ear. "You and me has got to have a talk private and uninterrupted."

CHAPTER XV.

By Rube Goldberg.

Connemara rubbed her eyes, blinked a few times, and gazed at Sweetie. She waited for the rest of the motley crew to come up from behind. Sweetie, without Pooch and Doc and the Swede, seemed grotesquely unattached. The whole collection of savage beasts—there were millions of them dancing around, around in Connemara's brain—with their comic-opera accoutrements, would come swarming into the room and start the thing all over again. Didn't they ever get tired of being rough? Why couldn't they sit down like regular people and read a book or work out a cross-word puzzle? Didn't villains ever take a vacation?

LONDON TRADERS QUITE SATISFIED

Stock Exchange Closing Prosperous Year—Rubber Helped.

LONDON, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—If the London Stock Exchange cannot claim the most prosperous year in its history, still there is no grumbling to be heard in Capel Court, where the exchange is located, when the record of 1925 is passed under review.

The London Stock Exchange undoubtedly has enjoyed an active and prosperous year, although it is possible that the activity and prosperity have tended to become exaggerated in the public mind as a result of the extraordinary prominence which circumstances have given to one of its minor sections, the rubber market. In rubber there have been innumerable opportunities to secure handsome profits from the rise of shares.

General trading prospects for the New Year, in the opinion of the best judges, are much brighter than a year ago, and most of the industrial reviews indicate that a big trade push is due in 1926, with this expectation based on the outcome of the Locarno conference and the more settled conditions prevailing in Europe.

POET SCRIBBLED POEMS IN BLOOD

Husband of Isadora Duncan Committed Suicide in Leningrad.

HAD DIFFERENCES.

MOSCOW, Dec. 30 (United Press).—Leaving his poems scribbled in blood Serge Essen, eccentric poet, husband of Isadora Duncan, committed suicide in Leningrad.

Isadora Duncan, once famous dancer, married the Russian poet in 1922. He was many years her junior. The couple came to America and there were reports of trouble beween them and even whispers that Miss Duncan had a black eye on one occasion, when she failed to appear publicly.

For a time, the romance lasted, and Miss Duncan was fulsome in her praise of the young Russian's poetic talents. But after they had been in Paris and Berlin, Serge returned to his native land and reports of divorce were current.

THESE PICTURES CAUSED A FUSS

Here are two of the pictures which caused a stir of indignation in England simultaneously with the home-coming of the Prince of Wales. They portray the heir to the British throne in feminine garb, which he wore while taking part in a comedy playlet produced aboard the Repulse during his tour. London, it is said, objected, not to the Prince's donning such attire, but to his facing the camera while wearing it. In the upper picture the Prince is shown seated, on the left, with Lieut. Commander Lilly beside him; and behind, from left to right, Lieut. Butler, Mr. G. Ward Price and the Honorable R. Ward. At the left the Prince is shown with Lieut. CONDEMNS INTOLERANCE.

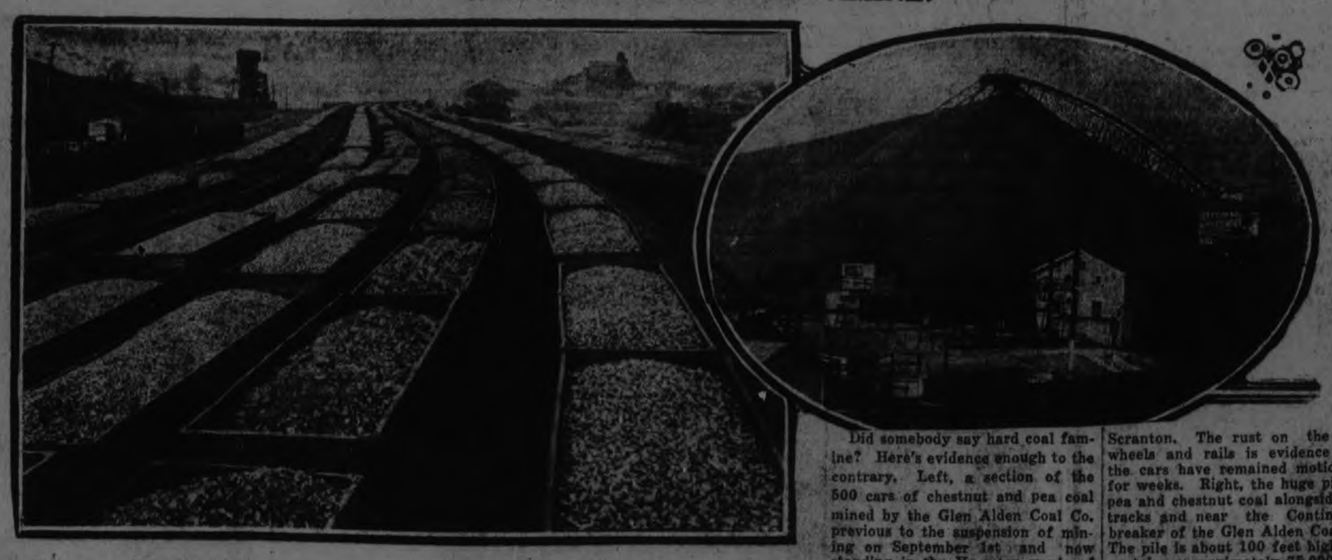
Parochial narrow-mindedness, breeding intolerance and false pride, is probably the chief characteristic of the people of the North American continent, according to an opinion expressed by Rev. Provost C. A. Seager, of Trinity College, in an address to the successful students at Upper Canada College on the occasion of the 95th prize day.

BUSINESSS BETTER.

Canadian business is now definitely on the up-grade, and better than it has been for several years, stated C. A. Bogert, vice-president and general manager of the Dominion Bank at Winnipeg recently, following a survey of western conditions.

WHO SAID 'HARD COAL FAMINE?'



Did somebody say hard coal famine? Here's evidence enough to the contrary. Left, a section of the 500 cars of chestnut and pea coal mined by the Glen Alden Coal Co. previous to the suspension of mining on September 1st and now standing in the Hampton yards of the Lackawanna railroad in West Scranton. The rust on the car wheels and rails is evidence that the cars have remained motionless for weeks. Right, the huge pile of pea and chestnut coal alongside the tracks and near the Continental breaker of the Glen Alden Coal Co. The pile is about 100 feet high and contains approximately 75,000 tons of domestic-sized fuel for the task which was a splendid vote of confidence, said Mr. Hicks, when it was considered that those on the Commission were for the most part new and untried men. In 1921, E. F. Mason replaced George Duncan, and in January 1922, the people of the city were getting filtered water through the mains, an exploit of construction which was unique. The Commissioners followed the contract closely to see that it was concluded without excess of expenditure.

ROBERT HICKS TELLS ELECTORS

Comparing the nature of the plant with any other Mr. Hicks said that having the filtered water 9 months after the job was first started was exceptional. At the completion of the contract there was no excess of expenditure and of the original grant, $25,000 remained. At present in the city of Peterborough, there was a filtration system which was second to none in the Dominion of Canada, and the best thing for the citizen was plenty of pure water.

Progress in Revenue.

The waterworks system wa purchased in 1902 for $230,000. In 1920 the assets were $729,827.09, and in 1924 $1,148,107.18. Since 1918 the profits had risen steadily from $2,618.52 to $9,002.60. in 1924. For the first six months in 1925, the operating profit was $5, 06.22. In 1920 the surplus reserve was $166.00. In 1924 it amounted to $34,964.15. A workmen's compensation fund was established in 1921, and had $8,793.89 to its credit in 1924.

In 1922 the domestic water revenue from contract and meter sources was $65,984. In 1924 the revenue was $64,479. In 1922 the number of consumers was 5,030, while in 1924 the nu ber was 5,309. The average cost for 1920 was $13.12, while in 1924 it was $12.14, showing that, although more customers ha1 been added, the revenue had decreased along with the smaller rates.

Re Matthews' Letter.

Mr. Hicks then referred to T. F. Matthews' letter which had appeared in the Examiner and said that it was a very fair statement in which there was nothing essentially different from that which he himself had submitted. In order to have unity in the work of the Commission, confidence was an essential and he would not have known the amount of water that was being used in the packing plant had it not been for the fact that meters were installed as a method of finding out who were not paying their share of the water rates.

Mr. Hicks used an illustration to show that much revenue had been lost because meters had not been previously installed. In 1898 the revenue from the Packing House was $400, which he took as the low and in 1921 $9,196, which was taken as the high.

The business had a steady growth during those years, so Mr. Hicks struck an average between the high and the low which he declared should result in a fair basis for calculation. This amounted to $4,798 per year. This he continued, should have amounted to $93,561 for the 19½ years, but the actual amount paid was $7,800. After making certain allowances there is a total of $85,761, which was loaded on the consumer.

Mr. Matthews declared that he would not pay any more but if so, why were larger mains and extensions built? asked Mr. Hicks. After 1921, a plant was built to mechanically filter the water and one of the mains was cut off in consequence. However they are still paying as much for the metered small flow as was paid for the enormous quantities they formerly used, said Mr. Hicks.

He declared that he had the highest regard for Gordon Matthews, but believed that it was the packing interests and not Mr. Matthews that opposed him.

Cheap Power.

Mr. Hicks then turning his attention to the power question said that everyone was grumbling at the cost of electric current, when as a matter of fact Peterborough ranked second in a list of twelve cities as having the cheapest power, with a cost of $16.65 per horsepower per year. St. Catharines was lowest with $15.48, while consumers in other cities paid from $19.35 to $25.66.

The electric system had been taken over in 1915 and it was found to be in a very run-down condition. The City paid $50,000 more than it was worth, stated Mr. Hicks, and in addition was faced with the absolute necessity for improvement. There were no records obtainable as the Peterborough Light and Power Company had not handed over a single piece of paper. Notwithstanding that drawback re-adjustment was started and at this time, after war had raised the price of almost every other staple, the cost of electric current remained the same. In 1919 from 4,257 domestic consumers, the revenue was $46,282, at an average cost of 3.3 per K.W. In 1924 the revenue amounted to $80,417.54, from 5,266 customers at the reduced rate of 2.6 per K.W.

Half Year, 1925.

For the half year ending June 30, 1925, the revenue in the electric department amounted to $113,781.46, being an increase over the same period in 1924 of $8,190.99. The operating expenses including allowance for depreciation on trucks, plant and equipment, reserve for Workmen's Compensation, sinking fund on debentures for 6 months and general depreciation charge on the distribution system, amounts to $101,441.81, leaving a net profit on the six months' operations of $12,339.65.

In the waterworks department the revenue received was $61,525.26, being an increase over the same period in 1924 of $401.11. As the operating expenses amounted to $58,076.35, the net profit for the six months operations was $5,406.22. As the surplus goes back into the system for maintenance, Mr. Hicks pointed out that it was not necessary to borrow money, and the operating profit paid for enlargements and extensions. Mr. Hicks also showed that it was possible for the Utility to absorb larger calls for increased rates. From 1914 to 1920, the price paid the Hydro per horsepower was $17.50. In 1921 this was increased to $22.50, which amounted to $23,000, a sum which was absorbed by the operating surplus and yet when that was paid there was still a profit shown at the end of the year. Mr. Hicks thought that some credit should be reflected on the operation of the department as a consequence.

Campbell Mill Question.

Mr. Hicks then turned his attention to the Campbell Mill mystery. Regarding the challenge which he had issued to Mr. Hall, he merely intimated that Mr. Hall had deemed it wiser not to come in the open but, instead, resort to some other expedient. He said it seemed useless for anyone to attempt an escape from the attacks of Mr. Hall, especially if the person was attached to the Hydro, as Mr. Hall appeared to have an intense dislike for anyone so connected.

He declared that the money paid to the Hydro had nothing to do with the matter and that there was no pretense made to charge for a connected load, but the consumer paid for the power used on a regular basis and that there is no tax for a collective load on motors not in use. Mr. Hicks stated that the only two figures Mr. Hall used were untruthful, and that anyone should know better than go into the courts with such a collection of false statements as Mr. Hall had done.

He said that it was unworthy of anyone to slander an industry which is not only held in the highest esteem but would be above such mediocrity, as tampering with power rates. Mr. Hicks stressed the fact that neither Mr. Mason nor Mr. Bradburn were attempting to escape being listed with him on the ground that they were not members of the Commission before 1922.

Meter Tested.

The meter which recorded the power consumed in 1919 was also in use in 1920 and 1921. Mr. Fisk had the meter taken out and tested on the line. It was found correct. The same meter carried on recording in the same manner in which it had acted before. Later it was burned out and a Lincoln meter replaced it. The new meter did not step up the records but corroborated the totals of the old one in every particular. Everything was done to aid in checking up but nothing could be found wrong. The men of the company Mr. Hicks asserted, are above such a thing as monkeying with power bills. Such imputations as have been preferred against them would act as a deterrant with any company thinking of locating a factory in the city, and is especially bad when Peterborough needs new industries and is endeavouring to get them. The case was agitated, Mr. Hicks said and taken to a Toronto court, where five judges formulated nineteen pages of manuscript as a judgement and dismissed the case. It was said that the Utilities Commissioners were blocking the action, but the contrary was the truth, said Mr. Hicks. C. C. Robinson was especially instructed to let those involved in the investigation know that the Peterborough Utilities favored the probe.

Representation Issue.

The issue in court was whether the Utilities should be responsible to another body (the Council), which was responsible to the people or whether the Utilities should of themselves form a body directly responsible to the people and governed in no way by the City Council.

Subpoenas were served on all employees who had worked in the mill at the time and all records which had to do with the mill run of flour and chop feed, so that an exhaustive study of the situation was made by the five judges who "didn't know as much as R. R. Hall, but some of whom knew half as much," said Mr. Hicks.

The speaker declared that he had heard rumblings of opinion which was against the Utilities and it was evident that in Peterborough there was a desire to shake public confidence and to talk of the "tyranny of the Hydro." Mr. Hicks asked for the further support of the people, saying that the electric Utility was in a position where it could absorb an increase of $23,000 without an increase of rates, and still show a profit at the end of the year. He said that men should be elected who had faith in the city. He, himself, was enthused with the work and had devoted much time and thought in the interests of the citizens.

He believed that the campaign was between the packing house interests and himself rather than against the young man representing his opposition.

Nagle Phelan.

The flip of a coin determined the first speaker to be heard as mayoralty candidate. Nagle Phelan said he hoped that the ruling of the coin would act as a good omen in the coming election. Mr. Phelan submitted that he had been in the city council for six years and for the past five years had acted as chairman of the Finance Committee, one which was generally considered the most important in the City Council. It was impossible for one to say that by obtaining an appointment as mayor one might reduce taxes or other expenditure, because it couldn't be done.

Of the whole amount collected in taxes only 28% was at the disposal of the Council as debentures for sewers and sidewalks had to be attended to—work which had been done years ago. There was also the Mothers' Allowance Fund, the Board in charge of which is made up in part of Peterborough people who have something to say regarding the distribution of funds, but nothing to say as to the actual amount. There was also the suburban road Commission, another factor, with a money supply uncontrolled by the Council, but dependent on outside agencies.

Mr. Phelan stated that last year he had made a motion to obtain a lower tax rate, but to no avail. He preferred to stand on his merits and said that in his six years of office he had never missed a council meeting. He was prepared to devote the essential time to the work.

Regarding contentious questions Mr. Phelan declared himself in favor of both Sunday bathing and daylight saving. He had been instrumental in moving a by-law that those matters should be referred to the people.

Regarding the location of the gas and oil tanks of the British-American Company which had chosen and built upon the East City location, Mr. Phelan said that was one reason why he was a strong advocate of an aldermanic representative for that ward and declared that because no one of the Council was in direct touch with Ashburnham residents, the members were not prepared to go back on their promise to the company. Personally, he had tried to obtain an adjustment. The Fire Chief had pronounced the tanks as a definite hazzard. Mr. Phelan thought that nothing objectionable should be unloaded on any part of the city.

He had introduced the paying of taxes in three installments, a plan which he considered to be of value to the working man and of interest to the public generally. Mr. Phelan declared that were he elected mayor he would attempt to attract more industries to the city. Regarding the school issue, he said that the matter should be referred to the people.

Query from audience.—"Who do you consider that the people are?"

Mr. Phelan.—"The statutory provisions state that a money by-law is voted upon by property holders; so if the question is submitted to the people it means that it goes to the property holders."

Query.—"Is it fair to let 38% of the people decide this issue."

Mr. Phelan.—"The law was made by the Government of the Dominion and a City Council would have no power to change it."

W. T. Holloway.

Mr. Holloway thanked Commissioner Hicks for inviting Alderman Phelan and himself. He said Mr. Phelan and he usually shook hands when they met and would continue to do so when it was all over. He declared that the poor should have available an education in a technical school—that it would be a splendid thing but not at present, because any additional expenditure in that line would place the assessment near a 40-mill rate. He declared that in his leisure time he had been looking for a man who would say that his taxes were too low but had failed to locate him. The merchants declare that the outlook would not warrant more taxes and they are now paying all the taxes they should pay. If it were possible to keep the debenture debt where it now stands the vote of the 38% of the people might be favorable and the city would have its much needed school.

Three years ago Mr. Holloway recalled that Alderman Phelan had made a motion to the effect that certain paving should be done. An amendment was made by himself (Dr. Holloway) that no paving be carried out. Mr. Holloway, after consulting with an engineer, Mr. Dalrymple, did not think that paving was essential. He didn't want Peterborough people to groan under a heavy burden of taxation.

Daylight saving, he declared was an issue which devolved upon the people to decide. It would be his serious charge he said to see that the will of the people was carried out, and to obtain a general let-up of large expenditures.

Regarding Sunday bathing he felt that the rights of others should be considered. He would not brook interference if he were told he could not go for a walk. He thought that the children should be given the protection of a suitable caretaker who would see that they would not drown. He closed by saying that he would devote all the time that was necessary to looking after the interests of the people.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

BANQUET HUSBANDS AT MARK STREET

Ladies' Aid Entertains at Social Evening of Singing and Games.

The women of the Ladies' Aid of Mark Street United Church entertained their husbands on Tuesday night to a banquet and social evening in the basement of the church.

The tables were well laden with good things to eat, and everyone did ample justice to the food provided.

As soon as everyone was fully satisfied, Mr. J. Speer, assisted by Mrs. E. Wand, led the community singing of a number of old familiar songs, which were enjoyed by all present.

The pastor, the Rev. Richards, gave a short talk and thanked the ladies for the work they had done in the past year; also for arranging for a father and son banquet which is to be held in the near future.

The former pastor, Rev. R. Bamforth, and Mrs. Bamforth were able to attend. Rev. Bamforth gave a talk on books and their authors, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Miss Madeline Rose gave a recitation. A contest which caused much merriment was an "Old-Fashioned Dinner" in conundrums.

The remainder of the evening was spent in games and other amusements. The singing of 'Auld Lang Syne" brought to a close an evening which was voted by all to be a decided success.

1.—I am in favor of giving property-holders the opportunity of deciding as to the erection of the new school.

3.—Continued improvement in economical civic financing.

R. N. JONES

FOR ALDERMAN

Having accepted the nomination for Alderman I will, in a few words, state my position on some of the main issues that are to be met in 1926. Twenty-five years a citizen, and a freeholder, I am naturally vitally interested in the city's welfare. I have enjoyed a certain amount of participation in public affairs through the Motor League and the work of the Health Association. I look forward to getting behind our public bodies—Police, Firemen, Board of Education, Utilities, etc.—always with the idea of protecting the finances of the public.

On the question of the new Technical School I take the stand that the whole subject be gone into by a joint committee, taken from the Council, Board of Education, and outside experts drawn from mercantile, manufacturing, labor and social associations. Let them study not one but dozens of schemes, and settle on the best, on which the public must vote before any expenditures is undertaken. While we are Peterboro citizens we are also part of the Ontario Government and are interested in whatever way the money is spent.

We have had bitter experiences in the past—leaping before we properly look. Let us not error in that way again.

I am interested in the transportation question, which I realize requires careful handling. I am in favor of Sunday supervision of bathing; and for the sake of those who have not leisure through the day, I am in favor of Daylight Saving.

I ask for the votes and confidence of the people because I believe I can be of practical use to them as one of their Aldermen for the next two years.

For the Board of Education

TO THE ELECTORS:

In yielding to the persuasion of citizens who have urged me to offer my services as a member of the Board of Education, I wish to make my position in regard to the proposed new Collegiate Institute absolutely clear.

I am utterly and flatly opposed to committing Peterborough to the expenditure of the large sum involved in the proposed building programme until the people have been consulted and have been given an opportunity to express their opinion by means of the ballot.

If I am honored by your confidence, my policy on the Board of Education will be to urge that the Council be asked to submit the question to the ratepayers, rather than to endeavor to have the building proposal ratified by the Council itself, with no mandate from the people.

Under the pressure of high taxation, it becomes necessary to surround the assumption of new and heavy expenditures with every possible safeguard, and in the case of the new Collegiate Institute, these must include the submission of the issue to the ratepayers.

With Best Wishes for a Very Happy New Year.

Rare Coincidence Saves Clothing From Robber

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—A remarkable coincidence was responsible for the apprehension and conviction of a youth charged with the theft of two robes and a pair of shoes, the property of Miss Rita Black, who is employed in a department store. The shoes and robes were purchased by the young lady and despatched to her home in the morning, a driver for the company depositing them on her verandah. There the convicted lad saw them and returned with them to the company, handing them in and requesting a refund from the exchange department. This was permitted and the exchange bill and goods were handed to Miss Black to negotiate the business. She was astonished to see her own property handed to her.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Seeing the letters of so many others in the paper in which you give good advice and counsel I thought I would write to you about my own difficulty.

I have been keeping company with a fellow for six months and I have learned to love him very much and I think he loves me for, although he has not spoken of his love, I sometimes see his soul in his eyes when he does not think I am looking.

The trouble is that he seems too nervous to propose and he has a slight impediment in his speech. On two occasions he has, I am sure, tried to ask me to marry him but each time he gets so nervous that he starts to stammer and then he seems so sensitive over it that he changes the subject.

The only time he stutters is when he gets nervous or excited like that.

He is a perfect gentleman and has not attempted any liberties nor would I allow him until we are engaged. Do you not think I am right in this, dear Annie Laurie.

Would you advise me to coax him a bit and help him to propose for I am afraid if I don't some other girl may steal him from me. Please advise me what you think I should do.

AN OLD FASHIONED GIRL.:

Your problem is not as harrowing as one as are at times presented to my notice, but still, it is a very serious thing to have spent six months in breaking the ground, as one might say, and then have an actual proposal balked by such a difficulty as this. If you are both very much in love, you had better not let an impediment of speech mar your happiness, however. It is said that the placing of a number of peas in the mouth is an excellent deterrent to stammering, but it might also prove an obstruction to other speech, as well. One never knows. If the young man wishes to get around the difficulty, he might sit down and write out his proposal, and then you would have the advantage of having it in black and white against any later eventualities. Why not go away for a little visit and see if he toes the mark in this manner? Or you might try the thought transference method on him. Stare fixedly at him for as long a time as he and you can stand it and keep your mind fixed on the idea that he is going to pop the question without any trouble. In this way, he may blurt it out before he has time to become confused over it. Or you might wait until 1928? On no account would I allow any other lady to capture the young man after six months of spade work. If he is a perfect gentleman and you love him extremely and he is such a novice in love-making that he commences to stutter when he thinks about proposing, hang right onto him.

Economic Laws Responsible For Increase In Flour Price

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. H. M. Blight, whose semi-centennial as "town accompanist" was recently celebrated here, tells of the following amusing anecdote of early days at the old pavilion in Allan Gardens:

"A charity concert had been arranged at which a long list of local talent was assisting. As we were all donating our services, I suppose the committee thought it would be nice to give us some flowers. For some unknown reason, only one basket of flowers had been sent, and that was presented to the first lady taking part in the programme. Then behind the scenes, with many apologies, it was taken away from her, sent around to the front door, carried down the aisle again and presented to the next lady. This one basket of flowers did the duty for the whole evening. Fortunately, the audience knew nothing about it, but there were peals of laughter in the dressing-room when the flowers re-appeared so often."

WESTERN WRITER GAINS GREAT FAME

Reviewers, However, Still Write of "E. Barrington" as a Man.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press).—In a article in a monthly publication focusses attention on the resident of this city, Mrs. L. Adams Beck, who has become famous under her own name and that of "F. Barrington." About a year ago the identity of "E. Barrington" was revealed, but reviewers mostly persisted in writing of this lady, in her dual aspect, as a man. Mrs. Beck is an Englishwoman of distinguished family, granddaughter of Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Fairfax Moresby, and daughter of Admiral Moresby.

She has spent much time in India, Ceylon, China, Java, Burma and Japan. She has crossed the great Himalayan Pass and travelled in Little Tibet among the Mongolian peoples. Following her two great successes in the historical-biographical novel, "The Divine Lady" and "Glorious Apollo," will now come from her pen—E. Barrington's pen—the novelized romance of the Prince of Wales who became George IV., and Perdita Robinson, the most beautiful woman in her time. This story is entitled, "The Exquisite Perdita."

COST OF EDUCATING FAIR CO-EDS VARIES

Girl Clever With Hands Can Get Along Very Cheaply.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—In the University of Toronto, with its five thousand odd students, one of the big questions always has been, and always is; "What is this year going to cost me? Will I be able to keep within my allowance?" An impecunious state is a part of the student tradition. "Anywhere from two hundred and fifty to fifteen hundred dollars—take your pick," laughingly replied a Toronto co-ed when questioned. "But she should be able to get along on from six to seven hundred dollars. This, of course, refers to the out-of-town girl who is boarding in the city. The resident student escapes a greater part of this cost.

"But the girl who is clever with her hands has a great advantage when it comes to clothes. "A good party dress can be made for fifteen dollars. To buy it from the shop costs from forty to eighty. University women also wear sweaters and blouses much more than do the girls in business. They do not go in as much for georgette and so on, and there they also save a great deal of money. Hats are not nearly as big an item as they used to be. Many of the small felt hats are being worn, and they are not nearly as expensive as the others are. There is more reblocking being done this year than ever before. Many of last season's are cleaned up and come to light again, and that's not all—many of us have our father's old felt hat reblocked and dyed to wear ourselves. Most of these little hats, too, can be worn anywhere."

FASHION FANCIES

By Marie Belmont

The shops all began showing Southern wear fashions earlier than ever this season. These are interesting both to the woman who goes South and the woman who stays at home. The latter often gets ideas this early in the season for her early summer wardrobe.

Above is shown a frock of the type which is smart at the moment and will be equally as good for summer.

The material is tub silk in a soft pink shade, bordering on rose color. The trimming is of a deeper raspberry tone. It is simply bands of material, with appliques on the pockets.

DANISH HONORS TO WINNIPEG CITIZENS

No Title Carried By Awards of Danish or Icelandic Origin.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press).—In the name of His Majesty Christian X., King of Denmark and Iceland, A. C. Johnson, Royal Danish Consul in Winnipeg, conferred the honor of the Grand Knight of the Icelandic Order of the Falcon on Thomas H. Johnson, former Minister of Public Works and Attorney-General of Manitoba, at an impressive ceremony here. The Consul at the same time declared officially that the honor of Knight of the same Order had been conferred upon Arni Eggertson, Winnipeg business man. Unlike British honors, the Danish and Icelandic awards of recognition carry no title.

WEST RESTORED WOMAN'S HEALTH

Told Ten Years Ago Her Days Were Numbered, She is Now Hale and Hearty.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press).—Writing of Christmas traffic, a local paper said:

"Mrs. Mundle, with her daughter and her grandson, age 10 months, joined the Christmas excursion train at Moose Jaw. Ten years ago Mrs. Mundle lived in Richibucto, N. B., and doctors told her that her days were numbered. Today she is a hale and hearty woman who has born the fatigue of an 1,800-mile railway journey without discomfort. The medicine that worked the wonder was the West. The Mundles, with their daughter, then a young girl of eleven, bought a 320-acre half section in the Assiniboia district, and in the last ten years have worked it themselves. They made good from the start. Some years were better than others, of course, but this year was the best of any, with a bumper crop of Marquis wheat that ran forty bushels to the acre. They will be taken up by Garnet wheat next or the following year. Meanwhile 40 bushels to the acre on a 320-acre farm works out to around 13,000 bushels, which with wheat at $1.50 a bushel, means good money. Now Mrs. Mundle is headed for the East again to show New Brunswickers what the West can do for a woman."

WOMAN TOOK PRIZE IN MAN'S COSTUME

Came Second in Male Half of "Hard Times" Party.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 30. — (Canadian Press).—At a hard-times dance, given by the Police Athletic Association, where she was viewed critically by the city's experts in detection, Mrs. Jack Cox posed as a man so successfully that she actually carried off the second prize in the men's section of the costume competition. The discovery was not made until some time later in the evening. Mrs. Edith Rogers, U.S.A., was one of the judges.

LADIES DISAPPROVE COAL PURCHASED

Hold That Toronto City Council Should Have Bought Alberta Coal.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Feminine voices have been raised in protest against Mayor Thomas Foster and his colleagues on the City Council. The disapproval was voiced at the meeting of the Local Council of Women and arose over the action of the city fathers in buying two thousand tons of Pocahontas coal for civic sale. The women were strongly of the opinion that Alberta coal, "this splendid coal" should have been bought.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

How many times during the past week have you taken food or drink when you have had no desire for either?

Your hostess says, "I want you to have just a little more of this dish. I thought of you when I ordered it and I want you to eat a whole lot of it."

And so you do!

You throw discretion to the winds and take another helping of something, when as a matter of fact you didn't really want the first offering. Out of the kindness of your heart, or because of a fear of giving offense, you eat what you don't want and what will disagree with you.

Many and many a time you eat things you do not need and usually refuse. Just to be kind or polite you abuse your stomach. What have you to say to this?

It is difficult to deal with the social features of eating. You may go to a table where every article of food is something long experience has taught you to avoid. You may be offered a dish which is a favorite of your host. He will be hurt if you don't "try it." What are you to do?

I realize that convention makes exacting demands upon each of us. We must decide to "take a chance" or else run the risk of offending some tender soul. I can give you no rule of conduct. I have really submitted so many times to the blandishments and solicitations of friends that I have no heart to lay down a rule of procedure for anybody else.

There are plenty of excuses:

"I am dieting," or "I am fasting to-day," or "I promised my dying mother never to touch this," etc., etc. Perhaps as good a way as any is to say, "Sorry! I can't eat it. My ill-behaved stomach is my master." You may be looked upon as a fool, but for once, at least, you aren't a fool.

When you develop such strength of character as to be able to resist an appeal to your good nature, your prospect for long life will be improved. If you don't care what happens to you, bear in mind that your illness and physical unfitness may embarrass your family and friends.

I recall the warning which used to be recited in the "Band of Hope" when I was a little boy. It was something like this:

"Be firm both against the solicitations of friends and the threats of foes. Let no persuasion cause you to fail, no temptation cause you to yield!"

If we could face appeals to appetite in this spirit, stomach and digestion would be less imposed upon and less abused. In consequence life would be longer.

Three-Minute Journeys

Temple Manning

WHERE GROWN-UPS GO TO SCHOOL.

In remote corners throughout the Southern States there are men and women, old and young, carrying their primers and slates to school and sitting at their desks learning to read and write.

The ages of the pupils in these adult schools range from sixteen to ninety. Old people who have passed the three score and ten mark are proudly exhibiting the letters that they wrote themselves or reading aloud to their admiring neighbors.

It was in Kentucky that the idea of adult school was first introduced. "Moonlight Schools" they were called, because the first ones were held at night. After the day's work was done the pupils trudged over the hills to the crude schoolhouse or to a mountain home where the teacher met the class.

Of course there was scoffing at first and considerable embarrassment on the part of fathers and grandfathers who tried for the first time to read.

By the second year, a few more of the middle-aged and elderly beginners slipped into the benches at school. In the course of time the shame of "learning from books like little children" wore away. Others enlisted in the work of teaching illiterates, and the "Moonlight Schools" became an established insitution in Kentucky. Then one day, educators from other States heard about these schools at a National Education convention. Gradually adult schools became a popular undertaking.

For more than twelve years this work has gone forward. Text-books that will appeal to the grown-up mind have been prepared and there are thousands of men and women who have learned to read them, to write their own names, to sign their own papers, and to read the newspaper and the Bible.

The remarkable thing about this adult teaching is that men and women in their sixties learn enough in six weeks to read every lesson in their books, and to write their names. Successful farmers who have never been able to sign their checks before, proudly inscribe their names.

The spectacular part of the adult schools is the sight of elderly people going to school for the first time. "We never had a chance before," they say.

CLERGYMAN GIVES ADVICE AT SCHOOL

Says Boys' School Days Are Not Necessarily Happiest.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—"I am not going to say, as is often said on such occasions, that a boy's happiest days are necessarily his school-days," declared Canon Peter Green of Manchester, when attending a prize distribution at Salford School. "If a boy is happy at school, what is the good of telling him he will not be so happy in the future? If a boy is not happy at school, what is the good of telling him he will be more miserable as the time goes on?"

Canon Green proceeded to indicate three conditions of happiness. They should face life with courage. They should cultivate the widest possible interests, and the third condition was to learn to do things for others.

In regard to the second condition, Canon Green referred to Mr. Gladstone, who was said to be able to discuss Homer with the first and the diseases of horses with the second, talking the meanwhile with as much knowledge as either of his companions.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31.

An unsettled and disturbed day is presaged from the lunar and mutual configurations. There may be sudden upheavals or removals and journeys, possibly in connection with new business projects, and while these may hold some permanent advantages there is a note of warning against duplicity or fraud. Also, speculation would be hazardous and litigation had best be deferred.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of anxiety and disturbance. Change, removal and travel are among the auguries, but these may be of mixed advantage. Shun treachery and speculation and avoid litigation. However, some old obstacles may be removed to make way for a beneficial change. A child born on this day should be clever and industrious but may be restless and given to change. Some phases of its travel may bring benefits.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Do you believe in the scientific determination of destiny?

The Examiner has secured the services of a local expert in the science of drawing from a few basic facts a great amount of information that will be helpful and interesting to you. This gentleman, who for obvious reasons desires to remain anonymous under the pen-name "The Oracle", has made a deep study of the science. It is a fascinating study, founded on facts that no one can dispute. It is one of the oldest of the sciences, revived through much reading and application to ancient tables and writings.

And the knowledge of the ages is offered to Examiner readers free of all cost.

All You Must Do

is fill in the attached form and mail it to "The Oracle", The Examiner Office, 419 George street, Peterborough. Initials only will be used in The Examiner. If you desire a personal reply, enclose a stamped envelope.

Please note that full information can be based only on the complete particulars. Here is what is offered:

When full particulars are given:

Full name .....

Birth date: (day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

Would the following date be an auspicious one for me to enter into an important transaction or engagement?

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

S. L. F.—You are impetuous and easily knocked off your stride. You are inclined to worry over trifles, and make life difficult for others around you. You have engineering skill, but lack patience and the ability to stay with a job when difficulties crop up. This can be overcome by cultivating concentration. Keep your mind on the work in hand and do not allow anything else to intrude. You are not given to display of affection, but will feel more than you show. Be generous; think of others; look ahead of the present. Your color is green. You were born on a Sunday. The day of which you enquire would be a good one on which to marry.

Y. M.—You are not logical in your thinking processes and are apt to jump to wrong conclusions even when the basic facts are clear. Cultivate quiet, reasoned, thinking. Don't jump to conclusions, and avoid making statements in the heat of argument just to hear yourself talk. You have great dexterity, and will excel in working with your hands. You will be better as an employee than as an executive, and should not enter business for yourself. Choose your life partner carefully; avoid the clinging vine. You should develop will power and think over acts and statements carefully from many angles before plunging on a decided course. Your color is brown. You were born on a Tuesday. Do not enter any business deal on the day you name; take other steps warily.

N. E. S.—Be brave. You have had troubles enough you think, but you have strength of character to withstand them. Mere material failures should not irreparably damage one's life, though it seems hard to surmount. Look above the pettifogging things of life, and gather in the spiritual gifts that are within your reach. You have sympathy and charm—cultivate worthwhile friendships that will last when all else is gone. Do not centre your affection on any one person; let a little of your charity overflow to help others—and in this you will find the greatest solace. The day you name is the anniversary of a very sad occasion; turn from vain regrets. Your color is white. You were born on a Saturday; not Sunday as stated.

N. N.—You have traits which do not augur well for your success in life, materially or spiritually. I can give you some advice, but do not care to print it. If you desire it, send a stamped, addressed, envelope. The particulars will not be published, and the request will, of course, be kept confidential.

R. W. T.—Like many other young men in their early twenties, you mistake wish for ambition. Ambition doesn't mean sitting down to picture what you would do with a million dollars—it is the getting out, and rolling up your sleeves, and GATHERING IN the million dollars. And I can tell you another sure thing, you will never succeed in any business today or tomorrow unless you have specialized training. It's alright to be a handyman, but there are few earning a living at it. You have high mental powers, which may still be developed along whatever line appeals to you, but you show a leaning toward one of the professions. Unless you are peculiarly adapted and have outstanding ability I would not advise pursuing this, since the way is long and difficult and the road crowded. Whatever you do, set a high aim, spur on your flagging zeal, and stick to it. GET THERE. Your color is blue. You were born on a Monday.

Jinx.—Life is more or less of a joke to you and you rarely have a sober thought of the future. Which is all very nice for today, but what about tomorrow? You have ability of marked order for organizing and planning, with some financial knowledge. Develop this along some line that appeals particularly to you. See answer to R. W. T.—the same, practically, applies to your case. You are deeply affectionate, but inclined to be fickle. If I kndw the young ladies who receive your favors I would warn them to step carefully until you have developed a deeper sense of responsibility and have a capacity for constancy. You are not interested in religion; yet need something spiritual in your life. Your color is mauve. You were born on a Friday.

Sally.—You are a musical genius. Your sense of time is splendidly developed and you have good tone perceptions. You are, however, erratic and uncertain in your ways; exacting in your demands; irascible at times; and not a pleasant companion. Your natural charm is clouded by these bad habits of thought and action, and you should certainly make an effort in the closing years of your teens to overcome what will be great handicaps in your life, whether you choose a career or home life. Take life easier, look on the bright side of things, spread your love of the beautiful in music out to take in the beautiful in nature, painting, and the other expressions of art. You artists must be especially careful in choosing husbands. A jarring note will ruin your day—and a series of discords day by day will ruin your life—and his. Your color is purple. You were born on a Wednesday.

J. H. O.—Be yourself. Act naturally. You are inclined to bury your really charming nature in a hard shell of self-consciousness so that those who would be friendly cannot approach. You have an able mentality and can rise to great heights if you will to succeed. But first you must overcome self-thought and even morbidness. Adjust your soul to the infinite—you are not the centre of the universe. You have executive ability and would excel in a managerial capacity, but must be careful to select a business where there is room for expansion. Don't tie your self in a blind alley. Your color is purple. You were born on a Tuesday.

M. S. L. or M. J. L.—You are highly individual, and seldom need to call for assistance with any project you start or take up. You are depended upon in family and social circles, and more than hold up your own end of any activity. You are a good manager, economical but not given to worrying over small matters. Do not forget that your health is no small matter. Your mentalityis strong and active, and you have the ability to create pretty designs and execute handwork with skill. You are logical in thought, though not highly trained by the best reading. Choose your books carefully so that you may get the best out of life. Do not engage in any important business enterprises on the day you name and don't invest funds. You were born on a Friday. Your color is flame, in all its beautiful, indeterminate shades.

Buddy.—You are reserved and retiring in your manner, although good company with those whom you like. You do not hold yourself cheap, and your best nature is only found by your close friends. You must carefully avoid an inclination to introspection. You must still more carefully avoid a tendency to the occult, which will hinder you in whatever pursuit you enter. You have artistic ability, with excellent perception of line and angle, and dislike to see supposed perpendiculars at wrong angles. Assert your ability; cultivate your attributes; make use of your opportunities. The day of which you enquire is past. You were born on a Friday—not Wednesday as stated. Your color is brick.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DORIS MEETS A PATIENT LITTLE MOTHER.

Doris stood watching the little Bee as she flitted among the flowers, and when she settled on the largest blossoms, she nodded gayly to Doris and waved her feeler.

"Good morning, Doris! Where's your little sister?" she asked, dipping deep into the very heart of the honey well and filling the little pockets on her legs with pollen. "Is she asleep?"

"I wish she was," replied Doris. "I don't like to take care of her. I'm glad I don't have to watch her to-day. Have you any children, Miss Bee?"

"Goodness no, honey," buzzed Busy Bee. "I'm just one of a large family myself. You might have cause to talk of children bothering you if you had as many children in your home as I have in mine."

"Then you have some brothers and sisters, too, to take care of?" Doris asked.

"Brothers and sisters! Whew! I wish you could see my home," and Busy Bee dipped in her feelers and filled another pocket with pollen. "I'll say I have brothers and sisters. Haven't you met my mother? No?" Doris shook her head. "Then come along and I'll show you the family one mother has. My, but she is the proudest and most patient mother in all this great wide world." Then filling another pocket, Miss Busy Bee sailed away beckoning Doris to follow.

When they reached the beehive that were so many bees sailing around that

"Welcome, My Dear!"

Doris was almost afraid to go up, but Busy Bee pulled her up to the beehive house and called her mother. Out from the hive crawled a great big bee, the largest Doris had ever seen, Busy Bee introduced her to Doris as her mother, Queen Bee.

"Welcome, my dear," buzzed Mother Bee. "I haven't much time to talk. It keeps me busy laying eggs. Our hive is the largest in this part of the woods and I must live up to my reputation. I lay from two to three thousand eggs every twenty-four hours and each egg must have a separate cell."

"You mean, that every twenty-four hours you lay three thousand eggs and each egg holds a little bee!" exclaimed the astonished Doris. "How long does it take for those eggs to hatch?"

"Just about four days," replied the proud Mother Bee. "You see to keep a beehive going, one must have a great many children."

"Goodness! That's more than there are in our school," said Doris. "Don't you have a hard life with so many children under your feet all the time? Why, if my little sister gets under my feet when I'm working, I nearly have a fit."

"But, you see, my dear," buzzed Busy Bee, "Mother Bee just lays the eggs and we older sisters take care of the children. When the eggs are hatched, we take charge of the larva and close them up in tiny cells. Here they have to stay about twenty-one days. When they break through the cell walls, they are full-fledged worker-bees. Then, they are ready for work. All work is assigned and each bee must do her share."

"Why do you always say 'her,' when you speak of the workers?" asked Doris.

"Because it's only the females that work in a beehive," replied Mother Bee. "All the males are drones. Now I must get back to work," and into the hive she crawled. Just then Doris heard her sister crying, and, excusing herself, she ran to see what was the matter. When she came back, the Busy Bee was gone.

ODD WORKINGS OF SLANDER LAW

Man Must Prove Specia Damage—Woman Needn't.

CASE IN POINT

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 30.—(By Canadian Press).—One of the anomalies of the law of slander was pointed out by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald, when awarding Donald Sutherland, South Vancouver, nominal damages of $10 against a woman neighbor.

His Lordship explained that a man has no redress for oral statements affecting his moral character unless he is able to prove special damage, in this respect differing from the position of a woman, who does not have to prove special damages. Accusation of a crime and slanders which affect a person's business are in a different category and do not require proof of special damages. The trial proceeded on a remark by the defendant that "anyway I never stole" some garden fertilizer. Plaintiff contended that she inferred that he was a thief but she testified that she was speaking not of Sutherland, but of herself. His lordship refused to accept her explanation and held that this was a slander.

CITY LEAGUE OPENING GAMES PROVIDED CROWDED EVENING OF SPORT FOR HOCKEY FANS

All Four Games Last Night Were Keenly Contested.

TWO TIE GAMES.

One Senior and One Junior Game Ended Without Decisive Score.

Four fast hockey games, which made up in earnest endeavor what they lacked in finished play, formed the bill offered by the Peterborough City Hockey League for its official opening last night. The closeness of the contests is indicated by the fact that two of the four games ended with tie scores, while one of those which reached a decision went to the DeLaval seniors by the only goal scored in forty minutes of fast hockey.

Some three hundred fans turned out for the openers, providing the heads of the league with encouragement to continue in their work of developing players for the Peterborough teams of the future. The support of the fans was very evenly divided and good plays by all the teams were applauded.

Last night's games provided the first opportunity for Peterborough enthusiasts to see hockey played under the changed rules adopted recently by the C.A.H.A., and some of the players also acted as though the rules were strange to them. All the referees were strict in checking up illegal bodying and cries of "What for?" greeted a number of penalties handed out for this offence. Forwards were most frequently found in the penalty box for playing the man and not the puck, although tripping and slashing brought a few sentences.

The forty foot no-offside in front of each goal was also confusing to some of the fans, who complained of the referee's blindness in letting many obvious offsides go, forgetting that the defending side has now a much larger territory in which it may act almost as it pleases. Some of the goal-keepers took advantage of permission to throw the puck into the corners and came in for condemnation from those who were cheering against them.

Some Promising Players

Interest in the Junior games centred chiefly in those players who gave promise of developing into useful men for the Junior O.H.A. teams of the next few years and of eventually finding a place on the Senior team. Among those who attracted attention were Charlie Sowden and Jack Hall of St. Andrew's, Bill Cripps of St. James', Koster and Chambers of Raybestos, and Carroll and Archambault of St. Peter's.

The senior series offered a number of candidates who should provide material for a splendid Intermediate team when the call goes out next month to meet Lakefield in the group playoff. Good men were seen in every position and a strong team can be gathered.

In all the games last night there was no limit on the number of subs, although some of the teams lacked even the regular O.H.A. allowance of two. Several of the teams had four, which was almost too many, as the players had no time to hit their stride and the managers sometimes lost track, having seven men on the ice.

St. Andrew's, 5; St. James', 1

The first game on the programme was the only one which was not close. Joe Batten's St. Andrew's team was well fortified, having four subs, while the St. James' Crew had none at all until the middle of the first period. Team work won for the west enders, as most of the combination shown in the game was provided by the blue shirted crew. Sowden, Hall, and Marshall were the leaders, but Gillespie in goal was a tower of strength, and all the other players helped the cause along. Cripps was the outstanding player on the south end team. Heale at centre and Payne in goal were also good. The others made a lot of nice rushes but failure to pass the puck when in on the St. Andrew's defence made things easy for Sowden and Marshall.

The game had just nicely started when Sowden, on a fine individual play, garnered the first counter of the league season. Cripps duplicated the feat within two minutes and the score was tied. Good combination, culminating in a perfect pass from Sowden to Hall in front of the net, put St. Andrew's in the lead again while they were a man short, as Marshall was serving a term for tripping. Nixon scored just before the period ended, leaving the half time count three to one.

Marshall opened the scoring of the second period with a fine goal, beating Payne from close in. Just before the game ended Jennings and Allen combined for the last goal of the game, Jennings giving the final touch. The summary:

First Period
St. Andrew's—Sowden 7.00
St. James'—Cripps 1.30
St. Andrew's—Hall 1.30
St. Andrew's—Nixon 15.00
Second Period
St. Andrew's—Marshall 4.00
St. Andrew's—Jennings 14.00
Penalties — Marshall, Seabrooke, Allen and Jennings.

The teams:

St. Andrew's—Goal, Gillespie; defence, Marshall and Sowden; centre, Hall; wings, Allen and Nixon; subs, Roberts, Mowry, Jennings and Robertson.

St. James'—Goal, Payne; defence, Lockhart and Cripps; centre, Heale; wings, Cripps and Seabrooke; sub, Little.

Referee—Walter Jackson.

Raybestos, 1; St. Peter's, 1

The second game was a drawn battle between two very evenly matched teams. The Saints had more system on the attack but the Koster-Graham-Corkery defence of the brakemakers was heavy and effective. Both goals of the game were scored from scrambles, as the play went from end to end with great rapidity. Mein and Koster both made some wonderful stops, and, as usual, had all the luck a goal keeper has when he is right on.

St. Peter's boys were handicapped, having only one sub, but played good hockey right through. LeBarr and Carroll, on the defence, broke up many attacks, and led raid after raid on the opposite goal, LeBarr scoring the tying goal in the second period. Penalties for bodying were frequent, keeping the team under strength, two men being off on one occasion.

Chambers was the outstanding player on the Raybestos team, his beautiful stickhandling for individual rushes being deserving of several goals. Graham and Corkery, the big defence players, were effective on both attack and defence. It remained, however, for White, a substitute to score the Raybestos counter, a few moments before the bell rang for the end of the first period.

The principal fault noticed in the play of all the junior team was the tendency of the forwards to crowd over toward the puck carrier, leaving the opposite side open, so that a well-placed pass would have let an opponent away with a clear field.

Summary:
First period
Raybestos—White 17.00
Second Period
St. Peter's—LeBarr 5.00
Penalties: Graham, Wolff 2, LeBarr, White 2, Archambault, Kennealey 2.

St. Peter's—Goal, Mein; defence, LeBarr and Carroll; centre, Kennealey; wings, Jones and Archambault; sub, Wolff.

Raybestos—Goal, Koster; defence, Graham and Corkery; centre, Starr; wings, Chambers and Williams; subs White, Jones and Hatton.

Referee—Bill Jackson.

DeLaval, 1; Crescents 0

Williams and McDougall combined for a nice goal in the first period of the DeLaval-Crescents encounter, and it proved to be the winning, and only goal of the game. The two teams, consisting of young fellows recently graduated from the junior ranks, raced up and down the ice two and three abreast but the goal keepers were vigilant and defence men strong. The frequent use of subs kept the game going at a dizzy pace all through, and for closeness and excitement it would give any senior game a close race. More attempt at combination was shown than in any of the other games, and selfishness with the puck was very rare. A little bodying on the forward line and in centre ice gave the Crescents the only penalties of the game, there being issued for this offence. Williams, McDougal, Maudsley and Jones were conspicuous among a cluster of stars. McDougall had to be helped from the ice in the first period, when he hurt his knee. He came back in the second and was hurt again.

Summary:
First Period
DeLaval—McDougall 7.00
Second period
No Score
Penalties — McDonough, Mahood and Jones.

DeLaval — Goal, Ward; defence, Marchen and Miller; centre, Williams; wings, Dundas and Evans; subs, McDougall, Ashmore, Kingdon and Smith.

Crescents—Goal, Hall; defence, McDonough and Holland; centre, Jones; wings, Maudsley and L. Collins; subs, Mahood, N. Collins, Miller and Rishes.

Referee—Bill Jackson.

Brinton Carpet, 3; Raybestos, 2

When Manager Jimmie McMartin let fly a sizzling drive that Mucker Legros never saw he retrieved a game that had apparently been lost at the middle of the second period when the Raybestos team ran in two goals in a row. The carpet boys had taken the lead right at the start of the game on a soft goal which Pete King drifted past Legros from about thirty feet out after beating the Raybestos defence. The game looked safe until the middle of the second period, as the furious attempt of both teams to add to the count had proved of little avail. At the middle of the period the Raybestos team staged attack after attack and finally Mickey Williams scored from a pass out from a scrimmage near the net. Two minutes later Jack Thornton made a lone rush, shooting from outside the defence. LeBarr blocked the shot but before he could clear Thorton had rounded the defence to slam in the rebound at point blank range for what seemed then to be the deciding tally.

From a Raybestos rush following the face off McMartin secured and, outdistancing the Raybestos forwards let fly a vicious drive between the defence men to score the tying and final goal of the game.

The Williams brothers, George and Alf, were the pick of the brakeliners, while Lackey and McMartin led the Carpet makers attacks. The summary:

First Period
Brintons—King 2.00
Second Period
Raybestos—A. Williams 10.00
Raybestos—Thornton 2.00
Brintons—McMartin 1.00
Penalties—Coursey and McMartin
The teams:
Brintons: Goal; LeBarr, defence, McMartin and Lackey; centre, Rose; wings, King and White; subs, Cripps and White.
Raybestos: Goal, Legros; defence, Helson and Coursey; centre, Butcher; iwngs, A. Williams and Batten; subs, G. Williams and Thornton.
Referee—Bruce Cox.

CADETS LOSE TO BOSTON COLLEGE

Kingston Team Defeated 7-6 in Last Minute of Game.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—The hockey squads of Royal Military College and Boston College put on a scoring bee in Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon, and at the end of an international clash that was replete with thrills, spills and sizzling goal shots, the Boston boys managed to be on the long end of a 7 to 6 score.

In the first period the passing game developed to perfection by both forward lines, and before the frame was ended seven tallies had been rung up. H. McDougal, the Kingston centre man, was the predominating star in the opening fray, bulging the Boston twine three times inside of 12 minutes.

For the scoring honors, Right Wingman Cronin of the Hug Town team shared honors with the Red and White centre, but his three goals were spread out, one in each period. To Cronin, however, went the honor of netting the winning goal, and it in itself was a crowning accomplishment. With only one minute to go, and the score tied, Cronin took the disc from behind his own net, stickhandled his way through the entire R.M.C. team, drew Goalie Rogers out of the Canadian citadel, and batted the rubber into the unattended net.

Line-up.

R.M.C.—Robers, goal; Oster and Saunders, defence; McDougal, centre; Clarke, right wing; Tremain, left wing; Smith, Molson, Mathier, and Walker, subs.

Referees—M. J. McDonnell and Donald Grant.

PETES' FIRST HOME ON HOLIDAY NIGHT

Will Have Their Hands Full Against St. Mary's.

The St. Mary's team will be just about as lively opposition in their exhibition game with the Petes on New Year's night as Capt. Bailey and his crew will care to meet, following tonight's hard game in Kitchener. With Foules and Hughes formerly of Collingwood, and Steve Rice, late of Niagara Falls, Ken Kane and other stars in action Farnk Selke will trot out a line-up against the Petes that will make the blue and white brigade extend themselves to the limit, and perhaps the limit will not be enough.

It will be the first appearance of the Petes at home this season and a huge crowd will undoubtedly welcome them. All the Petes' squad will be in action Friday night, including Babe Bogardis and Bruce Cox, two newcomers to this year's team.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

When the clubhead is jerked quickly away from the ball in starting the back swing the clubhead will attain an enormous speed about the time it reaches the back swing—having much more action at that point than is wanted or can be properly used. This happens because the clubhead, being in flight, or motion, the whole tendency of the action is to make it go faster as the muscle pressure from the fingers increases and as additional power factors are added. Thus, when the clubhead hits the top or turning point the pressure of its pull, when arresting it, is so great that the player will either loosen his grip or rear up onto his toes. If he resists both these he will probably lose his balance. Getting the clubhead back to the ball then with good timing is practicaly impossible.

'PRO' SPORT SPIRIT HURTS ATHLETICS

U. S. Amateur Federation Would Purge Out Money.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press)—Styling professionalism as the "bugaboo of American athletics," Colonel Henry Breckinridge, president of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, yesterday appointed a committee to deal with the problem of drawing the line between amateur and professional sports.

Addressing the annual conference of the federation, Col. Breckinridge said: "The professional athlete is perfectly all right in his own sphere, but when you have the amateur and professional spheres of athletics mixing, it is like the economic law of bad money driving good money out of circulation.

"Our colleges are not to train gladiators. College athletic training is a means, not an end. I object to the college-trained athlete who sells his services all over the country."

FLOWERS NEXT ON HARRY GREB'S LIST

"Tigah" Specified By N. Y. Athletic Commission.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press) — Harry Greb, the world's middleweight champion, must meet Tiger Flowers, negro middleweight, before he meets any other title contender, the New York state athletic commission ruled Tuesday in accepting a challenge from Flowers levelled at Greb's crown. Walk Miller, Flowers' manager, posted a certified check of $2,500 with the commission to bind the match.

The commission accepted the check, officially recognized Flowers as Greb's most logical challenger and notified Greb that he must accept within thirty days or find himself ranked with the ineligibles.

The commission also received a challenge, accompanied by a check for $2,500, from Bud Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind., for a title match with Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg, the bantamweight champion, but the check was returned with the information that the challenege was placed on the records for future reference.

SARNIA WANTS SENIOR RUGBY

Oil Town Champions Ready To Step Up in O.R.F.U.

ENCOURAGE OTHERS.

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 30 (Canadian Press)—Even if Sarnia did not bring home a Dominion Intermediate rugby championship this Fall the city fans are clamoring for entrance to the senior ranks in 1926. Coach Jack Newton favors the idea as a sound one. There is no question about the added interest in the game, especially when this city can field a senior team that will hold its own with any of them. Another big argument in favor of senior football is the stimulus a senior team from this city will give the autumn game in this section of the country. As long as Sarnia plays intermediate rugby Wallaceburg, Petrolia, Chatham and St. Thomas are going to leave that branch strictly alone. They admit the Blue and White are too strong for them and they haven't any inclination toward playing doormat for any one of they can help it.

Senior football in aSrnia will be followed by intermediate football in these centres as well as an intermediate team in this city. Much depends upon the progress made by the Parks Board on the athletic park between now and next fall. The management will not state positively when the grounds will be fixed up but they intimate that they may be ready for next year's football. With grandstand accommodation plus a great field interest in the game should be even greater than it has been during the peak of Sarnia's power in the intermediate race.

CLOSING SUNDAY MILLBROOK SCHOOL

Anniversary Was Observed And Prizes Presented.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 30. — The last Sunday of the year is always an important occasion for the Sunday School of the United Church as it observes its anniversary on that date with special services morning, afternoon, and evening.

The superintendent, Mr. W. Fred Fallis, and the associate superintendent, Mr. F. Stinson, had made a special effort during the week to have a large representation of the school present on Sunday morning when the service is planned particularly in its interests, but the thermometer standing at twenty-four below zero meant that only a comparatively small percentage was able to attend.

Rev. R. S. Hosking, B.A., Chief Parole Officer of the Juvenile Court, Toronto, who was the speaker of the day, by special request, had prepared his morning talk for the boys and girls.

A male choir of about twenty voices led the singing, the selections including, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks", "Emmanuel, Prince of Life", and "There's A Song of Wondrous Beauty."

The Christmas decorations of evergreens, poinsettias, etc., were left in place from the previous Sunday, and were quite appropriate.

"What is the first thing a minister does when he begins to preach?" was Rev. Mr. Hosking's opening question, gaining instant attention from the younger folk whom he was particularly addressing.

"Take a text? Correct; and I have two texts this morning. The first one was spoken by a father, Jacob, as he lay dying, to his son, Reuben: 'Unstable as water, thou shalt not excel'; and the the others is, 'Water wears the rock.'

Proceeding the speaker, by the questioning method, brought out the fact that water has three tndencies which are not advisable for boys and girls to imitate: 1. It is changeable—"suits its shape to any container, and its color to any shade injected. Avoid eing so unreliable that you suit yourself to any company or influence, good or bad, in which you find yourself. Have backbone to be honest, truthful, clean in speech and action, anywhere."

2. Water is easily impressed but retains no lasting imprint. "Can you write your name in water? Surely; but the stroke is instantly replaced just as teachers and parents may give instructions to some minds fail to retain the lesson, or advice. Have a conviction of mind for the right under any circumstances, anywhere, and refuse to be easily turned aside by any influence."

3. Water runs down hill—like some boys and girls who choose the easy way in everything, and refuse the hard, or distastetul, task, or lessons, and so are content to be at the foot of the class, and are never known as "the best boy or girl in the school or family."

Now for some points to be imitated. "Water wears the rock, but water is softer than rock, isn't it? You can hit water with your fist and not be hurt, but rock you couldn't. A drop of water might fall on a baby's head, and not hurt a bit, but a stone would do serious injury. It is by its persistent dropping that the rock is worn, so perseverance is a good quality.

"Water can be made to run uphill, but it must be forced. Discipline is not always agreeable, but it prepares for trust, ability, and bigger things in later life."

The afternoon session was well attended, Miss Ella Elson presiding at the pipe organ, and Messrs. G. E. and Ernest Burnham giving good lead to the singing with their cornets.

Mr. Hosking interested the boys and girls, and the older folk also, by a blackboard talk on Psalm 1:3, "He shall be like a tree," developing his themes under six heads: Contentment, Health, Roots, Importance, Symmetry, and Trial. The initial letters spell "Christ" and to be like Him was the last thought impressed.

The reports are always an item of interest on anniversary Sunday. These were read by the secretary, W. G. Rowland, and were: for Sunday, attendance 165; offering $7.71. For the quarter attendance 1799, average 138; verses 635, average 55; offering $65.27, average $5.22. For the year, attendance 7198, average 138; verses 4258, average 82; offering $246.44, average $4.59.

W. G. Hetherington gave the treasurer's report which showed a total raised of $494.22; expenditure $427.25; balance on hand $66.71; liabilities for supplies for 1926, $180.

Rev. J. Wilks reported 44 names enrolled in Home Department, 4 new members having joined during the last quarter. Lessons are well studied and 4 district visitors are faithful in service.

The distribution of awards makes the day of distinct importance for the scholars. A Bible is given each one who does not miss a Sunday during the year, but a hard and fast rule means that one Sunday absent spoils the chance of the award. Eight pupils had a perfect record: Lawrence Winslow and Oliver Brock, in the Taxis Square class; Stanford Brown, in Miss Stutt's class, and Freddie Brown in the Primary class; Aubrey Todd, in the Senior Trail Rangers, and Gerald Todd in the Junior Trail Rangers; Mary Burnham in Mrs. O. Williamson's class, and Marshall Fallis in Mrs. J. McKnight's class.

A well bound book is given for verses memorized, two prizes in each class, provided at least 150 verses have been learned. Stanford Brown came highest with 288 verses; Jean Stinson 152; Jack Stinson 223; Mary Burnham 203; Mary Ferrin 165; Wilma Fallis 192; Flossie McMahon 152. Suitable books are given each member of the Primary Department, 50 being required on Sunday.

A pleasant surprise was provided for the superintendent of the Primary department, Miss Pearl Burnham, when Mr. Fallis, on behalf of the children, presented her with two handsomely bound volumes of poetry, Keats and Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Rev. Joseph Wilks pronounced the benediction. The anniversary of the school reaches its climax on New Year's night when an entertainment is presented consisting of motion songs, drills, and a pageant, "The Way of Life", requiring about fifty characters. The programme will be given in the church.

SMALL DAMAGE IN NORWOOD FIRE

SPARK FROM STOVE

NORWOOD, Dec. 30—On Christmas night the citizens of Norwood were aroused by the ringing of the fire bell. The cause of the alarm was a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson, Alma street. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson had retired when a neighbor noticed fire in the kitchen. The fire was caused by a spark from the kitchen stove setting fire to a couch near the stove and had spread to the window curtains when discovered. Not much damage was done.

MANY ARE INVITED TO HOUSE OPENING

Wives and Daughters of Members Are Expected —Byng Away.

OTTAWA, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—More than 700 official invitation have been issued for the opening of the 15th parliament next week.

The wives and daughters of the majority of the new members are expected to attend.

The ceremonies on opening day will be marked by the absence of His Excellency the Governor General, who will be represented by the deputy Governor General. His Excellency will, however, attend Parliament on 3 o clock on the following day after the House of Commons has elected its speaker. The Speech from the Throne will then be read.

WOMEN DON'T SEW.

Profits of Coats Thread Company Have Been Affected.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Women are forsaking the practice of sewing at home, according to Mr. W. H. Coats, head of the famous cotton firm, who proceeded to explain that the company's power to earn more money was affected by circumstances outside their control.

Nevertheless the firm made over four millions profit last year, and has declared a dividend of 15 per cent., with 2 1-4 per cent. bonus.

The Australian Government has recently imposed a tariff on sewing cotton, which causes Coats serious concern. The report that the Russian market had been re-opened to the firm was incorrect.

MUCH BUSINESS COMING BEFORE ONTARIO HOUSE

Legislature Has Long Slate of Government Business to Transact.

SIX MEMBERS SHORT

Death and Resignations Have Removed Several Legislators.

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The Ontario Legislature will meet on Feb. 10. Whether it will be the last session of the sixteenth Ontario Legislature is a matter not yet decided. The Provincial Parliament can constitutionally sit another session, but it has been unusual in Ontario for Parliament to go the full length of their terms. However, there will not likely be any announcement about a Provincial election until the Federal political situation is clarified. The Ontario Government will not go to the people when a Federal election campaign is in the offing.

The Legislature will meet with seven members short of its 111 membership. Six of the vacancies in the Ontario Chamber are by resignation and one, that of London, by death of the member, Sir Adam Beck. Five of the members of the Legislature resigned to run for the House of Commons in the last general election. Two of them, Peter Heenan, Kenora, and Earl Rowe, South Simcoe, were successful and are now members of the House of Commons. Malcolm Lang, Cochrane; Geo. Sewell, North Norfolk, and D. Carmichael, Centre Grey, were defeated and are not now members of any Parliament. The party losses because of these vacant seats are as follows: Conservatives, 2; Liberal, 1; U.F.O., 3; Labor, 1. The latest vacant seat is East Kent, from which Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture in the Drury Government, and second in command of the farmer group since the defeat of that administration, resigned. The leadership of the various groups remain unchanged.

At present the Government has not announced the bringing down of any very important or controversial legislation. The matter of revision of the Ontario Temperance Act has been much talked of, but Premier Ferguson declines to admit that his Government has any such design. There is always the possibility, however, that the question may be thrown into serious discussion in the Legislature by the action of private members or opposition groups.

There may be some changes in Provincial taxation, but on the whole they cannot be reduced as increased revenue is necessary. Hon. Geo. Henry, Minister of Highways and Public Works, announced recently that there would be no change in the license fee for motor cars, nor would there be any decrease in the gasoline tax, which ha proved a fruitful source of revenue. There might be some change in the beverage tax from which the revenue has been disappointing. The collection of the latter is als costly. However, neither the gasoline tax nor the beverage tax had been in effect a year, and it is thought that operation for a full year will be needed to show their effectiveness.

The Government will introduce further legislation regarding the care of feeble-minded and mentally defective. The proposal is to work with the municipalities from which real co-operation and assistance is expected. It would so leave opportunity for individual assistance from those interested. The Government, it is understood, proposes to assist by subsidy or grant. The success of the home for boys at Bowmanville has prompted the Government to further work along the same lines.

Revision and consolidation of the statutes, especially the Municipal and Assessments Acts, will be continued. This is uninteresting work for the House, but very necessary as the Municipal Act has been so amended that it is battered almost beyond interpretation in spots. The Highway Acts are also being consolidated. As they were they were very confusing and led to differences with counties and small municipalities because of the varied interpretation possible even by solicitors. It is hoped to make positively definite the duties and responsibilities of every township, county and the Province itself regarding the highways. As in previous sessions, the Government will discourage amendments to the Municipal Act, many of which are of local significance only and clutter up the main legislation and leave loop-holes for evasion.

Even if the Government introduced no further legislation than that mentioned, the Legislature would have plenty to do. Year by year the amount of private legislatio increases. Committees are usually behind the House, and for some years private members have had their greatest share of work in the committee rooms. The Agricultural Committee, which has been sitting all year, with Dr. D. Jamieson, M.L.A., as Chairman, will have to make some concrete proposals for assistance to the farming industry. It is quite possible that the securing of better rates for Canadian cattle to Britain will be dealt with, although it is more of a Federal matter.

Now that the right of extension of the Temiskaming and Ontario Railway, or rather the Algoma Central Railway, into Rouyn, Quebec, has been decided by the courts, it is quite possible that the matter will be brought up in the House. There may also be other branch line extensions of the railway to meet the needs of new mineral fields which are being continuously opened up in Northern Ontario. Hydro matters will also take some time, especially the matter of new development to offset the feared shortage of power. If the session gets going late in January or early by Easter.

Shop-windows on parade

IN THE quiet and comfort of your home, newspaper in hand, the shop-windows of the town's best stores pass in review. Look at that charming little hat—just the style you have been looking for, and so reasonable!

And say, isn't that coat a darling? . . . Not only do you see illustrations of the merchandise, but you are told in detail of its merits and prices. A passing panorama that may be halted and started and halted at will. A shopping trip at home!

How long do you suppose it would take you to reverse the process—to go up one street and down another, until you had visited personally every worth-while store in town? And how exhausted you would be, physically and nervously.

There's no doubt about it. The modern way to shop is to read the advertisements, then make notes of the stores and the particular offerings that appeal to you. What a lot of time and bother such a method saves. You know beforehand what you want to look at, who has it, and what you will have to pay.

Read the advertisements. Make it a daily habit. The regular reader of advertisements is better informed, makes the family budget stretch farther, has more time for recreation, gets more value for her money, and profits in many other ways. Advertisements are frequently the most interesting news in the paper.

Every day these shop-windows are lined up for your inspection in this newspaper

TORONTO PROS NOW IN CELLAR

St. Pats Presented Badly Disorganized Team Without Babe Dye.

LOST TO BOSTON.

BOSTON, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Boston Bruins defeated St. Patricks of Toronto here last night, 3 to 0, in a scheduled National Hockey League game and forced the Toronto team into last position in the league standing. A crowd of 5,000 enthusastic fans applauded the Bruins' third victory. In going down to defeat before Boston for the second time this year, St. Patrick's presented a disorganized team, showing clearly the lack of "Babe" Dye, their star marksman. The Irishmen were ineffectual all the time; their shooting was wild and their passing weird. Whatever opportunities they had were lost by fumbling and at the end of the game they looked like a badly beaten outfit.

SALACIOUS BOOKS WILL BE BANNED

Ontario Government is Introducing Legislation to Control Them.

TORONTO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Fiction of the type which is generally described as salacious—and which in the case of some "best sellers" has proven itself to be as popular as it is unhealthy—will commence at the coming session of the Ontario Legislature, to come under the ban of the Ferguson Government.

Legislation to control lending libraries with a view to preventing them from supplying this type of literature was intimated yesterday at the Parliament Buildings by Hon. Mr. Ferguson as one of his projects for the Legislature's sanction.

BASEBALL LOSING ITS GRIP ON YOUTH

Other Games Are Gaining in Popularity With Young People.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 30 (United Press)—Baseball is losing its grip on the youth of America, while other games are gaining in popularity. Major J. L. Griffith, secretary of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, reported to the organization's convention here on Tuesday.

Interest in "sand lot" baseball has fallen off 50 per cent in the past three years, Major Griffith said, his survey of amateur athletics showed that 70 per cent of the nation's youth now indulges in some form of sport directly or indirectly connected with the Federation.

Owing to the cold snap which prevailed over the week end, the rink was in excellent shape on Monday evening for the first practice of the season. Most of the prospectives turned out. ELECTION CANDIDATES EXPLAIN OBJECTIVES paign of boosting and building of the city by extending the industrial activities, real supervision and better facilities for the bathing beaches, and, summarizing he declares that at all times his efforts will be directed toward the best interests of Peterborough.

John Marshall.

John Marshall does not believe in anything which will work a hardship on any one class of people nor does he believe in carrying out any procedure which will not bear the searchlight of investigation. Mr. Marshall said that he is "certainly in favor of supervised Sunday bathing and would strongly advocate daylight saving. Regarding the school question I would be in favor of extension—there is real need there but I would not take any action without the approval of the people as expressed by their vote. Ways and means should be found so that the desired end might be attained without increasing the burden unduly for it is certain that the need is a grievous one. The city is at present passing through a period which will either make or break it. Aldermen of good sound business training may effect its salvation."

Charles H. Ackerman.

"There are so many angles to, and so much to learn about, the school question that I would hesitate to commit myself on that point at present," said Mr. Ackerman when questioned as to the stand he purposed taking, "but," he continued, "I am decidely in favor of Sunday bathing although in my opinion the people should decide the issue which hinges on daylight saving. During the past week I have made a serious effort to find out what the school controversy is all about. I believe that the Adolescent Act was forced on the people and that it is at present the root of much of the unnecessary expense today.

Robert Cotton.

While Robert Cotton has not been connected with legislative matters in the city he has nevertheless been a prominent figure in other spheres. He has served as president of the local Motor League, on the executive of the Board of Health, president of the Ladies' Soft-ball Association and has also given considerable assistance in attending to the fire alarm system. He is an electrician employed at the Canadian General Electric Company. Mr. Cotton is not in favor of the city spending money for a technical school unless the matter is properly brought before the council and also receives the stamp of approval by the people. He does not favor taking over the street railway system operated at present by the Hydro-Electric Commission at a deficit.

Robert N. Jones.

R. N. oJnes has served in the city council six years. During last year he acted as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee; he is also the representative of the city on the board of the Trent Waterway Development Association. Mr. Jones is a builder and contractor. He declared that he was strongly in favor of the new lighting system which has been installed in Ashburnham and is of the opinion that such a system should be commissioned for the entire city. He is not in favor of any expenditure unless it receives the sanction of the electors.

E. Mel. Turner.

"The questions of Sunday bathing and daylight saving can be decided only by the people and my attitude as expressed by my vote while in council last year regarding the new school remains the same. I am thoroughly opposed to any action in that connection without an expression of approval from the people. The great essential is to keep expenditures down for this city in common with most others is passing through a crisis. I have never gone into municipal affairs with my hands tied and am prepared now as always to devote my energies to the advancement of civic interests," said Mr. Turner.

Alderman Turner has lived all his life in Peterborough and for the past four years has served in the capacity of Alderman. He declared himself to be always in favor of government progression and said that he intended to do everything possible to obtain more manufacturing plants in the city.

W. H. Lytle

The interview granted by W. H. Lytle was brief but pointed. He declared that he had no platform but intended to go into the campaign with a "clean foot, a clear conscience and an open mind." He was open to conviction on the school question but did not think that conditions at present warranted the expenditure. Mr. Lytle said that he had never held public office before but had always taken a deep interest in municipal affairs. Mr. Lytle is a special contractor and said that he gets only hard jobs to do.

Fred E. Tuggey

Regarding the school question, Mr. Tuggey was opposed to adding any greater onus on the taxpayer at the present time. He declared that he would be in favour of a new school when the property owners signified by their vote that they were prepared to shoulder the burden.

If the people had a heart, he said, they would try to consider the city as one of 20,000 people rather than one of 40,000. Peterborough was not a great city and the tax payers were struggling now under the weight of their taxes.

Mr. Tuggey expressed himself as being strongly in favor of education but thought that many of the frills might be eliminated.

The citizens who would be obliged to raise the money are the ones to whom the question of taking over the transportation systems should be referred, thought Mr. Tuggey. He was in sympathy with Sunday bathing and thought that the city did not provide enough money for sport. Daylight saving should be placed before the people so that the problem might be solved by a vote. He was opposed to a reckless giving of grants and thought that economy should be the rule; that every dollar be made to count.

Mr. Tuggey declared that he would stand by to the last ditch in the interests of the city. He had never before held any civic office and was by trade a bricklayer and builder.

Board Of Education.

E. Bruce Fowler.

Mr. Fowler, when interviewed regarding the stand he purposed taking with regard to augmented school facilities, declared that there was a recognized need for extension. He said that the members of the school board had worked out a method of meeting the exigency which should at least be submitted to the people in order that they might understand the details involved. He thought that if they understood the situation, they would endorse the plan.

Mr. Fowler has served four years as a member of the Board of Education.

Mrs. Kate Morris

For the past six years Mrs. Morris has acted as a member of the school board and for the last five years she has worked for the extension programme. She said that during time of office she has seen a generation of school children pass.

Since she first became a member of the Board, Mrs. Morris said it was a matter of record that nearly every large town or city in the province had established either a technical or combination school and that all were well attended and lowering the maintenance cost of schools to the city. She declared that the proposition put forward by the Board of Education was authorized by the department and that none other would receive the stamp of approval.

J. A. McNABB.

Mr. McNabb is the proprietor of the La Mode Ladies' Wear. He has had no experience in municipal matters. Mr. McNabb was out of the city on business so that no direct interview could be had.

Dr. H. M. Yelland.

Dr. Yelland has been a member of the Education Board since 1923 and has never been engaged in any other municipal work. He declared that he was standing on his merits and would elaborate no policy.

DR. JOHN J. CRAIG.

Dr. J. J. Craig is a dentist by profession, and has served on the Board of Education for the past two years. He is president of the Kiwanis Club, and is interested in many activities around the city. He is in favor of the new extension to the Collegiote, because in his opinion it will give the children of the working man a chance to learn the subjects and operations which are fundamental to the trades and industries in which they expect to become employed. He is not in favor of submitting the question to the ratepapers as only 38 per cent of the people would be entitled to vote on it. He is prepared to stand or fall on this issue.

E. Roland Wilson

Mr. Wilson is manager of the Peterborough Machine and Lubrication Company and has been a resident of the city for the past twenty one years. He has never before aspired to any municipal honors. Mr. Wilson is in favour of a technical school for Peterborough as soon as the city is able to finance such an institution, but he does not believed that the present conditions are auspicious.

ESTHER SNYKER, PRIMA DONNA SOPRANO, IN "YUM YUM," IN "THE MIKADO," GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MONDAY, JANUARY 4TH.

Theatre

AT THE GRAND

In only too many cases the species of modern entertainment known as musical comedy proves to be neither musical nor genuinely comic. Banal scores entirely devoid of freshness and originality, more often than not are allied with a blend of stupidity and vulgarity, passing in the guise of humor, which could not conceivably move to mirth anyone above the intellectual grade of moron.

In sharp contrast with such drivel are the operettas of W. S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullvian, the best of which "The Mikado" has been revived this season by Brandon Brothers who are making with it a trans-continental tour and will bring it to the Grand Opera House on Monday, January 4.

Just forty years old this season, "The Mikado" has lost none of its power to charm. It affords ideal diversion for civilized beings who find Gilberts masterly satire and Sullivan's sprightly music as enjoyable today as did the first audience to hear the opera when it was first produced in London.

The very essence of comedy of the highest type is irony and the Gilbertian irony is just as timely in this third decade of the twentieth century as it was in 1885. The composition is a masterpiece of light opera. It's endearing songs are ever fresh, joyous and beautiful.

Brandon Brothers have given the opera an exceptionally fine singing cast and a production worthy of this masterpiece. The engagement should be one of the most enjoyable of the entire season. The Company only recently closed a very successful engagement at the Royal Alexandra, Toronto, and is now playing to capacity houses throughout the important cities of Canada.

AT THE CAPITOL

MARION DAVIES FINE IN FILM OF OLD N. Y.

Actress Portrays Dual Role in "Lights of Old Broadway" with Great Success.

"A new Marion Davies," tersely describes the artistry of that charming star in her latest stellar production, "Lights of Old Broadway," directed by Monta Bell, and now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Beginning with her production of "Little Old New York," it may be rightly said that each succeeding production has been another step forward in the career of this artiste. In "Lights of Old Broadway," which tops by a considerable margin "Little Old New York," Miss Davies has attained a stellar position which will command the respect and admiration of the great American picture-going public.

In this picture she plays the dual role of Fely, foster daughter of the lowly O'Tandy's, and Anne, adopted daughter of the rich and aristocratic De Rhondos—roles as far divergent as the poles yet she interprets them with ease and clarity.

The writer of this article has followed the career of Miss Davies from its inception and has noted that her histrionic greatness has always been as great as the vehicle in which she has appeared. If Miss Davies, under her new contract with Metra-Goldwyn-Mayer, is given stories with the strength of her initial picture under that banner, it is most likely that she will soon top all other feminine stars of the screen.

She carries herself through all scenes with the ease and naturalness of a born artist. There is nothing forced nor anything artificial about her work and without doubt she is the most beautiful of all American girls now connected with stage or screen life.

Great as the credit due Miss Davies in "Lights of Old Broadway" is, we should not miss the opportunity of speaking of Monta Bell's clever direction and the well-knit scenario made from Laurence Eyre's stage success, "The Merry Wives of Gotham," by Carey Wilson.

Credit should also be given to the supporting cast, especially her leading man, Conrad Nagel, and Frank Currier, who plays the role of Col. Lambert De Rhondo. Others who deserve especial mention are George K. Arthur, Charles McHugh, Eleanor Lawson, Julia Swayne Gordon, Matthew Betz and Wilbur Higby.

AT THE REGENT

PETER THE GREAT A REAL DOG STAR.

Wins the Honors in "Wild Justice" —Full of Dramatic Action and Thrills.

For sheer dramatic acting, coupled with spine-tingling thrills, it is probably safe to assume that no recent picture can be compared with "Wild Justice," the new starring production of the great police dog, Peter The Great.

"Wild Justice" opens at the Regent theatre to-night only. It completely captivated a record first-night audience, with every indication that it will set new box-office figures before the end of the run.

Peter The Great ably carries away the honors. In "Wild Justice" he performs feats of athletic prowess that are well-night miraculous, and frequently displays almost human understanding. It is essentially a dog story, and as such will delight all the myriads who love dogs, and are the recipients of their friendship.

Peter The Great, while one of the new canine stars of the screen, certainly has no peer in his field. He is the largest of the police dog celebrities, and apparently has been schooled until his training is a thing at which to marvel.

In "Wild Justice," he has able human support. George Sherwood, as the young doctor-hero of the play, displays remarkable talent. Frances Teague combines striking beauty with real dramatic ability. Frank Hagney is ideally cast as the despicable "Bob Blake."

It is noteworthy that the direction was by Chester M. Franklin, whose name has adorned some of the most successful pictures with dog stars. In Peter The Great he has a new star of amazing ability.

"Wild Justice" is the production of John W. Considine, Jr. It marks the producing debut of the son of the famous Considine whose name was for many years a symbol of excellence in vaudeville and legitimate stage productions. It is interesting to note that young Considine's first picture has been deemed worthy of a featured place on the releasing schedule of United Artists Corporation.

AN EXPLANATION

In connection with the mysterious disappearance of the consignment of Toronto papers for our news store, from the C.P.R. Station last evening, I wish hereby to state that I was at a loss to understand why I did not receive them. Up to the present time, they have not come into my possession, and the matter was placed in the hands of the police as soon as we were aware that something unusual had happened to the bundles. Anyone making any statement to the effect that we were aware or acquiesced in the disposition of the papers will be brought to court.

MURRAY ST. SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The largest audience that has attended in years, enjoyed the varied and excellent programme given last night in Murray street Sunday school hall. After a good series of humorous, educational and religious films had been shown, the programme proper began promptly at 8 o'clock, when over seventy-five members of the school from the tiny tots to the older ones, rendered over twenty numbers, consisting of recitations, choruses, group songs, pictures and dialogues, run off in quick succession.

During the evening over $100.00 in money gifts were received, nearly $90.00 of which was in the form of white gifts for helping to care for, and educate, the poor boys and girls in India.

Six special prizes in books were given to those who had attended every Sunday during the year, while nineteen prettily bound parts of the Bible and Hymn Books were presented to those who had completed various parts of the memory course.

After the appearance of Santa Claus and the disbursement of over two hundred gifts and candy bags to the smaller ones, the entertainment closed about 9.30 after the younger members especially, from the time the supper began until the closing minutes had had a full and most enjoyable evening.

General List Of Stocks Moved Higher To-day

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Constructive forces were again at work in to-day's stock market, and the general list moved higher, despite the continuance of relatively high money rates and the liquidation of a few pools. The so-called "tax selling" was apparently limited to a few ordinarily inactive issues, although this was the last day that stocks could be sold for tax purposes and cleared in the ordinary manner.

Wheat Prices Lower When Liverpool Fails To Respond

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (Canadian Press).—Prices here took an early swing downward today, influenced by the failure of the foreign markets to respond well to yesterday's sharp advance in Chicago. Reports of favorable harvest weather in Argentina and Australia tended further to weaken values here. Considerable hesitancy on the part of new speculative buyers was apparent, and there was also evidence that many holders were disposed to sell out and to realize profits. Chicago opening prices, which ranged from 2c decline to 1c advance, new style, Dec. 188 to 188 1-2, and May 182 to 183, were followed by an irregular general setback in which December receded to 187 and May to 181 1-2.

Corn and oats eased down with wheat, and as a consequence of reported large offerings of corn to arrive. After opening 1-2c to 1 1-2c lower, May 87 3-8 to 87 1-2c the corn market underwent a moderate further sag.

Oats started unchanged to 1-8c higher. May 46 3-8 to 46 1-2c. Later, the market showed a slight drop. In line with the hog market, provisions held about steady.

Consolidated Smelters, also heavily dealt in, eased down to 17815, then recovered to 180 at the close, a loss of only a quarter point. C.P.R., Burt, Canners Preferred, Good-Year and others were all slightly lower. Atlantic Sugar Preferred advanced another two points at 85, and Twin City and Steel of Canada were fractionally stronger. A good volume of transactions was recorded.

What Parents Should Know

A Peterborough Business College diploma opens to graduates the door of success in the business world. The following letter speaks for itself:

NEW YORK, N.Y.,
October, 1925.

Dear Mr. McKone:-

I thought perhaps you might be interested to know how I have been getting along since I left Peterborough. I have been in New York for a month now and have already secured a very good situation in the Research Department of the (——) Advertising Company, which is New York's largest advertising house.

The work is very interesting, indeed, and my employers are so far very pleased with my work,—thanks to your Business College training. They started me at a salary of $1,040 a year with the promise of a raise in the near future if my work continues satisfactory.

Please give my best regards to your teachers, as I shall always feel that whatever success I have in the business world will be almost entirely due to the personal attention and kind encouragement received from them.

With every best wish to you and the Business College.

I am, Yours sincerely,

PARENTS—Get particulars about our training NOW. Have your boy or girl start Monday, Jan. 4th, the opening of our Winter Term.

Cigarette Believed Cause Of Blaze at Toronto Garage.

TORONTO, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press)—Fire believed to have been started by a cigarette thrown close to a gasoline tank, caused a loss of $10,000 early this morning at the garage at 10 Croft street owned by two auto service companies. It was feared for a time that the gas tank would explode. It was bulged, however, by the pressure of the gas under heat.
